National War Savings Day June 28th

That's the day we sign up.

That's the day we tell Uncle Sam just how hard we want to win this war. That's the day our government has officially set for us to purchase War Savings Stamps.

On June 28th every man, woman and child in the United States will be called upon to pledge his or her full quota of War Savings Stamp purchases for 1918.

You will be expected to pledge the full amount that you can afford —no more—but by the same token, no less.

In every state, county, city, town and village the War Savings Committees are preparing for this big patriotic rally of June 28th. Unless you have already bought War Savings Stamps to the $1,000 limit, get busy with paper and pencil and figure out the utmost you can do.

Remember this. You take no chances when you go the limit on War Savings Stamps. Thev are the best and safest investment in the world. They pay you 4% interest compounded quarterly. They can't go below par. You can get back every dollar you put into War Savings Stamps any time you need it. You can turn them in at the Post Office any time for their full value plus interest.

Uncle Sam is asking hundreds of thousands of men to give their lives to their country. He is asking you only to lend your money.

What are you lending?

The Rector's Letter

[There was little, if any, mail from "over there" during the latter half of the month of July, and the printing of this paper was held up from day to day awaiting the Rector's Letter. There was ground for the fear that the Huns had slipped it into Davy Jones' Locker, but it came the other day, a fortnight late, though written at the usual time, and here it is.—EDITOR PARISH NEWS.]

My Dear Friends.—A certain Chaplain here in the heart of France finds the June number of the PARISH NEWS very cheerful reading. The list of parishioners in the National service lengthens.

With what pride and gratitude do I read of your splendid work and generous gifts; the Woman's Auxiliary establishing a new record for Missionary work; the United Offerings forging steadily ahead; the Junior Auxiliary all but touching last year's high water mark; the Church School showing a regular attendance; and leading the Diocese in the Bishop's Bricks Fund; the Mission Study Classes more largely attended than ever before; the financial condition of the Parish sound; and evidence on every page of your earnestness and devotion. Then there is your tireless war work and war giving.

Oh, I believe in you.

Now that Mr. Caine is coming to be your priest-in-charge, you can look forward to a good year.

Give him the same confidence and love which you would give me. Do not hamper him by insisting that he do things just as I have done them. His way may be better. Don't be afraid of changes, for big changes are in store for us all and we must prepare for them. Keep an open mind and ask God to guide you aright. Be true to your convictions, but make room for the convictions of others. Love, not only the faithful, but the wayward. Love the community. Let Grace Church ask anew, "Who is my neighbor?" Let us prefer a rough road to the smoothness of the rut.

After three months of regular work here at regimental headquarters, I am about to start out again on a tour of visitation. This incorrigible regiment of mine, which I was trying to gather hen fashion under my wings, has again scattered to the four corners of France. I am like the old woman who lived in a shoe. These new companies must be provided with Y. M. C. A. canteens, recreation facilities, athletic equipment, libraries, etc. Arrangements must be made for religious services.

After an interview with our Senior H. Q. Chaplain, Bishop Brent, and a visit to the bases of supplies in Paris, I hope to spend the next two months as an itinerant chaplain. As interesting as the trip promises to be, I am loath to leave Nevers. Here we have an established camp and a well ordered life. The historic old city of Nevers is full of charms. There are the fourteenth century houses, the ancient towers and churches. I have searched them out with my friend Monsieur Tardy, the artist, who was born here and has a studio full of fine water colors of the town.

There are the gentle people, so serious yet so gracious. Naturally buoyant they are now quiet. There is something awe inspiring about them to me. They seem like a people out of whom the dross has been consumed. Among my best friends are Monsieur the Abbott who, because of his command of English, has been made Chaplain of the Knights of Columbus and is doing a splendid work among the Catholic soldiers. He is a saintly man and much honored in the community.

Then there is Monsieur the Pastor, the head of the Protestant Church in whose Temple I have preached on several occasions. He is an eloquent prophet of God and a great admirer of America.

From such men as these I learn what the French think of us. Chiefly they are impressed with our aggressiveness, our generosity and the magnificent scale on which we conceive and do things.

I am afraid our aggressiveness sometimes looks to them like rudeness, for in our scorn of red tape we move with a swiftness and directness which take their breath away. Recently an American General wanted a telephone wire from his post in a port town to Paris. He was informed by the French authorities that, as the wire must be attached to the poles of four different companies, it would be necessary to have it duly authorized by all the parties concerned. Before they had gotten far with the red tape, the general had the wire up and was saying, "Hello, Paris." The French authorities thought the heavens would fall. The incident was typical.

Sometimes our generosity takes the form of extravagance and disgusts the French, who conclude that we do not know the value and right use of money. They resent the bad economic effect of lavish expenditure. But they frankly admire our magnanimity. Themselves a chivalrous people, they appreciate our motives in this war. "Never in history," said Monsieur the Pastor, "has any nation entered upon a war from such pure, unselfish and chivalrous motives as have prompted America to pour out her wealth and offer her sons in this struggle for the rights of all mankind."

Perhaps we Americans are sometimes tempted to boast about the grandeur of our country, and to have a "swelled head" over the magnitude of our achievements. This is unpardonable when we consider what France and England have suffered and achieved and that up to very recently it was an open question whether America had been a help or a hindrance in the war.

But we must admit there are some grounds for the wonder and admiration felt by our allies at the big scale on which we are now doing things. The billions of dollars raised, the unlimited army we are training, equipping, provisioning and transporting four thousand miles to the front. The quantities of munitions produced; the countless ships built; the stupendous engineering operations; the construction of railways; the billions of war risk insurance, the expert preparations for the days when peace terms will be drawn up and the work of reconstruction begun, all these things give us and our allies confidence in the final outcome of the war.

We may be something of a trial to the cultured French people with our bizarre ways and our impatience for results, but they sincerely love us.

On the Feast of the Sacred Heart, I went with a Roman Catholic Chaplain to attend the procession to the sacred spot in the grove at Paray le Monial, where St. Margaret had her vision, which gave birth to that cult. After the ceremony, the venerable Bishop of Autun gave his blessing to us as representatives of America and said: "Heaven sent you in the hour of France's need and everywhere a welcome awaits you. If America's sword is bathed in Heaven it will not be weilded in vain. Swift and terrible as archangels they come. The gates of hell shall not prevail against them."

Today rounds out a year of service with the Nineteenth and I assure you I do not cross the threshold of another year's absence from Grace Church without wistful yearnings. This is going to be a terrible and glorious year.

Yours in the Faith,

Nevers, France. THOMAS S. CLINE.
July 1, 1918.

[The following correspondence from the Rector came to hand two days later than his letter first above printed, though written almost two weeks later.—EDITOR PARISH NEWS.]

My Dear Friends.—In the days of the religious wars Nevers was intensely Catholic and today the Cathedral dominates the city. But on a corner of the town stands a demure little Protestant Temple, where one hears noble and eloquent preaching, and joins in a solemn and earnest worship.

The pastor, clad in the black Geneva gown, conducts the service from his lofty pulpit. One half the church is filled with French people—mostly women dressed in black. The other half is filled to overflowing with soldiers—English and American. After the pastor has concluded his sermon in French, he invites some American minister to deliver a message in English. On several occasions he has extended this courtesy to me and I have always found it a great joy to preach there.

After every French hymn, an English hymn is sung. So you see it is a bilingual service throughout.

Monsieur Alçais, the pastor, is a learned man and good. As is the case in most French families, a son has been offered upon the altar of Liberty. Another son is away in the service of his country. The daughter has served for years as a nurse She plays the organ and leads the choir.

Upon hearing that I was about to leave Nevers for a season, Monsieur Alçais invited me to lunch on Wednesday. After lunch I happened to mention the fact that I wrote a letter to my parish each month Immediately he offered to send you a message of fraternal greeting. In a few minutes he returned with this cordial and graceful letter which I am sending you.

I have written off a translation which is sadly lacking in the grace of the original.

The American Expedition in France is bound to strengthen Protestantism here. Dr. McFarland's visit here as the representative of the Federation of Churches has made a deep impression among the non-Roman people.

Personally, I have strong affiliations with the Roman Catholics, as well as with the Protestants. Such breadth of sympathy puzzles these people. But they explain it by saying, "You are Anglican,—both Catholic and Protestant," to which I reply, "Vraiment,—vous avez raison."

Yours faithfully,

THOMAS S. CLINE,

Nevers, July 10, 1918.

Dear and Honored Brothers and Sisters.—Will you allow the pastor of the Church in Nevers to send you these few lines to express to you the fraternal sentiments of sympathy which are in our hearts for you, and to tell you how happy we are to have with us your dear pastor, Mr. Cline, whose sermons to the American soldiers in our church are greatly appreciated by all? He has become our friend and though you are deprived, for the time being, of his presence in your church, we hope that you will, at least, have the consolation of knowing that his ministry in France is precious for your soldiers and for us.

In this, as in all things, you have consented generously to impoverish yourselves in order to enrich us, as says the Apostle, Saint Paul. May God reward you tenfold for all you are doing for us.

I cannot begin to tell you what an incomparable place your noble and great nation holds in the heart of France, who sees in the free and bold citizens of America, fully aroused to save the world from slavery, the soldiers of a new crusade of liberation from militarism and brute force now trying to dominate a world which our Lord Jesus Christ, the Prince of Peace, has redeemed by His passion and His precious blood.

History will crown the young America with greater praise for setting forth on this holy crusade than aged Europe, for her conquest of the holy sepulchre.

For that which aroused the old world was only the quest of a tomb, whereas that which brings you now to our aid is the rescue from disaster of all the principles of right and justice, which make life worth living.

I beg you, dear and honored brothers and sisters, accept our most sincere Christian affections. Pastor,

A. ALCAIS.

Hospital Garments	175

Gordon Landis, of Grace Parish, has turned in $8.29 to the Red Cross. This is the result of a Lawn Fête and Parade given by Gordon. Thank you very much! Three Grace Parish children have raised money in this way during the summer. Who will be the next?

Another French baby has been adopted by Mt. Airy, No. 8, through the generosity of Mrs. Geo. W. Bates, of Gowen Avenue. This increases our family to four. It costs only 10 cents a day, $36.50 a year, to adopt a French or Belgian orphan through the Red Cross. Who will volunteer?

Old rubber is being collected and sold for the Red Cross—old overshoes, hot water bags, etc. Leave donations in the basket at the head of the stairs at the Parish House.

In Memoriam

Entered into the Life Eternal at the Leamy Home, Mt. Airy, July 7, 1918, Margaret Tschudy, daughter of the late Rev. John Jacob Tschudy and Mary George Barrington Tschudy and sister of the late Rev. Martin Tschudy.

Her love for the Church was unbounded.

She came to the Leamy Home the year of its opening.

At first she attended S. Martin's-in-the-Fields, teaching in the Sunday School and being a member of the Woman's Guild.

She also conducted a sewing class on Saturday afternoons for Italians from the Settlement.

Of a gentle, generous, kindly, loving nature, and so fond of children, she devoted herself to the work as long as physically able.

For a time she was connected with S. Luke's Parish, but finally became a member of Grace Church, Mt. Airy, where she joined the Auxiliary, and loved the work. Unable to attend the services for sometime past, she grieved very much, especially on the Lord's Day.

Letters from her former pupils testify to her lovely character:

One writes "I have known her since I was six years old, and if there ever was a saint on earth, she was one! I don't believe she ever did anything wrong in her life. Her example and teaching have had a marked influence on my own life, especially as a child and young girl, and I think it must have been the same with all who were brought in contact with her."

On Friday morning, August 2d, Helen Hart died at the Episcopal Hospital.

This notice is to inform her friends in Grace Church, who, through the Social Service Committee, have been sending her gifts and cheering letters.

Her life was full of pain, but beautiful, because of a quiet patience and great faith.

A Call to Prayer

"Prayer is the surest weapon in God's cause. We are disloyal and disobedient unless we use it constantly and corporately. I urge the women of the diocese to listen to this call."—Bishop Rhinelander.

"Unceasing prayer for our heroic men, and the translation of the prayer 'Thy Kingdom Come' into sacrificial loyalty at home, will bring nearer our victory over the forces of evil."—Bishop Garland.

To the Women of the Church:

At noon every day we are called to lift up our hearts in prayer for our soldiers, sailors, aviators, and all who serve our Country; and, through the victory of our cause, for a righteous and permanent peace.

The half-hour from 11.30 to 12 o'clock every Saturday is a special time for prayer for the Church and the Nation. Will you organize a prayer group in your parish or convocation? Or will you join a group? Or will you pray alone at that hour?

No pledge is required, but the Nation at War and the Church Militant need our united and simultaneous prayers.

Authorized by the Bishop of Pennsylvania.

Issued by the Prayer Group of the Convocation of Germantown.

The above "Call to Prayer" speaks for itself. The Bishop and the members of the Prayer Group earnestly desire to reach, as far as possible, every woman in the diocese. Will you help to distribute the cards, which you will find in the windows of the church?

Patronize Our Advertisers

It costs you nothing to say, "I saw your advertisement in the GRACE CHURCH PARISH NEWS." This goes further with the tradesman than you think. Grace Church is very proud of one of its war workers. On her sixty-seventh birthday, Mrs. Sara May Locke, of the Leamy Home, was the only nurse on night duty in a ward of forty-four patients at the Municipal Hospital, Philadelphia.

Mrs. Locke has just finished two months voluntary hospital service to prove to the Red Cross her physical fitness to do war nursing. When she applied for this work at Headquarters, she was refused because of her age. When she insisted that she was as strong as many a young girl, and that the experience of three years as a trained nurse must not be wasted, she was told that if she could stand two months of hard duty (not merely supervision) in such a hospital as the Municipal, her offer would be considered. Mrs. Locke looks frail, but she has proven her grit and fitness; she says she is now rested and ready to go wherever she may be sent.

For many years Mrs. Locke was House Mother at the Home of the Good Shepherd, Rosemont. This Home has lately been removed from parochial control, and has become a diocesan institution. It is a home and training school for boys under twelve.

Mrs. Locke has the admiration and prayers of Grace Parish.

The Annual Supper of the Choir Boys, marking the beginning of their vacation, was given on the evening of July 25th.

A bountiful repast was provided, and progressive games played afterward. Much support was given to the contention that a boy's capacity for ice cream is unlimited.

It is to be hoped that we all shall appreciate the sacrifice made by the good people of S. Clement's in surrendering Mr. Caine to us next month, at a time when the difficulty of obtaining priests for parish work is so great, and that we shall take heed to the injunction of our beloved Rector to give the new Priest-in-Charge our utmost support and affectionate confidence.

A Red Cross Noon Prayer

O God of Love, to Thy Almighty Protection we commend our beloved country, our flag, and in particular those brave men who have gone forth to vindicate our national honor and to reaffirm the noble principles upon which this government has been founded.

We pray with anxious hearts for all who fight on sea, on land, and in the air—for those in the firing line and for those men and women behind the trenches who are consecrating their lives to the care of the sick and wounded.

For those to whom the lesser task has fallen—the toilers at home—and especially the Red Cross Workers, we ask Thy Blessing. Inculcate in us that spirit of devoted service that knows no faltering. Endue us with the strength and determination to go on and on. Help us to infuse these dressings with that spirit of healing which will in due time bind up the wounds of the world. In Thine Own time grant us the victory, that through an honorable peace the Sons of men may restore order to this chaotic universe—this World the Savior died to save.

Thy will be done. Amen. S. S. B.

Prayers During the War

The following prayers are authorized for use in the Diocese of Pennsylvania during the time of war.

PHILIP M. RHINELANDER,
Bishop.

For Our Country

Let us pray for our country that God may aid us at this crisis with His love and favor; that He may keep us from pride and vainglory, and make our hearts courageous and our hands "strong to labor, that there by no decay: no leading into captivity, and no complaining in our streets."

(Pause for silent prayer)

O God, Who hast taught us in Thy holy word that Thou dost not willingly afflict the children of men, grant that, in the present time of warfare and distress of nations, our people may know Thy presence and obey Thy will. Remove from us arrogance and feebleness; give us courage and loyalty, tranquility and self-control, that we may accomplish that which Thou givest us to do and endure that which Thou givest us to bear, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

For All in Authority

Let us pray for the President and for all in authority, that God may grant unto them at this time special gifts of wisdom and understanding, of counsel and strength, that upholding what is right and following what is true they may obey God's holy will and fulfil His divine purpose.

(Pause for silent prayer)

O God most high, Who alone rulest in the kingdoms of men, grant, we beseech Thee, the inspiration of Thy Holy Spirit to Thy servant, Woodrow Wilson, our President, the members of his cabinet and of the Congress. Endue them with prudence, fortitude, temperance, justice and the spirit of a sound mind, that guided by eternal truth and right they may labor faithfully for the safety, honor and welfare of our country and the advancement of Thy kingdom, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

For Those in Training

Let us pray for all those who are in training to serve their country, whether by land or sea, that they may readily submit to necessary discipline and be preserved amidst all the dangers and temptations which beset them.

(Pause for silent prayer)

O Lord, our God, we ask Thy help and blessing for all those who have willingly offered themselves and are now being prepared to take their part in the service and defense of their country. Grant that they may cheerfully submit to necessary discipline and training; shield them amid the temptations that may threaten them; make them strong and of a good courage to face the dangers that are before them; that in all things they may quit themselves like men to Thy honor and their country's safety; for the sake of Him Who suffered, died and rose again for us, Thy Son, our Saviour Jesus Christ. Amen.

Make Your Letters Say, "We'll Win"

Get the victory punch into your business letters.

Pessimism is more infectious than a cold. One doubter can give the chills to a room full of people. The germ of this disease often creeps into our correspondence and does more harm than the spoken word.

So the Department of Commerce suggests that the win-the-war spirit be got into business letters. Originally the idea was proposed to apply to mail sent to foreign countries. Here the color of our thoughts is searched for eagerly between the lines of what we write. The business man abroad —whether a neutral or an ally—is quick to see any weakness. The flag ought to be kept flying in all letters that leave the country.

The same is true of business letters to home correspondents. There is such a thing as negative as well as positive patriotism. To refrain from doubts is not enough. Our correspondence should carry a vital confidence and purpose to see the war through to victory. We are going to win. Let your letters show you know it.

Let Your Face So Shine

Out in Virginia City, Nev., there is an ancient Chinese storekeeper, Chung Kee by name, who for forty celestial years has been one of Nevada's notably happy men. Good days and bad, you will find him sitting at his receipt of custom, and smiling on all comers like some time-worn but kindly Buddha. He has made little money. Or what he has made he has given away again, or lost to debtors who wouldn't pay. And never has anyone been able to persuade him to get out an attachment for even the worst of them. Evidently he had some sort of philosophy. But just what was it, people wondered. And when, a few months ago, the town was to say good-by, with the proper ceremonies, to the thirteen young men of its first draft—who were also, almost all of them, in old Chung's books—people wondered, too, what would he do about that?

This is what he did: When, in his turn he walked down the line to say good-by, for each of the thirteen he was hiding a $5 gold piece in his hand. And later he explained.

"Why I do that? They alla samee good boy. They no want hurt me. I not goin' hurt them. All my life I neveh hurt nobody. That why, alla samee my face she shine. Bad fella', always you know him. Why? Alla samee his face she don't shine. I'm prett' old man. Prett' soon I gotta go die. An' I wan my face be alla samee shinin' when I'm dead."

There you have it. You can make money unfairly out of war if you want to. It's always been done. But next time you do, go and take a look at yourself in the mirror, and see if you can find the shine. And while you are making your blood money, there are those dying today in Flanders and Picardy—yes, and those who are only able to fight the good fight here in America —whose faces are going to shine forevermore.

The Rector's Letter

Grevenmacher, Luxembourg,
December 1, 1918.

My Dear Friends:

When the bugle call awakened me at four this morning I was reminded of that reveille in the Commercial Museum in Philadelphia one morning some sixteen months ago, when we started for France. Today we march into Germany. The hour of departure has been postponed a little, so I am seizing the opportunity to write you a Luxembourg letter. It is still dark. The men are lined up for their "chow." It is always a marvel to me how promptly the column forms and marches out on these occasions. But these men are trained to quick action. I heard the colonel telling, at dinner last night, how he was awakened at 3.45 one morning at Soissons, when his men were scheduled to attack at 4. He never knew how it was accomplished, but he shouted a few commands and started forward. As if by magic his whole battalion was in place by four o'clock. Needless to say they took and held their objectives that morning. They always have.

So today we shall reach Treves on schedule time. Of course, we have had a wonderful time in friendly Luxembourg—but how shall we find things across the Moselle? Naturally, one wonders.

When I wrote you last, I was about to start on an interesting trip. A delegation from the Sixteenth, including, beside the chaplain, two officers and two enlisted men, went to Nancy to participate in the ceremonies in honor of the first three Americans to fall in action in the war. We were guests of the Prefect at dinner. There were such distinguished persons present as Ambassador Sharp and General Eltinge, representing the Chief of Staff of the A. E. F. There were four French generals and other prominent men, both in military and political life.

The afternoon was devoted to impressive ceremonies in the magnificent Hotel de Ville at Nancy. Among the addresses were an eloquent speech by Professor Henry Van Dyke in French and a worthy tribute by the American Ambassador.

These ceremonies were in connection with the dedication of a monument at Bathelemont in memory of these American heroes and took place back in the city of Nancy, because the enemy was a bit too active just then on the Bathelemont front. But our regimental delegation went on up to Bathelemont and decorated the monument with a large wreath of flowers. Our little ceremony was held under cover of darkness and was interrupted by occasional shells.

I was, myself, deeply impressed by all I heard and saw on this trip—the significance of the magnificent heroism and sacrifice of these boys of the sixteenth grew upon me.

But by this journey I missed the last drive in which my regiment participated. When I found them again, they were returning from Sedan, which they had entered after a phenomenal advance of forty kilometers. You can't imagine how hard it is to find your regiment once you have been separated from it. It is imposible to obtain information as to their whereabouts. They hardly know themselves where they are half the time. I remember how glad I was when I arrived upon a certain hill top, in that dreary region, to see winding through the valley below the troops and wagon trains of the First Division. I had been traveling by truck, touring car and side car through a part of the country where steam cars could not penetrate. When motor transportation failed me, I proceeded a-foot. But now, that I had found my regiment I was at home again. In a few minutes I was mounted on faithful "Ginger" and had my place in the column. It was pleasant to see familiar faces, but some for whom I inquired had not returned. Among those missing was Mr. Gibson, who had served the regiment as Y. M. C. A. Secretary for more than a year. I felt his loss very keenly.

That was the ninth of November. We have been almost constantly on the march ever since. I shall never forget the memorable eleventh of November. We began our march long before daylight and before eleven o'clock we had pitched our tents in the woods near Biezancy.

As we rode along through the mist that morning, one thought was in all our minds —will hostilities cease at eleven o'clock? Will the Germans accept the severe terms of the armistice? Dare we hope for Peace? We could hear the booming of the distant guns and we remarked laconically, "the war is still on."

The officers gathered around the huge open fireplace in the farm house which sheltered our headquarters, but I took a long walk alone out over the hills. I shall never forget that walk. How earnestly I prayed God for the restoration of peace. I ran upon many former German machine gun nests on the crests of the hills. There in the shallow dugouts I found the equipment and personal effects of many Germans, who had evidently held their posts to the death. I picked up a half written letter to "Liebe Mutter"—I read the story of many tragedies in the debris of the trenches. Then I looked down across the shell-torn field to the road below and realized what a toll those gunners had taken of my brave countrymen whose resolute advance nevertheless they could not stop. War in all its deadly horror was revealed to my imagination.

Suddenly I stopped and listened—was I dreaming? The cannons' roar had ceased. "Oh, God," I said, "is this the stillness of peace?"

I made my way back to the farm house. There, in a wide circle about the fireplace, sat the colonel and his staff officers in silence. "Well," I said, impatiently, "what's the news?" "Oh," some one remarked, "the liason officer has it from the French interpreter that Germany has accepted the terms and that the Kaiser has abdicated and hostilities are called off." Other reports came in from one source and another corroborating this good news.

Our spirits did not rise at once. Whether it was all too good for credence or whether our spirits, long strained and depressed, had gradually to stretch and resume buoyancy, I do not know. It may have been because we were nearly starved awaiting for the kitchen wagon to arrive. Anyway, we sat around like stupids, until the colonel got up and shook himself and said, "Well, men, this should be a day of rejoicing—how can we celebrate?" We had nothing to eat nor to drink, but we had fuel. So we piled the fagots high until that old fire roared. It will be a cheerful memory so long as I live; that glowing fire! Then we fell to singing and story telling until the kitchen wagon was announced. Even then we were confronted with a serious problem. The mules could not pull the heavy wagon up the muddy hill to the farm house. The colonel called for volunteers and the whole staff, with the aid of an extra pair of mules, rallied for the last "push" of the war.

Such a dinner! Then we sang and recounted thrilling incidents until far into the night. One of the traditions of the regiment will be handed down—that the chaplain spent that memorable night "under the table." I admit it, but if you will allow me to explain, we had only three beds for a dozen officers. The rest of us stretched out where we could. I had a litter for a bed and a table for a canopy, which proved more comfortable than some other beds I have tried out during these past two months.

It is not strange that we were unable to take in the full significance of Germany's capitulation at once.

The circumstances in which we were forced to live, for sometime after, tended to dim the glory of it. It seemed as though we would never get out of the battle area. Each stopping place was more desolate than the one we had left. We heard rumors of a rest in the Paris area where we could clean up and re-equip ourselves. But these hopes were never realized.

Soon we began our march into Germany. This meant more weary marches through shattered and shell-torn France, then across No Man's Land into the territory which had been held by the enemy.

What a relief it was to get into towns which were still intact. First, we passed through deserted villages—then we saw the joyous return of exiles to their former homes. The streets were decked with garlands and on all sides hearty greetings awaited us.

Our reception in the cities of the Grand Duchy of Luxembourg was most enthusiastic. I was present when the American troops entered the city of Luxembourg. I had ridden into the city in the morning in advance of the troops and received such an ovation as some conquerer might dream of. A courteous Londoner, an artist, Mr. Bottomly by name, who had married a Luxembourgeoise and settled there, took me under his wing that day. He showed me his house full of exquisite oil paintings and then took me to the house of a friend, whose window opened upon the plaza. From this excellent viewpoint I saw the Eighteenth Infantry pass in parade and I saw General Pershing review them. As my Luxembourgeois friend remarked, the soldiers looked tired and solemn. No wonder! Think what those men have been through. They were fresh from the battle and as one watched them march by, one felt that they were ready for another battle whenever occasion demanded.

But one who knew them saw signs of joyous relaxation. The officers were loaded with lovely bouquets of flowers. General Pershing's smile told the story. The strain one had noticed on previous occasions had vanished. That day he was received by the Duchess, who seems inclined to show tardy honor to the cause of the Allies. Some Luxembourgeois talk of King Albert as their future ruler, some say they expect soon to become a republic.

We had similar receptions in Esch and Grevenmacher, only less elaborate. At the city gates of the latter, the welcoming band played what they supposed to be our national anthem. It was Yankee Doodle in a minor key.

We spent Thanksgiving Day in that hospitable city. The city plaza was filled with our troops, as we assembled to render our corporate thanks to Almighty God for the unspeakable blessings of peace, based upon the assurance of victory for the Right.

General Parker read the President's Proclamation and Dean Bartlett, formerly Dean of Bishop Brent's Cathedral at Manila, made the address.

This letter, begun in Luxembourg, had to be tucked into my musette bag unfinished when the order to march came. I am finishing it in Germany. It has been a memorable day. There was no enthusiastic reception as we marched into Treves—only profound silence. The Bourgomaster made the mistake of providing very indifferent billets for our officers. He heard from our colonel in unmistakable terms this evening, and though it was late and many people had gone to bed, new and better billets were provided, more in keeping with the dignity of the American army.

I was just transferred to this house and am sitting at the desk of some unknown German host. The family has retired and as it is nearly midnight, I must do the same. We march at six in the morning.

The PARISH NEWS reached me this afternoon. How eagerly I read all news of you.

We all feel—and surely none more than I—that we have lost a precious friend and counsellor in Miss Sewall. The memory of her life among us is as exquisitely graceful and pure as a flawless white lily. Hers was the beauty of holiness.

I am glad to learn that the plague of influenza has abated. I shall be thinking of you all at Christmas-tide, especially the children.

We all hope that our watch on the Rhine may be short and that we may soon be enabled to return home.

At first I rebelled at the thought of going into Germany with the army of occupation, but now I realize that a rare opportunity is before the chaplains. It is a crucial time. We must prepare for the dangerous period of demobilization and the new problems of reconstruction.

Many things will be changed, but let us remember "Jesus Christ is the same yesterday, today and forever."

Very faithfully yours,

THOMAS S. CLINE.

Christmas-Tide

Very properly the Feast of the Nativity was ushered in by the children themselves, with the Carol Service on Christmas Eve. In spite of the steady downpour of rain, about half the school was present, and inside the church it was Christmas in spite of the weather. There was a procession into the church from the parish house. Again, after the Gospel, which was read as a lesson, and a short homily, the children went in procession with their gifts to the manger to offer their gifts for the Christ Child's other children. The service ended with singing two carols before the manger itself.

On Christmas Day there were good congregations at all three services. There were about two hundred and twenty-five Communions.

The choir sang Tours Communion Service in B at the eleven o'clock service.

On Holy Innocent's Day, Saturday, December 28th, at 3 o'clock, the children of the parish had their Christmas Festival. A number of the children of the church school gave a mystery play, entitled "Bethlehem," a Nativity play, by Lawrence Housman. The young players did very creditably and their work was enjoyed not only by the other children, but also by a good number of the older people who had accepted the children's invitation to come and share the pleasure with them. Sickness prevented Heber Hood and John Chrisman from taking the parts assigned them at first; that of the old shepherd and of St. Joseph.

The characters in the order of speaking were as follows:

Prologue.....Katharine Chrisman
Fourth Shepherd.....Alan Crouter
Watcher.....Leslie Burton
First Shepherd.....A. L. E. Crouter, Jr.
Second Shepherd.....James Burton
Third Shepherd.....George Parry
Abel, an old shepherd.....Frank Fortescue
Gabriel.....Eleanor Matlock
Angels, Pauline Robinson and Betina Cole
First King.....Gordon Crouter
Second King.....Rutherford Brown
Third King.....Lawrence Whyte
St. Joseph.....John Coburn
St. Mary.....Caroline Irwin
Epilogue.....Emily Dixon

After the play, gifts and candy were distributed from the Christmas tree.

Patronize Our Advertisers

It costs you nothing to say, "I saw your advertisement in the GRACE CHURCH PARISH NEWS." This goes further with the tradesman than you think. Epiphany

Oh, haste we then today to greet,
Him, Who is born our glorious King!
Of gold and myrrh and incense sweet,
Your treasures to His cradle bring.

The Virgin Mother waiting by,
Your offering scans with earnest eye,
Angels and Saints with jealous heed
Watch if you bring your best, indeed

O blessed, who with eyes so pure
Have watched Thy cradle day by day,
Thy look may in their hearts endure,
Brightening their dim and weary way!

Blest, whom sweet thoughts of Christmas-tide
Through all the year may guard and guide,
As on those sages journeying smiled,
In dreams the mother and the child.

The Woman's Auxiliary and Guild

There is something about the Christmas season that opens the hearts of Christian people everywhere to an unusually sympathetic understanding of the needs of others. That this is generally known, is attested by the fact that our mail at this time is filled with appeals for help from this and that institution. It is in the hope that the feeling has not quite worn away that I bring before the parish some of the work in which the Auxiliary is engaged and attempt to enlist the help of all the church members in carrying it out.

A short time ago we had with us the Rev. Sidney W. Creasey, from Fort Hall, Idaho, and he told, in a very interesting way, of his work among the Indians in that section of the country. They are next to the lowest class among the tribes in the United States, and the task Mr. Creasey has undertaken seems such a discouraging one, that it should arouse in us an eagerness to do something to make it easier for him.

His method of reaching these people is by educating the children. They are carried through school as far as the fourth grade; their minds usually being incapable of much further development, and both boys and girls are taught to cook and take care of a house and to understand the value of hygiene and sanitation. The girls learn to sew, and the boys are taught to manage a farm and raise stock. At the same time, thorough religious training is being given and good moral principles are constantly instilled in their minds. But, for the man who has charge of all this, there is very little encouragement. We, who live surrounded by all the advantages of the big Eastern cities, cannot possibly realize what it means to struggle along such a lonely, uphill road, constantly being held back by the lack of means to extend the work. Can we not open our hearts, and our purses, and show him that we are interested, at least?

Twenty-five dollars will be sent from the treasury of the Auxiliary, but we hope that this sum will be greatly increased by individual contributions.

For several years it has been our custom to send two or more barrels of partly worn clothing to Miss Edrington, whose work is among the colored people in the South, but for more than a year it has been almost impossible to ship anything by freight, so that the parcel post has to be used instead. This, of course, is an expensive method of transportation and is quite unwarranted in the case of second-hand articles. It seems, therefore, a wiser plan to send money to Miss Edrington this year, and, in order to raise a worth-while amount, it has been decided to hold a rummage sale sometime in March. To make such a sale a success, large quantities of articles are needed and everyone in the parish is asked to contribute all that is possible for it—not money this time—but go through your houses from garret to cellar and send anything you do not need yourself. Old clothing, both underwear and outside articles, hats, furniture, bits of carpet, china, pictures, baskets, anything, everything; then make a list and send it to us so that arrangements may be made for collecting it.

The Advent Call

During the first week in Advent, the women of the church were called to prayer —prayer for a righteous peace, prayer for those who will write the momentous words of the World Treaty, prayer that the Will of God be done in all the world.

In every part of these United States, in 86 out of 89 dioceses, women messengers went forth, after prayer and days of preparation from the altars where they daily received the grace needed for the task, to ask other women to join in this mobilization of the army of Our Lord.

While the messengers were calling, during the first three days of Advent, intercessors in open churches were praying constantly for a blessing on the visitors and the visited. Women signed pledge cards, promising a certain "service in prayer" just as they had already pledged national service in conserving food, making surgical dressings, nursing or canteen work.

The last three days of the week were devoted to intercessions in the churches, the visitors, the visited, the intercessors, and the children.

What has been the result? The country-wide reports are not yet in. The Diocese of Pennsylvania has had one Committee meeting to report, but statistics were available only in part. How can one measure such a movement by figures?

Here are a few quotations from the reports of this Diocese: "We found the welcome; found children waiting for baptism, men and women waiting for confirmation; those who had wandered from the church, waiting to be asked to come home; those outside waiting to be asked to come in. Especially did we find the desire to have the House of Prayer an open house, warm with human use."

"The mingling of different parishes and groups in this democratic movement has proved one of its chief values."

The Church of the Incarnation reports that three Armenians called on the rector, stating their desire for a church. They were given the use of the parish house for the present.

St. James' reports: "Thrilled and happy. A Special Bible Class on the Old Testament Prayers, by the rector, a result."

St. Gabriel's, Feltonville: "Fifty calls made and already 54 pledges received. The effect of the campaign on the attendance and spirit of public worship has been most marked."

One who went from the city to Bucks County writes: "It was a pleasure to tell these women in the farm regions of some church work in which they could take their part as well as any women in metropolitan districts."

Emmanuel: "Largest congregations in two years."

St. Simeon's: "Some to make their Christmas Communions for the first time in years."

St. Martin's, Oak Lane: "Practically all signed."

Yardley: "Inspiring, a great success."

Calvary, Germantown: "Four or five new members for W. A."

A Mission of St. Luke's, Germantown: "Sent out 70 cards, all of which came back signed."

St. Peter's, Germantown: "The shut-ins were so happy to be intercessors. Four applicants for confirmation. One family of five daughters was asked to attend Sunday School. A class of 30 young women has resulted from this call."

In another parish, the young girls have formed a Service League. They will in turn take charge of small children so that mothers may attend church.

St. Stephen's, Bridesburg: The rector says: "The parish has received a spiritual shock. I can't express what was done."

At Oaks, Pa., the Friends in the community were so impressed, they asked to attend a celebration of the Holy Communion, during the whole of which they remained in silent prayer.

Redeemer, Bryn Mawr: "Daily celebration was well attended. Bryn Mawr College and five preparatory schools were visited. At the Baldwin School, the prayers issued were used daily. Well received everywhere."

St. Monica's, colored, reports 4 Presbyterians, 3 Methodists and 2 Roman Catholics interested with their own parishioners.

Good Shepherd, Rosemont: "Overflowing with good results for the parish. Sixteen new auxiliary members."

One rector says: "It has impressed the laity with their spiritual responsibility."

St. Mark's, Frankford: "Celebration and evening service every day well attended. Many had not been to church for years."

At least 50 priests came into the Educational Rooms in the church house, the week following the campaign, to tell of the results already apparent in baptism, confirmations and increased communions.

Bishop Rhinelander is the author of a movement for continuous interdenominational prayer during the actual session of the Peace Congress. Unless changed later, Thursday is to be the day of prayer for the Episcopal Church.

"And it came to pass that when Moses held up his hand that Israel prevailed, and when Moses let down his hand Amalek prevailed.

"But Moses' hands were heavy . . . and Aaron and Hur stayed up his hands, the one on the one side and the other on the other side; and his hands were steady until the going down of the sun."

The Advent Call in the Parish

The result of a spiritual effort can never be properly measured. Numbers do not express adequately either the increase in love for God, or the deepening of sorrow for sin and neglect, or the awakening to shortcomings, which always follows any call to serve God. Furthermore, there are no terms such as we ordinarily use which can express spiritual values of quality or quantity. So it would seem best that no statistics of the Advent Call in the parish be recorded, as far as numbers go. We are warned not to depend upon numbers, but the grace and strength of God, for we read how David's heart smote him after he had numbered the people and David said unto the Lord: "I have sinned greatly in that I have done; and now I beseech Thee, O Lord, take away the iniquity of Thy servant for I have done foolishly."

Too little time has elapsed for the gathering in of all the fruit which has grown from the seed that was sown. The call was received very gladly, on the whole, by the women of the parish. The three daily services throughout the week, the early celebration at 7, intercessions at noon, and evening prayer at 4 o'clock, were all well attended.

Concerning Intercessory Prayer

All kinds of prayer are blessed, but this kind, like the quality of mercy, carries a double benediction, for it blesses both him who offers it, and him in whose behalf it is uttered.

While it does not demand the power of mental concentration necessary for some kinds of prayer, nor the use of the imaginative faculty needed by others, nor the mystical development which must precede yet others, it does require the possession of one great talent, which is, thank God, by no means as rare as the other qualities named, namely, the power of loving. Whoever loves, unselfishly, deeply and constantly, can become an effective intercessor.

Whether it is the priest, as he intercedes at the altar, or in his own private room, for members of his flock; or the mother, the father, the wife, the lover, the sister (and how many there are of all these in these days of wide separation of families); prayer in behalf of another, must have behind it the warmth and glow of devotion, sympathy and personal understanding, and be endowed with the insights and intuitions which love alone can give, and which true love always gives. No general humanitarian love will do; no principle or theory about prayer. The one who prays must suffer and enjoy with the one prayed for, and often indeed must suffer for him.

This kind of prayer comes involuntarily to lips of people in the pangs of separation; but its possibilities are not exhausted by the uses now made of it, as a last resort in times of trouble or perhaps in sickness, when all else has failed. Indeed, it may be made a part of our routine devotion, and used as a mighty force to aid at all times those dear to us, in their struggles and difficulties, whose right outcome is so all important to them and to us, and to bring them in, to a right relation to God.

To begin with, the intercessor must appoint a regular hour for his prayer, and keep to it. He must come to it prepared. No moment snatched from a busy day or a social evening will suffice for this act of divine service. If the pray-er keeps himself always prepared, that is a different matter; but how few of us do that! Generally speaking, therefore, there must be the deliberate stilling of the mind's ordinary activities, and a sense of rest and peace. Among all our worries and troubles, real and imaginary, this condition is not always easy to attain.

Again, no intercessor can present himself in behalf of another stained with unforgiveness to anyone, if his prayer is to avail. We cannot be perfect, perhaps, but we can come at least free from such a sin against the law of love, whose power we are invoking, as envy, dislike and malice toward any fellow-man, and especially with the least touch of unforgiveness in our minds. To love one man (for whom we pray) and hate, or at least not feel kindly toward another, is a paradox. That kind of love does not seek out and save the lost, and essentially help anybody. But here again, we can pray, though not entirely free from taint. But our prayer will not so much avail.

Then comes the great, ever-present need of all prayer, faith. We must have faith, not only in general, but in this particular case. The intercessor must believe that his words have found the response which he seeks; that mighty forces are at work, though he cannot see them, and though their action is sometimes so slow that faith is sorely tried. An absolute confidence, childlike and unshakable, though all the forces of the world seem to be opposed to the end sought, is perhaps next to love, the sine qua non of successful intercessory prayer.

The intercessor must, having prayed, have courage. He will need it. The first results may be discouraging. There may be at first opposition to the gentle workings of the Spirit in that heart which he is trying, with God's help, to save or help. It may be that his friend will commit the worst acts of his life at this juncture. If he was indifferent, he may become hostile; if sinning in ways of sense, he may sin more deeply. If sinning in ways of thought, grow harder and more selfish. But this first reaction and resistance passed, love will, like the rays of the sun striking the snow-drift, begin to melt the icy hardness, and gradually, or perhaps suddenly, after a while, the change will come.

Here is a form of service open to the weakest, and one most curtailed in action. Any person who loves, can pray. Any person who wishes to, can perfect himself in this form of prayer. And he who undertakes it can be a sharer in one of the purest and most God-like joys that can fall to the lot of man—he can partake of that joy which is in Heaven among the angels, over the one sinner who repenteth. Even if the prayer has not been for the extreme good, it will be helpful, and will be rewarded.

However, this is not the only reward of intercessory prayer. Not only at the end, when results have come to gladden the heart of the pray-er, but all along, are they evident. From the first, he will find himself drawn closer to God than he ever thought possible, and he has the satisfaction of knowing that the closer he is drawn, the more effective his prayer becomes; he will learn for the first time what Jesus meant in the words "If ye abide in me and my words abide in you, ye shall ask what ye will."

If any prayer educates, and leads to higher levels more quickly than another, if any helps humanity; if any cannot possibly fail or be over-done, or become morbid, or self-centered, or formal, it is surely this. But intercessory prayer cannot be adequately described, any more than a beautiful strain of music can be described. It must be tried, to be understood.—Good News.

Don't Stop Saving for Rummage Sale

It is expected to take place sometime in March. These sales are often a blessing in disguise for those who give, as well as for those who buy. Is there a man in the parish who can spare us the use of a truck for one day prior to the sale?

We guarantee to sell everything in the line of wearing apparel and household goods; anything from a cup to a cup-board.

The Sale for the French Babies

At the Afternoon Tea and Sale held at Cresheim Cottage, a goodly sum was realized through the patronage of many kind friends. The committee was able to send more than $40 to The Little House of Saint Pantaleon for the French and Belgian Babies.

Ten dollars was also sent to Miss Hodge for "The Lovers of Children," and $10 to Mrs. Birchall Hammer for Christmas gifts for her poor children.

Grateful thanks are due Miss Caroline C. Schenck for her hospitality and efficient management of the "Tea."

Does it Pay to Stop Advertising?

Recently the President of the American Rolling Mills Company stated that although for two and a half years the company has been unable to supply the demands for its product, it proposes to continue, without interruption, its advertising program. Said he: "We are building a permanent business edifice and some day we would have to spend millions of dollars to buy back the business and good-will of our clients if they are forsaken in this emergency." That any letup in an advertising campaign is fatal is well illustrated by the experience of A. & F. Pears, the English soap makers, who some fifteen years ago were spending about a quarter million dollars a year in advertising. So effectively was Pears soap impressed upon the minds of people the world over that the company was selling annually its entire output. But then came the break. Things were moving so smoothly, business was so good, that the company's board of directors decided that it would continue so without advertising. For six months, therefore, advertising was discontinued, and in that six months the company lost 35 percent of its business. It cost the Pears $6.500,000 in additional publicity to get back where they were when they took that six months' vacation. All of which tends to prove what has been so often said, that the memory of the public is very fickle, and that any letup in advertising is fatal.—Insurance World.

Discretion vs. Valor

Imitation may be the most sincere flattery, but it is advisable to take wisdom from the following:

I alighted from a train at a small town in Pennsylvania, in company of a traveling man. This individual addressed himself to a near-by small boy:

"S-s-s-sonny, c-c-can yu-yu-you t-tell me the h-h-best hotel in thi-thi-this t-t-t-town?"

The urchin looked up curiously, but made no answer.

"I say, boy, c-c-can y-you t-t-talk?"

Still no answer, and the man wrathfully strode away.

I couldn't resist asking the boy why he was not more civil to the stranger, and received this highly sensible reply:

"D-d-do y-y-y-yer th-th-th-th-think I wa-wa-wanter get my he-he-he-he-head kno-kno-knocked off?"

The Rector's Letter

DERNBACH, GERMANY
Christmastide, 1918

MY DEAR GRACE CHURCH FRIENDS:

I did not mind being wakened very early Christmas morning. Who wants to sleep on such a morning! First I heard the ringing of many bells, some nearby and some far away. Then I heard the village folk on their way to early mass, for this is a very religious town. But when a bugle sounded reveille and the band marched past playing gay music, I threw open my window and waved my Church flag with its snow white cross.

As the band disappeared in the direction of the field hospital, I stood admiring the beauty of the fresh Christmas snow. By its swift and silent magic it had covered every ugly defect and purified Dernbach. Later the sun came through the clouds to light up with a thousand jewels our Christmas tree which stood in the open square near the church. There, on Christmas eve, officers and men gathered like so many children to hear the band play Christmas carols and to give Santa Claus a hearty reception.

It was hard at first to be right merry so far away from home, but there was joy in the air. We were all so thankful for victory. Only a short time ago the outlook had seemed so dark; but now everything had cleared up.

Something tells us there is a good time coming, not only for our own country—but for the world. The Christmas carols brightened our hope

"For lo! the days are hast'ning on,
By prophets seen of old,
When with the ever circling years,
Shall come the time foretold,
When the new heav'n and earth shall own
The Prince of Peace their King,
And the whole world send back the song
Which now the angels sing."

But the particular good time to which every soldier here is eagerly looking forward is the home coming. These months on foreign soil have revealed to the men how much they love the homeland. Those dread moments under fire when they despaired of ever seeing again the dear ones back home taught them how much they really loved them. They have shown their ability to leave all. They have fought a good fight. They have won the day. Who can blame them now if they are homesick? I believe the keenest enjoyment they have nowadays is the passing stimulus of the "latest dope." Every few days some new rumor starts them dreaming afresh about a trip down the Rhine or the Loire to some port of embarkation. "Home Sweet Home" has become their ruling passion.

I would not have you think this longing for home has weakened the morale of the troops. On the contrary the tone is remarkably high. One might almost expect a lapse in an army of occupation. But the men of the Third Army are guarding the bridgeheads of the Rhine with the same snap and fidelity with which they guarded the Montdidier sector, or wiped out the St. Mihiel salient, or drove the Hun inch by inch from the banks of the Meuse. As the Sixteenth Infantry marched across the Rhine on the morning of December thirteenth, with band playing and colors flying, they were reviewed by Brigadier General Parker. After they had passed he turned to Colonel Harrell, our regimental commander, and said: "Never in all my military experience have I seen troops in better condition. I have no word of criticism." If there had been any lapse of morale the keen eye of the General would have detected it. This commendation seems the more remarkable if one remembers what these men had experienced during the few weeks before.

When I wrote you last, the regiment was recuperating from the Argonne battle. They had not returned from that most desperate battle of the war without heavy losses. They had entered with 62 officers and 2600 men. They had returned with 27 officers and 1000 men. After only a few days rest and 15 or 18 days training, during which the replacement troops caught the spirit of the Sixteenth, they took their place in the line again as combat troops. That last push proved the most fatiguing of the war. In 48 hours they marched all night for two nights and fought all day for two days, without rest and with no food except their iron rations.

They covered during that time 60 kilometers, 40 of which were in the face of the enemy. They reached the heights overlooking Sedan when the last offensive movement in which American troops participated was ended November 7th.

But even the Armistice brought the Sixteenth no rest. They kept on marching day after day, week after week, through Lorraine, Luxemburg, Rhineland. One doughboy remarked dryly as he marched out of Coblenz: "If they keep this hiking up much longer they'll sure run out of 'kilomets.'"

In his unique citation of the First Division after the Argonne fight, General Pershing said he had noted in this division "a special pride of service and high morale never broken by hardship or battle."

He visited us here a few days ago and found it still unbroken. He made a short address to the officers, reminding us of the dignity which should characterize the victorious troops who represent on German soil the noblest nation on the face of the earth.

The American troops have been criticized by the French and English as lacking in severity toward the German people. The American soldier, though a dangerous foe in battle, is—as you well know—an affable creature. He treats the Germans, among whom his lot is cast, with fairness and courtesy, but he maintains his dignity and keeps aloof. He has not forgotten. One does not see soldiers promenading with fraüleins as one saw them with the made moiselles. There is no familiarity. Perhaps this is one reason the boys are homesick.

I am now engaged in an interesting task, compiling a brief history of the Sixteenth in Europe. One after another the men of the regiment, who have helped to make its brilliant history, sit here by my little stove and relate what they can remember of this battle or that. A stenographer takes it down and later the composite story will be embodied in a booklet to be printed and presented to every member of the regiment. By these interviews I am brought close to the soul of the regiment—and the regiment has a soul which lives through many changes.

The Sixteenth has gone into action with a quarter of its men recruits, with less than three months in the service, and won, because all were infused with the fire of the old Sixteenth. It has suffered 120 per cent casualties and been refilled three times. It might be called the shock regiment of the first assault division of the A. E. F. The Commanding officer says in his citation: "The Sixteenth Infantry has never given a yard of trench or an inch of ground to the enemy. You have captured many prisoners and much material. One battalion has never lost a prisoner to the enemy. From the fact that you have at all times reached your objectives on schedule time, regardless of opposition, you are entitled to the honor of being the First Regiment of the First Brigade of the First Division of the First American Army—first to fight and last to leave the field."

You will see, dear home friends, why I am proud to have been affiliated even for a short while with such a regiment, and why —other things being equal—I desire to stay with them and return to the States as their regimental Chaplain. But in spite of this I have applied, through my Commanding officer, for "full and immediate discharge from the service" and forwarded the same request to the Chief Chaplain. No doubt many similar requests have been made and I must await my turn. But I hope to be with you for Easter.

THE REV. THOMAS SPARKS CLINE

Rector of Grace Church, Mt. Airy

I have not seen the December PARISH NEWS, but I know all goes well with you. One Christmas letter says: "Surely Grace Church has been most fortunate in its 'substitutes.' I like Father Caine immensely."

I note that about half of the forty whose names appear on the Roll of Honor of Grace Church have seen overseas service. Two who we feared were killed have been prisoners of war. All have been spared. Laus Deo!

My desk is festive with an array of Christmas cards; some from France; some from the States. But I assure you none are more precious than those from Grace Church friends. In the center is a cablegram—the latest token of the thoughtful generosity of that noble body known as "the Auxiliary."

Affectionate wishes for a Happy New Year to you all.

Faithfully yours,
THOMAS S. CLINE.

Every Member Campaign for Personal Service

Mention has already been made of the Every Member Campaign for Personal Service, which is being undertaken by the Diocese as a whole. Its object is to engage the interest and co-operation of every member of the Church through prayer, service and giving in fulfilling the Church's mission.

The Bishop has issued a small pamphlet of Bible readings and prayers to be sent to each person in every congregation throughout the Diocese. The preface of the little book is a personal letter from the Bishop. These will be distributed throughout the Parish as soon as possible, because preparation for the campaign must begin with earnest prayer before any of the active work is undertaken.

The following letter was sent to all the clergy:

Reverend and Dear Brother:

I write to ask your active help in the Every-Member Campaign in this Diocese which, beginning at once, will reach its climax in the last week of March, 1919.

As the weeks pass information and literature will be sent you through the executive committee, and particularly through the Rev. H. W. Stowell, who is the executive secretary of the Campaign, and has his office at the Church House, 1129 Walnut Street.

In this letter I would ask you to mark the beginning of the work in your congregation by these preliminary steps:

First, by giving notice to your people of the Campaign and explaining its purpose and the methods to be used and, above all, by making it a constant object of prayer both privately and publicly.

Second, to keep in constant touch with the movement through the executive secretary and the members of the executive committee. Mr. Stowell will be ready at all times to answer questions or to help you at any point to bring the matter before your people and to help you in the work of organization.

Third, by enlisting the interest and help of the various organizations in your Parish or Mission, whether for men, women or children. The impulse of the Campaign ought to be felt not only by our individual communicants, but by every guild, society or organization both in the Parish and in the Diocese, leading each to a more devoted and earnest effort for the extension of its own work. The particular part which each can play in the Campaign ought to be a matter of prayerful and careful discussion at the meetings of each organization, and I hope that these meetings may be used especially for this purpose. These meetings will also give a special opportunity for informal prayer in behalf of the Campaign.

Fourth, by suggesting to Mr. Stowell or the members of the executive committee, any special feature or mode of operation by which in your judgment the Campaign may be helped and strengthened.

I am more and more convinced that we have before us a very wonderful and unique opportunity for the extension of the Kingdom. I believe that all our people will answer the call to service if we can have faith and love enough to make the appeal to them in the right way. It is a very large undertaking, and it will need especially the spirit of co-operation and perseverance.

May I rely upon your doing all you can for the success of the movement not only among your own people, but in the Diocese as a whole?

Faithfully yours,
PHILIP M. RHINELANDER,
Bishop of Pennsylvania.

How can the members of Grace Church do their part? There are three ways at least in which all can, and should, help in carrying out the mission of the Church in winning the world for Christ:

1. Pray for God's blessing on the Campaign. The Collects for the Fifth Sunday after Easter, the Sunday next before Advent and that for SS. Simon and Jude are very suitable prayers.

2. Be present in the Lord's House at least once each Lord's Day to give to Almighty God that service of worship which each one of His children should render to Him.

3. Ask, "What wilt Thou have me to do?" There is much work to be done. Don't wait to be asked. Come and find out what there is for you to do for our Lord.

Pews and Sittings

All who desire to engage pews or sittings may apply to the ushers at services, or to the accounting warden, Mr. James Wilson Bayard, 105 East Johnson Street, Germantown, Philadelphia.

The Woman's Auxiliary and Guild

At a recent meeting of the Executive Committee of the Woman's Auxiliary the suggestion was made that some lasting tribute should be paid by the women to those members of Grace Parish who answered the call of their country and her allies in the late war. It was decided that a silk service flag and a bronze tablet containing the names, placed in a suitable position in the Church, would be appropriate and would be made a thank-offering for the fact that not one of the blue stars on our flag has been changed to gold.

The proposal was laid before the Vestry and received a cordial approval, so it is next in order to start the fund that will be required to carry it through. This testimonial must be as beautiful as we can make it and every one should take pleasure and pride in contributing to such an object. It is earnestly asked that subscriptions be made as soon as possible, and that they be sent to Mrs. A. L. E. Crouter, 7406 Germantown Avenue.

No one must imagine that the sewing of the Auxiliary is finished simply because the Domestic box is completed in the Fall. At present the gingham dresses and the pajamas for the girls and boys at Cape Mount, Africa, are under way—one dozen of each, simply but carefully made and of good material. This quantity is sent each year.

Then Joanna, the little colored girl in the House of Bethany School, South Africa, is to have a complete outfit. This child was named for Mrs. Cooper of the Leamy Home and has been cared for by the Auxiliary for several years. She is about fourteen now and enough clothing is sent each time to last for two years.

For the Rev. Frank M. Fitzpatrick, a colored missionary in Oklahoma City, we are asked to provide towels, table cloths, napkins, sheets, pillow cases, blankets, and curtains for a house of four rooms. The personal clothing for the missionary will be supplied by the Church of the Good Shepherd, Rosemont.

For our Indian work, instead of the usual box, we are to send a suit of clothes to an Indian catechist, and to make an entire outfit for one Indian girl.

With all of this in view, fingers are not apt to be idle for some time, and all who can come Wednesday mornings to help with the sewing will be cordially welcomed. Donations of any of the articles mentioned are very acceptable, particularly the blankets, for several pairs have been asked for this year, and their price makes them difficult to obtain.

The Flower Fund is not nearly so large as it should be at this season. Have some of us forgotten it in the crowding of other interests?

The War Commission

On Sunday, February 9, there is to be a special offering for the work of the War Commission to meet the expense of carrying on its work during the coming year in ministering to our men and especially in connection with the bringing of our men home. The following letter from the War Commission of the Diocese gives a summary of the work done during the past year in the Diocese; $250,000 will be needed to carry on the work of the whole Commission. The work must be continued. Make your offerings as generous as possible.

"The General War Commission has asked the church to raise for the continuation of the War Work in the Services of the United States, for the coming year the sum of $250,000. It has suggested Sunday, February 9, 1919, as the date on which collections for this purpose shall be taken up in the parish churches.

At a largely attended meeting of the whole War Commission of this Diocese, held December 30th, this undertaking was unanimously approved, and it was voted to accept the suggested quota of $50,000 as the share of this Diocese and to proceed to raise it with all our power.

Bishop Lawrence, Chairman of the General War Commission, has issued a circular to all the clergy, under date of December 14th, informing them of the needs of the Church's Work which compel the Committee to ask for this large sum of a quarter of a million of dollars. This sum has been arrived at, not by an extravagant guess, but by a careful pruning down of the estimated items to the minimum. (If the war had been continued, one million dollars would have been asked from the Church.) Bishop Lawrence gives an outline of how the sum of $610,000, raised last year, has been expended and appropriated. May we refer you to his summary statement?

A reminder of what this Diocese has done for War Work will help you to realize the necessity for the continuation of the Work until demobilization has been accomplished. Since the war began the Diocese has raised $128,000. Of this, $67,000 has been given to the General War Commission. The balance has been spent on the Diocesan, or Inter-Diocesan Works in which we have been interested: at the Navy Yard and other points in Philadelphia; at Fort Niagara, Camp Dix, Camp Meade, Camp Hancock, Wissahickon Barracks; in the publication of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Prayer Book and Musical Hymnal; and in the outfitting of all our Diocesan Clergy entering the Chaplaincy Service. With the wisdom of these works and their need for all the money we have expended upon them, we assume that you have some knowledge, either through our Bulletins or personal information gained through your own parishioners who have been benefited."

Church Periodical Club

Bishop Lloyd, of the Church Mission House, New York, has sent a call to the Church Periodical Club for school books of all kinds, reference books, dictionaries, etc., to be sent to the schools of Liberia, Africa. If you have any books in the list that you can donate, will you not send them to this Parish House as soon as possible, so they can be forwarded to New York by the first of February? If you have none of the books, perhaps you would like to help in this missionary work by sending to the librarian some money with which to buy them.

Educational Day

Wednesday, January 22d, was Diocesan Educational Day at the Church House. There was a very large attendance and a keen interest, not only in Mission Study Classes and subjects, but in the Missionary work of the Diocese.

The afternoon conference on "A Just and True Democracy at Home," showed that the church has an echo of many of the problems of the Peace Conference, right in this very diocese. How democratic are you? How much do you know—and care—about the church's work among the Italians in South Philadelphia? Or the English and Poles of Kensington and Frankford? There is every sort of ethnic problem at our Episcopal Hospital; every possible type of high adventure.

The Rev. Thomas Dela Cioppa and the Rev. A. J. Arkin, of St. George's, Kensington, begged most earnestly for helpers of all sorts—teachers, visitors, entertainers, leaders of various kinds. It was proposed by Miss Romney that a Church Messenger Service or Church Emergency Aid be formed to conserve the energy and ability of women now organized in war work, so that their awakened joy in service may be turned to the need of the church.

Are there any women of Grace Parish ready to volunteer for one day a week, or a month, for any time or service?

Mount Airy Red Cross, No. 8

The local Red Cross has been working on refugee garments as follows:

Boys' suits	80
Girls' dresses	56
Morning jackets	25

Gauze work is still being done, the oversupply being made into surgical dressings for the Little House of Saint Pantaleon, France.

Work for the convalescent hospitals in Philadelphia, at Camp Dix, Cape May and Lakewood has taken the form of many gifts of necessities and luxuries—knitted goods, fruit, tobacco, puzzles, games, among them 36 Ouija boards. Thirty-six pairs of operating leggings were also made and sent on request.

A Victrola is soon to go to one of the hospitals, and the Red Cross asks donations of records. Leave them at the Red Cross House, Main Street and Allen Lane.

Opposite the United States General Hospital, at Cape May, there is a convalescent house called "Appreciation Cottage," managed by interested friends—a genuine home spot, with lunches and games always on hand. There is cold ham, and tongue, and salads, and an old colored mammy to bake corn pone and johnny cakes. Here, too, Mount Airy No. 8 has sent gifts.

VOLUME XV MARCH 1919 NUMBER 3

The Rector's Letter

My dear friends:

Six years ago today I was conducting my first service in Grace Church. The Feast of the Purification came on Sunday then as it does today. On the first of March the Bishop came and instituted me into the Parish. As I received the Keys from the Wardens I promised to be a faithful shepherd over you.

And now for more than a year and a half I have not seen your faces. But you have had faithful pastors in my absence. And you are mindful of the work among the troops, which has been committed to me.

I long to return to you, specially as I think of the approach of Lent. Then, more than at other times, the pastor finds opportunities for dispensing the divine Word and leading the devotions of the people.

I was on the point of sending a second resignation to the Vestry, so uncertain seemed the outlook, when I received a letter from the Chief Chaplain which gave me new basis for my hope of an early return. It is dated January 21st, and says: "We will be glad to put in for your transfer to a Base under orders to return to the States."

So, I may be able to keep my promise to be with you for Easter. But military channels are clogged these days and it may take some time for the orders to come through.

Our great problem now is to keep our mind on our work. Oh, yes; we have work a plenty. Do not think we are idle over here on the Rhine. This Army of Occupation is itself much occupied. All who are not on outpost duty are busy every day with drills, maneuvers and problems. We have erected three rifle ranges for the regiment and the men are receiving expert training on the McNab system of shooting. The artillery keeps the natives in constant terror. The officers are being perfected in horsemanship under Cavalry instructors. An elaborate curriculum has been prepared for educational work, but thus far we have only undertaken the common English branches, for the illiterates and foreigners. I have charge of this work with a school officer in each of the battalions to assist.

The regimental history of which I told you has been completed and is ready for publication. I have lectured on it to two of the three battalions and expect to meet the third tomorrow. Once, I gave it in a Roman Catholic Church, the Priest played a few selections on the organ as garnishing. I liked it better when the band played military airs in a large hall—it seemed a more appropriate setting.

Both officers and men are enjoying generous leave privileges now. The leave center for the enlisted men of our Corps is Neuwied on the Rhine. There the Y. M. C. A. has provided every facility for their recreation during their three days' visit. There are entertainments, athletic contests, swimming pool, dances, boat trips on the Rhine and hearty meals.

In more limited numbers the men are taking seven-day leaves to France, and, in rare cases, to England, Belgium and Italy.

My cook (I say "my cook" for I am mess officer—and regard him as the best cook in the regiment) is happy in the prospect of a visit to his parents who live in a suburb of Rome. The officers have fourteen-day leaves to go almost anywhere except to Paris. They can get three-day permissions to Paris.

Between the granting of leaves and the wholesale transfers of reserved officers about to be replaced by regulars we are somewhat churned up just now. But our regimental life has been comparatively settled during the past two months. This has given increased opportunity for religious services.

The Bishop of South Carolina, in the full dignity of his episcopal robes, officiated this morning. The band played Handel's Largo like a pipe organ. The men sang "Onward Christian Soldiers" like the true soldiers that they are. The Bishop preached like a true Father in God, and administered the Holy Communion to a large number.

In the afternoon I presented to him two candidates for confirmation; a Lieutenant from Virginia (who happens to be our rifle expert), and a Salvation Army worker (a lady of culture and means, who has done beautiful and heroic work at the front, and has received five well-deserved citations).

This evening we had a crowded service—one of the finest I have attended since coming abroad. When I called upon the men to speak, many responded. Several said they had gained a new hold upon spiritual things during the war. One expressed his purpose of entering the ministry. Another said he would like to be baptized.

In my letter which appeared in the December issue of the PARISH NEWS I described a Communion Service in the Recicourt Woods. Among those present on that occasion was Harry Gibson who had served the Sixteenth as Y. M. C. A. Secretary through three offensives. It proved to be his last Communion, for a few days later as the Sixteenth was pushing on toward Sedan, he was instantly killed by a high-explosive shell. In his diary I found this entry: "Sunday, October 27, 1918. Recicourt all ruins. Beautiful day in woods. Chaplain Cline served Holy Communion in barracks at ten this morning. Dr. Bartlett, also an Episcopalian clergyman, assisted. Certainly was impressive service to see so many—should judge 100—on bended knee in prayer and confession. They took turns in kneeling before the altar, and partaking of Christ's broken body and shed blood. Sure thankful to be able to do this again 'in remembrance of Him.' Also my thoughts wandered to the many times I had partaken in old home church with faithful B——— (wife) by my side.

"Sure brought home and heaven near, and enjoyed a spiritual uplift here back of the lines in sound of distant battle. Quite an opportunity. My second communion in France, and one on the mighty deep on way over."

How worth while it all is! Such testimony! He hungered and thirsted for righteousness. God filled him with the Food of Immortality.

Another sweet saint has been taken from Grace Church—one whose devotion was constant throughout many years. Though Mrs. Miller's frailty prevented her frequent presence in the Church in recent years, she was always an inspiration. May the full joy and light of the divine presence be hers forever.

With sincere wishes for a good and profitable Lent,

Affectionately yours,

THOMAS S. CLINE.

Thy Kingdom Come

Almighty God, our Heavenly Father, give us, we beseech Thee, a vision of Thy purpose of fellowship with mankind, that membership in the mystical Body of Thy Son, Our Lord, may govern and control our daily lives. Center our desire and expectation steadfastly in Thy Kingdom, that the beauty of the King absorbing and constraining us, we may offer all we have and all we are that the Gospel of the Kingdom be preached in all the world for a witness unto the nations—that the day of war shall end in victory for Thine arms—and the establishment of Thy Kingdom, in which all the nations of the earth shall be blessed through Jesus the Lord. Amen.

Mount Airy Red Cross, No. 8

The Dance and Card Party given by the local Red Cross to raise funds for reconstruction work netted about $400. Of this sum, $200 was donated to Appreciation Cottage, at Cape May. Mrs. Lovegrove, in charge of the Cottage, addressed the Red Cross at a recent meeting.

To the Little House of S. Pantaleon, France, $100 was sent, and to the devastated Belgian village of Lierre, $100.

A generous donation of knitted caps, socks and smocks was sent to the U. S. General Hospital at Fort McPherson, Ga., to be distributed through Miss Helen Burk, of Grace Parish, who is nursing convalescents there.

During the month past 100 women's blouses and 50 boy's suits were made for refugees.

Friends of Captain Wilfred B. Fetterman will be glad to know that he is convalescing abroad from a very serious attack of pneumonia.

Notes on the Service and Worship of the Church

The study of the Prayer Book, both its history and its doctrine as expressed in the formularies, is one of the most interesting of studies, not only from the point of view of ecclesiastical history and liturgies, but also from the very practical point of view of the use of the Prayer Book in deepening one's own devotional life by a more complete understanding of what the Prayer Book teaches.

The very title of the Prayer Book suggests not only the sources from which it is derived, but also the historic nature of the Church itself to which we owe our allegiance. In the first words of the title, the phrase "Common Prayer" carries us back to the sixteenth century, when that phrase was used to signify what we now call "public worship." It was used not only by the reforming party in the Church, but also by their opponents, and it is therefore an error to suppose that the adoption of the name was intended to mark a difference between the reformed and unreformed worship of the Church of England.

The manner of printing the title is significant. It is divided into four parts, which correspond to the four divisions of the Prayer Book itself—we might call them four books. These are:

(1) The Book of Common Prayer.

(2) The Administration of the Sacraments.

(3) Other Rites and Ceremonies of the Church. (4) The Psalter.

The title makes no mention of the Ordination Services and those services which follow, which are separated from the book proper by a particular title page; nor the thirty-nine Articles of Religion, which, omitting the Twenty-first Article, go back to days of violent controversy in the English Church. These articles are admirable in many ways, comprehensive and moderate, but on those subjects which were most seriously debated at the time when they were written (1571) they are intentionally ambiguous. These articles are not to be understood as a creed.

THE BOOK OF COMMON PRAYER.—The first part of the Prayer Book consists of those services which are conducted in the choir, namely, Morning Prayer and Evening Prayer (or Matins and Evensong, as they are called in the English Prayer Book). Morning Prayer is composed of three of the ancient "Hours," Matins, Lauds and Prime, and Evening Prayer of Vespers and Compline. The other three hours, Terce, Sext and None, were dropped. These eight hours together were called the Divine Service. The book which contained these services was called the Breviary. This was a condensation of several books—the Psalter, Antiphonal, Hymnal and Collects, and Lectionary. In Morning and Evening Prayer the ancient structure of the office was not changed, but further condensed, so that Morning and Evening Prayer consist of Psalms, Hymns, Lections and Collects, just as the offices from which they were derived.

Common Prayer also includes the Litany, which is a service of Intercession after Morning Prayer, originally intended to be said or sung in procession; the Prayers and Thanksgivings upon several occasions, and a Penitential office for Ash Wednesday.

The second part of the Prayer Book is that which contains the forms and ceremonies for the ADMINISTRATION OF THE SACRAMENT, Holy Communion at the Holy Table, also termed the Altar in the Institution office, and Baptism at the font. "The Collects, Epistles and Gospels to be used throughout the year," together with the "Order for the Administration of the Lord's Supper," are translated with very few changes, and none of a doctrinal nature, from the Missal or Altar Service Book, which was in use in the Church of England in the sixteenth century. The Missal, as in the case of the Breviary, was originally several books, the Sacramentary (the priest's part), the Gospel Book, the Epistle Book, the Gradual and Sequences.

Part 3 is composed of OTHER RITES AND CEREMONIES OF THE CHURCH. It will be noticed that both the Gospel Sacraments and the "other" Rites are described as "of the Church" services, not of the Anglican Communion only, but of the whole Church. The ritual (i. e., the manner of saying) and their ceremonial (i. e., the manner of doing) are according to the American use.

These Rites consist of two groups: (1) Certain of the "five commonly called Sacraments," namely, Confirmation, to which is prefixed the Collectism; the Solemnization of Matrimony, and the Visitation of the Sick, and (2) other Rites, not of a sacramental nature, namely, the Burial of the Dead, the Thanksgiving of Women after Child-birth, Forms of Prayer to be Used at Sea, the Visitation of Prisoners, a form for Thanksgiving Day and Family Prayer.

The whole of the Psalter, or the complete Book of Psalms, forms the fourth part of the Prayer Book. Here the Prayer Book proper ends. The services which follow, the Ordination Services, Forms for the Consecration of a Church and the Office of Institution, are a separate book by themselves, and are a part of the old Pontifical or Bishop's Book. They are complete, even to the Order of Communion and Litany, which are used in connection with them.

There are twelve Churches of the Anglican Communion as follows:

1. The English Church.
2. The Irish Church.
3. The Scottish Church.
4. The American Church, commonly called Protestant Episcopal.
5. The Canadian Church.
6. The Australian Church.
7. The Indian Church (in Asia).
8. The South African Church.
9. The New Zealand Church.
10. The West Indian Church.
11. The Holy Catholic Church of Japan (Nippon, see Kokwai).
12. The Holy Catholic Church of China.

The first four and the last two have their own Prayer Book. The others use that of the Church of England. There are translations of the Prayer Book in Latin, French, Welsh, Gaelic, Tamil, Kafir, Yoruba, Amharii, Cree, Mohawk, Dakota, Canaresi, Zimshi, Spanish, Italian, German and some other languages.

Together these form the Anglican Group of Liturgies, one of the three great groups in Christendom. The other two are (1) the Eastern, which consists of four minor groups: 1. Byzantine (Greek, Slavonic and Armenian); 2. West Syrian; 3. Egyptian; 4. East Syrian, and (2) the Latin, which is divided into two groups: 1. Roman (Roman, Benedictine, Cistercian, Carthusian and Dominican), and 2. Gallican (Mozarabic and Ambrosian).

Every Member Campaign for Personal Service

Parish Week: March 9th-15th. Diocesan Week: March 16th-22d. World Week: March 23d-30th.

Please keep these dates in mind. The educational work of the campaign will begin on March 9th. There will be a parish meeting March 12th at 8 P. M. in the parish house. Every member of the parish is asked and urged to be present. There is a lack of enthusiasm in regard to the church and her work. Why is this so?

One reason, at least, is that few members of the church know what the church is doing and what that work is. Our Lord left a very definite command before His ascension. Do you know whether the members of His church are fulfilling this command? Come to the parish meeting and find out.

On Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings, March 19th, 20th, 21st, there will be meetings at S. Luke's parish house, Germantown Avenue, at 8 P. M., at which the work and needs of the Diocese will be presented. The Bishop is expected to address one of the meetings, and the Rev. George L. Richardson, D.D., will be the speaker on the other two nights.

On Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, in the afternoons at 4.15 and at 8 in the evening, the Bishop of Atlanta, the Rt. Rev. Henry J. Mikell, D.D., will speak of the work of the Church in the world. The afternoon meetings are for the children and for those who cannot come in the evening. These meetings will be at S. Luke's. On Thursday evening at 8 P. M. the Rev. R. W. Patton will speak on "Our Mission—the World" at the Metropolitan Opera House.

On Friday evening at 8 P. M., March 28th, there will be a meeting for all the canvassers of this district at S. Luke's.

The campaign will close with the every member canvass on Sunday afternoon, March 30th.

A Victory Service

The seventh annual spring service of the Germantown and Chestnut Hill Branches of the Women's Auxiliary will be held at S. Luke's Church, Germantown, on Thursday, April 3d, at 10.30 A. M. We are planning to make the service this year one of special thanksgiving for the close of the war, and we are inviting the women of all the parishes in the Convocation of Germantown to join in it.

The Rev. Samuel B. Booth, returned from war service, will make the address. The offering will be for the United Offering, as is always the case at our spring service in the triennial year.

Remember the day, Thursday, April 3d, which is the nearest available date to the anniversary of our entry into the war. Please tell everyone about this service.

The Rummage Sale

Those in charge of the Rummage Sale feel encouraged with the response so far, but clothing and household articles are still needed.

At a sale of this kind held recently, it was pathetic to see men trying to find shoes for their children. Can we not have some more shoes? Shoes for boys especially. We can sell all you may send; any size; any kind.

The store selected for the Sale of March 13th and 14th is at 5237 Germantown Avenue, just below a car stop at Queen Lane. The accommodations are large, light and clean.

Please send a card to Mrs. Jenkins at once if you have anything more for this "Jumble Sale," and come and see how the women of Grace Church can keep shop in a good cause.

The Woman's Auxiliary and Guild

How many of us think, as we work for missions of Sunday kinds and in various places, how little we hear of anything that is being done for the Jews? Right in our Prayer Book we find the Jews put in the same category as infidels, and while this is not a just nor a true classification, we should certainly remember that they are not believers in Christ, and that we have a very real responsibility in regard to them. Moreover, they are here at our doors; we do not have to go to China nor to Africa to find them. In Philadelphia alone there are 300,000 Jews, and what efforts are being made to Christianize them? Way down in the city, at Third and Reed Streets, there is a poorly equipped building called, "Hear, O Israel Mission," that represents the only work of this kind in the United States that is carried on by the Protestant Episcopal Church.

It is said that the results of work among these people are far greater, for the amount spent, than with any other class, and this is surprising, because they have little encouragement to Christianize. When they do, they virtually become outcasts, not being acceptable any longer to their own people nor made welcome among those whose religion they have embraced.

Mr. John L. Zacker is Superintendent of "Hear, O Israel Mission," and he is coming to Grace Church on Wednesday, March 19th, at 11 o'clock, to speak at the Woman's Auxiliary meeting about his work and its requirements. Luncheon will be served immediately afterward, and there should be a large attendance for, not only is the subject interesting, but we owe it to ourselves to become better informed on it.

Come and bring someone with you.

W.S.S.

Prayers for Men still in the Service

The men are not home, and we should not cease to pray for them, even if the danger of Hun bullets and gas bombs is over. That more powerful and active adversary still "walketh about, seeking whom he may devour." Men are more likely to yield to temptation when their time is not so fully occupied. They need our prayers, furthermore, for the work which is waiting to be done.

Is it not needful also for us to pray that the members of the Peace Conference should be guided by the Holy Spirit, so that the peace settled upon will really be the Peace of God, so that all Christian people may serve Him in godly quietness.

On the third Sunday of each month the Eucharist, at 7.30, is offered for these special objects. It is urged especially that the men of the Parish and the members of the families of men in service or who have been in service, be present at this service.

United Offering Notes

The President of a parish branch of the Women's Auxiliary in the Diocese of East Carolina gave $50 to the United Offering when she heard of the signing of the armistice.

From the Diocese of Chicago comes the report that "800 blue boxes have been distributed this year." During February a drive was in progress to raise a special Victory Thank Offering.

The United Offering Treasurer of the Diocese of Bethlehem writes: "I am conducting a 'U. O. Drive' in my Diocese February 16th to March 1st; the aim—to reach 1,000 new women. . . . All women who are already interested, and the Juniors, are asked to put an offering into their boxes because the war is over. Some undoubtedly have; others need the suggestion. It is such a wonderful year to have a 'blue box.'!"

There have been 10 triennial presentations of our Woman's United Thank Offering, the Diocese of Pennsylvania leading every time! Our offering in 1916 was $50,000. We should make it $60,000 at Detroit in October. Special "Victory" offerings—large and small—will surely accomplish this. "A word to the wise is sufficient!"

Will those wishing to train as leaders of classes, present their names to Mrs. Matlack, Educational Secretary of the Parish, who will then submit them to the priest-in-charge?

The Love of Jesus

O HANDS! pierced through with cruel wounds,
Fast nailed upon the mournful Tree;
Kind Hands of mercy, torn and bound,
And stretched so wide for love of me.
Therefore, my Lord, these hands of mine
From slothful ease, I clasp to Thine,
And pray Thee give them work divine
To do for love of Thee.

O FEET! so swift to sorrow's call,
That trod this dull earth pitingly;
Most blessed Feet that, braving all,
Were worn and weary seeking me.
Therefore, my Lord, no more shall stray
These feet of mine from Thy strait way,
But, braving all things, day by day,
Follow more close to Thee.

O Heart! deep wounded, pierced and riven,
How deep, O Love, Thy love must be;
O broken Heart, Thy love hath given
Thyself to be a home for me;
Therefore to Thee my heart give I,
Its love for love, its sigh for sigh,
To live henceforth; one day to die,
O sacred Heart, in Thee.

United Mission Study Class on Christian Citizenship

There will be but one Mission Study Class in the parish during Lent, on Tuesday afternoons, at 3.30, in the parish house; Mrs. Matlack, Leader.

The book to be studied is Bishop Burleson's, "Our Church and Our Country," which gives a backward and a foreward look at the pressing problems of Christian citizenship.

What have we done, what must we do, for the Indian, the Negro, the Southern Mountaineer, the natives of Porto Rico and the Canal Zone, the ethnic problems of the Hawaiian Islands? What for the immigrants among us, and for the hundreds of thousands of Americans in our Rural districts? All these are under the flag for which we have been fighting. The Church must follow the flag. It is ours to see that there is a "just and true democracy" at home.

Apply for membership to Mrs. Hall, Mrs. Burk or Mrs. Matlack, or present yourselves at the class. If you cannot study, come and listen.

KATHARINE MOORE MATLACK,
Educational Secretary.

A Daily Prayer

O holy Jesu,
Most merciful Redeemer,
My Friend and my Brother,
My Lord and my God;
May I know Thee more clearly,
May I love Thee more dearly,
May I follow Thee more nearly.
(Richard, Bp. of Chichester, A.D. 1250)

"He makes his prayers more powerful in his own behalf, who offers them also in behalf of others. For that sacrifice of prayer is more willingly received, which, in the sight of the merciful Judge, is flavored with love for one's neighbor."—S. Gregory, Moralia, Bk. 35, xi.

Red Cross Institute for Crippled and Disabled Men

There are three means of reducing and approaching the complete elimination of the cost of disability: first, accident prevention; second, thorough medical attention to minimize the disability resulting from the injury; and third, salvage of the remaining abilities of the worker through rehabilitation for self-support.

The third method of attack on the cost of disability is rehabilitation for self-support—the re-education of an injured man for an occupation which he can follow, or a process which he can perform, in spite of his handicap. The science of rehabilitation is new, and the experience in it has practically all been gained in the effort to make sound and just provision for the disabled soldier or sailor. Every country among the recent belligerents is today operating a comprehensive system of re-education for disabled soldiers, and is placing upon that system more dependence than upon the pension system.

The process of retraining the disabled is known as re-education, and can best be provided in a special school for crippled men. The first school of this kind in the United States is the Red Cross Institute for Crippled and Disabled Men, established in New York City through the generosity of Jeremiah Milbank. At this school, open to disabled civilians and soldiers alike, six trades are already being taught: artificial limb making, motion picture operating, oxy-acetylene welding, printing, jewelry work, and mechanical drafting. More will be added as the demand develops. Graduates are already giving satisfaction in the jobs to which they have been graduated, so the enterprise has passed the experimental stage. And in the results attained with disabled soldiers abroad there is overwhelming evidence of the logic and practicality of rehabilitation.

A typical case will illustrate how the saving is effected. A worker in Massachusetts was injured by a fall while working inside a submarine and his hand became permanently crippled. In due course his compensation rate was determined and he was referred to the insurance carrier to be paid ten dollars a week for a long period, with a maximum total payment of four thousand dollars. Since the disability was manifestly permanent the insurance company wrote the case off their books as a four thousand dollar loss and transferred that amount to reserve to cover the weekly payments. After the compensation had been paid for nearly a year, a new official of the insurance company began looking over the list of men to whom the company was paying compensation. His attention was directed to the man in question and the latter was requested to call at the office of the company. The case was like many thousands of others susceptible of rehabilitation for self-support, so the insurance company official put a proposition to the man in very frank terms. "I believe that you can be trained to earn a good living. I want you to understand very clearly, however, that this proposal is to the financial advantage of the company, but I also believe it is to your advantage as well. A total income of ten dollars a week is not very attractive to you and you would probably rather return to work at a good wage than remain idle. If you will consent, the company will send you to a school of re-education and see if we cannot get you back on your feet in good shape."

The injured man consented to the proposal and the company sent him to the Red Cross Institute in New York. They began to pay him not ten dollars a week as required by law; but forty dollars a week, twenty to him in New York and twenty to his wife at home. The company also paid, liberally, his traveling expenses in both directions. In the period of eight weeks he was re-educated in oxy-acetylene cutting and welding and returned home. He is now making, not only a satisfactory wage, but twice as much as he had ever earned before the accident took place.

In the whole transaction every party at interest was benefited. The man was advantaged in that his general living standard was distinctly raised, and the necessity of working for his living could not be considered as a hardship. The company paid less than five hundred dollars for his rehabilitation and this expense in conjunction with the five hundred dollars already paid in weekly compensation during the first year of idleness, made a total for the case of one thousand dollars. They were thus enabled to charge three thousand dollars of profit to the account of profit and loss. The community was infinitely the gainer in that the man, formerly an unproductive consumer, became a useful producer instead. The community further gained in the elimination of the disabled man from the category of a prospective dependent, because while compensation might have taken care of him in a very insufficient way during the period of idleness, there would have come a time when compensation ceased and then he would have been in a desperate economic status indeed—confirmed in habits of idleness, untrained for skilled work, and without any source of support.

A more intelligent handling of disability by insurance carriers will, therefore, reduce their expense, and will thus cut the cost of casualty protection to the employer. There is needed also, however, some revision of compensation laws so that there may be definite encouragement to insurance carriers to offer opportunity of rehabilitation and definite encouragement to the disabled men to take advantage of it. Practically every compensation case that has ever come to the Red Cross Institute has come on the day his compensation expired. For one year, for two years, or for four years the man has existed in idleness, drawing compensation, and cultivating habits of indolence. When his support was cut off, he then became interested in rehabilitation. Present compensation legislation tends to encourage the man to remain idle because his payments are reduced by any improvement in earning capacity. A revision of this practice will make for more constructive provision.

In short, the first effort should be to prevent injury, the second to minimize its permanent effects, the third—when disability has ensued—to offset its economic consequences. The execution of this complete program is not only sound humanitarian practice—it is good business as well.—DOUGLAS C. MCMURTRIE, Director, Red Cross Institute for Crippled and Disabled Men, Twenty-third Street and Fourth Avenue, New York City.

An Old Heaven and a New Earth

Ages have rolled away since God first said: "Let there be light;" and to-day the world trembles again upon the thresh-hold of a new creation.

Old forms are dead; new light has broken; nations are plastic, waiting to be moulded into newer, more spiritual being.

And in this process of recreation it is our proud privilege to share.

The problems that confront us are too vast to be solved by any pre-war program.

Money alone will not solve them. Only a deepening of the spiritual life of our entire membership will fit us to achieve the giant tasks that are before us.

That spiritual deepening has begun; it will continue, for in the glory of this reconstruction period the Episcopal Church in America shall not be found wanting.

The Rector's Letter

My Dear Friends:

At a recent meeting I laid before the Vestry certain matters of importance touching our future plans. The Vestry authorized the appointment of committees to consider the wisdom and the ways and means of carrying out these propositions. In order that the members of the congregation may be the better prepared to respond with enthusiasm to the leadership of the "Rector, Wardens and Vestrymen" in these matters, I wish to say, through these columns, to the people of the Church substantially what I then said to the Vestry:

I am sure you are all aware that the Church is entering upon a new age. The coming fall will be crucial in the life of the Church at large—and of our own parish. The hour has arrived for us to plan for a new and better era. Unless we set before us now the definite objectives, which will mean success next year, we shall fail in the sacred task committed to us.

Two years ago we adopted a progressive policy looking to the strengthening and enlarging of the work of Grace Church. Just as these plans were about to be realized the United States entered the war and our energies were diverted to the national service.

Our efforts as a nation have been crowned with success, and we emerge from the war stronger, more resolute and more prosperous than when we entered. It becomes our duty, therefore, to resume our purpose to make this Church a more powerful agency for good in this community.

Not only so, but we should now undertake greater things than we then attempted. The times call for bold, generous and far-reaching plans. Let us claim for the Kingdom of God the same loyalty, effort and sacrifice which this people has given to the nation.

As we face this task, let us begin by thinking of the quality of our own religion. Let us faithfully and sincerely reconsecrate ourselves to God's service and seek His guidance. In this way we shall keep ever before us the spiritual aim of the Church.

It devolves upon me, as your Rector, to take the initiative and lay before you certain plans, which, I trust, may commend themselves to you as proper objectives for the coming year.

1. First, I recommend that we do away with the rental of pews and make Grace Church a free Church. There is a growing sentiment among the people of the congregation that a free Church is more consistent with the spirit of the Christian religion and that it would enable the Church to make a much wider appeal to the people of the community. I, myself, share this conviction and believe the time is ripe for this forward step.

I venture to say, all those who are now paying pew rents would pledge to contribute the same amount through the envelope system, if the Church were made free, and would find greater joy in giving it. Where there is a will there is a way.

2. I recommend that we undertake to place a new organ in the Church before Easter, 1921. This is really a necessity. Our present organ is in a worn-out condidition and can hardly be expected to last more than a year or two longer. Already some excellent plans have been suggested for the raising of this fund. Let us take it up vigorously and never rest until it is accomplished.

3. I recommend that a parish office be established, and that a parish secretary be engaged. I regard this not as a luxury, but as a necessity. As the executive of a complex organization, the Rector should have every facility for efficient administration of all parish affairs. Without the proper machinery, many things of importance will be neglected and the work of the parish will suffer.

I am aware that some of you feel strongly the need of a Curate, and I agree that the parish will not come to its own until that hope be realized. But I place first in point of time the establishment of a parish office. This should be in operation next fall. By the fall of 1920 we ought to be ready for a Curate.

4. Let me remind you of another objective which must not be overlooked in our plans. There remains a debt of some $3,000 on the lot in the rear of the Church. This must not be allowed to hang on indefinitely. Some plan should be devised to clear it off during the next three or four years. Faithfully yours,

THOMAS S. CLINE.

Church School Commencement

The Church School Commencement was held on the Church lawn on the afternoon of Trinity Sunday.

For the first time in the history of the School diplomas of graduation were conferred.

Dr. A. L. E. Crouter made a noble address to the graduates and presented diplomas to the following:

H. Bertram Rebmann, John Field, Lawrence Whyte, Gordon Crouter, Rutherford Brown, Eleanor Matlack, Mary Houston, Julia Houston, Adelaide Sheble, Dorothy Shelmire, Elizabeth Sheble and June Y. Crouter.

Each graduate also received a book from the School.

Four most interesting papers were read by members of the graduating class. Frank Fortescue and Lawrence Whyte took as their theme the Book of Genesis, Adelaide Sheble and Eleanor Matlack discussed the Purpose which runs throughout the whole Bible.

These essays were clear evidence of the high grade of work which has been done in these classes throughout the year.

In speaking of the graduation of these young persons, the Rector emphasized the fact that it does not mark the termination of their religious studies.

Post-graduate courses will be provided for them next year.

The Superintendent, Mr. Meehan, presented certificates of promotion to the children who were transferred to the Primary and Junior Departments of the school.

He also read the Honor Rolls and awarded the School Banner to Mrs. Pratt Thompson's Class. Bibles, Prayer Books and Hymnals were awarded to the children who had brought new scholars to the School.

It was announced that there would be a Service with a short Instruction for the members of the Church School each Sunday throughout the summer at 9.30 a. m. The Rector asked every child and adult present to plan to be in the Church at least once each Sunday throughout the summer.

Men's Dinner

The Men's Dinner on the Evening of Ascension Day proved a delightful and memorable affair. It was the Vestry that took the initiative and appointed a committee to arrange for a dinner in honor of the Rector's return from foreign service. Almost simultaneously the Men's Welcome Committee began plans for a reception to the men of the parish returning from the Army and Navy service. The two functions were merged and the result was a great success.

The Guildroom was gloriously ornate with flags of the Allied nations. Its capacity was taxed by the large company of men. Seated at the guests' table were fourteen men in uniform. Letters were read telling the whereabouts of others who are still in the service.

The evening was enlivened by almost continuous music. The orchestra led the men as they sang the popular wartime songs. Mr. Russell Buckley sang.

Dr. Crouter presided, introducing first the Rector, who spoke of the vital importance of liaison in Church life as well as in Army life.

Lieut. Landenberger gave a most interesting account of his experiences in the Navy during the war.

Private Rommel recounted some of his thrilling experiences at the front with the 110th Infantry.

Sergeant Coleman described very graphically the work of the evacuation hospitals, where the wounded men were brought directly from the field.

All present were deeply impressed by these three addresses from the men returning from the service.

Dr. Crouter then spoke of some new plans for the future of Grace Church and called upon several men to present them.

Mr. Chrisman earnestly advocated that Grace Church be made free. Mr. Bayard spoke of the urgent need for a new organ and proposed that the men of the parish back up the plans of the committee to raise a fund for this purpose. Mr. Wagner stated the necessity for a parish office and secretary to carry on the business of the parish with efficiency.

Mr. Kaufman made a plea for a progressive spirit and called upon the young men to assume their full share in the work before us.

Mr. Fortescue summed up what the other speakers had said in a forceful address. He said the ambitious plans for the furthering of the work of the Church were not only right and timely but feasible.

He proposed that while we are raising a new organ fund we make it large enough to clear off the debt on the rear lot at the same time.

These proposals were all received with approval by the men of the parish.

Mr. Meehan expressed to the Rector the esteem and affection of the men of the parish and on their behalf presented him with a motor car.

The Rector was completely surprised by this presentation.

In a brief speech he expressed his deep appreciation and gratitude and assured the men it would be a great aid in his work.

It was midnight when the last song died away and the men bade each other a hearty good-night.

Great credit is due to the committeemen who arranged so well for the evening's pleasure and profit.

The Lepers in Japan

My Dear Friends.—It is with great pleasure I write to tell you of our happy Christmas-tree evening at the Feast of the Epiphany, and to offer my grateful thanks for your kind help in the pleasure and also to the comfort of our patients.

After the opening ceremony tea and cakes were passed round, and, while those were being discussed, one of the men read some little poems written by other patients, the last being one by himself, expressing very amusingly a fervent wish that he would receive the things he most wanted when the presents were given out! It was so quaintly put that no one could conceive his wish to proceed from greediness, but as more to create a laugh than anything else, in which he succeeded.

And then three men sang a trio, "O Thou, in Whose Presence My Soul Takes Delight." I wished our friends could have seen them! So bravely standing there, with all their disabilities, self-forgetting, trying to give pleasure to others. One was Justus, whom you possibly remember, and one was the son of a Major in the Kumanoto garrison, who was killed in the Russian War, a gentleman by birth, well educated until he was 21, and then, when about to enter the Imperial University, found he was a leper, and now, to save his family from shame, is, as it were, hiding from his former friends in the Hospital. No one of his family has ever been a leper, and it is supposed that he contracted the disease from his nurse when a baby. She was found to be a leper when too late and died of the disease when this dear man was 12 years old. He is now 25, and, I grieve to say, is gradually losing his eyesight. To be blind, in addition to being a leper, is a terrible trial, even to the sweetest disposition, and only the most constant walking with the LORD enable any to endure it.

The third member of the trio was Kaichiro San, a big, manly fellow of 18, who came to us as a little boy; a bad case then, but now as bald as a man of 70, blind, and only the remains of a nose, almost fingerless, and yet happy as far as we may know, and his life making it quite acceptable to us that he should sing, "O Thou, in Whose Presence My Soul Takes Delight."

Then came a women's quartette, "When Peace Like a River Attendeth My Way." Mrs. George, of whom you know, singing soprano. She has a very sweet voice and looked very dear and gentle as she stood there, quite blind now, but with a calm and happy face. She had on a grey dress and a white, knitted wool coat and black stole and muff, no hat and her dark hair parted in the middle and nicely arranged behind. She loves a muff, for she can no longer use gloves to keep what remains of her poor fingers from the cold.

Another was a girl of 18, whose portrait is on the pamphlet, "A Few Thankyous," but greatly as we hoped when that was published, that like her sister she would be cured, she instead gets worse. Poor girl! she fights against it and hides herself with shame when disfigurements appear; then, when they pass, she comes forth again. Life is somewhat bitter for her now, and, as I know girls of her age especially will appreciate just how she feels, I ask your and their sympathy for her.

Another was a sweet little woman of 23, but looks 50. Her lips were very bad, but she sang out so bravely. And the fourth was Arita San, formerly a Government school teacher, always a graceful lady and bearing her burdens with sweet dignity.

There were not many dolls this year, but they were very charming ones. Pansy and "Lady Baltimore" and William Penn especially, and one burly boy-doll, over whom the women simply rocked laughing.

Malcolm, too, contributed greatly to the pleasure of the evening by a long musical recitation, very cleverly done in Japanese.

What we should have done without the lovely parcels from Philadelphia I do not know, and I thank the givers most gratefully. Our gifts from England and from Canada, too, were most acceptable and extremely useful, and for those, too, I am equally obliged and grateful. They specially enabled me as soon as cold weather appeared to furnish everybody with sufficient warm things for head, and neck, and hands, and feet both by day and by night.

When the cold weather begins we have quite a campaign of hot-water bottles and bed socks, for they feel the cold very much, and I have to supply warmth more by individual personal comforts than by the usual methods. When trying to warm themselves they generally do not know how near they are and burn themselves unaware. When the first skin is burnt through they begin to know, and it is then too late to save them from the fever and pain which accrues.

It is difficult to tell you how much your gifts of usefulness and pleasure mean to us, and how they are looked forward to year after year.

With many and oft-repeated thanks and wishing that all those who aid could see for themselves just once what it means.

Believe me, dear ladies,

Ever sincerely and affectionately yours,

H. RIDDELL.

Social Evening

Every member of the congregation is cordially invited to be present at a Social Evening on the Church Lawn, Tuesday, July 1st, at 8 o'clock.

Refreshments, ice cream and cake, will be served at nominal cost. There will be dancing in the Parish House.

It is hoped there will be a large gathering of the people of the parish, young and old. Everyone should feel free to invite his friends. The object of this Lawn Party is not to raise money—it is simply to promote the happiness and good fellowship of all concerned.

Cheston T. Weiler

A LOVING TRIBUTE

"Beloved think it not strange concerning the fiery trial which is to try you, as though some strange thing happened unto you. But rejoice, inasmuch as ye are partakers of Christ's sufferings; that, when His glory shall be revealed, ye may be glad also with exceeding joy."

On Sunday, May 25th, Cheston Weiler was instantly killed by a train on Cresheim Bridge.

Cheston Weiler was fourteen years old. His whole life was lived in Mt. Airy. He was baptized in Grace Church and was confirmed there last fall, having been prepared for his Confirmation and first Communion by Father Caine, locum tenens during the Rector's absence in France. Cheston made his Communions regularly, the last one being on Sunday, May 18th, at the early Celebration. For several years he had been a member of the choir.

The many friends of Dr. and Mrs. George A. Weiler in Grace Parish and the pupils of the Church School wish to express in the PARISH NEWS their tender sympathy for them in this great loss and their own sorrow at the death of so dear a friend.

Cheston was a boy of unusual promise, bright, sunny, manly and frank; a favorite among his young friends as with his elders, to whom his courteous and winning manner was unfailing. All loved him. All will miss him. "Grant him, O Lord, eternal rest, and may light perpetual shine upon him. Amen."

The sudden death of one of their circle has made the young people of the parish very thoughtful. Death does not come to the aged alone. "Be ye also ready, for ye know not the hour when the Son of Man cometh." The only thing that is taken with us at the last is character. "Have ye loved Me and kept My commandments?" "Have you grown daily more and more like Him who died for you?"

God is a loving Father. We cannot understand His ways and His plans for us, but we do love and trust Him and say, "Thy will be done."

"And I heard a great voice out of heaven saying, 'Behold, the tabernacle of God is with men, and he will dwell with them, and they shall be his people, and God himself shall be with them and be their God.'

"And God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes, and there shall be no more death, neither sorrow, nor crying; neither shall there be any more pain, for the former things are passed away.

"And He that sat upon the throne said, 'Behold, I make all things new.' And He said unto me, "Write: for these words are true and faithful.'"

Miss A. S. Edrington

A FAITHFUL WORKER

Word has come to us of the passing from earth of Miss A. S. Edrington, of Wide Water, Va., although we have no particulars, not even the date, in time for this issue of the PARISH NEWS.

As recently as April 26th the writer received a letter from Miss Edrington, in which she expressed her gratitude to her Heavenly Father that, in spite of the weakness of failing health, she was able to continue her work. We may well think of her as a life-long friend, for, under that department of our work known as "Missions to Colored People," she has been a beneficiary from the early days of our parish life. Not only has it been the privilege of the Woman's Auxiliary to send off annually to Wide Water the boxes of clothing and gifts for Christmas cheer, but the Church School and individuals have had, from time to time during all the years, a lively interest in Miss Edrington, which found expression in various ways. Again and again she has written: "What would my poor people do without the candy!" There was never a more constantly appreciative recipient than Miss Edrington, and she, in turn, remembered us by sending holly for the Church at Christmas.

Miss Edrington was certainly a remarkable example of long-continued, quiet, faithful service to her own people. It was a joy to her to labor for them and for her Master. As we think of her loving ministry to even "the least of these," there comes quickly to mind the one word, "Inasmuch." Surely some day that word shall be her great reward! M. C. S. N.

The Junior Auxiliary Party

The Juniors gave a very enjoyable party in the Parish House on the evening of May 24th.

There were tasteful decorations and dancing; then refreshments. A goodly sum was realized for the Junior's mission fund.

The Bishop's Bricks

The annual meeting of the Bishop's Brick's Fund was held at St. Peter's Church, Germantown, on May 31st.

There was a goodly number of children and adults present from all parts of the Diocese. To add to the interest this year, there were two new features, in addition to the little churches: hods and baskets of bricks representing the money collected.

A beautiful banner was carried by two members of Grace Church School; ours being the banner parish last year, and this time it was presented to St. Peter's, Germantown, whose offering more than doubled the largest amount given last year by our own parish.

The Bishop told us that two new churches, to which the Fund has contributed, are practically completed: St. George's, Richmond, and Epiphany, Sherwood.

The offering this year, amounting to about $1,100, will be given to start the new All Saints, Darby, and next year it is hoped to begin a new church at Logan.

The amount paid in from our Church School and Auxiliary this year is $47.60.

The Message of the Bible as a Whole

The Bible is the story and record of the Jewish and Christian faiths. It is not, nor does it pretend to be, a book of science, but it reveals God's purpose and plan for man. This purpose, which is to draw man into fellowship with Him, is revealed all through the Scriptures.

In the beginning, after God had created the world, nature and animals, He created man. He wanted someone to serve Him, to love Him and to obey Him. But, unlike the animals, man was given that great and wonderful gift called personality, which includes the power to choose. We have reason, will and affections; this is what it means to be made in God's image.

The Book of Genesis, after the creation, is taken up with man's fall. Adam chose to disobey God. But God's patience, God's love, are so infinite that He continually worked to draw man back to Him. Finally came Abraham, who answered by Faith and Obedience. So God made a covenant with him. All through the Pentateuch we see the struggles of the Jewish people and God's great love in continually drawing them back to him, no matter how often they fell away. The message of the Pentateuch is Faith and Obedience.

Now we come to the Prophets, with their great common cry of Repentance. "Repent ye!" How often these words were repeated down the generations. The purpose of repentance is to restore to fellowship. The Prophets are God's mouthpieces. Through them He urged the people to repent and return to the Fellowship of Israel, so that they might come into harmony with His great plan.

In the Psalms we are drawn into a fellowship of praise. Here man is singing praises to God and calling upon him in trouble, in joy and in every human need.

Man, however, was changeable, and weak in his love and obedience. God's honor demanded perfect love, perfect faith and perfect obedience to His will. So He Himself did what man could not do. He sent His only begotten Son, Jesus Christ, to become man, and, as man, to render that perfect obedience to the Father's will. In the Gospels, God's plan is seen most clearly, for there we have painted for us the perfect life of love, obedience and self-sacrifice.

After our Lord left this earth, God did not leave man without the comfort of His Presence and without power over sin, for He sent down The Holy Spirit, the very Spirit and Life of God Himself, to dwell in man and enable him to obey God. Our Lord established the Church as the dwelling place of The Holy Spirit—The Fellowship. In the Acts and Epistles we learn the early history and great work of Christ's Church.

And still today, through all the Sacraments of the Church and through its Praise and Service and its great unchanging Faith, God is drawing us into fellowship with Him, and we must extend this fellowship to the ends of the world.

ADELAIDE SHEBLE.

Reminders

DON'T FORGET that October 9th is the date of the great Thanksgiving Service of the Woman's Auxiliary in St. Paul's Cathedral, Detroit, at which there will be the triennial presentation of the Woman's United Thank Offering.

DON'T FORGET that there is to be a service on the same day for "the women at home" at the Diocesan Church of St. Mary, Broad and South Streets, at 10.30 a. m. The Rev. Dr. Richardson is expected to preach, and the offering will be added to that presented in Detroit.

DON'T FORGET that this year the fall ingathering of the United Offering must be made in September.

DON'T FORGET that the Diocesan Treasurer must have at least $60,000 to take to Detroit, and that she is depending upon the women of Grace Church to do their utmost to help accomplish this! Please give gladly as the Lord hath prospered you. If you have never contributed to the United Offering, please do so this year if you never do again! Don't do it because you feel that you must, or because the Treasurer asks it, but because it is a joy to help provide for those who have gone out as our substitutes to work "at the front" for the Master and His Kingdom, and because we want to provide for them more adequately. Do you know that there are those receiving as little as $400, $300, $250? Only this morning the writer heard of the smallest salary, $120 per annum, paid a worker among the negroes in one of our Southern Dioceses. It may be possible that the Bishop supplements this stipend. Let us hope so. The matter of increasing salaries of United Offering workers is coming up at Detroit, and, if there is a very large offering from the women of the Church, there will be the better chance for favorable action.

DON'T FORGET to do your very best in this matter!

"The woman at home is just as responsible as the woman in the field."—Bishop Lloyd.

From the Leamy Home

We take great pleasure in welcoming Mrs. Azubah L. Dalton, the newly appointed Superintendent of the Leamy Home, who assumed office on the 2d of June.

She comes to us from Toronto, Ontario, Canada, near which city, on the shores of beautiful Lake Ontario, she was born. She has been a life-long member of the Anglican Church and has always taken an active part in the furtherance of righteousness and high living. She has long been an intimate friend of Deaconess Carter, by whom she was recommended for the position she now occupies.

These facts, in conjunction with the great efficiency she has already displayed and her charming personality, cause us to congratulate ourselves upon the addition her advent has been to the community.

Prayers for Men still in the Service

The men are not home, and we should not cease to pray for them, even if the danger of Hun bullets and gas bombs is over. That more powerful and active adversary still "walketh about, seeking whom he may devour." Men are more likely to yield to temptation when their time is not so fully occupied. They need our prayers, furthermore, for the work which is waiting to be done.

Is it not needful also for us to pray that the members of the Peace Conference should be guided by the Holy Spirit, so that the peace settled upon will really be the Peace of God, so that all Christian people may serve Him in godly quietness.

The Bishop's Bricks

The reception for Bishop Rhinelander, given by the Bishop's Bricks Committee, was held in St. James Parish House on Saturday afternoon, January 18th, and in spite of inclement weather, there was a larger attendance than ever before; fifty-two parishes being represented.

The feature of the occasion was a Mystery Play called "The Epiphany," presented by the children of the Polish Mission, from Kensington, and given in their own language.

It was a truly remarkable performance, depicting the story of the Nativity. They also gave an exhibition of calisthenics to music, and sang "America" in English, showing their aptitude in learning the language of their adopted country, but the enthusiasm and spirit with which they sang their own Polish Anthem, and the way they saluted their own flag, was proof of their native patriotism.

Through the kindness of the members of St. James Parish, ice cream was served to the children, and afternoon tea to the grown-ups.

The Bishop spoke with enthusiasm of "The Bishop's Bricks" Committee, an organization very near his heart. The money raised is given to him to use at his discretion in increasing the number of churches in this diocese.

Prayers for Men still in the Service

The men are not home, and we should not cease to pray for them, even if the danger of Hun bullets and gas bombs is over. That more powerful and active adversary still "walketh about, seeking whom he may devour." Men are more likely to yield to temptation when their time is not so fully occupied. They need our prayers, furthermore, for the work which is waiting to be done.

Is it not needful also for us to pray that the members of the Peace Conference should be guided by the Holy Spirit, so that the peace settled upon will really be the Peace of God, so that all Christian people may serve Him in godly quietness.

On the third Sunday of each month the Eucharist, at 7.30, is offered for these special objects. It is urged especially that the men of the Parish and the members of the families of men in service or who have been in service, be present at this service.

War Relief

The War Relief Unit of the Needlework Guild of Grace Church is going right on with its work and meets every Wednesday afternoon, in the Parish House.

Absorbent pads are still needed in the hospitals of France, and we are asked by "The Little House" to keep on making them. We have plenty of material and sufficient funds; all we need is more workers.

Please come and help.

The Victory Service

Two hundred and twenty women gathered in St. Luke's Church, Germantown, for our Victory Service on Thursday, April 3d. Of course, for such a service of thanksgiving, the church should have overflowed far into the church yard. However, all of our twelve parishes in Germantown and Chestnut Hill, including St. Barnabas' Mission, were represented. Then there were other women of the Convocation of Germantown, especially from Frankford, Holmesburg, Wissinoming and even from Bucks County, St. Luke's, Newtown, and St. Columba's, Southampton.

Truly, it was a joy to come together to "give thanks and sing" and we were drawn into still closer fellowship as we listened to the fine, strong message of the preacher, the Rev. Samuel B. Booth, of St. Mary's Diocesan Church, who had been a Chaplain overseas.

Mr. Booth first called our attention to that wonderful chapter, the 40th of Isaiah, and then spoke from the words in the fifth verse: "And the glory of the Lord shall be revealed and all flesh shall see it together." He said that the glory of the Lord was revealed to the soldiers, and that they had seen it together while continually in the presence of suffering and death. Many of them said that their lives could never again be the same as in the old days in their homes across the sea. They used to live in externals; from henceforth it would be in eternals. They had come back to their real selves. They had rediscovered God. They asked for prayers. They were eager for the Holy Communion. Without thought of class distinctions, creeds or financial status, they were one in a great human and spiritual fellowship.

The call to us is to perpetuate the lessons they have taught us. We must strive to remove the obstacles which militate against the spiritual life, and to enter into all the conditions which help. We must unite in loving, self-sacrificing service for the suffering, the homeless and the outcasts here at our doors. If one man suffers, the other man must care. "Democracy is the fraternity of Christians in that fellowship where we really care for the other person." "The Soul of Democracy is the Heart of Christ." Let not the "glory" be lost, but let it center more and more around the Cross.

This is but a hint—and a poor one at that—at what was so clearly and forcefully impressed upon us by the speaker.

The Presentation Service

The fifteenth annual service of the Woman's Auxiliary, with the Presentation of the United Offering, will be held at St. Stephen's Church, Tenth Street above Chestnut, on Thursday, April 24th, at 10.30 A. M. We look forward to a large attendance because of the central location of the church, so easily accessible by train and trolley.

This is the last diocesan service of presentation before the triennial at Detroit, and, in view of all the events of the past year, it will certainly be one of unusual and wonderful thanksgiving. Do not fail to have a part in it.

The semi-annual in-gathering of our Grace Church United Offering will be made about the middle of April. Contributors will receive notice in due time.

VOLUME XV APRIL 1919 NUMBER 4

The Rector's Letter

My Dear Friends.—Sure enough, I'll keep my promise to be with you for Easter. For see, here I am already at Brest, waiting for a boat to bring me home to America.

One happy day, as I was resting after an exhilarating cross-country ride from the outposts of the Coblenz Bridgehead, an orderly handed me a G. H. Q. order to proceed to Angers, France, for return to the United States. I felt like hugging that orderly and dancing a fox trot then and there, but I restrained my wild impulses, returned his snappy salute and got busy making plans.

It took several days to wind up regimental affairs, get accounts audited, turn over papers and equipment, etc. I waited to read the proof of my "Story of the Sixteenth," being published for the men of the regiment by a Frankfort printer. Finally, a few hasty farewells, and I was off.

Instead of following the beaten path back through Treves, Metz and Bar-le-duc, I decided to return through Belgium. I persuaded the Colonel, who was about to start for Paris, leave to attempt this trip. The Personnel Adjutant joined the party. Without the Colonel's aid I could never have passed the guards of the American area, but he was able to obtain a pass at Army headquarters as we passed through Coblenz. We motored along the Rhine, through Bonn to Cologne. This is the headquarters for the British Army of Occupation, and we were guests of the English Officers' Club. As we could get no assurance of passage through Brussels to Paris, the Colonel and Adjutant decided to take the Paris express through Metz, but I said I'd take a chance in Belgium. So I saw them off, then returned to see a little more of Cologne. The Cathedral is the most beautiful Gothic church I have ever seen; at least, it eclipses all others in my memory at present. I had time to attend Mass here and I enjoyed this little period of recollection.

On the train for Liege I fell in with a Belgian Lieutenant, who was bound for Brussels. As we had the afternoon to spend in Liege, I expressed my desire to visit one of the famous forts, which withstood so bravely the first advance of the Germans in 1914. My friend knew the Adjutant at the Belgian Army Headquarters, and soon we were in an Army car, speeding to Fort Loncin, some ten kilometers distant. A Belgian Commandant, who was one of the original defenders of Liege, went along as our guide.

This fort was one of the last to be silenced. A 16-inch shell had penetrated the magazine and exploded the whole fort. The Belgian General, who was buried in the débris, was rescued and taken prisoner to Germany. It was interesting to recall those first tragic days of Belgium's heroic resistance.

That night we spent in Brussels. I say "we," for, by this time, I had joined company with a Lieutenant of the Rainbow Division, who was bound upon an adventure similar to my own.

When we tried to procure tickets for Paris, we were told everything was booked up for three days to come. We decided to go to Lille, and there catch a Paris train. We managed to get as far as Tournai, hoping there to get an automobile for Lille, but none was to be had. It was evening and storming terrifically. We learned of an empty freight train going to Lille, and, as it was only a distance of 26 kilometers, we jumped aboard. We were a motley crowd; an elderly Belgian gentleman, a Poilu returning to his demolished home in Flanders after four years imprisonment in Germany, a British soldier accompanied by a French sweetheart, a couple of women and we Americans. We had a miserable night of it. The train loafed along, stopping and starting with jolts, which prostrated us in the dark every little while. About 3 o'clock the next morning we came to a standstill a mile outside of Lille. I managed to find an English soldier to carry my bedding roll to the station, and soon we were asleep in a nearby hotel.

The next morning, as I awoke, I heard the tramp of marching men, and I looked out, to see companies of German prisoners, under English guards, going to their work of restoration. Lille was badly shot up. We walked about the city and tried to recall how Lille must have looked in flames.

We were in a position now to appreciate the Paris express, with its restaurant car and comfortable first-class compartments. We passed through most interesting country, scenes of some of the fiercest battles of the past four years. Every few miles we would pass masses of débris, the remains of once flourishing towns. We passed acres of stumps, where formerly had stood proud forests, and miles of barren land, scarred by zig-zag trench lines and shell marks.

In Paris we put up at Hotel du Louvre, now occupied entirely by American officers.

Sunday morning I attended service at the American Church and in the afternoon strolled through the Tuilleries Gardens, Champs Elysees and Louvre Museum.

Later we went to the Luxemburg Gardens and heard "Pershing's Own Band" play, and ended with a visit to Nôtre Dame Cathedral.

My stay in Paris was curtailed by a telegram from a friend who had preceded me to Angers, saying that things were moving rapidly towards ports of embarkation. I made a hurried trip to Nevers to get my baggage and say farewell to friends of former days while I was serving with the engineers of the 19th.

After a short stay of a few hours in Angers I joined a party of 25 casual officers on their way to the States. We are passing through the endless red tape preliminary to sailing. We are in a camp here awaiting orders, which we hope will come in a few days.

Next Wednesday is Ash Wednesday, and before you get this letter it will be mid-Lent. I'm glad I shall be home for Passiontide, for I tell you frankly I am hungry for spiritual food, after much privation.

I hope Mr. Caine is planning to remain in Grace Church, at least for the present. I want to be a listener for awhile. I should like at least a short, spiritual retreat before resuming full pastoral activity.

I expect I shall be in Mount Airy before this letter appears in the PARISH NEWS.

In any case, you have my loving greetings and earnest wishes for a stimulating and helpful Lent and triumphant Eastertide.

Very faithfully yours,
THOMAS S. CLINE.

Notes on the Services and Worship of the Church

In taking up the study of the various Offices in the Book of Common Prayer more in detail, let us begin with the principal service of all—the Lord's Service—the Holy Communion or the Eucharist.

The Service of the Eucharist in our Prayer Book is divided into two parts, as one finds it to be the case in all Liturgies. In the first rubric, at the end of the Communion Office, it is provided that "upon the Sundays and other Holy days (though there be no Sermon or Communion) shall be said all that is appointed at the Communion unto the end of the Gospel, concluding with the Blessing." This rubric in the English Prayer Book would have the Service continue through the Prayer for Christ's Church Militant, and end with one or more Collects and the Blessing. This is popularly, although very inaccurately, known as the "Ante-Communion Service." The proper designation is the Pro-Anaphora, i. e., that part of the Eucharistic Service which precedes the Anaphora (offer up as Sacrifice) or Consecration.

An analysis of the Liturgy will help to make clear these two parts of the service:

I. The Pro-Anaphora.
  1. The Preparation.
    a. The Priest's Preparation, consisting of the Lord's Prayer (said by the Priest alone), and the Collect for Purity.
    b. Penitential Introduction, consisting of the Decalogue or the Summary of the Law, and the Kyrie Eleison (Lord have mercy).
  2. Instruction.
    a. Collect, Epistle and Gospel.
    [b. The Creed—an Act of Faith inserted here.]
    c. The Sermon.
  3. The Offertory.
    a. The Presentation of the Elements.
    b. The Presentation of the Alms.
  [The Prayer for Christ's Church Militant.]

II. The Anaphora.
  [1. The Communicant's Preparation.
    a. The Exhortation.
    b. The Confession.
    c. Absolution.
    d. The Comfortable Words.
    e. The Prayer of Access.]
  2. The Act of Adoration.
    a. Sursum Corda (Lift up your hearts).
    b. The Preface—the Triumphal Hymn.
    c. The Sanctus (Holy, Holy, Holy).
  3. The Canon or Rule.
    a. Prayer of Consecration, consisting of
      The Commemoration of the Redemption.
      The Words of Institution.
      The Oblation.
      The Invocation of the Holy Spirit.
    b. The Offering of the Sacrifice, with Intercessions, and Oblation of ourselves, ending with a Doxology.
  4. The Communion.
    a. Hymn—the Agnus Dei (O Lamb of God).
    b. The Communion of the Priest.
    c. The Communion of the People.
  5. The Thanksgiving.
    [a. The Lord's Prayer.]
    b. Thanksgiving.
    [c. Gloria in Excelsis, or Hymn.]
  6. The Benediction.

The sections in [] are in different places, in the order of the Service in the American and English Prayer Books, from that in any other Liturgy. In the English Liturgy of 1549 (the First Book of Edward), the more primitive and universal order is maintained, thus making a clearer distinction between the two parts of the Service, the Anaphora and the Pro-Anaphora. Furthermore, the two aspects of the Service, i. e., Worship and Communion, are more definitely portrayed by the older order. The Prayer for the Church is generally found just before the Prayer of Consecration, or divided before and after that prayer. The present American and English Books follow the order of the Gallican Liturgies, where the Great Intercession is found after the Offertory.

The section entitled, "The Communicant's Preparation," in the older order, is found after the Canon. In the present English and American Prayer Books, this section has been displaced from its ancient position and further deranged by separating the Prayer of Access from the rest.

This Preparation is taken directly, with but the fewest of changes in wording, from the "Order of Communion" set forth in March, 1548. This new "Order" in English was to be used after the Consecration and the Communion of the Priest in the Latin Service.

The Lord's Prayer, which follows the Communion, is said immediately after the Canon in all other Liturgies. It usually has a preface. That in the present Scottish Liturgy is as follows: "As our Saviour Christ hath commanded and taught us, we are bold to say." In regard to the Lord's Prayer, at the beginning of the Communion Office, it is usually considered that here it is a part of the Priest's private preparation, and so it is to be said by him alone.

In the present English and American use the Gloria in Excelsis is said as an act of praise after the Communion. In the other Liturgies it follows the Kyrie, as the song of the angels announcing our Lord's birth. In this ancient order the Eucharist may be regarded as a sacred drama, the sequence of the various parts suggesting events in the Life and Passion of our Saviour. This idea is carried out in reading the Epistle and Gospel at different ends of the altar, symbolically representing the journeys of our Lord and His trials before Herod and Pilot. The Epistle is read at the south end, because it is a letter to people already Christian. The northern lands in early days were still pagan, and so the Gospel, the declaring of the "Good News," was read towards the north.

Patronize Our Advertisers

It costs you nothing to say, "I saw your advertisement in the GRACE CHURCH PARISH NEWS." This goes further with the tradesman than you think. It also helps financially the work of the PARISH NEWS. Have you read carefully the advertisements this month? Will you not do so, at once, and give your patronage to some of our advertisers?

The Woman's Auxiliary and Guild

Any one who has ever taken part in the preparation of the box that is sent each summer to the lepers in Japan will remember how important it is to have plenty of dolls. Even the men of the colony look eagerly for them, and actually bestow their affection on these inanimate things.

Last year, owing to the scarcity of toys in this country, dolls were hard to obtain, so this time an appeal is being made for used dolls that are in fit condition to have repaired. By doing this it is felt that much better ones will be found than can be bought with the small amount of money that is available for the purpose. It is not too early to ask for these things, because the repairing takes time, and after that they all have to be dressed and made as attractive as possible.

Grace Church has won the reputation of sending the largest and best contributions of any that are received for the lepers, and the credit for this goes to the ladies of the Leamy Home, who have worked so faithfully and well. Miss Miller, of the Leamy Home, will have charge of the work this year, and will be glad to give information regarding it to any one who is willing to help.

Please send the dolls to the Parish House.

The Mission Study class has so far held two sessions and the members find it most interesting, but even though it has started, there is still time for others to join, for, while there is a certain continuity throughout the course, each lesson takes up a whole subject in itself. If there are any women in the parish who would like to become members, they will be heartily welcomed, and they will find their time well spent.

The class meets every Tuesday at 3 o'clock in the Guild Room.

The Honor Roll

Will the relatives of those named in the Honor Roll kindly advise the Editor of this paper of any change of address.

An Easter Song of the Maries

While the Sabbath day was dying,
Knelt the Maries full of woe;
Smitten dumb with hopeless sorrow
(All undreamed the joyful morrow),
Even tears refused to flow.
None can know, none can know,
How their souls were spent with sighing.

When the Sabbath day was dead,
Sullen storm-clouds hid the plain
From the Maries, undiscerning
How the parched earth was burning
While the world lay faint for rain.
O what pain, O what pain,
Bended low each gentle head.

Then spake one, her eyes uplifting,
"Now is all our hope in vain.
They have crucified the Shepherd,
And the sheep, from wolf and leopard
Unprotected, will be slain."
Listen! Rain? Heard you rain?
Desert sands forever drifting.

"Would that our lives had been given!"
Answered Mary Magdalen.
"Ah, what contrite spirit giveth
Jesus life, as Lazarus liveth!"
On the thatch what rustled then?
Now again? and again?
Dead leaves by the tempest driven.

One there was, by silence owning
Deeper grief than others knew:
Evermore the Mother's anguish
Saw her dying Saviour languish.
Felt the spear that pierced Him through,
Pierce her tender bosom, too;
Then was hushed the storm-wind's moaning.

When gray shadows, faintly warning,
Told that day would dawn again,
Rose the Maries, balms preparing,
Spices for His burial bearing
Fairest of the sons of men.
Lightly then, softly then,
Fell the first cool breath of morning.

Weak and weary they came creeping.
Bowed with sorrow toward the ground,
To the tomb of Christ our Master:
Now the tears pour faster and faster
Forth from fevered eyes unbound;
While around, all around,
Heaven itself glad tears is weeping.

O most wonderful in glory
Bursts the sun the bonds of night.
With its bow of promise shining
On the Maries, half divining
Wondrous truth, till angels bright,
Clad in white, clad in light,
Tell the risen Victor's story.

ALLELUIA! ALLELUIA!
Shine, O Sun, Thy heavenly ray!
ALLELUIA! ALLELUIA!
Banish sin, drive death away!
ALLELUIA! ALLELUIA!
JESUS CHRIST is risen today! AMEN.

The Mission Study Class

In introducing the subject of the Mission Study Class for this year it was shown that it follows naturally the one of last year. With the horror of the war in our minds, we prayed then that righteousness would prevail and that the world might be made safe for democracy. That was the war work of the Church, for the war was won by the power of righteousness, which is God, and by prayer and faith.

We prayed for a Christian leader and General Foch was found. General Pershing and our President are Christian men also.

This year reconstruction is foremost in our minds, and we must bestir ourselves to look into the problems in our own country; the immigration question, the Indians, the Negroes, civic and national matters. Can we have a just and true democracy, a Christian democracy, with these problems unsolved or neglected?

Our WATCHWORD for this year is "Service." We were taught the meaning and value of service during the war.

Aim for the course is, to understand the service required of us in establishing a true and just democracy at home.

Motto: "On the King's Service."

The first lesson was on the Church's service to the country, and the Aim: To realize the service the Church has rendered the country in the past and that she alone can render in the present.

The discussion which followed brought out the facts that the message of the Bible is, "The fellowship—the Church," and that the mission of the Church is, "To bring all men into the Church."

The purpose of domestic missions is, "To make good Christian citizens at home"—to extend the fellowship at home.

Papers were read giving interesting accounts of "The Church in the Colonies" and "The Church in the New Nation"—the birth of the latter took place on the 4th of July, 1776.

The subject for meditation was, "Your reasonable service," which, in Rom. 12:1-5, is found to be, "That ye present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God." Nothing less will do; we must offer all we have to give, the work of our hands, the achievements of our minds, our talents, the love of our hearts, all; and as "the eyes of our understanding are enlightened we may know what is" the good and perfect will of God. God's mercies must move us to please Him.

Christ's body, which is the Church, has many members, yet being many are one in Him, and therefore members one of another,—a perfect fellowship.

St. John 12:1-6 shows another phase of the service we can render Christ. It relates the occurrence when Jesus sat at supper with Lazarus. Martha served, but Mary sat at Jesus' feet and anointed them with a very precious ointment. Judas asked why the ointment was not sold and the money given to the poor, but Christ reproved him, saying, "Let her alone. Against the day of my burying hath she kept this." This seems to be a very good foundation for the belief that what we offer to God should be of the best that can be given. It is a reason for having beautiful churches and everything that is lovely in them; for a beautiful service and music, all that will help to make a perfect offering of ourselves and all we have to Him.

Mount Airy Red Cross, No. 8

Following an official order from the Southeast Pennsylvania Chapter of the American Red Cross, Mount Airy Auxiliary No. 8 held its closing meeting and tea on Saturday afternoon, March 29, 1919, at the Red Cross House, Germantown Avenue and Allen Lane.

The Chairman, Mrs. Burrell, announced that this demobilization of the local Auxiliary was no mere whim on part of its Executive Board, but the result of orders to all auxiliaries and branches, the Chapter desiring to close its program on a war basis for reorganization and work on a peace basis. The Chairman and members of the Auxiliary were, therefore, very much surprised at the urgent message of the speaker sent out from the headquarters of the Chapter, who pleaded that so efficient a working auxiliary as No. 8 be not demobilized in the face of the present unrest abroad, the defiant attitude of Germany toward the Peace Terms and the tremendous work ahead of the Red Cross in clothing 300,000,000 destitute people in Europe and Asia.

Mrs. Imogene Oakley, the speaker, painted rapidly and vividly the condition of Siberia, Russia, Poland, Roumania, Serbia, Armenia, Palestine, northern Italy, Belgium and northern France. Had any of the listeners been lulled into a comfortable feeling that suffering, nakedness, starvation and destitution were over, they were awakened and filled with some of the horror of those days when the bloody foot of Germany first trod on the brave, defenseless body of little Belgium.

Speaking for Mount Airy No. 8, Mrs. Burrell assured Mrs. Oakley and the large gathering present that the Auxiliary stood ready to resume and do its duty at any minute.

A brief history of the organization showed a splendid amount of work and money as the result of the two years of its existence. From a neighborhood group of 75, called by Mrs. Samuel D. Matlack, at her home, on March 9, 1917, to its present membership of over 1,500, is a creditable growth in numbers. The total assets during the two years amounted to more than $13,000. Disbursements, nearly $12,000. This does not include the $1,885 spent for the Ambulance presented to University Base Hospital No. 20, the cost of which was raised by an outdoor Bazaar held in June, 1917.

Dances, card parties, golf tournaments and private donations furnished most of the funds.

The work done is tabulated in the following report:

The Rev. Thomas Sparks Cline, rector of Grace Church, where, for a year and a half, the Auxiliary had its Head Work Room, made a short address of appreciation of the work of the Red Cross as he had seen its war service and of its work at home, Mt. Airy No. 8 typifying to him, during his long absence as Army Chaplain, the devotion of American womanhood to a righteous cause. He particularly stressed the community feeling and fellowship that were the outcome of a common cause and unselfish work, expressing the hope that it was a real thing that would remain and be utilized for the community and the nation.

The Executive Board and others among the workers presented to Mrs. Horace H. Burrell a wrist watch, suitably inscribed, as a token of appreciation of her untiring, devoted and efficient services as Chairman during these two years. A testimonial letter, exquisitely bound and engraved and signed by all present, was also given Mrs. Burrell.

Tea and ices were then served, during which time the Auxiliary members congratulated Mr. Cline on his safe return home.

The sympathy of the Auxiliary was expressed for Captain W. B. Fetterman, now convalescing from a long and serious illness at General Hospital No. 9, Lakewood, N. J. Captain Fetterman instructed two First-Aid Classes for Mount Airy No. 8 before going into the service at the entrance of America into the Great War.

The Rummage Sale

This enterprise was a big success from a business point of view, and not only that, it was a demonstration. There was shown among all who had anything to do with it a spirit of helpfulness and good fellowship that lightened labor.

Culled from clothes' presses and corners, from cellars and attics, there was everything to sell from pans to pianos; from spoons to shoes. All contributors were generous, and, while there was not much left after a rush that rocked lower Germantown and kept three police officers on the jump, there is enough, with a few additions, to divide between our City Mission and St. Anna's Home for Elderly Women, for whose benefit a Rummage Sale will soon be held.

On the last day of the sale we were able to sell for a small sum to one of the Directors of the Italian Mission a large box of children's shoes, and to the Boy's Club, on Penn Street, we gave a good billiard outfit that had been sent to us.

The men of the fire house across the way acted as night watchmen and were a help to us in many ways.

After showing a few of us their house, and explaining the working of their wonderful new truck, they admitted that what they wanted more than anything else was records for a Victrola. We promised that Grace Church women would get some for them. Surely we all can spare one or more for these splendid men, whose hours in the fire house seem so long. Bring your records to the Parish House and we will gladly take them to the men.

Mrs. Rebmann and her daughters gave very substantial help to the cause by distributing a thousand circulars.

Our grateful acknowledgments are due the young ladies of Junior Service Corps of the National League for Woman's Service. Their assistance was invaluable, as they were more experienced in sales of this kind than most of us, and they were so willing and capable.

After a "clean sweep" and the key was returned to the office of Mr. Priestman, the agent of the property, and thanks rendered for the free use of the building, the clerk said that her mother used to be a member of Grace Church years ago, and because of that it had been a pleasure to have helped us all she could.

As a result of the sale we have over $700 to our credit, and a promise of another Rummage Sale the year after next. Let us keep this in mind during the seasons of house-cleaning. We found many eager to buy and use things we had forgotten we owned, and will never miss. We are most grateful to all who opened both their hearts and their closets.

The Rector's Letter

My Dear Friends and Parishioners:

I have left Mount Airy to spend the hayfever season in the White Mountain regions of New Hampshire. My family accompany me. For a few Sundays I shall minister again to the people of St. Barnabas' Church, Berlin, where I began my ministry fifteen years ago. It will be pleasant to renew old associations.

During my absence from Grace Church, the Rev. Richard J. Morris, Secretary of the Diocesan Convention, will be in charge of the services. In case Mr. Morris is prevented from officiating himself, the Rev. F. S. Gray, of Pittsburg, will act as substitute. I shall hope to be with you again for the last Sunday in September and the first in October.

The Convention of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew will take me to St. Louis for the second Sunday in October. After that I shall be permanently at my post. I regret these interruptions in our pastoral relationship. It is the pastoral side of Church life which I hope to stress next year.

There are several matters about which every parishioner of Grace Church should be informed. The members of the Congregation are so scattered at present that I thought it wise to send out this news letter:

Our Parish Objective

As a parish we have many things to accomplish during the next year, but one looms up as the major objective. While not neglecting other interests, we are resolved to unite with all our strength on one great central aim—"the establishment of a model Church School attended by both children and adults." Nothing could be more important. Here lies our greatest opportunity. Success here means success indeed!

But in order to insure success we must all make this aim paramount. We have already gone a long way in this direction. It would be hard to find a parallel in parish life. The Vestry, the Council, the Men's Service League, the Woman's Auxiliary and Guild have all taken action adopting this as their paramount aim next year.

At a parents' meeting many homes pledged their backing. Numerous persons, parents and others have signed cards promising to support the Church School program by example and precept.

But until all parishioners, old and young, see the prime importance of the Church School, and make it paramount in their own plans, we shall not be ready to do our best work as a parish.

The Executive Council

The Central body in charge of the Education Work of the parish is the Executive Council. They constitute our parochial Board of Education. As this is a new feature of our parish organization, it may be well to explain briefly about its functions.

In September, 1919, the Rector appointed an Advisory Council consisting of the heads of the various parish organiaztions to consult with him regarding the co-ordination of parish work and the shaping of the future policy.

This Spring the Vestry took action enlarging the powers of this Council and incorporating it as a permanent part of the parish organization. It is now composed of nine members. The following are members ex offico: The Wardens, the heads of the following organizations: The Men's Service League, the Woman's Auxiliary and Guild, the Church School, the Brotherhood of St. Andrew. The three remaining members are annually appointed by the Rector.

This Council, which now becomes an "Executive" Council instead of an "advisory" one as previously, is authorized "to co-ordinate, harmonize and direct the work of the various parish organizations."

This important development of our parish organization is in perfect accord with the action taken by the diocese, first in creating and later in enlarging the powers of the diocesan executive council. A parallel process is going on throughout the National Church.

During the past year our Parish Council has made a careful survey of the parish on the basis of which the future policy of the parish is being worked out. The importance of such a central body is seen when we turn to the matter of Religious Education. The training of the next generation is not a side issue in parish life. It should not be left to a small group of persons who happen to be interested in "Sunday School." It is the principal concern of the whole parish and should be directed by such a central body as the "Rector and Council." Its work calls for the co-ordination of every department of Church life and it should command the best talent and ability the Church affords.

The Church School

To the Parish Council was finally submitted the question as to the Program and Organization of the Church School for next year. They decided to continue the policy of last year in emphasizing importance of Worship in Religious Education and providing for week-day Religious Instruction for children over twelve years of age and for adults.

The Primary and Intermediate Departments (children under 12) will meet Sunday mornings at 9.30. They will adjourn in time to attend a brief Catechising in the Church at 10.30 and then be dismissed.

The Junior, Senior and Adult Departments will meet Saturday evenings at 7.30 and adjourn at 9.

This Saturday evening session will be a prominent feature of the parish life. An attractive and helpful program will be arranged. Parents are requested to reserve Saturday evenings and not to send but to bring their children (over twelve). Adult classes will be provided.

The Saturday evening session will lead up to the Sunday worship.

The whole School will assemble in Church at 10.30 Sunday mornings and after a brief Catechising will remain for the morning worship. (Except the Primary and Intermediate Departments as stated above.)

The sermon will follow the service of the Holy Communion as well as at Morning Prayer. This will afford an opportunity for the young children to be dismissed before the sermon.

The Council has selected a staff of officers and a faculty to carry out this work of Religious Education.

The following are some of the officers who have accepted:

President, Mr. Horace Fortescue
Vice Presidents, Mrs. E. W. Jenkins
Mr. J. W. Bayard
Mr. S. M. Meehan
Dean, Mrs. A. L. E. Crouter
Executive Officer, Mr. Thomas Allsop
General Secretary, Mr. Harry M. Brown
Treasurer, Mr. W. B. Walton
Musical Director, Mrs. T. S. Cline.

Week-Day Religious Instruction

Our motive in providing Week-day Religious Instruction last year, was two-fold. First we wanted to reserve Sunday for worship, and secondly, we wanted to make more room for religious training than the "Sunday School" affords.

This second motive has prompted movements toward Week-day Religious Instruction in all parts of the country. These movements have gained great momentum during the past year. This Fall the public schools of New York City will dismiss the pupils for an hour each week that they may repair to their several religious bodies for instruction. At least one prominent Protestant Communion frankly confessed that it was hopelessly unprepared to meet this great opportunity.

It is hoped that similar action will be taken in Philadelphia in the near future. Meanwhile the Philadelphia Sunday School Association, representing all Non-Roman Communions, is zealously working to prepare for this forward step. They are establishing experiment stations in various parts of the city where week-day instruction will be given. Grace Church is one of these experiment stations.

The evening session has some advantages over the afternoon, chiefly in that it makes it possible for the men of the parish to be identified with the School as officers, teachers and students. It affords more ample time and is conducive to the development of a strong adult department.

Saturday evening has much to commend it. As the ancient Jewish Sabbath began at sundown the evening before, so, our observance of the Lord's Day may well begin with a Preparation Saturday night.

There has been ample time for the work and play of the week. If we are sincerely religious we shall recognize the claim of this period of study and training for spiritual things.

The parish program was not hastily arranged. Now that it has been adopted it is the part of loyalty and wisdom for all church families to conform with hearty good will. Even though it involve inconvenience and self-sacrifice the Church School should be given right of way. The need for more ardent cultivation of the spiritual life is urgent—among grown ups as well as children and youth.

The New Organ

At a recent meeting of the vestry it was voted to place the contract for a new organ with the Skinner Organ Company, of Boston. This action was in accordance with the unanimous recommendation of the Committee after a thorough investigation of the relative merits of the various makes of organs.

The price of the Organ is stated in the contract as sixteen thousand one hundred and twenty-five dollars. The total expense involved in installing the new instrument and making the necessary alterations will approximate twenty thousand dollars. It is hoped the organ will be installed next Summer and be ready for use the first of September, 1921.

The New Hymnals

Through the generosity of a donor whose name has not been announced, four hundred copies of the New Hymnal with music have been purchased and are now ready for use.

Upon the return of the choir in September we shall begin the use of the new hymnals. The music will be a great stimulus to congregational singing. We must have frequent Song Services to familiarize ourselves with the best of the new hymns. Music should be a prominent and attractive feature both of the Saturday night sessions and Sunday services.

Renovations

During the Summer the ceilings and walls of the Parish House rooms have been painted. We trust that the leaks in the roof have been finally stopped. The appearance of these rooms has been improved also by new lighting arrangements. The parish hall has been more adequately lighted for the evening sessions of the Church School.

And now my friends I must close this voluminous letter.

I trust you all have had a pleasant Summer. I look forward with great hopes, as I know you do, to next year's program. May the Holy Spirit guide us and prosper our handiwork.

Very faithfully yours,

THOMAS S. CLINE.

Eleventh Sunday after Trinity, 1920.

Sufficient copies of the Parish News will be provided so that if, for any reason, you do not get one by mail, the ushers at the church will supply it. The mailing list was made out from the parish card index. If you do not receive your paper, perhaps the record of your address is incorrect. In this event send the Editor your address. When removing to a new location, please do not fail to let us know where you are.

Our Opportunity

"The Home and Church must work together to achieve success," our Rector has well said regarding the Church School.

Are we going to do it? I firmly believe we are, because it is the greatest work and most important duty confronting us, and the people of our parish have always done their duty and done it well, when it was clearly pointed out and fully understood.

We have definitely adopted the plan of weekday religious instruction; it is here to stay; it is spreading over the country.

The Executive Council, after most carefully considering the subject, has designated the days and hours of the sessions most favored by our people, so far as their choice was expressed. Let us therefore lay aside our personal preference, if at variance with the selection, and if need be, our individual comfort, and unite collectively and wholeheartedly to make the "Model Church School attended by both children and adults" an unqualified success.

Our support of, and the success of, the movement can be most evidenced and assured by our attendance at the sessions. This is the most far-reaching, the most important, work for our Church and the community that has ever confronted us. Are we ready to do our part?

Very sincerely,

HORACE FORTESCUE,
President, Church School.

The Woman's Auxiliary and Guild

While some of us have been idling through the summer in true vacation spirit, it seems that others have been busy planning for the opening of the year's activity in the Auxiliary, and already a number of important dates have been fixed. Perhaps it will be well to get them in this column and to suggest that a copy of the Parish News be kept for reference. We might also start the season with a determination to attend some of the meetings, at least, and find out what they mean.

Toward the last of September an exhibition of the articles for Miss Riddell's leper hospital in South Japan will be held at the Leamy Home. Miss Miller is in charge of the work and most of it has been done by the ladies of the Home. It is well worth seeing.

Friday, October 1st, at 10 A. M., the Executive Committee Meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary will be held in the Parish House.

Tuesday, October 12th, at 2.30 P. M., the first general or stated meeting will be held in the Parish House. Do try to attend this meeting—everyone. It gives a chance to become acquainted with each other and with the work of the organization, for at that time plans for the fall and winter will be given and discussed, and each one can decide just where she can fit into the program.

Friday, October 15th, at 10 A. M., will be the first of the regular sewing meetings which are held weekly throughout the year. Each year the work of the Auxiliary must increase, but to make that possible, more and more women must be added to the list of sewers. There will be plenty of work, and the meetings will be interesting, so keep Friday mornings for the Auxiliary.

November 5th will be Bishop's Day. The practice of holding Bishop's Day was inaugurated in Grace Church several years ago, and members of the parish look back upon it as one of the happiest, most delightful of occasions. It is a great privilege to hold it here again, and it is not necessary to urge attendance among those who have ever been present at a Bishop's Day meeting. November 5th falls during our Dedication Week festival, and this meeting will add unusual interest to the program.

When the reorganization of the box work of the Auxiliary took place, the plan provided for a headquarters in New York and workrooms in the various dioceses. From these workrooms the parishes obtain cut-out garments to make up for various purposes, the room for this diocese being in Philadelphia. Money must now be found to buy the necessary materials, so, Auxiliary members are requested to sell lead pencils, at ten cents each, to help raise the money. If each parish will agree to take its quota, $5000 will be netted from the sale. At the same time a large bazaar is being planned for the same purpose, to be held in Philadelphia, December 8th, 9th, 10th.

The October number of The Spirit of Missions is not only full of interesting information, but it is also called the United Offering Number, and from every copy sold by people interested in the cause, five cents will go to the United Offering. During Lent of this year the children of our parish sold two hundred copies of The Spirit of Missions. Can the women do as well now? Let us try.

On account of the prevailing conditions last year, the Rug Committee was disappointed in the delivery of many excellent rag rugs, but they are at the Parish House now and Mrs. Pease will gladly show them to anyone who may be interested.

Please note that the day of the Committee Meetings in the Church House has been changed to Wednesday and nearly all are held in the afternoon.

Diocesan Committee—First Wednesday in each month at 10 A. M.

Committee on Colored Work—First Wednesday in each month, at 2.30 P. M.

Domestic Committee—Second Wednesday in each month, at 2.30 P. M.

Foreign Committee—Third Wednesday in each month, at 2.30 P. M.

Indian's Hope Committee—Fourth Wednesday in each month, at 2.30 P. M.

All interested in the Missions of the Church are cordially invited to attend these meetings.

The Woman's Auxiliary, along with other organizations of the parish, has promised to keep the Church School always in mind when making its plans, and to promote and help in the work of the school in every way in its power. The education and training of the children are the most important duties of the Church and every organization in it must give its share of help in such training.

Tuesday, October 26th. The Mount Airy Branch of the Needlework Guild will hold its annual meeting and all members are asked to have their contributions in by that date. Please remember that no one is limited to two garments, four or six or more will be still more acceptable. Let us make an effort to increase our contributions each year. One day of every month is set aside by the Auxiliary to sew for the Needlework Guild.

Patronize Our Advertisers

It costs you nothing to say, "I saw your advertisement in the GRACE CHURCH PARISH NEWS." This goes further with the tradesman than you think. It also helps financially the work of the Parish News. Have you read carefully the advertisements this month? Will you not do so, at once, and give your patronage to some of our advertisers?

Of Human Interest

Do you know the Mygatts? Two Americans: Otis and Elisabeth Mygatt? Their idea is to interest Americans in French people of the same profession ruined by the war.

Scores of American architects, engineers, doctors, lawyers, have undertaken to pay for the education of the children of French architects, engineers, doctors, lawyers killed during the war. A real and enduring friendship between an American family and a French family is established by interchange of letters, photographs, reports, showing the progress of the children, and so forth.

The Mygatts worked on this idea for a long time in France, then they came back to America and settled for the Summer in a town on Long Island. They succeeded in interesting virtually every family in the town in a family of corresponding station in France.

The local butcher was impressed. He sent money to get a pig for the butcher in the French town. Imagine his satisfaction when he received a photograph of the French butcher standing happily beside his new pig and her litter! The other butchers in the Long Island town took notice and actually clubbed together and got the French butcher's house rebuilt and set him up in business again.

This sort of thing spread through the Long Island village, so that it has come about that the French town finds itself adopted by the American village.

If this idea were expanded more and more, and many thousands of foreign and American families knew one another intimately, wouldn't it help a lot about international understandings.

Perhaps we shall have more to say about the Mygatts later on.

The Brotherhood of St. Andrew

In another column the Rector has announced his intention of going to the annual Convention of the Brotherhood of Saint Andrew, to be held in St. Louis October 6 to 10 inclusive. It will be of interest to know that he fills one of the most important parts in the program: The preparation for the great Corporate Communion. Mr. Cline will also deliver an address on week-day religious instruction.

It may not be known to many that this Convention is for all Churchmen. The subjects, while interwoven, cover a variety of topics which cannot fail to be of vital interest to every man.

Any man from Grace Parish wishing to attend this Convention should immediately advise Mr. Meehan and get details. The Convention is equally appealing to boys, for whom there is a separate program.

Subscribe for the Parish News!

There will be a considerable expense involved in publishing the parish paper. Costs of composition and paper have more than doubled of late.

Some of the outlay will be absorbed by receipts from advertising, but liberal and loyal support by subscription is an urgent need so that the paper may not be another burden for the already heavy pack of the Accounting Warden. Will you not help by filling out and forwarding the accompanying slip with your remittance? You are going to get your copy of the Parish News whether you subscribe or not; one is to be sent to you regularly. Therefore shouldn't everybody help pay for it?

Will those who have already subscribed for the Grace Church Bulletin kindly renew by remittance when the full number of issues they paid for are received? That is, the News will fill out for the Bulletin.

The Rector's Letter

My Dear Friends.—How tamely conventional it sounds to say "I am glad to be home." It is like a dream, too good to be true. Against the dark background of devastation, which lingers in my memory, I look with new admiration upon all this loveliness with which we are surrounded. I am charmed with every sight and sound, the wistaria vine, the cardinal's song, the worshippers gathering in God's House, the hymning of the choir.

It has seemed a great privilege to join once more in the worship of Grace Church, first, as a member of the congregation, then within the Chancel, and finally, before the Altar.

I was grateful that my prompt discharge from the National Service enabled me to share with you the devotions of Passiontide and Easter. Did you realize that we had more communicants on Easter Day than ever before?

This is one of many evidences of the healthy state of the parish, which reflects credit upon those men who have so faithfully shepherded you in my absence. From Dr. Gardiner, who preached his last sermon in Grace Church, to Mr. Caine, who so recently left us, they have all left behind grateful memories.

I have today received a letter from Mr. Caine speaking of his temporary work in the Church of the Advent, Boston, and announcing that he has accepted the Rectorship of St. Timothy's Church, Roxborough. We are happy to know that we are to have Mr. Caine for a neighbor, and we hope we shall see him often in Grace Church.

If you should ask me what impresses me most as I return to civilian life again, I should say it is the complexity of peace as compared with war. There, we had one thing to do, and we proceeded in the most direct fashion. Here, we have forty thousand things to do, and some of them we are doing in the most round about way.

I am impressed with the richness of the life which opens up before a citizen of Philadelphia.

Let me illustrate from my own experience. I have been home only a few weeks. I have not tried to plunge into things; quite the reverse. Yet I have been brought into stimulating contact with a number of organizations—each with its own lesson to teach. These include the Mount Airy Red Cross, the Fresh Air School, the Leamy Home, the Pennsylvania Institute for the Deaf, the Presbyterian Men's Bible Class, the Lutheran Theological Seminary, the Germantown Y. M. C. A., the Chestnut Hill Academy and the Philadelphia Cricket Club.

If I include a wider radius and recall the events which have taken me into the city, I must add clergy luncheons at the Church House, the Diocesan Convention of the Church, a College reunion, Philadelphia Orchestra Concerts, great gatherings in the Academy of Music to consider national and international questions, such as the Victory Loan and the League of Nations, and last, but not least, the parade of the Iron Division.

If you will consider a moment the significance of participation in such events—or contact with such organizations as those mentioned above—you will see why the richness and complexity of life here seems, to one fresh from the comparative simplicity of military life, almost bewildering.

And the more one penetrates beneath the surface the more complex things become. Christian civilization is bound to be a complex proposition, but during this period of reconstruction everything is intensified. The air is electric with conflicting political views. The Church is seething with cross currents of thought. The industrial world resounds with volcanic rumblings.

The coming years will put us all to the test—physically, intellectually, morally and spiritually.

The times call for strong and steady character, based upon solid convictions and illuminated faith. Let us seek the hidden sources of power.

Yours faithfully,

THOMAS S. CLINE.

Report of Mission Study Class—1919

One Mission Study Class was held this year, during Lent. There were 26 names on the roll, about 20 of whom may be said to have taken the course. There were never less than 12 present at any one session and the class was keenly alive and did splendid work.

The course was on Christian Citizenship; the textbook, "Our Church and Our Country," by Bishop Burleson. Last year the War and Service were in all hearts and on all lips; this year, Reconstruction and Christian Citizenship.

In Europe, the complicated problems of the Peace Conference seeking justice for even the smallest of the nations; here, under the Stars and Stripes, other problems in justice and training and privilege for the many small nations in our melting pot.

What are we doing to repair our old injustice to that first American, the Indian? What of that childlike race, the Negroes, whose rapid advance in civilization is our care? What are we to do with those splendid, though backward, people, the sturdy mountaineers of the South? How are we to assimilate into our civilization the immense number of Italians, Slavs, Hungarians, Greeks and others who are to be either a future asset or a future poison in our national life? Hawaii, Cuba and the Canal Zone are ours, too, with their problems and responsibilities.

Has the Church an answer? It says: "A Christian citizen is simply a good citizen; one in whom and through whom the Holy Spirit works to the end that streets may be clean, housing conditions decent, vice eradicated, and life and property secure." Here, then, is the Church's work cut out for us—put up to us. The Cross must follow the Flag.

It is dangerous to arouse interest and enthusiasm in a cause and give it no outlet. It is ethically wrong and works harm to the character. The Mission Study Class this year, of its own free will and deep interest, made an offering of $25, sending it to Central America, where we have Church men and women on the plantations, but not one Church or worker. We also agreed to offer every Eucharist for one month with the intention that a priest and other workers give themselves for Central America.

When studying the Indians our hearts went out to our own Deaconess Nuneviller in Alaska, and we sent her two devotional books and agreed to write her a monthly letter, each person present taking one month.

Last year, on request, we held a summer class. Should a sufficient number desire it, the Educational Secretary would be most happy to organize another.

Next year's course will be "The Immigrant" and the task of Americanization.

The Woman's Auxiliary and Guild

The annual meeting of the Auxiliary, which took place on Tuesday, the 13th of May, was a most enjoyable one and quite an innovation in the way of such things. The luncheon, which preceded it, gave an opportunity for a number of the women of the church to meet together in a very sociable way and to enjoy the privilege of hearing Mr. Cline tell of some of the experiences through which he has passed since he sailed for France so many months ago. It seemed almost impossible that one man could find time for all the duties that fall to the lot of an army chaplain, yet, knowing our Rector as we do, we felt confident that he was equal to the task. One hundred women were present at the luncheon and all felt that they had enjoyed an opportunity that the men of the parish will envy them until they have a like experience.

When the business meeting started, the reports, which were short and enlightening, gave a very good idea of the past year's work, and this was especially desirable in view of the fact that many of those present were there for the first time. It is earnestly hoped that sufficient interest was aroused to bring these women back in the fall, ready to take their part in enlarging and pushing forward the work of the organization. If a few can accomplish such good results, what could not be achieved if each woman in the parish should do even a little to help?

The grand total for the Missionary work of the Auxiliary for 1918-1919 is $3,781.15, a gain of $614.97 over that of last year.

When the annual election took place, it was with the deepest regret that we learned of Mrs. George's determination to decline the renomination for President. For five years she has lead the Auxiliary wisely and most successfully, and those who have worked with her will miss her sadly. She promises, however, that her interest will not abate in any way, and she joins us all in a hearty welcome to our new President, Mrs. E. Wheeler Jenkins, who is her able successor, and to whom each member of the Auxiliary will give loyal support.

The other officers were all re-elected and Mrs. W. C. Bakes, as Leader of the Junior Branch, becomes a new member of the Executive Committee.

Rector Makes Citation

At the annual meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary and Guild, the Rector said, if he were a Colonel, and the parish his regiment, he would give Mrs. George a citation. He proceeded to give an appreciation of her services to the parish in the following words:

"Mrs. George has been President of the Woman's Auxiliary and Guild of Grace Church during a period of five years. Her leadership has always been wise, tactful and energetic. Under her guidance the affairs of the Guild have steadily prospered and increased.

"Mrs. George has loved the work of the church and has infused into all the activities undertaken a cheerful optimistic spirit.

"Herself the soul of loyalty, she has won the affection of the women of the parish.

"Although her own inclination would have led her to relinquish the responsibilities of leadership in the Guild two years ago, she generously continued this work during the Rector's absence.

"In spite of her many war activities, Mrs. George's faithfulness to parish interests has been unabated.

"We know her devoted services will ever be at the church's disposal.

"She is the type of woman that makes the great, good work of the church in the world possible." THOMAS S. CLINE, Rector Grace Church.

Diocesan Jubilee

Announcements are out for a Diocesan celebration of the Victory of the Allied Armies in the World War, to be held in the Academy of Music, Philadelphia, June 10th and 11th.

The program includes anthems to be sung by a choir of 1,000 voices, with eminent soloists, accompanied by an orchestra of 100 pieces.

Orators of national fame will speak. Tickets will be distributed pro rata amongst the various parishes.

The Vestry

The Easter elections resulted in the re-election of Messrs. Lansdale, Bayard, Dunn and Fell as vestrymen.

At the annual Vestry meeting Dr. Crouter was reappointed Rector's Warden, Mr. Bayard was re-elected Accounting Warden, and Mr. Dunn, Secretary.

The following standing committees were appointed:

Building and Grounds—Messrs. Landenberger, Fell and Ball.

Finance — Messrs. Bayard, Crouter, Dunn and Fortescue.

Church School—Messrs. Meehan, Crouter and Fortescue.

The resignations of Messrs. Lincoln and McGuire leave two vacancies to be filled in the vestry.

The Rector thanked the Vestry for their generous attitude during the war, mentioning the extension of his leave of absence last June. He commended their wisdom in the choice of priests in temporary charge of the work.

Mr. Cline then spoke in appreciation of the faithful and unselfish ministrations of Mr. Caine.

Mr. Caine responded, expressing his joy in the work of Grace Church. He presented his resignation as Priest-in-Charge, to take effect May 1st. He announced his intention to take up work in the Church of the Advent, Boston.

W.S.S.

The United Offering Service

In spite of the fact that our Presentation Day dawned dark and rainy, the attendance (425) at the service on April 24th was larger than usual. St. Stephen's Church was most attractive with its recent memorial gifts and decorations, the Easter flowers in the chancel and in all the windows lending added beauty and fragrance. The clergy officiating were the Bishop, the Rev. Carl E. Grammer and the Rev. Frederick B. Keable, of St. Stephen's, and the Rev. Albert E. Clay, the rector of the Church of the Redemption, West Philadelphia. Mrs. Keable was delightful at the organ. Dr. Grammer, the rector, in his address, from the words: "And Jesus sat over against the treasury, and beheld how the people cast money into the treasury," made very helpful suggestions and really fine points in regard to giving. The amount of the semi-annual presentation was nearly $9,800, or about $11,000 with the belated offerings. The share of the women of Grace Church was $380.54. There were 125 at the meeting of the Parish Treasurers following the service.

We are now within five months of the triennial presentation at Detroit, to be held in St. Paul's Cathedral, on Thursday, October 9th. The need for a very large offering was never greater, because of the demands for the reconstruction work of the Church in the mission fields. Also the matter of the inadequate salaries received by many of our United Offering workers is coming up for consideration. If our offering shows a large increase over that of 1916 ($353,000), there will be the better chance of favorable action.

The ingathering this fall will be made in September. Please be ready, and will you do your very best? If not at present a contributor, may we have your name now for the list?

Miss Lindley, the General Secretary of the Woman's Auxiliary, writes from New York: "After the great amounts we have all shared in giving to the country for carrying on the war, and the millions given for relief work, it would be too pathetic if, in the first triennial after the war, the thanksgiving united offering of the women of the Church were a little thing! Even $500,000 is a 'little thing' compared with other gifts, and it is a little thing by which to measure gratitude for the return of our men from the battlefields or thankfulness for what they, and those who made the supreme sacrifice, have done for us."

Diocesan Picnic to Valley Forge

Everybody is invited to a Diocesan Picnic at Valley Forge on Wednesday, May 28th. There will be an open-air meeting of the Diocesan Committee and a Service in the beautiful Washington Memorial Chapel. Bishop Rhinelander expects to be present. Free automobiles will take visitors over the battlefield.

Take the 9.38 train from the Reading Terminal to Port Kennedy, which station is only five minutes' walk from the Memorial Chapel. Trains return at 2.46 and 5.38 P. M. Bring box luncheon. Coffee and tea will be provided by the Women's Auxiliary of the parish.

Report of Library Committee

The following volumes have been added to the Woman's Auxiliary Library:

1. Our Church and Our Country—Bishop Burleson.
2. Sacrificial Worship—J. Baring-Gould.
3. The Splendor of God.
4. Catholic Principles—Westcott.
5. Handbook of the Church Mission to the Indians.
6. Plain Words on the Incarnation and the Sacraments—Staley.
7. The Life in Grace—Carey.
8. The Passion of the King—Hughson.

Three of these books are on the subject of missions; two or three are meditations; the rest are doctrinal and are especially recommended to the study of those who are church school teachers.

Summertime gives an opportunity for the study of the Faith by those whose serious responsibility it is to train the children of the parish in their religion.

The Chairman of the Library Committee is very glad to announce a renewed interest in the library and a small circulation, during Lent, of the new volumes. During the summer she will be in the Guild Room to give out books every Sunday morning after the 11 o'clock Service. It is hoped that the reading of at least one volume a month will be the aim of every member of the Women's Auxiliary.

Prayers for Men still in the Service

The men are not home, and we should not cease to pray for them, even if the danger of Hun bullets and gas bombs is over. That more powerful and active adversary still "walketh about, seeking whom he may devour." Men are more likely to yield to temptation when their time is not so fully occupied. They need our prayers, furthermore, for the work which is waiting to be done.

Is it not needful also for us to pray that the members of the Peace Conference should be guided by the Holy Spirit, so that the peace settled upon will really be the Peace of God, so that all Christian people may serve Him in godly quietness.

The Rector's Letter

My Dear Friends:

Holy Church speaks with authority—saying "All persons within this Church shall celebrate and keep the Lord's Day, commonly called Sunday, by regular participation in the public worship of the Church." The voice of the Church is the voice of God.

"All persons" means not only adults, but all Children and youth. It is of vital importance that the children acquire a taste for worship and the habit of Church attendance. Their spiritual destiny is at stake.

We are doing all that lies in our power to emphasize this in Grace Church. We have rearranged our whole program with this in view.

For all boys and girls of proper age to attend public worship, we have provided week day religious instruction in order that they may have Sunday free for worship. The Service itself has been modified so that the younger children may retire before the sermon, and yet miss none of the service, whether it be Morning Prayer or Holy Communion.

If there is anything more we can do—we are eager to do it. No stone must be left unturned.

Now, in view of these facts, what is going to be the response of the boys and girls of the parish? Are you going to come regularly and enter into your great spiritual privileges. What is God's will in the matter? Promise God you will do your duty and then keep your promise.

Fathers and Mothers, so devoted to your children, so ambitious for their future, consider, I beg of you, the importance of this matter. Unless you teach your children loyalty to God and His Church by example and precept you will have to answer for your neglect before the judgment bar of God. Think what it would mean to you, if because of your unfaithfulness to the sacred duties of parenthood your children should suffer eternal loss!

I write these words with the solemn realization that they recoil upon myself insofar as I fail in my pastoral duty to them and to you.

Jesus said "Suffer the little children to come unto me, and forbid them not, for to such belongeth the Kingdom of God."

Again he said, "It were better for one that a millstone were hanged about his neck and he cast into the sea than that he should cause one of these little ones to stumble."

Very Sincerely Yours,
THOMAS S. CLINE.

The Rector's Duty

The Prayer Book states on page 272: "The Minister of every Parish shall diligently, upon Sundays and Holy days or on some other convenient occasions, openly in the Church instruct or examine so many children of his Parish, sent unto him, as he shall think convenient, in some part of this Catechism."

In obedience to this rule of the Church the Rector of Grace Church has appointed 10.30 A. M. every Lord's Day as the time for the children of the Parish to assemble in the Church for Instruction in the Catechism.

The Parents' Duty

On the same page (272) the Prayer Book states: "And all Fathers, Mothers, Masters and Mistresses shall cause their children, servants and apprentices who have not learned their catechism, to come to the Church at the time appointed, and obediently to hear and to be ordered by the Minister, until such time as they have learned all that is here appointed for them to learn."

Are there any parents in the parish who are failing to obey this wholesome and Godly rule of the Church? If so, Why?

Confirmation

The Bishop Suffragan, The Rt. Rev. Thomas J. Garland, D. D., will visit Grace Church to administer the rite of Confirmation on Friday evening, November 12, at seven-thirty o'clock.

It is hoped that there will be a large attendance of our people, and that they will not fail to note the early hour of the service.

The Men's Service League

The regular Stated Meeting of the Men's Service League took place in the Parish House in the evening of October 21, at which time the men of the League undertook to see the new organ installed and paid for. An eloquent address was made by Franklin Spencer Edmonds, Esq., who spoke on the general work of the Church and the necessity of having it properly organized and financed. Co-operation and systematic giving are worth study. A delectable buffet supper was served by the ladies.

Thanksgiving Day

Morning Prayer—9.30.

Holy Communion and Sermon at 10 o'clock.

The offering on Thanksgiving Day will be devoted to The Episcopal Hospital.

The Dedication Festival

As All Saints' Day comes round each Autumn we commemorate the dedication of our parish Church. Our Festival lasts throughout the octave and embraces a number of events. These vary from year to year but through them all runs: First, the note of joyful Thanksgiving to God our Father for the blessings He has granted us through the Church, and second, the note of self-dedication to His service. There are other notes too that go to make up the Chord; the dominant of which is that of our Fellowship in Christ.

Our observances will begin this year with the services of Sunday, October 31, the eve of all Saints. At the Morning Service the Rector will give a resume of the history of the Parish and deliver a pastoral charge to the Congregation.

The Evening Service will be attended by the Parish Organizations, who will be addressed by a Special Preacher.

At the second celebration of the Holy Communion on All Saints' Day, there will be a commemoration of the members of the parish who have departed this life during the year. The evening service that day will take the form of a spiritual preparation for the Corporate Communion of the Parish on Festival Sunday, November 7.

A new feature is announced for Wednesday evening, November third—a general parish dinner at six-thirty o'clock. This will be the great social event of the week.

Friday will be Bishop's Day. Bishop Rhinelander will conduct a Devotional Meeting and Conference not only for the women of our own parish, but for those of the other neighboring parishes of Germantown and Chestnut Hill.

On Festival Sunday, November 7, there will be two celebrations of the Holy Communion at one or the other of which it is hoped that every communicant of the parish will receive the Blessed Sacrament.

The Special Preacher will be the Rev. William E. Gardner, D. D.

The offering at that time will be for the Parish Endowment Fund.

The Evening Service will be a Rally in the interest of the Nation Wide Campaign with special speakers.

Let us ask God most earnestly to make the Dedication Festival a season of great blessed to each and every member of the Congregation.

T. S. C.

The Woman's Auxiliary and Guild

A club is being formed for the older girls and young married women of the parish. From all accounts, it promises to be a very interesting and enjoyable organization and all the older girls, both married and single, are cordially invited to join. The meetings will be held on alternate Monday nights, and anyone who would like further particulars should come November 8, and find out all about it.

November 5th Will be Bishop's Day

We cannot urge too strongly the importance of this meeting. Holy Communion will be celebrated at 10.30 with an address by the Bishop; intercessions at noon, luncheon at 12.45, and a conference in the afternoon at 2. The Bishop will speak on the subject of the Lambeth Conference, and Mrs. Pancoast and Mrs. English will make short addresses. There will also be a question box where we may place inquiries on any subject touching the Church, and the answers will be discussed. This is very interesting and instructive, and it is hoped that everyone will stay for the conference.

The names of the young married women of the parish are on the list of the Entertainment Committee, and we shall need everyone on Bishop's Day to help with the luncheon, so, without further notice, we are asking that they will please report at the Auxiliary Room at twelve o'clock sharp. Plan now to give that day, Friday, November 5, to Grace Church, and to the guests from the other parishes.

The Chairman of the Box Committee has plenty of work for all who will come to the sewing meetings on Fridays. Let us be there early, for the mornings soon pass and there is much to be done.

Have you bought your October Spirit of Missions, and your pencils?

Five cents from the sale of each magazine goes to the United Offering. If you already subscribe for it, buy a copy and give it to someone else.

One pencil for each member of the parish is our quota, and the money goes to buy materials for the Diocesan Supply House.

Rummage Sale

It is not too early to begin saving for the rummage sale which will be held early in the spring. If it is not convenient to keep the articles at home until that time, send them to the Parish House when they are ready and they will be cared for.

Nearly everything is wanted except furniture, which is too costly to haul. If, however, it can be sold from your homes, the money would be most acceptable.

This year the proceeds of the sale will be given to the Organ Fund.

Rag Rugs

A quantity of these is now in hand at the Parish House. Sizes, 24 by 36 inches, 27 by 54 inches, and 30 by 60 inches.

There are also several long strips suitable for kitchen or hall use. The prices are from $1.50 to $10.00.

Mrs. Pease will be glad to show them any Friday morning, or at other times by appointment.

Duplex Envelope System

All members of the Parish are urged to avail themselves of the Duplex Envelope System as a regular method of contributing toward Missions and Church support. For pledge cards and envelopes, please address the Accounting Warden, Mr. J. W. Bayard, 105 East Johnson Street, Germantown.

Both education and money are scarce in the mountains of North Carolina; barter is still a basis of trade.

It is related that a mountain boy down there came to a school one day towing with a rope halter a heifer almost as scrawny as himself.

He pleaded: "Mister, I want to go to school. I ain't got money, but I wonder if you-all will let me l'arn up this cow."

The Way

On Friday night, December 10th, for the first time the Second Gate of The Way was opened and ten men entered upon the Second Stage of the Journey.

The Way is a form of training in the Christian religion. The pilgrimage of The Way is not an outward journey through space but an inward progress of the soul Godward.

The meetings of The Way are held on the Friday before the second Sunday of each month. Its spiritual exercises serve as a preparation for the Men's Corporate Communion which is held at 7.30 on the morning of the Second Sunday of the month.

The First Gate will be opened again Friday evening, January 7th.

The Junior Brotherhood

A group of young men for the "Spread of Christ's Kingdom Among Boys" composed of some of the finest boys in the Parish whose energy and resourcefulness has already become apparent.

Their Christian influence among the younger members of the Parish and the community is enhanced by the fact that each boy is a member of one or more of the various organizations such as: The Church School, The Servers' Guild, The Boy Scouts, etc. This gives unlimited opportunity for service.

The Junior Chapter hopes to accomplish much during the coming year and looks to the older men of the Parish for help and guidance. P. F. C.

The Rector's Letter

Dear Friends and Parishioners:

Right heartily do I wish you, everyone, a New Year of health and happiness.

I have not heard the complete returns of our "Nation-Wide" Canvass yet, but I noted the earnestness of the canvassers, and I am confident of good results.

I have heard the good news regarding the completion of the Parish Improvement Fund and I am very happy about it as I know you all are. It is one more evidence of the generous loyalty of the people of the parish.

I wonder if you realize what a change is taking place in our parish life as a result of our improved organization. The various departments of work are all under the leadership of competent laymen and women. With a keen sense of responsibility and with fine resourcefulness these leaders are directing the parish activities. No longer does the weight of the parochial organizations rest upon the shoulders of the Rector. He can now devote himself to his spiritual duties without anxiety. As a spiritual pastor he is confronted by a wonderful opportunity. That he may have grace to improve this opportunity he asks the continual prayers of the congregation.

Meanwhile the parish work is being more effectively done because a wise division of labor and the spirit of service is leavening the lump. I have attributed this change to our improved organization. Perhaps a more discerning study of the situation would attribute it to a more religious spirit among us.

It was just one year ago, Sunday, January 4, 1920, that we publicly renewed our Baptismal Covenant with God. As the anniversary comes 'round let us recall those vows and personally reaffirm our promise of allegiance to Christ and His Church.

Faithfully yours,
THOMAS S. CLINE.

Epiphany Season

Thursday, January sixth, will be the Feast of the Epiphany or the Manifestation of Christ to the Gentiles.

Morning Prayer will be said in Grace Church at 9, Holy Communion will follow at 9.30.

The Epiphany Season will be short this year there being only two Sundays after Epiphany. The early date of Easter (March 27th) forces Ash Wednesday forward to February 9th. The Feast of St. Paul, "the Epiphany Saint," will come in Pre-Lent, Tuesday, January 25th.

The Rector has announced that during Epiphany Season and Pre-Lent his preaching and teaching will center around the life and work of the great Missionary Apostle, St. Paul.

There will be a Course of Sunday morning sermons on "St. Paul and the Gospel," bringing out the testimony of the Apostle to Christ.

The Sunday evening series will take up the subject "St. Paul and the Church" and will deal with his life work which naturally centers in his famous missionary journeys.

The course with the Saturday Night

Bible Class will be on "The Mind of St. Paul" as revealed in his writings. It will be an intensive study of the second Epistle to the Corinthians.

To a remarkable degree St. Paul had the mind of Christ. Therefore, to study the mind of St. Paul is to study the purpose of God in Christ.

One is reminded of Tennyson's reference to the little flower in the crannied wall which if perfectly known would reveal the mysteries of God and His Creation.

But in the great temple of God, St. Paul is not a mere flower, but one of the greatest stones in the wall. We cannot afford to be ignorant of St. Paul.

Reunion With the Eastern Church

At the recent session of the House of Bishops, a message was presented from Archbishop Alexander of the Russian Church expressing the earnest hope that work for reunion between the Angelican and Eastern Orthodox Communions, so well begun by the conference in Europe, might be furthered in America by fraternal intercourse. He proposed that a day be set aside when the two communions might join together in prayer and public services for the restoration of St. Sophia in Constantinople to the Greek Church, its rightful custodian for the two hundred millions of orthodox Eastern Christians who regard it as the center of oecumenical faith.

The House of Bishops authorized the following reply:

The House of Bishops in Council assembled, gratefully acknowledge the generous greetings of their brethren of the Holy Eastern Orthodox Church through the Russian Archbishop.

We sympathize with the Christians of the East in the tribulations and sorrows through which, in God's Providence, they have been called to pass. May He bring to these stricken lands the blessings of His peace and may He prosper every effort to uplift the Cross of our Saviour Christ. We sympathize with the desire and longing of our Eastern brethren to have restored to them for Christian worship the venerable sanctuary of St. Sophia.

We gladly agree to appoint the first Sunday in the New Year of 1921, January the second, as a day on which we will unite with our brethren in prayer for God's healing grace for His whole Church, and to make such exchange of pulpits as may be practicable, as a sign of Christian comity and as a step to that unity of the Church of God for which we all pray.

Grace, mercy and peace be with you and with all who love the Lord Jesus Christ in sincerity.

Affectionately, your brethren in Christ,

DANIEL S. TUTTLE,

Presiding Bishop.

In accordance with this plan adopted by the Bishops the service in Grace Church Sunday morning, January second, will be devoted to the cause of reunion. The Rt. Rev. Edward M. Parker, D. D., Bishop of New Hampshire, President of the Eastern and Anglican Association, will officiate and preach. The Bishop will be assisted by a Priest of the Eastern Orthodox Church.

The following prayer has been set forth by Presiding Bishop Tuttle for January second:

O Lord, we beseech Thee, let Thy continual pity cleanse and defend Thy Church. Look with Thy most gracious favor upon the Holy Eastern Orthodox Church. And if it be Thy blessed will, incline the hearts of the statesmen who in Thy name have the governance of the nations of the earth, to restore the sanctuary of St. Sophia at Constantinople to the Ecumenical Patriarch, its rightful custodian and Thine be the thanks and praise, and glory forevermore through Jesus Christ Our Lord. Amen.

In Memoriam

Just at dawn on Wednesday, December 15

Theodore Alfred Hallstrom

the sixteen-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred L. Hallstrom, passed to rest in the hospital in New York, where he had been taken for special treatment.

On the following Saturday the funeral service was held in Grace Church. The Scout Troop No. 67, of which he was a member, attended in a body. The choir to which he once belonged sang several hymns.

Theodore was confirmed in Grace Church about a year ago, and was a member of the Junior Chapter of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew. He was honored among his companions as a "good scout." Always feeling a keen sense of responsibility, he was a natural leader upon whom others learned to depend. Full of courtesy and tenderness he won the affection of those about him. Throughout his long and painful illness he showed remarkable courage and thoughfulness for others. He passed through the acid test of suffering with unfaltering trust in Jesus Christ, His Lord and Saviour.

Just at the dawn of the day—and the dawn of his young manhood, Theodore passed from time into Eternity. But we believe that his career, which seems so prematurely ended from our earthly point of view, will be completed in a brighter world. May the memory of his fortitude cheer us in our day of trial.

In 1920 contributions from the Woman's Auxiliary and the Church School of Grace Church, Mount Airy, to the Bishop's Bricks Fund amounted to $74.55.

The Woman's Auxiliary and Guild

Sewing was laid aside during the past two weeks to make way for the numerous activities that center round the Christmas season. Work of other kinds, however, was going on in its place, for a box of gifts was sent to the Naval Hospital, one of clothing to St. Andrew's School, Tennessee, and stockings were filled by children of the Church School for St. John's Settlement House, at Third and Brown streets, Philadelphia. The members of the Girls' Club provided forty pairs of bed socks and a good measure of Christmas cheer at the Home for Consumptives, Chestnut Hill. They also gave a mystery play at the Leamy Home. A word of congratulation is due these girls for the success they have already had in making of the club a live, worth-while organization.

Now that the New Year is upon us we must turn our attention to the piles of garments that are ready to be made up; and it is an excellent time to resolve to attend the Friday meetings more regularly, and to take new sewers with us. The first one will be an all-day meeting on Friday, January 7th, 1921, so bring your lunch and bring your friends and at least make a good start.

On Tuesday, January 11th, the regular stated meeting of the Auxiliary will be held in the Parish House at 2.30 P. M. Every woman in the parish is urged to attend; and chairmen are asked to report the activities of their committees.

We are glad to hear that Mrs. Ralph L. Hayes has accepted the appointment of Educational Secretary, and we are reminded that the mission study classes will soon be forming. Let us bear in mind that there are many in the parish who have never attended these classes, and make every effort to interest them.

Mission Study Class Notes

The Epiphany Normal Mission Study Classes will have their organization sessions on Monday, January 3, at 2.30 P. M., and on Wednesday, January 5 at 10.30 A. M. Leader: Mrs. Pilsbry, Diocesan Educational Secretary. Subject: The Church and Her Task. Text book: "The Survey."

"The study of the Survey is an integral part of the Nation-Wide Campaign, and also a part of the Immediate program of the Church Service League." . . .

"The Church for the first time in history is looking herself in the face, and seeing her task as a whole."

The "Survey" is a vivid presentation of what each diocese and mission needs. It is a real picture—now the picture has become a budget—which means both a responsibility and an opportunity for us. The classes will meet at The Church House, 12th and Walnut Streets.

The New Organ

Some weeks ago the Men's Service League assumed the obligation of raising from $5000 to $6000 required over and above the sum which it is expected will be secured through the efforts of the ladies during the coming months to complete the payment in full for the new organ.

It is a great pleasure to announce, at this time, that through the generosity of a limited number of persons, the entire sum required has been subscribed, and there will be no further appeals for this cause. There are a number of original subscriptions which are not yet paid in full. The Committee in its calculations has, of course, estimated upon the fulfillment of all such pledges. When we hear the organ for the first time next fall (it is to be completed September 1, 1921) the congregation will have the satisfaction of knowing that it is fully paid for.

Church School Service League

The Church School Service League has been doing very definite work throughout all its departments. Each class in the Senior School has adopted the friendship of a boy at the Home for Consumptives, Chestnut Hill and every Saturday night the classes correspond with their respective "God-Children." The birthdays of these boys are observed and on Thanksgiving Day they were remembered with fruit and delicacies. At Christmas the classes purchased special gifts, ranging from picture puzzles to sleds, representing the expressed wish of each boy at the Home. It is impossible to estimate the happiness that has been brought to these lads who are making such a brave fight for health. Sufficient to say that it is the first time in the history of the Home that every boy "resolved not to go home for Christmas," a special privilege that has always been granted, in order to obviate homesickness for those boys who had homes to which they might return.

A class of girls sent Christmas gifts to the young women at the Midnight Mission on East Walnut Lane, an institution that always needs outside help.

The Intermediate Department subscribed an annual membership to the Red Cross and also donated $5 toward the Christmas greens for Grace Church. At Thanksgiving they carried fruit to an invalid in the neighborhood. Some of these little ones made a pilgrimage to the House of Rest, Germantown, prior to Christmas, carrying gifts of fruit and candy to the old ladies. They sang carols at the bedsides of those who were unable to assemble in the sitting room.

The Primary Department made ornaments for the boys' Christmas tree at the Home for Consumptives and stringing pop corn for decoration.

The Church School donated 138 filled Christmas stockings at the Christmas Eve Carol Service, ninety of which were taken to St. John's Settlement House, and forty-eight to the Italian Mission, Kensington.

The Service League voted $10 toward Bishop Rhinelander's Advent Offering. This was in response to an urgent appeal for funds for two struggling parishes in the diocese.

The spirit of helping others is the keynote of the Service League, and it is transmitted by definite action. The League is inclusive not exclusive, and welcomes adults as well as children. If you have not already shared in the happiness of the League work, enroll now and help us execute our plans for the future.

The offering on Thanksgiving Day for the Episcopal Hospital was $315.86.

Announcement

Of the Home Department of Grace Church School

Stimulation of religious training in the home is recognized as one of our most pressing needs.

Too often parents are inclined to transfer their obligation in this direction to the Church, and the Church School, failing to recognize that the foundation of character is laid in the home—and that religious training is the corner-stone of the structure of character.

The Church School cannot reach all the children in the parish. There are children who cannot attend its sessions; there are others who will respond more readily to home instruction than to instruction received elsewhere. There are shut-ins, and adults who are not invalids, who would enjoy, and be benefitted by a systematic course of study on subjects pertaining to the Church and the Scriptures. And there are people outside the Parish who would gladly become members of the Church School, if the work could be handled by correspondence.

Recognizing these conditions, the Executive Council of the Church School has approved a plan for Home Department work, and urges for it, the fullest co-operation of the communicants of Grace Church.

The Home Department is not intended for anyone who can attend the sessions of the Church School. It is intended for everyone else,—young or old.

The work will parallel the work done in the Church School, using the Christian Nurture Courses. Adults will be supplied with advanced Courses, conveniently arranged for spare-moment study.

The plan now being operated was explained to Dr. Gardner who visited us recently, and he stated that, to the best of his knowledge, it was the first organized plan of the kind to be put in operation in our Church, with the single exception of a Course used in Canada. His enthusiasm for the plan was most encouraging.

Now that the Home Department is organized, and has already enrolled a number of pupils, it is desired to extend its usefulness as rapidly as possible. Readers of the Parish News are requested to co-operate by sending the names of prospective pupils. To make this easy, a Coupon is appended. Write plainly, the name of the prospective pupil, address, and age, so the proper Course may be presented. Add your name, showing the source of the information. Mail the Coupon to the Principal of the Home Department, John W. Irwin, 5253 Germantown Avenue. If you can send a list of names, instead of just one, so much the better—but be sure to send one, at least.

ST. ANDREW'S SCHOOL
St. Andrew's P. O., Tenn.
December 17, 1920.

The Rev. Thos. S. Cline,
Grace Church Rectory,
Mt. Airy, Philadelphia.

My dear Father:

It is with the greatest pleasure that I acknowledge the receipt of the fine box Grace Church sent to Saint Andrew's, for our mountain boys. Its contents are most acceptable, and I would ask you to convey to your parishioners our most sincere thanks for their kindness.

One can feel the excitement in the air at Saint Andrew's. Christmas boxes are coming in, and the boys are rehearsing their carols and Christmas music. They are looking forward eagerly to the approaching festival; to the beautiful midnight service on Christmas Eve; many of them to making their communions early the next morning. Then, after the distribution of gifts, most of them will leave for their homes for vacation.

Some kind friends are sending contributions for our Christmas dinner. On that day we invite practically the whole neighborhood to the school. With the boys away, we have room in our dining room for something better than hundred guests. If the weather is stormy, not many people come, but I have seen the time when there was no room to spare. We are trying to buy a couple of turkeys for the feast, and of course we will have quantities of chickens as well. I am sure the people appreciate this very much, because we are able to supply them with more things, and better things, than they could possibly have at home.

With best Christmas wishes from all at Saint Andrew's, I remain,

Very sincerely yours,
R. E. CAMPBELL, O. H. C.

The Rector's Letter

Dear Friends and Parishioners:

May I commend to the thoughtful attention of all Grace Church people the editorial entitled "A Pastoral Lent" in the February issue of the diocesan Church News.

It sets before us the ideal of pastor and people drawing into closer Christian fellowship with each other and with God. If we can accomplish this our Lent will prove a time of spiritual growth to the parish.

On my part I am eager to know you all better—I have declined outside engagements in order to reserve a maximum of time for purely pastoral work. I hope to have a personal talk with every Communicant during Lent. So far as time permits I shall call upon you in your homes.

But we should meet frequently at the Church. There will be daily services and after each service opportunity for personal talks about spiritual things.

In addition to this I shall be glad to make appointments. Wednesday evenings will be reserved for these pastoral interviews. Every one should feel free to come to the rectory at any time, especially on Wednesday nights.

Remember your pastor is among you as the representative of Jesus Christ, and he ministers to you not in his own strength but in the strength of the present and potent Lord.

God intends that Christ should speak to you through His minister. While fully conscious of human weakness we should not forget the ministration of the spirit which gives power and grace. Every communicant should know his pastor "after the spirit." As St. Paul tells us in II Cor. 5: "All things are of God who hath reconciled us to Himself by Jesus Christ, and hath given to us the ministry of reconciliation: To wit that God was in Christ reconciling the world unto Himself, not reckoning their trespasses unto them; and hath committed unto us the word of reconciliation. Now then we are ambassadors for Christ, as though God did beseech you by us; we pray you in Christ's stead, be ye reconciled to God."

During this season of Lent let us then work together, using every means of grace that we may grow in grace, and in the knowledge of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ.

Faithfully your pastor,
THOMAS S. CLINE.

Candlemas

The Feast of the Purification of St. Mary the Virgin, Wednesday, February 2nd, will be observed according to the traditions of the parish by a Service of Lights at four o'clock.

All parishioners are invited to attend. The members of the Church School are specially invited. There will be a celebration of the Holy Communion at 7.30.

Social Service

The Social Service Committee wishes to most heartily thank all those who so generously gave baskets of good things at Thanksgiving and Christmas.

Church Seating

One ancient custom of the Church should by all means be maintained—namely the custom of assembling all members of the family in one pew together for divine worship.

If the change from the pew rental system to the free church system should scatter families to the four corners of the Church on Sunday mornings it would be a great disaster.

May we strongly urge all families of Grace Church to sit together. Members of the Church School are always instructed to sit with their parents at the 11 o'clock service.

In case their parents are absent they are instructed to sit with teachers or other adults.

Boys and girls are requested not to sit by themselves or in groups in the rear of the Church. There is a temptation under such conditions to grow inattentive and restless.

There are a number of very desirable pews in the front part of the Church which have remained empty of late. Families and individuals who have fallen into the habit of sitting in the remote corners of the Church are requested to fill these pews every Sunday morning in the future.

Rummage Sale

The time of the rummage sale has been set for Wednesday and Thursday of the second week in March, so we must really begin now to gather up our donations. Wherever it is possible, please send the articles to the parish house, as it will save many trips at the time of the sale. Anything except furniture can be used, but if anyone has furniture to give, will she please sell it at her home and give the proseeds to the sale? This method saves all expense of hauling.

The Woman's Auxiliary and Guild

As there are a great many women in the parish who do not attend the meetings of the Auxiliary, it may be well, from time to time, to print the list of annual pledges that have to be fulfilled—voluntary pledges for work that is being carried on in the various mission fields. Perhaps if we read them over thoughfully some of us may be interested, first, in hearing more about them, and later in helping a little toward making up the needed amounts.

In the domestic field there are: (1) a pledge of $30 annually to help pay the salary of one of the Missionary Bishops; and (2) a pledge for $50 a year to St. Augustine's School for the Colored at Raleigh, North Carolina.

In the diocesan field: (1) an annual pledge of $5 to the Church Training and Deaconess House; (2) $5 to the House of Rest, Germantown; (3) $10 to St. Barnabas, Germantown; (4) $10 for the use of the Educational Room at the Church House, Philadelphia; (5) $25 for the Episcopal Hospital; (6) $50 for the rural work at Newtown, formerly under the Rev. William Emhardt. All these sums have been promised and must be made up, year after year. Could we not all help with them, even if ever so little?

Mission study classes are now forming and work will start very soon. If you have never attended a class, try it this year, and give your name at once to the Educational Secretary, Mrs. Ralph L. Hayes, 7439 Devon Street.

Miss Riddell, who has been in charge of the Hospital of the Resurrection at Kumamoto, Japan, will be in the city in February, and it is hoped that she will find time to come to Mount Airy and tell us of her work among the lepers.

Once more you are reminded that there is a great quantity of sewing to be completed by the first of May and help is needed to accomplish it. Meetings are held every Friday morning from 10 to 1.30 o'clock except on the first Friday of the month when the hours are 10 to 4. During Lent all-day meetings are held each week, when tea and coffee are provided for those who bring a lunch.

Anyone willing to do knitting for the Auxiliary will please apply for material to Mrs. C. W. Stewart, Pelham Court, chairman of the wool committee.

A Musical Treat

A very delightful and interesting concert has been arranged by the well-known English pianist, Mrs. Gertrude Foster Wilde, to take place on Monday evening, February 7th, at 8.15 in the Parish House.

The program includes:

Mrs. Gertrude Foster Wilde, pianist.

Miss Beatrice Margaret Foster, elocutionist.

Mrs. Marion Posey Craig, vocalist.

Mr. Mahlon Yardley, accompanist.

Mrs. Wilde is very much interested in the success of the organ fund and is giving the concert to help complete the amount needed. The subscription is $1.00 and it is hoped that the room will be filled to its capacity. Such an event as this will attract the interest of our whole community, so we must lose no opportunity to speak of it to our neighbors and friends.

Subscriptions should be sent to Mrs. William H. George, Pelham Court, Mount Airy.

Parish Finances

At a stated meeting of the Vestry held on January 6th, it was, on motion duly seconded,

RESOLVED, that the Vestry publicly, through the Parish News, express its gratefulness for the generosity shown by the people of the parish, individually and through the several organizations of the Church, in so promptly meeting the requirements of the parish budget, the subscriptions made during the Nation-Wide Campaign, the completion of the Parish Improvement Fund (exclusive of an amount which the ladies have undertaken to raise), and in increased contributions generally to the parish and to missions.

There will be a Special Service for the boys and girls of the parish, Monday afternoons at 4.30 during Lent.

The Convocation of Germantown

The January meeting of the Convocation of Germantown was held on Tuesday the eighteenth, at St. Paul's Church, Chestnut Hill. It was a great privilege to have the Rt. Rev. Henry St. George Tucker, D. D., of the Missionary District of Kyoto, Japan, as the celebrant and the preacher at the morning service. Bishop Tucker said that "Japan may be called a country in search of a religion." The Japanese have discovered that neither their old religion nor the various new religions which have been springing up in the empire, can furnish a spiritual basis for moral life. They must have something which shall be sufficient to mould the life of the youth of the country for the years to come. Therefore they are reaching out to "the stimulating power of Christianity." Shall it be sufficient, or shall it fail? They see, in the so-called Christianity of the West, the lust of power and the lust of wealth; which does not seem to them in conformity with the teaching of our Bible. What wonder that they ask: "Is not Christianity a failure in America and Europe?"

The Bishop spoke of two ways in which the Church of the West had made progress in Japan. First, we have demonstrated the practical results of Christianity by establishing schools, hospitals, etc. This has made such an impression upon the people of Japan, that they are following our example. Secondly, we have created a Japanese Church with its own leaders. This Church desires to be self-supporting, and many of the parishes are already independent of outside aid, but final success requires that, for some years to come, we give our co-operation along educational, philanthropic and evangelistic lines. The ratio is only one Christian to 200 of the population. The little Native Church is facing a great people, and it is not strong enough alone to win them for Christ. Especially does the Japanese Church need the co-operation which comes from our Christian example. Bishop Tucker closed with a strong appeal for individual missionary work. He said that the Japanese were looking to America more than to any other country, and that what they see here will determine whether Japan is to be a Christian nation. Therefore there is a tremendous responsibility resting upon us. Whenever we are brought into contact with a Japanese, let him see in us that which will inspire him. It must be real spiritual power.

The meeting of the Woman's Aid to the Convocation followed the luncheon. Our Bishop was present and after the creed and prayer, he spoke of the Cathedral League, expressing much appreciation of the interest and co-operation of the women of this Convocation "more than of any other." He said: "People call me visionary!" "I do not expect to see the Cathedral in my life-time, but we owe it to future generations." The Bishop gave this solemn warning: "The drift of our times is anti-Christian. There is grave danger that Christendom will wake up some day and find itself unchristian." We must do everything possible, in our day and generation, to prevent this catastrophe. The one need presented by the Bishop was that of the restoration of the the abandoned rectory of St. Andrew's Church, Yardley, that it may be in good condition for the Rev. and Mrs. Meryweather, and become the dominating influence in that community. At present the house is rented and will not be available until April first, when the Bishop hopes to have $500 in hand for immediate use. The people of the parish will give $500, and the Advancement Society has promised the last $1,000.

Eollowing the Bishop, the Rev. Samuel B. Booth, in charge of the Associate Mission at Wrightstown, Bucks County, gave a most interesting talk. Wrightstown is about three and one half miles from Newtown. This Mission property consists of a farm of 137 acres. The house has 20 rooms. The barn might be converted into a chapel, which is a real need, and it would accomodate from 75 to 100 people. The mission is intended as a center where men, particularly young men, may come together in retreats and conferences. It is a place in which to train laymen—a place where there may be "a reconstruction of one's whole attitude towards life." Already there have been two retreats,—one for clergy and laymen, conducted by the Bishop, and one for the women of Bucks County, who were invited for twenty-four hours. In the life of the missions there have been some most gratifying results from the woman's retreat. There are eight or ten missions under the conduct of the three residents at the Associate Mission, who also work the farm. Mr. Booth presented, as the greatest need, that of converting the old barn into a chapel. From $1,000 to $1,500 would be required to accomplish this. About $300 are already in hand.

Visitors to the Associate Mission will receive a hearty welcome, and will be met at any time at the Newtown station.

Lectures on Personal Religion

Mrs. Ethel Patterson, of Los Angeles, who spent several weeks in Philadelphia conducting classes in various parishes on Personal Religion, gave three evening lectures in Grace Church Parish House, January 10, 11 and 12. Mrs. Patterson's theme was "The Practice of the Presence of God." She drew upon the classical Christian Mystics as her chief sources. Her talks upon the power of the Sacraments were especially illuminating.

Missionary Educational Notes

The afternoon Mission Study Class for Grace Church Parish will hold its organization meeting (D. V.) on Friday, February 11, at 3.15 o'clock.

Leader: the Parish Educational Secretary. The class will meet on subsequent Friday afternoons throughout Lent at the same hour. A representative number are already registered; more are wanted.

A class for girls is being formed for Monday nights at 8 o'clock at the parish house, under the leadership of Miss Margaretta Bayard.

The Textbook this year is "The Survey." The subject is, "The Church and Her Task." The aim, "To see the Task and realize the need of Grace."

That is what the campaign for the nation means. These headings dovetail together,—seeing, realizing and doing, by God's help.

The task is tremendous,—some see it and realize it. A lot won't even look at it,—the usual number are seeing it and turning away. A busy minority are having a satisfactory time "conscientiously objecting" and finding fault, all of which hinders advancement. Of course, mistakes will be made, and have been made,—nobody denies that, but this is not the time for carping criticism,—it is the time for cheerful self-sacrifice and the recognition of authority, for the Church has made the venture at last,—has faced her weakness and realized that her code of honor was low,—that ignorance has been responsible for much that was wrong. She is making a mighty, earnest struggle to throw off her lethargy and indifference and seize this opportunity. Already, the Governing Council reports the most wonderful record the American Church has ever made.

Come to the classes in Lent and "both hear and ask questions."

Special Lenten Emphasis on Church Attendance

How easy it is to miss attending a Sunday morning service for some plausible reason, and then unexpectedly, perhaps, or through sheer disinclination to go out, to fail the evening service. And so one Lord's Day after another for some of us frequently passes without the helpful and necessary act of public worship, and without the sustaining help of the Great Sacrament.

If statistics might be presented it would be astounding to learn how many thus neglect this necessary part of their religious life, and that in many cases there is flagrant repetition.

During the six weeks of this coming Lent it is purposed to emphasize the great importance of regular Church attendance on the part of every person.

The slogan will be "Every Christian in Church at least once on the Lord's Day."

As many persons who have not been very regular may find it really difficult to get to a morning service, the appeal will be made for the evening service.

A united effort will be organized in order to drive the point home.

A goal has been set up to which we will work, so that on the last Sunday night in Lent, March 20, by gradual impetus, the attendance shall reach 250 persons.

This is to be attained by passing the call from one to another. The various organizations will begin the effort, and the movement will spread out till all are reached. Cards will be used to identify those taking part, and as individual reminders.

Though it has been designated a "campaign," it is just a whole-hearted earnest desire to bring every one of us face to face with the fact that however broad may be our views on the subject of Sunday observance, one great obligation remains ever firmly fixed, namely to assemble together at least once on every Lord's Day for worship and to receive the Bread of Life at appropriate times.

Will you who read this, without waiting for further approach, arrange to attend each of the six Sunday evening services in Lent and on the last of these at least to bring another with you?

The Prayer Book Society

A branch of the Female Protestant Episcopal Prayer Book Society of Pennsylvania has been formed in this parish. Its work is in the free distribution of Prayer Books and Hymnals to Parishes and Missions who cannot afford to buy their own. Contributions for this cause may be sent to Mrs. H. S. Lowber, Vernon Road, Stenton, Philadelphia.

Mrs. Pilsbry will hold a diocesan class at St. Luke's Germantown, on Monday evenings during Lent, beginning February 7. All will be cordially welcomed.

On Thursday, January 27, at 8 P. M., Bishop Rhinelander is coming to St. Paul's, Chestnut Hill, to preside at a Round Table Conference especially for boys. This will surely be a great opportunity and pleasure.

Diocesan Educational Day is past, and for the first time was conducted without Mrs. Pilsbry. It is satisfying to note Bishop Rhinelander's tribute to the Diocesan Secretary: "She unswervingly upholds the Standard of the Faith,—the Fellowship of the Cross,—the teaching of the truth of the Gospel of Christ."

The members of the Men's Service League enjoyed an evening of Bowling at the Germantown Cricket Club one night last month.

Their stated meetings come the last Monday of each month.

The Parish News does not write itself; a faithful few; a very few, send "copy." Please; heads of departments, committeemen, subscribers, anybody; don't resist the impulse to send in a bit of news, the record of an interesting event, a human interest story.

All material should be in the hands of the Editor by the 20th, for the next month's paper. Mss. written on one side of the sheet, not containing the phrase "acid test," the words "his or her," or "pessimism," will be given a measure of preference.

The Publicity Department is insatiable as to news. Everybody is invited to cultivate the reportorial habit. Some matters can be used in the Parish News; while others may serve as interesting items for the local press or the Diocesan paper.

Church School Notes

The mid-year tests in the Church School will be held Saturday evening, January 29th. A full attendance is specially desirable that night.

Mr. Harry M. Brown, General Secretary of the Church School, has prepared a large chart showing the curve of attendance at the various sessions of the Church School throughout the year. We regret to say it shows the proverbial after Christmas slump. This does not speak well for the spirit of the scholars. Every effort should be made to keep the standard high throughout the year.

The Boy Scouts

Troop No. 67, Boy Scouts of America, is flourishing under the leadership of the new Scoutmaster, Mr. John Williams. Mr. H. Edw. Jefferson, who like Mr. Williams, was a charter member of the Troop, has been assisting the Scoutmaster in the work. The boys enjoyed a hike to Militia Hill last Saturday. Many are rapidly progressing in scouting.

At a recent meeting William Frank Wagner, Jr., was elected scribe, and Frank Butterworth, Senior Patrol Leader.

Patronize Our Advertisers

It costs you nothing to say, "I saw your advertisement in the GRACE CHURCH PARISH NEWS." This goes further with the tradesman than you think. It also helps financially the work of the Parish News. Have you read carefully the advertisements this month? Will you not do so, at once, and give your patronage to some of our advertisers?

The Rector's Letter

My dear Friends:

As the noon hour brings respite to the laborers, and they gather in the cool shade for their mid-day repast, so in mid-Lent comes Refreshment Sunday to cheer us as we bear the burden and heat of the day.

I think it must have given our Lord peculiar pleasure to break bread with so great a multitude. Ordinarily He shared His meals with a select few,—His disciples.

In most of his ministrations the minister of Christ shares the bread of heaven with the inner circle of the faithful. Occasionally, as at Easter, the multitudes gather on the mountain side. There is enough for all. But the need for divine strength is not occasional. It is constant. How much stronger the Church would be if her teaching and sacramental grace could be distributed regularly to the whole membership according to their needs!

The increased attendance at the Sunday night services during Lent has been inspiring especially because we see many new faces.

The Holy Spirit is at work among us. This response to the invitation to the Evening Services is one of several evidences of this fact. I have felt it in my own heart in the deepening of pastoral love. A number of Communicants with whom I have talked recently have given expression to growing hunger for spiritual things.

On the other hand, I have been saddened to see an apparent disregard for Lent on the part of many of our young people. There seems to be among them no diminution of worldly pleasures nor increase of faithful attendance upon the sessions of the Church School or the Church Services. Does this indicate a disregard for the wise and loving authority of Mother Church? Have the youth no sense of need of discipline or self-denial? Can it be a lack of sympathy with our Lord?

We should all feel more strongly the force of this last motive for keeping Lent as we come to Passiontide. While all Christendom commemorates the anniversary of Jesus' suffering shall we go gaily on—regardless?

"Still He calls in cares and pleasures
'That we love Him more than these'."

The period between this and the next issue of the Parish News is the richest in spiritual opportunity of the whole Christian year.

Everything depends upon the spirit in which we enter into it.

If we come in a sincere, obedient and loving spirit I am confident God will abundantly bless us and bring us to a joyous and triumphant Easter.

Faithfully yours,
THOMAS S. CLINE.

The Rev. M. Y. Chu, a Chinese clergyman, addressed the Saturday evening Bible Class recently telling of the famine conditions in China.

The Woman's Auxiliary and Guild

The concert given recently under the direction of Mrs. Wilde was attended by a large number of people in the parish and in the community and a very interesting program was enthusiastically received. Our thanks and sincere appreciation are due Mrs. Wilde and her associates for an enjoyable evening, and a substantial addition to the Organ Fund. The receipts from the concert amounted to $250.

Does everyone know that all-day meetings are being held each Friday during Lent, so that extra time may be given to the sewing? There is a great deal to be accomplished, and it would seem that, with the lessening of social activities, our women should find it possible to help more with this work. All are cordially invited to take part. Bring your lunch and stay as long as you can.

The Mission Study Classes have started also, and are held at 3.15 on Fridays, fitting in very nicely with the Auxiliary work. The subject this year is "The Survey," and it gives such a clear picture of what the Church is doing in the various mission fields, that no woman should miss the opportunity to be informed about it.

Very few people, perhaps, know the difficulties that are encountered in keeping a parish list up-to-date. The only way it can be done is for each person in the parish to make him- or herself a committee of one to report to the rector any changes of address, new people moving in, births, illness and deaths, that may come under his or her notice. This is valuable information for those who are constantly using the list and it is difficult to secure, unless all of us remember to help. Please bear this in mind.

Most of us have heard all about the famine in northern China; of the failure of three successive crops, due to drought lasting a year and a half; of the fact that 45,000,000 people are directly affected by it and that 15,000,000 of them are in a starving condition; of the way the women are throwing their babies into the rivers rather than see them starve to death; and of the fact that soy beans and rice are available in Manchuria and southern China, if money is found to buy them. China is looking to America for help, and the sympathy of the people all over our country is aroused. Our plan made for raising money is by the sale of stamps similar to the Christmas seals for the cure of tuberculosis, and the Foreign Committee of the Woman's Auxiliary have undertaken to sell 100,000 of these stamps. Of course they are looking to the various parishes to help, and we, of Grace Church, have agreed to sell 500. The stamps are 3 cents a piece and the price of one stamp will keep a person alive for one day; $5 will keep one person alive until the spring harvest is gathered. Anyone wishing to buy stamps please apply to Mrs. William C. Burk, Mrs. Harry F. Rebmann, Mrs. H. P. Rust or Miss Meta Bayard.

Those who have shared in preparing the boxes for the lepers of Kumamoto, Japan, were delighted to meet Miss Riddell on Saturday afternoon, February 19th, at the Leamy Home.

Miss Riddell is a cultured and charming English woman who, for many year, has been in charge of the Hospital of the Resurrection of Hope at Kumamoto, where she cares for both body and soul of these sorely afflicted people. She told a most heart-rending and magic story of the life they lead.

The word for leper, in Japanese, means "cursed of the gods," and so, they are shunned by all their countrymen, even the merchants not being allowed to sell them food and clothing. Aside from this, the disease itself is one that takes years to run its course, at first with little pain, as one after another the members become numb and useless—the feet and hands, the ears, eyes, throat and so on—and later on slowly disintegrate. Toward the end the suffering is intense and the care and attention at the hospital do much to alleviate it. Not the least of the benefits to Miss Riddell's patients are the love and kindness poured upon them and the fine Christian influences around them. At one time she was able to keep the running expenses down to $10 a day, but under present conditions it requires about twice that sum. She is undertaking, during her stay in the United States, to obtain a sufficient number of gifts, of $250 each, to yield the amount necessary for the running expenses. She asked, not only our money, but our separate and united prayers for the success of her endeavor.

St. Luke's Hospital, Tokyo

At a meeting of the Executive Council of the Parish, the plan to raise $1000 to endow a bed in St. Luke's Hospital, Tokyo, was approved. We have a year in which to accomplish this, and there will be no personal solicitation of funds for the purpose.

Candidates for the Ministry

The Brotherhood of Saint Andrew is devoting special attention to the subject of the increase in the number of candidates for the Sacred Ministery.

On Washington's Birthday, in conjunction with the Church Club, a meeting was held in the Church House attended by representatives from all the parishes of the Diocese. The subject was forcefully presented to the young men present, and opportunity given for those who manifested interest to go into the matter more deeply.

The Grace of God is certainly upon the parish that year by year has some sons to give to the highest of all callings. Will Grace Church respond this year?

In Memoriam

On the eve of her nineteenth birthday, Pauline de Moll died suddenly as a result of burns. All hearts go out in deepest sympathy for her family. Her loss has been mourned throughout the Parish where she had many friends.

One of the early memories of my life at Grace Church was that of a fair-haired girl leading to Church Sunday mornings her little brother. Her eyes sparkled with unusual luster as though to compensate for her brother whose sight was darkened. In due time she was confirmed and became a devout communicant of the Church and an ardent lover of our Lord.

During my absence in France I had some beautiful letters from her. Not long before her death Pauline came to her pastor to make preparations for her communion. Early one Sunday morning she came to the Blessed Sacrament. I felt that the service meant a great deal to her that day but I did not realize, nor did she that it was her spiritual preparation to meet her Lord face to face. T. S. C.

HENRY L. BUTLER

Mr. Henry L. Butler, for many years a member of this Parish, entered, on February 14, 1921, into the rest that remaineth for the children of God. For over twenty years a member of the Vestry, and, as long as he was able, an active worker in the Sunday School, he gave his Master faithful and efficient service in everything he undertook. His cheerful and courageous spirit shone through the blindness and afflictions of his last years, making a visit to him an inspiration to a higher standard of thought and life.

We rejoice that we have had the blessing of such an example of Christian living among us; and have the deepest sympathy for those most near and dear to him in their loss.

A Discovery

Some of us have discovered for the first time how helpful and interesting a Sunday evening service can be. It is not to be inferred that sometimes such services are uninteresting, but if they are, it is because of the lack of contributing influences for which we ourselves are responsible.

For some weeks preceding Lent a large number of persons were quietly but earnestly urging upon others that the six Sunday evening services during Lent offered a splendid opportunity for a natural increase in Lenten devotions. The response was fine.

The congregation on the first Sunday was more than doubled. But that was not all. The spirit of devotion obviously increased; the choir sung with greater fervor, rendering an anthem that was particularly uplifting in its beauty; the preacher could not but gain inspiration from a well-filled Church, and delivered a most helpful and appropriate sermon. Not the least factor in making every one glad he had gone, were two musical numbers rendered on the 'cello at the close of the service by Mrs. Philip F. Coleman.

Many of us are careful to begin the Lord's Day right by attendance upon a morning service; we may do equally well by closing it with public devotions. What not to do on Sunday provokes controversy; how much better it is to do the thing which is obviously right and helpful. Go to Church every Sunday night in Lent at least.

Will you, Reader, if not already so doing, spread the good news of our evening services? Make it a point to bring some one or more persons with you. Then let us on the last Sunday evening in Lent emphasize our appreciation by the largest attendance of the season.

In the receipts for Parish Support are included special gifts amounting to $975, from four or five men, mostly made in December to prevent a deficit. Both these gifts and the balance on hand January 1st were needed for this purpose. The current expenses exceeded the current ordinary income by $1,232.09. While our pledges for this year were increased by the canvass in December last, the increase is not sufficient to cover the amount we went behind in our pledged giving last year.

Missions

The following data is supplied by Mr. Reynolds D. Brown, Executive Secretary of the Diocese of Pennsylvania.

The total missionary offerings in 1919 (not including "specials") was $1,411,-971.69. The total missionary offerings for 1920 (not including "specials") was $3,013,916.68—an increase of 113%.

The third Province, including Pennsylvania, increased their missionary offerings from $372,174.49 to $864,384.17—an increase of $492,209.68, or 132%. This increase of $492,209.68 was the largest of any Province.

Of the three Dioceses which have always contributed most liberally to missions, the Diocese of Massachusetts increased its offerings from $107,695.91 to $181,294.35, or about $74,000.00; the Diocese of New York increased from $216,714.21 to $291,134.49, or about $75,000.00; and the Diocese of Pennsylvania increased from $161,458.39 to $252,678.93, or $91,000.00.

The foregoing only include contributions made to the Presiding Bishop and Council for Missions under their charge. For all kinds of Missions, including Missions and Institutions in the Diocese, also including "specials" sent to the Presiding Bishop and Council, the people in our Diocese contributed during 1920 about $625,000.00, which is estimated to be approximately $200,000 more than the previous year.

The foregoing figures show a gratifying increase in this Diocese, but the total of approximately $625,000.00 is, of course, far below the $1,320,000.00 asked of our Diocese; it is hoped that by a better organization, both in and out of the Parishes, a further substantial step in the direction of the desired goal may be accomplished i1 1921.

Mission Study Class Notes

The first session of the Mission Study Class for the women of Grace Church is over, and the second will be a thing of the past when the Parish News goes to press.

Our subject this year is The Church and Her Task.

Someone says: "Is it so big—so tremendous?"

It is—it always has been, but hitherto we have looked at it in parts,—now we see the whole. This is a nationwide Survey of a nationwide Task. The Nationwide Campaign is educational, so the work of the Mission Study Classes this year is to know and show the position of the Church today with its new and much-criticized organization. To understand and to pledge loyalty "to the great movement which plans to raise the Church to her normal position and activity in the life of each member in the parish, in the diocese and in the World." We are endeavoring with sympathy and understanding to enter into this nationwide "stocktaking" through the "Valley of Dry Bones"—our impoverished Church—into which, by the Grace of God, we, with our time, and our money and our life are to put flesh and sinew and breath.

The third session will take up the subject of Religious Education—what is it—what is its purpose? How can the Church co-operate with the the public schools? Our aim will be to realize that the task our Lord set His Church, is the task of teacher.

The Vestry

The annual election for members of the Vestry, to succeed four members retiring this year, will be held at the Parish House on Easter Monday, March 28th, from five to six o'clock P. M. The members whose terms expire this year are Mr. Thomas H. Ball, Mr. S. Mendelson Meehan, Mr. Pratt Thompson and Mr. Horace Fortescue. All communicants are privileged to make nominations, which should be made in writing and forwarded to the Secretary, to be posted in the Church, in accordance with the By-Laws, at least two Sundays before the date of the election. The congregation is cordially invited to take an active part in the selection of members of the Vestry.

Bishop Tucker, of Kyoto, Coming

It is with great pleasure that we can announce that The Right Reverend Henry St. George Tucker, D. D., LL. D., Bishop of Kyoto, Japan, is expected to be with us at the morning service on the Fourth Sunday in Lent, March 6.

The Cathedral League Diocese of Pennsylvania

The object of this League is to unite the women of the Diocese in the support of the Cathedral. The Cathedral Church itself is in the future. The Diocese will have a Cathedral when the people of the Diocese know and care enough about it. Bishop Rhinelander said not long ago, "the sale of the Church House brings us face to face with the demand for a worthy Diocesan center for all various activities. We need a Synod Hall, where is the best place to build it? Another aspect of a Cathedral, to my mind, and one that presses, is its missionary side, the ability which a real Cathedral offers to bridge the gap between all people. We are an urban people," the Bishop continued, "whether we like it or not, and we have no link binding us together. The mass of people as a whole are outside of all organized religion. There is no arm for the Church to use to reach this mass which is aloof. The Church has misled people because it had no 'peoples' church.' Everything in a Cathedral is freely put at the disposal of this mass—largely alien, because we have never reached them. Civilization can be saved only by a Christian church through the ministery of a peoples' church." Dean Bratenahl has spoken of the uses of a great central church in the form of a Cathedral adapted to a community. He spoke also of the influence of the Temple in Jerusalem and of St. Sophia in Constantinople which was built in five years. The work of our Cathedral has begun already at the Diocesan Church of St. Mary at Broad and South Streets. It is growing steadily and needs support. The Cathedral Endowment Fund is needed for this purpose. The income from this Fund will be used at once and always for the support of the Cathedral work. The increase of this Endowment Fund is the first object of the Cathedral League.

Membership consists of this,—any woman who will regularly use the Cathedral Prayer, interest others in the Cathedral, and pay the annual dues, fifty cents.

Prayer means more than any other kind of service. The best kind of Cathedral "propaganda" is not in circulars but in conversation. The annual dues for the fiscal year, beginning December 1st, will be given to the Endowment Fund. A pin or badge may be purchased by any member for fifty cents and may be worn as long as the annual dues are paid.

There must be many women in the Parish who would like to become members of the Cathedral League. Will they please send in their names and addresses at once to Miss Bayard, 105 East Johnson Street, Germantown, who will forward them to the League's treasurer.

Let us help to build our wonderful Cathedral by supporting now the Diocesan Church of St. Mary which is for all nationalities and denominations; for all strangers, students, visitors, rich and poor, black or white, who would like to go into a Church that is always open, if only for a short time to hear a sermon or hymn, to offer a prayer, or even to rest in a consecrated place where all is quiet and at peace.

Not long ago in one of our large cities a group of war workers representing many communions met together to plan for some future usefulness. The question came up as to a suitable place of meeting, "Could we use the Cathedral work-rooms?" they asked the chairman who happened to be a Churchwoman, "Because you know a cathedral is bigger than a Diocese and it belongs to us as well." They had the Cathedral idea.

A Prayer for the Cathedral League of Pennsylvania

Almighty God, without whom our labor is but lost, and with whom thy little ones go forth as the mighty: Be present, we beseech Thee, to bless all works in thy Church undertaken according to thy will, and especially the endowment and building of the CATHEDRAL OF THIS DIOCESE, granting to us, thy labourers, a pure intention, patient faith, sufficient success upon earth, and the joy of serving Thee in heaven: through Jesus Christ, our Lord. Amen.

Last Call for the Rummage Sale!

March 9th and 10th—Wednesday and Thursday—are the dates of the Rummage Sale and that time is not far off. Will not all the women of the Parish take a hand in making this sale a success? Remember, it is to complete our pledge to the Organ Fund, and it should be a great success, so do go carefully over your belongings and send all you can spare to the Parish House. Everyone has something to give—old gold and silver, clothing, shoes, hats, curtains, rugs, carpets, kitchen utensils, bric-a-brac, pictures—anything. Furniture should be sold from your homes and the money turned in, so that we may avoid the expense of hauling. If you cannot send your things to the Parish House, some one will call for them if you give your name to Mrs. William H. George, Pelham Court, Mount Airy, or to Mrs. E. W. Jenkins, 334 Gowen Avenue. These ladies will also be glad to have the names of any who are willing to help on the days of sale.

The Rector's Letter

Dear Friends:

When we began our experiment in Week-Day Religious Instruction in Grace Church a year ago last Fall, it was with the conviction that the religious training of the coming generation could never be adequately done by means of the Sunday School.

While fully realizing that week-day religious training could not be successful on a large scale until the Public School authorities should grant the pupils excused time for the purpose, we thought that local experiments along that line would prove valuable.

We felt the need of more time for instruction and methods more business-like than were feasible in connection with the Sunday sessions.

Another motive which prompted us to remove the instruction from Sunday morning was the desire to emphasize Church attendance. This led us also to modify the program of the Church Service placing the sermon at the end both at Holy Communion and at Morning Prayer. This enabled the younger children to retire before the sermon without missing the service proper.

Last year we held our week-day sessions on Monday afternoons. This year with a view to lengthing the periods, enlisting men as teachers and officers, and adding an adult department we changed the session to Saturday evening. The Saturday night session had the added advantage of affording a splendid preparation for the observance of the Lord's Day.

The School has been conducted upon an efficient basis, especially this year. The officers and teachers have done faithful and conscientious work. Careful records have been kept and the results have been noted. The attendance which was fair until Christmas, has fallen so seriously during the past three months that it has been decided to resume the Sunday sessions. The Executive Council of the Parish was desirous of giving the experiment a fair trial, knowing that many other parishes were interested in the results.

It was only last Monday night that they took action as follows: "The Executive Council, while in favor of Week-Day Religious Education, has decided after two years of experimental work that it is not yet practicable in this parish and that the week-day sessions of the Church School will be discontinued until the Public School authorities shall grant excused time for Religious Education."

From the first the parish authorities realized the boldness of the experiment. Attendance on week-day sessions involved real sacrifice on the part of both children and their parents. Only the supreme importance of Religious Education and Church Worship could have justified us in asking such sacrifices. We have been deeply impressed by the number of families that have been willing to pay the price. We trust the experiment, though costly, has not been in vain. Let us not settle back too comfortably into the ruts.

Constant readjustment is the price of progress. The Church School will not run itself—even on Sunday.

Once more we lift up the standard on which is inscribed our parish objective for the year: "A Model Church School."

Faithfully yours,

THOMAS S. CLINE.

Mission Study Class Notes

The Lenten Mission Study Class held its closing session on Maundy Thursday. The class made their corporate communion at 7.30—only three regular members being absent. Breakfast was served in the parish house immediately after service. Our thanks are due to Mrs. Jenkins for this happy, homey hour.

One feature of the class, was the reading of our intercessor's letter—from the Rector of the Parish—who has followed the work of the class with his intercessions. On request of the class, the letter follows.

Another feature was the showing of a chart indicating the range of parochial work: The World, The Nation, The Diocese, the Community and the Parish. This was pictured in the form of a large and growing tree. The idea was conceived by Mrs. Pratt Thompson and carried out by Miss Schenck with her clever brush and pen. The chart will be on exhibition at the parish house, and will be explained at the closing meeting of the Auxiliary and Guild.

Mrs. Pilsbry has asked that the chart be shown to the Diocesan Study Class on April 19—the closing session—which takes place at 8 P. M. on that date at Holy Trinity Parish House, Philadelphia. Both men and women take part in this session, and it bids fair to be very interesting. The Grace Church Class will attend in a body, and have planned to double their number by adding the new members for next year's class!

Too much stress cannot be laid on the fact that the leader and the members of the class have found this especial course stimulating, instructive and soul-searching.

"The Survey" will be the textbook for next year also. It seems a vital thing that members of the Church should know the position of the Church today—its terrible deficiencies—its crying needs.

If we do not know, how can we love; if we do not love, what kind of service will we offer!

"While we have time, let us do good"—"for all things come of Thee, and of Thine own have we given Thee."

Dear Friends of the Mission Study Class:

I am told that on the morrow—Maundy Thursday, you are to make your Corporate Communion and hold your final session.

May I congratulate you upon the success of your class. Week by week, during this Lenten season, you have met to study and discuss the Church's Mission—a theme worthy of your best efforts!

You must have learned a great deal, for you have had stimulating leadership, a wealth of material and a spirit of co-operation.

Your hearts have burned within you as the Holy Spirit has stirred your enthusiasm for the building up of the Kingdom of God. Your study has been infused with the devotional spirit. Your interest in the Church has been linked up with your love for Jesus Christ, the Head and Life of the Church.

As a result, you are, I trust, more earnest, intelligent, efficient Churchwomen.

If every member of the parish could have the experience you have had, we should be in slight danger of narrow individualism or parochialism. Our thinking would be spacious and well balanced. We should pray and work for the prosperity of the whole Church, our own parish, our Diocese, our National Church—Christendom.

Such classes should not be confined to Lent, but should be held in Epiphany, Easter and Trinity seasons as well. Men as well as women should be enrolled. Thus the whole mass of the Church would be gradually leavened with the missionary spirit—and there would be no difficulty in regard to "quotas" and the like.

It has been a privilege to feel a share in your work by joining you in prayers. Let us continue our mutual prayers and efforts that the Kingdom may come in our hearts and throughout the world.

With earnest and loving wishes for a blessed Good Friday and a joyous Easter. I am,

Faithfully yours,

THOMAS S. CLINE.

In Memoriam

LAVINIA B. C. THOMPSON

"Sunset and evening star
And one clear call for me."

Without a moment's warning that "clear call" came to her whom we mourn. There was "no sadness of farewell." The tide that bore her far was "too full for sound or foam."

But she was ready. When her Lord said, "Behold I come quickly," she replied, "Even so come, Lord Jesus."

What a beautiful and stimulating memory of Christian character and service Mrs. Thompson has left us all!

Our Lord praised Mary of Bethany because she chose the better part. Her practical sister, Martha, has among us many admirers. But Mrs. Thompson combined the qualities of both. While devoting herself tirelessly to all manner of good works, she was always found in that inner circle of devout and worshipful souls who sat at Jesus' feet.

Every department of Church work felt the stimulus of her energetic spirit. She is painfully missed today in the Woman's Auxiliary and Guild, the Church School, the Choir. Her presence is still felt at the services of the Church, both morning and evening, at every session of the Bible Class or Prayer Circle. One can hardly recall an early Sunday morning Eucharist when she was absent.

How she hungered and thirsted for righteousness! Always an ardent student of the Word of God, she put her whole heart into teaching the boys committed to her care.

By example even more than by precept she has exerted a lasting influence upon the young people of the community. This influence was felt far beyond the boundaries of the parish. Her quiet neighborly deeds of charity brightened many a home and cheered many a distressed heart.

Brave, ardent, loyal spirit, she has entered upon the higher service of Paradise. Let us pray for grace to follow her good example. While the whole parish family is bereaved by Mrs. Thompson's death, we do not forget to sympathize deeply with the more poignant grief of her own kin.

It must be a Holy Church that nurtures such saints. T. S. C.

The Woman's Auxiliary and Guild

Surely no better explanation could be given of the "why" of foreign missions than the very clear statement of Bishop Tucker in his sermon on Palm Sunday. St. Luke's Hospital is the key note of the situation in Japan, and the American Church must make good her promise to rebuild it. Bishop Tucker presented the case, and left the rest to us. Our duty is plain, the only question is one of ability and willingness to help. Will Grace Church, Mount Airy, have an endowed bed in St. Luke's Hospital, Tokyo? It will cost $1000 and we have $300 already in sight. Anyone who feels convinced of the gravity of the condition of our missionary work in Japan, and would like to do even a little, may send a contribution to the Accounting Warden, Mr. Bayard, or to Mrs. North or Mrs. Jenkins, who will gladly take charge of it. There will be no personal solicitation for this fund, but it is hoped the amount will be forthcoming. Boxes will be placed in the rear of the church and in the Auxiliary room for any small contributions to the hospital bed.

Every one will be interested in hearing the results of the rummage sale, and it is nice to feel that nearly all of us had some part in its success. The total receipts to date are $500.65, expenses (for rent of store, advertising, etc.), $44.58, making the profits $456.07. There is still a little money to come in and if that should bring the total up to $475, one good friend will donate $25 more to make the amount $500. Please hurry and send in all outstanding sums.

Garments for the Labrador Branch of the Needlework Guild must all be sent in by April 5. Two new articles, alike and of the same size, are asked from each contributor, and they should be warm, for Labrador is a cold place. You may also help this work by coming to the Auxiliary Friday mornings, as most of the sewing now is for this same purpose, and a great deal is being accomplished. Anyone wishing to become a member of the Labrador Branch will please send her name to Mrs. H. Burrell, 404 Gowen Avenue, Mount Airy.

Bishop's Bricks Conference

The Spring Conference of the Bishop's Bricks Committee was held in the Assembly Room of the Church House on March 17.

The meeting was opened with prayer by the Rev. Gilbert Pember.

Miss McClellan reported as to finances, that the amount raised last year amounted to $1500 and that it is hoped to reach $2000 during the current year. This is the ninth year of the work of the Bishop's Bricks Committee; in all the amount of $6,996.55 has been raised for the cause. During this year, $200 has been collected for the Italian Mission.

A letter was read from Mr. Cline expressing pleasure that the Annual Service is to be in Grace Church on Saturday, May 14—the Eve of Whitsuntide.

Mrs. Thomas, reporting on the calendars, said that in the first year, 400 calendars were issued. This year it was 2000, and the supply exhausted. It is hoped to dispose of 2500 next year.

There followed an address by Mr. Pember, who said he was not very keen about organization, for there always seemed to be a tendency to over-organize. He made the "confession" that he had not read any of the Bishop's Bricks literature, but he felt there was very little organization and "so much soul," that he thoroughly believed in it. It may look small as a scheme for raising money, for today we talk in terms of millions; but, obsessed as we are by the thought, money is not everything.

The Bishop's Bricks is such a wonderful way of getting the people together, and Mr. Pember cited a meeting last year at St. Asaph's, Bala, where were gathered together old and young, rich and poor,—all nationalities, all degrees of churchmanship. It seemed to him to have been the most democratic meeting ever held in the Diocese of Pennsylvania. It is wonderful, thus to come together—to learn to know each other and to respect each other, in spite of differences.

The Bishop's Bricks meetings are "diocesan life actually lived."

The people learn to know there is a diocese and they see their Bishop. "Americanization" has become a slogan. A Bishop's Bricks service at the Church of the Incarnation recently was a practical demonstration of it. We gave the welcome to the foreign-born parents and their children. There is one thing that the foreign-born children can teach the children of America and that is—reverence. Such gatherings as these of the Bishop's Bricks will go far to help draw us together—to create love and sympathy and good-will.

Mr. Pember very beautifully closed his remarks with these words:

"We may give without loving, but we cannot love without giving."

The United Thank Offering

April!—the month for the Spring ingathering of our United Thank Offering! Please note the word "ingathering." Too frequently we speak of the collection of the Thank Offering, and that word at once suggests a debt or obligation of some sort, whereas this is a perfectly free-will offering, and is, or always should be, a gift with joy. What a blessed privilege that we women of the Church have this wonderful channel for the expression of our gratitude! An English missionary said: "We have nothing like the Offering in England. I think it is the most beautiful thing I ever heard of." It was Bishop Brent who spoke of "the ugliness of the sin of ingratitude," and also of "the manifold reasons for thankfulness." (He would like to see a Man's United Thank Offering!) Cannot each one of us recall one great blessing of the past six months, overshadowing all else? Have we been marking, daily or weekly, the many blessings which ofttimes escape our notice? That "little blue box" is a wonderful educator! We soon cease to take things as a matter of course.

In our United Thank Offering Triennial Report for 1916-1919, Grace Church stands in the sixth place on a list of eight parishes in this diocese on the Honor Roll for presenting the largest amounts at the services in Detroit. There is another Honor Roll called the "Ideal," which is for the parishes and missions having every woman communicant (senior and junior) on the United Thank Offering list. We have heard that two of the largest city parishes, not satisfied with places on the Amount Roll only, have undertaken to accomplish the "Ideal," if possible, before the 1922 presentation at Portland! It is not easy to do this in a parish having many hundreds of women communicants. All success to these ambitious parishes! (The good news is just received, that one of them has duplicated an order given not long ago—for 200 boxes!) It ought not to be very difficult for us to attain the ideal for Grace Church. Will you help—you who are not now a contributor, by sending your name to the undersigned? Remember that we cannot reach the desired goal without you. Then again, you are really missing a great privilege if you are not sharing in our Woman's United Thank Offering. Take a blue box, please, and make a point of learning all about the Offering. You will surely grow to love it. It will become a part of your very life, and it will never interfere with any other giving.

The Annual Presentation Service will be held on Thursday, April 28, at 10.30, in the Chapel of the Mediator, 51st and Spruce Streets. This is our great service of thanksgiving, for all the women of the diocese. Do not miss it.

MARY C. S. NORTH,
Parish Treasurer, U. T. O.

More About the Cathedral

Philadelphia should have a cathedral, in the opinion of the Rev. Dr. John Mockridge, Rector of St. James' Protestant Episcopal Church, Twenty-second and Walnut Streets. "We have nothing to represent the Diocese, the Bishop has no place of his own," Dr. Mockridge asserted recently. In an interview on the subject Dr. Mockridge said:

"There is beginning to be talk about a Philadelphia cathedral. The newspapers told us the other day that a charter had been granted by the courts to 'The Cathedral Church of Christ,' and the two names first on the list of the applicants for the charter are Philip H. Rhinelander and Thomas J. Garland, our Bishop and our Suffragan Bishop.

"Most of us have never seen a cathedral. All of us have seen pictures of magnificent buildings built centuries ago. There must be few of us who do not know what the Cathedral at Rheims looks like and what the Germans did to it.

"Some of us have seen cathedrals. We have gone into a sleepy little English village, with its few houses clustering about a glorious church huge, skyscraping, solemn, beautiful—and empty. Many cathedrals seem to be like that. Of course, there are St. Paul's in London, Notre Dame in Paris, with thousands upon thousands of people in them, wonderful music, great preaching, endless work, too. But, speaking generally, 'cathedral' means for us a monumental church, beautiful to look at and to have pictures of, but not much use.

"Why, then, have a cathedral in Philadelphia? This isn't Europe; it's America. This isn't the thirteenth century; it's the twentieth. And where is the money coming from? It would cost millions. We can't run the churches we have now properly. What's the use of talking about putting up a so-many-million-dollar cathedral?

Bishop Is Earnest

"This is the sort of talk you hear, and I suspect there is to be a great deal more of it, for the people who got that charter appear to be in earnest. They have organized a 'Cathedral League' with a pretty fair and rapidly growing list of members. They have had people giving talks about cathedrals—American cathedrals. New York has one, and its dean, Howard Robbins, has been over here. Washington is building one. Canon Talbot has talked about it and shown some beautiful lantern pictures of it.

"Now, let me give you a bit of advice. Go to a book shop and buy a copy of the American Cathedral, by Bishop Lawrence, of Massachusetts. It is a little book, but since Bishop Lawrence is its author, it has a good deal in it. Bishop Lawrence has a cathedral in Boston. He knows what an American cathedral can be and do. His (St. Paul's), though a small building, does an amazing amount of work, and Boston people have learned to love it. Bishop Lawrence is pretty much a twentieth-century person, too; not much of the thirteenth century ecclesiastic about him.

Cites Growth of City

"Just what is a cathedral? Well, let us think what a city is—Philadelphia, for instance. It used to be a little place down by the Delaware. Soon there were other little places—Northern Liberties, Kensington, Nicetown, Richmond, Hamilton Village, Logan, Tacony, etc., growing, all of them, and growing nearer to each other and to Philadelphia. Each of them had its railroad station. In process of time they were annexed to Philadelphia, to make the greater city. Then we had to have the Broad Street Station. The other stations still exist and are used for 'local traffic,' but we couldn't get on without the big terminal.

"Each of the little places had, and has, its town band, but greater Philadelphia had to have the Philadelphia Orchestra. Each had, and has, its trolley lines, but the big city needed, (still needs) the elevated, the subway, the electric suburban trains, and so on. In each of the small settlements there was, and is, a church. In the big city there ought to be, is not, but, please God, will some day be, the great cathedral. Do you see the idea?

"It is curious that, as Canon Talbot, of Washington, said the other day, we are proud of the number of millions of dollars the Union Station at Washington cost, but quite shocked and scandalized at the reckless extravagance of a proposal to spend fifteen or twenty millions on a mere temple for Almighty God. I have heard a big city man say, 'I don't belong to a city church. I like my nice, little, simple, country church.' He doesn't do business in a nice, little, simple, country bank. When he wants to hear music he doesn't patronize the town band, but comes miles in to hear the Philadelphia Orchestra.

"Now, I do not mean for one moment to cast a slight upon the nice, little, simple, country churches. The smallest of them is God's house as much as the greatest cathedral in the world. But I do suspect the size of that man's religion. I think it is very apt to be a nice, little, simple, country religion, and I want to see a cathedral in Philadelphia, so he will learn that religion can be city-size, and that his must be. If our cities and their people are to be judged by their buildings, it would appear to be the truth that we are wonderful movers—to everywhere except Heaven. We build magnificent railroad stations and parkways and mighty poor churches!

Bishop Needs Our Church

"What I said about the development of Philadelphia into a great city is just what has not happened in the church. We have great numbers of struggling parish churches, too many of them, we know, but we haven't courage enough to kill any of them. We have nothing to represent the diocese. The Bishop has no place of his own.

"The Mayor of Philadelphia would have a worse time, by a good deal, than he seems to be having now if every time he wanted to say something to us he had to ask a ward leader if he might go to the ward headquarters and say it, which is exactly what the Bishop has to do. If he wants to have a great gathering of people from all the parishes he has to ask me or Dr. Tomkins or Dr. Steele. He has to get the Academy of Music for a great musical service, the Metropolitan Opera House for a big meeting, and there isn't any place at all for a great service of worship and praise of Almighty God. Our church has grown up in one hundred and fifty separate independent units. We need the cathedral to knit us together.

"You can see now what it is to have a bishop with a vision. You can see that he is not an unpractical dreamer who wants something big and expensive. What he is after is a shrine in this great city which shall be free from parochial limitations, free from sectional or class appeal and associations, a house of prayer for all the people, where he, our chosen leader, may bind us closer together, lift our minds and our hearts from our own little concerns, minister to the stranger, the transient, to rich and poor alike; in a word, to all sorts and conditions of men. He doesn't want this for himself; he wants it for the greater glory of God and for us.

"The cathedral idea is a great idea. The bishop and his colleagues who got that charter have done a notable service for the church and for Philadelphia.

"Let us keep our eyes and our ears open. Let us learn to pray and to think and to talk about the cathedral. Perhaps God will open our eyes to see the vision of it as the war memorial of the church folk of the diocese."—From the Public Ledger.

Church Extension

It is of great importance that the Bishop and Council be furnished with a generous Church Extension Fund in order that strategic fields may be promptly occupied and the progressive work of the Church be strengthened in the Diocese.

In the current number of the Diocesan Church News there is an appeal for contributions toward the erection of a Community Center building at St. Cyril's Mission, Coatesville.

This was the third call for funds for Extension Work issued during the year to those pledged to respond to such calls with small sums. Another source of revenue for the work of extension is from the Bishop's Bricks Fund, which had a small beginning but is now a growing and interesting method of providing the Bishop with a sum each year to be used at his discretion. But these methods are entirely inadequate to meet the need of new work of this sort in the diocese.

For instance at the recent meeting of the Convocation of Germantown it was pointed out that St. Gabriel's Mission, on the Boulevard, is confronted with large opportunity calling for prompt building plans.

There should be a fund available for this work. Acordingly the Bishop is asking that all the Churches in the diocese take an annual offering for Church Extension on Whitsunday. Shall we make it a generous one in Grace?

A Parish Registrar

In order to insure full and accurate lists and records, the vestry has made provision for a parish Registrar.

Certain records and vital statistics are always kept by the Rector, but parish lists are contantly changing and great care is required in order to keep them up to date. A special officer will be able to gather and record valuable supplementary data.

Article V of the By-Laws reads as follows:

"Section 1. The Registrar shall keep a list, in such form as the Vestry shall from time to time direct, of all families and adult persons canonically connected with the Parish, and a further list of those who are attendants at the services thereof, although not so canonically connected.

"Section 2. Such list shall show, so far as possible the name, and address, of each adult person of the classes above specified, and also the name, date of birth and address of all the children belonging to any family appearing on said lists.

"Section 3. The Registrar shall diligently note upon such lists all changes in names or addresses of any of the parties appearing thereon, so that the same shall be at all times accurate and complete lists of all persons of either of the classes above specified. He shall see that the Parish Register, required by the Canons of the Church and of this Diocese, is accurately kept and that all entries made therein are signed by the minister officiating at the service so registered.

"Section 4. The Registrar shall gather historical data pertaining to the Church, in order that an accurate history of the Parish may be preserved."

The Communion Alms

Now that the Social Service Departments—both of the Men's Service League and the Woman's Auxiliary and Guild—are enlarging the scope of their activities, there is increased need for charitable funds.

The objects for which these two Committees work are most humane and if better known would meet with generous response by way of contributions. At present, however, they have no source of income but private gifts. It is proposed to devote the bulk of the Rector's Discretionary Fund, commonly known as the Communion Alms, to this purpose. This will not help much, however, unless a new interest in this fund be awakened.

In accordance with the Canons of the Church the loose offering placed in the plate at Communion Services on the first Sunday of each month is placed in the Rector's hands for "pious and charitable" uses. The amount of the loose offering has been materially reduced since the adoption of the Duplex Envelopes. In the year 1913 the Communion Alms amounted to $306.11, but in the following year, after the introduction of the envelope system, it fell to $126.87.

Naturally it has never been increased much since, because no particular stress has been laid upon it. It has sufficed for incidental charitable and educational demands, but now it is brought definitely to the attention of the people with the hope of increasing it and using it chiefly for Social Service.

The Rector will designate the Social Service Treasurer as Almoner. Definite objects in which the Social Service workers are interested will be presented from time to time.

Perhaps it would be appropriate to quote the Canon which provides for this Fund.

Canon 16, Section IV.

"The Alms and Contributions, not otherwise specifically designated at the administration of the Holy Communion on one Sunday in each calendar month and other offerings for the poor, shall be deposited with the Minister of the Parish, or with such Church officer as shall be appointed by him to be applied by the Minister or under his superintendence to such pious and charitable uses as shall by him be thought fit. During a vacancy the Vestry shall appoint a responsible person to serve as Almoner."

In Memoriam

On Sunday night, April 17, George Fitch Breed, Priest of the Diocese of Long Island, Doctor of Divinity, entered into rest.

Dr. Breed is lovingly remembered by the people of Grace Church among whom he elected to live during the later years of his life after his retirement from the active ministry. He has frequently officiated and preached in Grace Church.

The beautiful Annunciation window in the transept is a memorial to Mrs. Breed, who was buried from Grace Church seven years ago. The Chancel window—"The Supper at Emmaus"—was the gift of Dr. Breed, and will hereafter be a beautiful memorial in his honor.

Dr. Breed was born in Susquehanna County Penna., in 1848. After graduation from Cornell University he completed his training for the Priesthood in Berkeley Divinity School, where he was graduated in 1875. His first ministry was as curate in St. Luke's, Germantown. Later he became Rector of Trinity Church, Asbury Park, N. J. His chief work was done in St. John's Church, Brooklyn, where he was Rector for some fifteen years.

He received his doctor's degree from St. John's College, Annapolis, Md.

In accordance with his own wish, Dr. Breed's funeral was held quietly in Grace Church. The Bishop of Pennsylvania officiated. A number of the clergy were present, among whom were the Rev. Dr. A. J. Arnold, a classmate of Dr. Breed's at Berkeley, and the Rev. J. M. Gilbert, whom he presented for ordination. The service at the grave was conducted by the Rector of Grace Church.

The Woman's Auxiliary and Guild

May is here again, and with it comes the end of the Auxiliary year, for the annual meeting, with the election of officers, falls always on the second Tuesday of this month. Remember the date, May 10, at 2.30 o'clock, and be sure to attend. Bring some other woman with you, too, if you want to help in making the meeting a success.

This year there will be an exhibit of the garments for the Labrador Branch of the Needlework Guild on the same afternoon. These will start on their way to Dr. Grenfell's Mission immediately afterward, but there is still time to contribute to this splendid enterprise where there is use for all that we can send.

The year of 1920-'21 being completed, we find that the first work to take up for next season is that for the lepers of Japan. This is done through the summer and the box is sent off in September in order to reach its destination by Christmas. Any one who heard Miss Riddell tell of the work in her hospital at Kumomoto for these sorely stricken people, will be anxious to help in some way and all women in the parish are not only welcome to share in it, but are urged to take part.

Once more we would remind you that the Rummage Sale is an annual institution. The last one was such a success that it is well worth while to continue, so let us keep it always in mind, not throwing anything away that may be used for the purpose. Articles will be cared for at the parish house—send them wherever you wish,—but please mark, "Rummage" on the parcels to avoid confusion.

We heard today that, of the $20,000 needed for the Pennsylvania Ward in St. Luke's Hospital, Tokyo, $12,000 has been pledged so far. That means, twelve beds are provided, with only eight remaining to complete the ward. Does everyone know that the members of Grace Church are trying to raise a thousand dollars for a bed in that far-East, international institution, and that already the fund has been started? Men, women and children of the parish are asked to join in this effort to give permanent, practical and much-needed help to the work of the Church abroad. Contributions may be placed in the box at the church door or sent to Mrs. E. W. Jenkins, or to Mr. J. W. Bayard, the accounting warden.

The Convocation of Germantown

The April meeting of the Convocation was held at St. Timothy's Church, Roxborough, on Tuesday the 19th, beginning with a service at 11 o'clock. The Rector of St. Mark's Church, Philadelphia, was the preacher. The sermon—from the text "Grace be with all them that love our Lord Jesus Christ in sincerity"—was an answer to the question: "What is the fellowship of Christ's religion, and upon what foundation does it rest?" It is not founded upon the fellowship of service, nor do we find the foundation in the federation of parties, for, devoutly as we wish for these conditions, Christ's religion does not depend upon organized service or visible corporate unity. The foundation must be personal. Individually, we must first be sure of our right relationship to Him who is "the author and finisher of our faith." All else will follow. We must become one with Him, He living in us, we crucified with Him, rising with Him, becoming new creatures. So at last shall we attain to a corporate consciousness; so shall we make the discovery that if one member suffers all the members suffer. The day that this dawns upon us and the thought thrills us—the thought of the Communion of Saints, we shall have found the Fellowship! Many of us are so clumsy, so weak, that it takes a long time for us to learn that the foundation of the Fellowship of Christ's religion is Jesus Christ.

After the service luncheon was served and everyone was delighted by the sight of a most unusual profusion of flowers,—beautiful flowers on all the tables, and flowers in every window. This was explained to us as due to the fact that two florists are members of the parish!

The meeting of the clergy and lay delegates, and that of the Woman's Aid, were called to order at 2 o'clock in adjoining rooms in the parish house. The Dean opened the woman's meeting with prayer. Between 50 and 60 delegates were present, a very large proportion being from the parishes and missions of Bucks County. Mrs. Woodward introduced a new feature by asking for reports from the delegates, remarking that, instead of calling in certain of the clergy to give us information, we would listen to the women! However, the Rev. Mr. Meryweather, of Yardley, was summoned to report as to the automobiles for himself and the Rev. Mr. Meyer, who is in charge at Hulmeville and Edgely. The cars are now in use, to the great saving of time, but $200 must be provided to complete the purchase price, also something for upkeep. Mr. Meryweather remarked, that an auto is a very good thing, but if you haven't a new tire, it is rather a useless possession!

One must not fail to note the spirit of optimism prevailing in both meetings. From the Bishop down to the woman delegate from the small mission, there came testimony as to real awakening which gives great promise for the work. There is a fine spiritual quality in the increase of interest. Too much cannot be said as to the splendid leadership of the Rev. Samuel B. Booth, and the influence which is going out from the Associate Mission at Wrightstown. One delegate from Langhorne gave a most interesting accounts of the Retreats which have been held at the Mission House. The women returned to their home missions greatly inspired and most enthusiastic—as the leaven to leaven the whole lump.

The youngest mission in Bucks County is that at New Hope, where there is an artists' colony, also a girls' school.

Occasionally someone asks the question: "What is the Convocation?" Therefore, in connection with this report of one of the meetings, a little information may be apropos.

The Diocese of Pennsylvania adopted the convocational system for the better conduct of its missionary work. The diocese is divided into six convocations—North, South and West Philadelphia, Chester, Germantown and Norristown. Of course this division is geographical. For example: the Convocations of North and South Philadelphia have the rivers as their eastern and western boundaries. The dividing line is Walnut Street, Holy Trinity Church, on the south side, being in the Southern Convocation, and St. James' Church, on the north side, in the Northern Convocation. All the convocations, with the exception of that of West Philadelphia, have Woman's Aids or Auxiliaries to help in carrying on the work. The meetings are on fixed dates, there being three or four each year. One of our bishops is supposed to be present at every meeting of all the convocations. Then there are the clerical and lay delegates from every parish and mission within the convocation, as also of laywomen to the Auxiliaries. (For further information see the April number of the Church News, page 215.) M. C. S. N.

Mission Study Notes

A paper on "Religious Education in the Home" written for St. Mark's Lenten Class. Printed by request.

Clearly, the task before the Church, is the task before each one of us who knows God—to teach the knowledge of God by word and by deed. The responsibility falls on the individual. It is incumbent upon each one of us that we show Him in our lives, for that is the only way some people get a glimpse of Him.

To begin in the Home—do you think we put First things first? It seems to me we have the wrong point of view.

When a baby is expected in a home,—when, through the natural order of that ever present miracle, a child is born into a family, how soon do we—all of us—begin to make preparation for the event? How much care do we expend on every detail? How much expense for nurses and doctors?

Do you think it would make any difference in the development of our child if we began preparation months before for the child's birth into the family of God? Also if we hastened to enroll him in the Kingdom through Holy Baptism to receive the "blessing of the knowledge of God's grace and faith" instead waiting months until "things are convenient!"

How many people that you and I talk to have any knowledge of the service in our Prayer Book called "The Churching of Women?"

It is the Thanksgiving after childbirth.

It is the opportunity the Church gives to thank God, not only in word but in deed, and yet it would seem wonderful if our gift sometimes equalled the doctor's fee or the nurse's. "Except the Lord build the house, their labor is but vain that build it. Except the Lord keep the city, the watchman waketh but in vain," which means unless God is made as real a person in our homes as anyone else, everything is useless.

The Church's teaching is clearly and authoritatively written in our Prayer Book, but we do not look at it, and that teaching is of the knowledge of God.

Our responsibility as parents and godparents increases! We are to take care that the child be brought to the Bishop to be confirmed as soon as he has certain knowledge. If the child has been taught about God these passing years, his confirmation will be something he will look forward to—will desire it—not only because he is going to be strengthened in his strugggle against evil, but above all that because through the laying on of hands, he receives the seven-fold gifts of the Holy Spirit. Besides Ghostly Strength and Godliness and Holy Fear he receives

The Spirit of Wisdom
The Spirit of Understanding
The Spirit of Counsel
The Spirit of Knowledge

Could any gifts be more wonderful in the development of Religious Education? It is all so clear and simple,—there is nothing lacking of power in the Church,—only the faith to use and develop it. For every day of his life we could use the prayer—"Defend, O Lord, this thy Child with thy heavenly grace; that he may continue thine forever; and daily increase in thy Holy Spirit more and more, until he come unto thy everlasting Kingdom."

"—and the child grew and waxed strong in spirit, filled with wisdom and the grace of God was upon him."

There is our definition of Religious Education—the rounding and developing of every part—body, mind and spirit.

"—and Jesus increased in wisdom and stature and in favor with God and man."

Upon each one of us, in Confirmation has been bestowed these seven-fold gifts of the Holy Spirit. This blessing is in us. It is ours to use. It is ours to lay hold of—to develop—for our Religious Education.

Sometimes I wonder if the acceptance of all God's graces and blessings as forms instead of life, may be one reason why the Earth is not filled with the Glory of God.

The Bishop's Bricks

The Annual Presentation Service of the Bishop's Bricks Fund will be held in Grace Church, Mount Airy, on Saturday, May 14, the Eve of Whitsunday, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

It will be a very interesting and novel service. Bishop Rhinelander will be with us and others of the clergy.

Children from most of our diocesan missions, the Italian and Polish, as well as city and suburban parishes are expected.

A banner is presented to the Branch which has collected the largest amount during the year. The Parish of St. Martin's-in-the-Fields won this honor last year.

We hope to see our church full to overflowing on this occassion, and the offering so large that the Bishop will rejoice in the fact that the extension work in the diocese is rapidly growing.

Last year the sum raised was $1500.

Come, everybody, to this service and see for yourselves a practical demonstration of Unity and Americanization.

Mt. Airy, Philadelphia, Pa.

My dear Mr. Cline:

I shall be grateful if you will kindly make known as widely as you can the fact that a scholarship to the Wellesley Conference is offered again this year to the teachers and pupils of the Church Schools of the Diocese.

It will be awarded by a Committee consisting of Miss Adele Bayard, Mr. James M. Bennett, and the Rev. George L. Richardson, D. D., to the writer of the best essay on the subject, "The Baptismal Vow" (question and answer No. 3 in the Church Catechism). The essay should explain the language and purpose of the vow, and show that it is based on New Testament Teaching about Holy Baptism.

Each essay should be plainly written on one side of the paper, should not exceed 2000 words in length, and should be signed with the full name and address of the writer.

All essays should be sent to the Rev. George L. Richardson, 616 South Broad Street, not later than Saturday, May 21st.

The scholarship will cover all expenses of attendance at the Conference, which is to be held June 27th to July 7th.

Any information that is desired will gladly be given if you apply to me at this address.

Yours very truly,
GEORGE L. RICHARDSON,
Chairman of the Wellesley Conference Scholarship
Committee

The closing meeting of the Mission Study Classes was a very delightful affair, held on the evening of April 19 in Holy Trinity Parish House. Bishop Rhinelander was present, and many of the Parish Classes and their leaders were represented at this gathering.

It was publicly announced that the Rector of Grace Church had been appointed editor-in-chief of the Diocesan Church News. Upon further consideration it was mutually agreed between the Bishop and Mr. Cline that he should be relieved of responsibility in this connection.

Parish Notes

The Rector preached in the College Chapel of his Alma Mater, Wesleyan University, on Low Sunday.

In his absence the Rev. Dr. A. J. Arnold officiated in Grace Church.

The Rector will represent the Diocese of Pennsylvania at a Conference on Religious Education under the auspices of the National Department of Religious Education in Pittsburgh on May 18 and 19.

Mrs. Ralph H. North has recently accepted an appointment to the Board of Managers of the House of Rest for the Aged, Germantown. Mrs. North will represent Grace Church on the Board.

At the opening of Lent the Rector offered a prize to the class selling the largest number of the Children's Number of the Spirit of Missions for the benefit of the Lenten offering, and also to the individual pupil with the highest record of sales.

Mrs. Shelmire's class won the class prize, having sold 75 copies, and Master Norton Walton won the individual prize having sold 45. This is the second year Master Norton has carried off the honors.

The Rector appoints annually three members of the Parish Executive Council.

At the recent meeting he made the following appointments for the ensuing year:

There are now over 100 copies of the Diocesan Church News coming into the parish each month. Twenty-five persons receive it directly by personal subscription. We get eighty copies, some of which are placed in the rear of the Church for those who care for them. Others are mailed out. This paper contains valuable information about the work of this Diocese.

Remember the Church House is no longer at Twelfth and Walnut. It is now on Rittenhouse Square, adjoining Holy Trinity Church. The official address is 202 South Nineteenth Street.

We acknowledge with pleasure copies of "The Chimes," the parish paper of the Church of the Advent,—the oldest Episcopal Church of Birmingham, Alabama. This monthly indicates a live parish, splendidly organized for service.

Disarmament Sunday

The Rector says he heartily welcomes the suggestion that the theme of the sermon on Sunday, June 5th, be Disarmament. He says he will have something to say on the subject. The following forceful letter addressed to the Church Peace Union by General Tasker H. Bliss puts the proposition squarely up to the Christians of the country.

Governor's Office
UNITED STATES SOLDIERS' HOME
Washington, D. C.
Mar. 27, 1921.

Dear Sirs:

I would not take a single step in the way of disarmament except as the result of an agreement, thoroughly acceptable to us, between ourselves and the other principal nations engaged in the armament rivalry. I have not the faintest idea of what form that first agreement might take. I have, therefore, no scheme of disarmament to propose. My sole purpose, therefore, is to have an International Conference. Either there is no practical common sense among the people of the United States, or else they now know the essential facts that point to the necessity of such a Conference.

The farmers of the United States apparently are of the belief that some action must be taken by our Government to relieve the depression in their affairs. They have gotten together and have put pressure upon their congressmen and the latter, in their turn, have put pressure upon the Government, with the certainty that now, rightly or wrongly, something is going to be done. If the farmers had not done this or had continued talking among themselves in their various conventions nothing would have been done. If the clergymen of the United States want to secure a limitation of armaments they can do it now without any further waste of time. If, on an agreed-upon date, they simultaneously preach one sermon on this subject, in every church of every creed throughout the United States, and conclude their services by having their congregation adopt a resolution addressed to their particular Congressman urging upon him the necessity of having a business Conference of five nations upon this subject, the thing will be done. If the churches can not agree upon that it will not be done nor will it be done until the good God puts into them the proper spirit of their religion. The responsibility is entirely upon the professing Christians of the United States. If another war like the last one should come, they will be responsible for every drop of blood that will be shed and for every dollar wastefully expended.

Cordially yours,
TASKER H. BLISS.

The Rector's Letter

My dear Friends:

During the past week I have been attending a two-days conference on Religious Education in Pittsburgh. There were some fifty of us—each officially representing a different diocese.

Dr. Gardner stated that during his fourteen years as leader of the Educational Work of the Church he had never assembled so representative a group of workers from the field to consult together. The object of the Conference was to aid the whole Church to advance in its educational work. To this end the experience of leaders from all parts of the country was focused upon the problems now confronting the Department of Religious Education. As a result of conference many recommendations will be made to the Department, which if approved, will be sent out to all the dioceses of the Church.

The spirit of the Conference is reflected in these words of Dr. Gardner:

"In days when disintegration seems to be active on all sides, let the educational leaders of the Church draw closer together—not for uniformity—but for unity of understanding and such unity of operation as the Holy Spirit will direct."

Among the recommendations approved by the Conference were the following:

1. A suggested Diocesan Program—providing for adequate organization for religious education.

This includes not only a Department with its various Commissions as we already have in Pennsylvania, but also a "Diocesan Administrator or Field Worker on salary for whole or part time with necessary office and traveling expenses."

This is our urgent need in Pennsylvania. Any real advance in our educational work in this diocese waits upon the employment of such an administrator. Why should Pennsylvania, once a leader in Church School work, lag behind now! Massachusetts has a clergyman devoting full time to this work; a stenographer on full time and a woman field-secretary on half time.

This suggested Diocesan Program is not new, but is an improvement on the Program issued by a similar conference of leaders last year.

2. That all educational work for adults be regarded as under the direction of the Department of Religious Education.

This is an important recommendation. There has been a tendency for the Departments of Missions, Social Service, etc., to undertake educational courses independently of the Department of Religious Education.

We have seen in our own Diocese a tendency on the part of the Educational Department of the Woman's Auxiliary—whose proper scope is Mission Study, to assume the title and functions which belong properly to the Diocesan Department of Religious Education. This is a local illustration of the lack of co-ordination of educational work which is recognized in the general church.

3. That the growing importance of Week-Day Religious Instruction be called to the attention of the Clergy, and that emphasis be laid upon the "need for more time for the children of the Church to receive instruction in, and to express, the Christian ideals, and upon the fact that such time should compare in the content and method with work done in the public schools, and further that it be recognized that school time is the best time for such instruction."

Three types of Church Schools for week-day co-operation were commended because found successful in the field:

1 Denominational; 2 Community—Denominational, and 3 Mixed or Federated.

The Rev. F. V. Hoag, of Batavia, Ill., the originator of the now famous Batavia Plan for Week-Day Religious School, was present.

Reports of interesting developments along these lines came from various parts of the country.

It was evident that in Mr. Edw. Sargent, the Department of Religious Education has an expert on this whole problem of co-operation with the Public Schools.

It is to be hoped we shall see some progress in this direction in Philadelphia in the next year or two.

4. "The formation of a Home Department for the cultivation of religion in the Home and for the instruction of those not in Church Schools, including children, adults, isolated, shut-ins and college, university and normal school students."

Evidently there is a widespread sense of need for stronger emphasis on the Home Department—but as yet it is only in a formative stage. The appointment of a Commission to study existing conditions and to prepare and publish suitable material was recommended.

5. That information should be disseminated regarding various types of Young People's Societies already in existence and that the movement toward the organization of Young People's Societies be wisely guided.

Dr. Gardner spoke of the strong movement throughout the country in this direction. He submitted data regarding thirty-eight such societies he had come in contact with in his travels, and stated that he was confident there were over 100 such societies in existence in the Church already.

It did not seem wise to the Conference to recommend that these societies be standardized or that a National Young People's Society, to include them all, be organized at present.

It is interesting in this connection to note that one of our Pennsylvania clergy, the Rev. Edw. H. Bonsall, Jr., has recently resigned his parish to become Young People's Superintendent of the Pennsylvania State Sunday School Association.

To my mind it is a hopeful sign to see this awakened interest in the Young People in the Church. We have been careful of the nurture of the children—but we have been particularly weak in the guidance of the youth. Perhaps we have a big lesson to learn from the Christian Endeavor Society and similar organizations.

There were many other recommendations, including the most approved methods of Teacher Training, grading of small Church Schools, the application of the Block System of the Church School Service League, Diocesan Commissions on Pageantry and the offerings of Church Schools. But I have already written at considerable length for our parish paper.

The Conference bears out the observation of Dr. Gardner, i. e., "That in education our central department can only be successful if the pathways between the circumference and the center are kept open and frequently traversed."

Incidentally I consulted with successful heads of parish Church Schools in several cities and gathered some ideas which may help us in planning for a successful year in Grace Church School.

Faithfully yours,

Trinity, 1921. THOMAS S. CLINE.

The Woman's Auxiliary and Guild

The annual meeting of the Auxiliary, held May 10, was particularly interesting this year and the fine reports of work accomplished in the various lines, showed what a vigorous, wide-awake organization of women there is in Grace Church.

The Box Committee report is always eagerly awaited, and, as usual, it was most gratifying. The work is now apportioned to us by the Supply Bureau, and it consisted of 275 cut-out garments to be made up by our women; household supplies to the amount of $106.30, which are purchased wholesale and rebilled to us; and 12 afghans for layettes. In valuing the completed garments a percentage is allowed for the work of making them, this being done according to a scale arranged by the New York head office, and it insures uniform valuation by all parishes.

For the Needlework Guild, 107 garments were completed; the Labrador Branch, Dr. Grenfell's Mission, 64 garments; and the Philadelphia General Hospital, 34 garments, making a total of 480. Mrs. Burrell added here an interesting bit of information in regard to the buttonholes for these articles. She found there were 797 in all and of this number Mrs. Hartman had worked 230 by hand—a record to be proud of—and Mrs. Burrell, 374 by machine; the remainder being done by various others.

Some of the most important work accomplished this year was that of the Church School Service League, because it means the arousing of the missionary spirit in the children of the Church. Mrs. Burrell planned their activities so that all five fields were reached—the parish, community, diocese, nation and world.

In the parish, they contributed toward our Christmas greens and Easter flowers; sent Easter flowers to the Leamy Home and outfitted a child so that he might attend the Church School.

In the community, they wrote weekly letters to the boys at the Home for Consumptives, Chestnut Hill; sent Christmas gifts there and to the Midnight Mission, and visited the House of Rest, taking gifts and singing carols.

In the diocese, they sent 138 filled Christmas stockings to two Settlement houses; a box to St. Agnes House, and contributed to the Bishop's Advent Fund and to the Seamen's Institute.

In the nation, they subscribed to the Red Cross, and contributed to the Indian work and to that of the mountaineers.

In the world field, they gave to St. Luke's Hospital, Tokyo, and to the Chinese Famine Fund.

The children are looking forward to raising $100 for St. Luke's Hospital, as their part of the $1000 pledge from Grace Church, and Mrs. Burrell earnestly asks the support and backing of the grown-ups to help them in their efforts.

Interesting reports also came from the Finance Committee, the Missionary Educational Secretary, the Rug Committee, the Tract Society, the Librarian, and the Girl Scouts.

Mrs. Sheble gave a splendid account of the activities of the Social Service Committee, especially at the Home for Consumptives, and in a number of private cases that were handled. Through a member of this committee one boy from the Home, who has been cured of tuberculosis, was brought for baptism on Easter Even, and arrangements are about completed for placing him in the House of the Good Shepherd, Rosemont. This may lead to entrance to the Farm School later on.

The United Thank Offering report showed that $547.23 had been contributed in the past six months, and that $200 of this sum was given by sixty-five people in loving memory of Mrs. Robert J. Thompson. There could be no more fitting memorial to her who had the United Thank Offering always in her heart and in her prayers.

In March of this year Miss Lucy Alday was appointed in charge of the Font Roll. She has made twenty-five visits in this time and has already enrolled eighteen members—a fine achievement for so short a period.

The Girls' Club, started last October, has a membership of nearly thirty who have been working industriously, especially for the women of the Home for Consumptives. During Lent they formed a Mission Study Class under the leadership of Miss Margaretta Bayard, and their offering was given to the Bishop Rowe Endowment Fund. The girls wish it to be understood that they are an emergency club and are ready to be called upon to help in the parish whenever they may be needed.

The special need of the Church Periodical Club this year is books. The Club throughout the country has undertaken to give $15,000 worth of books for a library in St. Paul's University, Tokyo, and Miss Bayard will be glad to receive donations for the purpose.

Through this organization an appeal came from a missionary in Virginia for a communion service that he could carry with him over the mountains. Our Rector very kindly gave his field service—the one that he had with him in France—a most useful and welcome gift.

Mrs. Lowber was pleased to tell that the Altar Guild had been given the use of some pieces of fine linen and laces and several embroidered stoles from the estate of the late Dr. Breed.

A letter was read from Mrs. Charles McK. Bayard tendering her resignation from the Executive Committee of the Auxiliary, and it was accepted with regret. Mrs. Bayard has been a member of that body for many years and has been a valuable factor in its success. She was immediately made an honorary member of the committee by a unanimous vote.

In the election which took place at the close of the meeting all the former officers and the Exeecutive Committee were reinstated in their old positions.

A very interesting exhibition of the contributions for the Labrador Branch of the Needlework Guild was arranged in the Auxiliary room on the day of the meeting. There were 439 garments displayed which represented a value of $350.

An Important Opportunity

Summer Conference Schools now occupy a prominent place both in the vision and program of the Church. They have come to stay. They offer unique opportunities to all who desire spiritual refreshment and a larger knowledge of how to make the life count for more in the Master's work.

Happily two Summer Conferences are easily accessible to the people of this parish. The Wellesley Conference housed in the College buildings at Wellesley has an intensely interesting program and will be held June 27th to July 7th. The registration fee is $5.00 and the board for the entire period is $30.

The Princeton Conference uses the dormitories and buildings of the University, at Princeton, N. J. This Conference was an outstanding success last year and promises to be even more interesting this year. The dates are June 27th to July 8th. The registration fee is $3.00. Rooms are $2.00 for the 12-day period and board is $1.50 per day. Those who attended the Princeton Conference last year are most enthusiastic about it. The conferences come in the morning,—the inspirational meetings in the evening and the afternoon is devoted to recreation. A delightful vacation with delightful people can be had at Princeton at a very nominal expense. It is hoped that at least a small party of Grace Church people will attend the Princeton Conference. More detailed information can be secured from Mrs. Jenkins, Miss Margaretta Bayard or Mr. Shelby.

The Church School

The Commencement Exercises of the Church School will be held on the Church lawn Sunday, June 19, at 3 o'clock.

In addition to the usual features the pageant "The Gift of Self" will be presented by members of the School.

The final examinations will be held Sunday, June 12, at 9.30. Every scholar should be present, not only to win a good standing for himself, but for his Class. The Class Banner will be awarded at Commencement.

There will be no morning session of the School on Commencement Sunday.

Summer Addresses

The Rector requests that those parishioners who plan to be away for any considerable part of the summer will kindly drop him a card stating approximate time of their absence and giving their summer address.

The Pure Food Supper and Bazaar

The present writer, to begin with, has a confession to make and a discovery to announce. So, to have it over as soon as possible, the confession, I mean, he wants to say that he has, up to now, regarded ice cream sociables and oyster suppers as anaemic delusions and snares, and the holding of them by, in and among the restricted circle of a parish, has seemed to him vastly like the procedure of the three families who, having been unfortunately marooned upon a desert island, essayed to support themselves by taking in washing from each other.

Now, may I not be forgiven for setting down these impious reflections if I hasten to break the news of the discovery? Having heard the pin drop, I know I have your entire attention, and I will proceed to say that the plan I am about to disclose is simplicity itself!

A large number of manufacturers of pure food products have combined (for advertisement, of course) to provide a Pure Food Supper of which you are invited to partake, in the hope that it will taste so good you will want more of these wares in your own homes.

The event transpires in Grace Church Parish House, and is managed by the Woman's Auxiliary—an abundant guarantee of a successful affair.

Saturday, June 18, is the date.

Bazaar from 2 to 10 P. M.

Supper at 6.

The ladies of the Auxiliary have 300 tickets to sell for the Supper at 50 cents each—practically all revenue for the Auxiliary—for its expenses will be but nominal.

At the Bazaar one can buy all sorts of pure food products, and it is hoped that the women will do their Saturday marketing there as far as possible.

One half of all the money taken in at the Bazaar will be devoted to the purposes of the Auxiliary.

The Church School Service League will be in charge of the booth for fancy and useful articles. All proceeds at this booth will accure to the purposes of the League. The children hope in this way to earn $100—their share toward the endowment of the Grace Church Bed at St. Luke's Hospital, Tokyo, Japan. Help them to fill this stand with everything that is salable except food stuffs! Balloons and "grabs" will be in evidence. Please leave all articles for this booth and the grab bag at the Parish House before June 15—marked "Mrs. Burrell."

The Bishop's Bricks

The ninth annual Presentation Service for the Bishop's Bricks Fund was held in Grace Church, Mount Airy on Saturday, May 14—the Eve of Whitsunday. Parishes from all over the diocese were represented.

The seating capacity of the church—nearly 600—was insufficient to accommodate the host of children, teachers, scouts and friends of the Fund. Children, both American and foreign-born, vied with each other in sending the bishop their savings.

The children visualize their offerings by building small cardboard "Churches" (often models of their own parish churches) and bring them to the Bishop at the Presentation Service, when the offering gathered during the year is given at the "Birthday of the Church."

The Bishop was greatly pleased to announce the total offering as $2000—an amount one-third more than that of last year and the largest in the history of the Fund which now reaches a grand total for nine years of $7678.56.

The organization of the Bishop's Bricks Fund has been developed by enlisting members of Women's Auxiliaries, Guilds, Mothers' Meetings, Junior Auxiliaries, Church Schools and individual members of the parishes, to collect at least ten "Bricks" in the small banks, thus spreading the news of the Bishop's Bricks Fund. The ideal is to reach every member of the parish.

The purpose of the Fund is the Extension of the Church by contributing the price of the bricks at ten cents each.

During the Winter there is always an entertainment known as the Bishop's Party, at which a play or pageant is given by children.

The coveted honor of the Bishop's Banner—awarded at each Presentation Service to the parish making the largest contribution to the Fund—was presented this year, as last, to St. Martin's-in-the-Fields.

The Bishop's Bricks Committee wish to express their thanks to the ladies of Grace Church for the admirable arrangements made for the service, and for the entertainment afterward.

The Leper's Box

The inmates of the Hospital of the Resurrection of Hope, Kumamoto, Japan, will be looking for the usual Christmas box from Mount Airy this year, and it is not too early to begin collecting money, wool, dolls and other articles for it. Helpers are wanted now in preparing the gifts. The box has to go forward early in the Fall in order to reach its destination in time.

The work of preparation has always been done during the Summer months. Will volunteers please communicate with Mrs. J. A. Wellington, 7433 Boyer Street, Mount Airy.

Church Extension

In accordance with the Bishop's request the Whitsunday offering was devoted to the Church Extension Work within the Diocese. Probably the amount would have been larger but for the fact that several parishioners are giving to this fund through another channel. Many people throughout the Diocese are pledged to respond with a certain amount whenever a call is issued by the Bishop, provided there be not more than three calls a year. We hope many more Grace Church people will pledge in this manner. Cards may be found in the rear of the Church or may be had on application to the Rector.

The Diocesan Consciousness

A parish meeting was held Monday evening, May 9, for the cultivation of the "Diocesan Consciousness." The Rev. Dr. Louis C. Washburn told of the organization and institutional work of the Diocese. Because of his intimate touch with diocesan affairs, he was able to give us an insight as to the problems confronting the Bishop and Council.

Dr. Washburn spoke also of interesting community problems and showed how the Church is playing a leading part in the movement toward Civic Righteousness and Christian Unity.

Some interesting maps and charts showing the co-ordination of the Missionary and Social Service Work of the Diocese were exhibited.

The meeting was well worth while and should be followed by others dealing with other aspects of Diocese life.

The Men's Service League

The Men's Service League held its annual meeting at the Manheim Club, Monday evening, May 23. Officers for the ensuing year were elected and committees appointed. A resolution to send a petition to the President and Congress of the United States urging them to call a Conference of the leading nations on Reduction of Armaments was unanimously passed.

After dinner the company divided into two rival teams and enjoyed a bowling contest until a late hour. One delightful feature of the evening was a series of songs by Mr. Steel.

"The Evergreens"

The Spring Fete, given by the Women's Committee of the Home for Consumptives on Friday, April 29, at the Philadelphia Cricket Club, for the benefit of "The Evergreens" was most successful. As the Home is under the Episcopal City Mission, the Social Service Committee have given it their support.

Captain Rebmann's troop of Girl Scouts kindly offered their services, helping by selling tickets, and they also had charge of a cake and candy table at the Fete, realizing a substantial sum from their efforts. The Captain and her scouts deserve the hearty thanks of the Home for their splendid work.

The Girls' Club showed their fine spirit in helping the Committee prepare for the Fete.

The Rector's Letter

My dear Parishioners:

We haven't much time for looking backward, but a brief retrospect at the end of the active season may prove useful as we plan for next Fall and Winter.

"We have made bold to set up a great deal of machinery in the Parish in a short space of time," remarked a thoughtful and experienced parishioner last Fall. Almost unconsciously, the Parish has moved along with the tendency of the times toward thorough organization. As a result, many who had not previously been active in Church work have assumed definite responsibility and rendered valuable service. This has been specially noticeable in connection with the men's work.

The Men's Service League, embracing in its Departments all forms of men's activity in the Church has demonstrated its value in many ways, notably in the timely aid which resulted in the completion of the Parish Improvement Fund.

The Advisory Council of last year, became the Executive Council this year, with enlarged powers and responsibilities. It has held monthly meetings throughout the season, co-ordinating the work of the various organizations of the Parish and shaping our policy. Personally I feel that the Council is indispensable in a properly conducted Parish.

Grace Church entered heartily into the Nation-Wide Campaign. Last year's spiritual canvass was followed this year by a financial canvass which resulted in increased pledges for the support of the general work of the Church. In order that the Nation-Wide Campaign might have the right of way, the Parish Improvement Fund was held in abeyance. But no sooner had the Campaign work been completed than some loyal men spontaneously took up the Organ Fund and raised the full amount.

The prospect of the new organ in the Fall gives us all a thrill of pleasure. The Choir has made steady progress throughout the past year, and there has been an improvement in our congregational singing since we have had the new Hymnals. Next year, God willing, we shall have beautiful music in Grace Chuch.

In our Services there has been little change during the year except that we have had late Celebration of the Holy Communion on the third as well as the first Sunday of the month. Our efforts to promote Church attendance among the children, while not without results, have not succeeded as we had hoped. Neither have our carefully planned and conscientiously worked out experiments in Week-day Religious Instruction. They have, however, been enlightening and have made your Rector "a sadder but wiser man."

The results of the campaign for attendance at the Sunday night services during Lent, conducted under the auspices of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, showed us what the Evening Prayer Services might be and should be. I venture to say that Grace Church will never be the power for Evangelism in the Community that God wills it to be, until the people rally to the Evening Services.

Grace Church is rich in Young People.

Some new activities have been undertaken among them during the past year. The Girls' Club, with a membership of 30 of the older girls, has met a long felt need. The Junior Chapter of the Brotherhood has been a fine influence among the older boys.

Thus far I have been speaking specially of new developments during the past season. Even this brief reference to them shows us that there has been more progress in the past months than we had realized. Meanwhile the older organizations have gone steadily on with their good work. The Woman's Auxiliary and Guild has even surpassed previous records in magnificent achievement. The work of these faithful women is above praise and takes high rank among all the Parishes of the Diocese. The Altar Guild quietly performs its duties with skill and devotion. The young men of the Servers' Guild have been conscientious and loyal. The Boy Scouts and the Girl Scouts report a successful year. The Church Periodical Club has been steadily at work.

It is true "We have made bold to set up a great deal of machinery in Grace Church." But has not the year's experience shown that it is working pretty well? How smoothly it has been running! How little friction there has been!

For the harmonious spirit that has characterized the year we are thankful. But are we satisfied with the year's showing? Is Grace Church the power for righteous it might be? Are we letting our light shine in this Community as we should? Are we as intelligently and generously back of the Diocese and the National Church as we could be? Are we doing all in our power to establish the Kingdom of God in the world?

We must admit dear friends and parishioners that we have not "already attained" but shall we not resolve to do one thing? "Forgetting those things that are behind and stretching forward to the things which are before, let us press on toward the goal unto the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus."

With best wishes for a pleasant Summer, I am,

Faithfully yours in Christ,
THOMAS S. CLINE.

The Church School Commencement

The final Exercises of the Church School, held on the Church lawn Sunday afternoon, June 19th, proved to be most interesting and delightful. After the opening devotions and remarks by the Rector, Mr. Horace Fortescue, President of the School, took charge of the program.

A new feature this year was a series of brief reports from members of the various classes as to the work they had been doing during the past term. The Primary Department, under the leadership of Mrs. Pratt Thompson reported that they had been studying their Duty towards God and towards their neighbor. In illustration of the Christian's duty to his neighbor they dramatized the story of the Good Samaritan.

The Banner for the highest grade of scholarship was awarded to Mr. MacDonald's class of boys. Other classes which were in close competition for first place, were those of Miss Caroline Crouter, Mrs. Fortescue and Miss M. W. Bayard. The following names were read as composing the Honor Roll for scholarship: Katharine Cline, Adele Weymer, Norton Walton, George Parkman, Fred Burness, John Conarroe, Philip Cline, Nina Ball, Dorothy Stem, Lois Cline, Ann Burton, Esther Nonnemann, Jean Murphy, Thelma Brand.

Certificates of promotion were presented to the children who had successfully completed the Beginners' and Primary courses. Awards were given to a number of pupils who had brought new members to the School. Mr. Fortescue made an interesting address to the children.

The final number on the program was a pageant entitled "The Gift of Self." This little play was written by one of the Philadelphia clergy. It sets forth in symbolic manner the great Christian lesson of Unselfishness. The rector took the role of the Church and the other parts were taken by the boys and girls of the School. The setting was perfect for such a pageant. An altar and throne had been erected beside the Church. The ivy covered Church formed a fine background. The vested Choir assisted. The boys and girls in costume rendered their parts with good expression. The children of the School, the parents, and friends present thoroughly enjoyed it and were much impressed. Credit is due to Mrs. Price and Miss Alberta Haldeman who trained the players.

The Rector spoke in high praise of the faithful and conscientious work of the Officers and Teachers of the School during the past year. He said it had been an unusually difficult year because of the experimental work attempted. The loyal work of the Staff was therefore all the more commendable.

Address on Diocesan Institutions by Dr. Jefferys

On the first Sunday in June the work of the Diocesan Institutions was presented to the Congregation by Dr. William Hamilton Jefferys, Chairman of the Department of Institutions of the Diocese and Superintendent of The Episcopal City Mission. Leaflets with the Appeal of the Ways and Means Committee together with pledge cards were distributed in the pews. On that day and on the following Sunday the rector spoke of the urgency of this appeal.

The Woman's Auxiliary and Guild

Did you go to the Pure Food Supper? If not, you missed an unique and interesting entertainment. I confess I was somewhat curious to know just what kind of a meal it would be that could be served entirely from cans and boxes, and I was surprised to find how palatable it proved to be. All the viands used, from tongue and baked beans to coffee, have been examined by the Food Commission and pronounced pure, clean and of good quality. The manufacturers of a number of products have joined in this plan for advertising their wares, and the churches or organizations holding the affairs are under very slight expense to them. The money is made through the sale of the tickets.

About two hundred and twenty-five of our people were present and everyone seemed to enjoy the experience.

In connection with the supper a bazaar was held during the afternoon and evening, the booths being erected on the lawn, where the various food products were on sale. One booth was assigned for the use of the church, and this was in charge of Mrs. Burrell, chairman of the Junior Service League. She collected useful and fancy articles for it. and the proceeds, amounting to more than $70, are to go to the fund for our bed in St. Luke's Hospital, Tokyo. The League had pledged $100 for this purpose and had already collected something toward it; this $70 completed their pledge with a few dollars to spare.

The whole sum realized from the supper and bazaar was over $200, a very gratifying result.

The fund for St. Luke's Hospital now amounts to nearly $400 and we still have six months to complete our pledge. Will you not all work for it, talk of it, tell of it,—of the work being done there, of its international value, and of the fact that the honor of our country is involved if we fail to keep our promise to rebuild St. Luke's.

Remember, please, that the work for the lepers is now being done, and all volunteers are cordially welcomed. No more stirring appeal could come to us than that made by Miss Riddell for the wretched people among whom she has labored for eighteen years, and to whom she is giving the best that is in her of heart and mind and strength.

The Swing of the Pendulum

Strikes. Lockouts. The open shop. The unionized shop. The exploitation of labor. The indifference to the general welfare when labor has the power to enforce its demands. The reprisals of capital in ultimatums and refusals to compromise. Each side in a struggle to save its face.

How the pendulum swings!

Who will help to trim ship—to try to restore a balance!

Those were good old days—the days of the Guilds. The Carpenters' Guild. The Guild of Iron Workers. The Pewterers' Guild and all the rest of them. Then the Master Workman was a companion and a fellow.

He was in close touch with the journeymen. But now the president of a manufacturing corporation may live and direct affairs at a distance of a thousand miles from his factories. What does he know about his men, or care!

See how far they are apart—master and man—if the employer means to wring the utmost amount of product with the least possible expenditure of money, and if the men aim to work as little as possible for the highest possible pay.

There is a way out. It is possible to steady the pendulum. It is possible to put the ship on even keel and it is to realize that the rebirth of normal conditions awaits a new attitude of every man Jack of us to his job.

MOUNT AIRY COMMUNTY ASSO.,
Odd Fellows' Hall, Mount Airy.

Is Prayer Worth While?

If you ask this of a little girl we know, she would say: "Yes, indeed it is, for it brought me a little baby sister that I wanted very much."

She takes it for granted that you believe you get what you pray for.

She hadn't the least doubt about her prayers being answered, and so the faith of a little child had its rich reward, for this is what really came about.

She told her mother she was going to ask God to please send her a little sister, and that she wanted her called "Mary Louise." God had sent a little sister to a friend of hers, and He would surely send one to her, if she asked Him.

"But suppose God should send you a little brother; and what should you want him called?"

"Oh Jim, I suppose, but I'm going to ask for a sister."

And she did.

The story is best closed by relating the thanksgiving she added to the grace she regularly said at table, and, when it was done, she laughed merrily and asked her mother:

"What are all you people crying for?"

She had said:

"Thank you, dear Jesus, for sending me my little sister and for bringing my mother back from the hospital."

Summer Addresses

The Rector requests those parishioners who expect to be away from Mount Airy for any length of time kindly to send him their Summer addresses. It would be a great help also if he could know the approximate date of their return in the Fall. It is our desire, as far as possible, to send the Parish News to all parishioners during the Summer in order that they may not lose touch with the Home Church.

Vacation and Church

We take the liberty of reprinting the following from the pages of a valued exchange:

"Now there comes the inevitable impression among the children that with the closing of the regular sessions of the Church School the matter of worship and whatever pertains to the Church is practically intermitted until the fall. No time need be spent in showing that this is not right, but a good deal might be said to parents who accede to the status of a child who so reasons. There is provision for a service every Sunday morning here at home. And no child is too small to come for at least a part of it.

"And then also, let us remember that absence from our homes does not excuse us from failure to keep in some way the Lord's Day. There are few summer resting places which are not accessible to some religious service. Wherever we are, our first duty ought to be to inquire for some house of worship where we can fulfill in some way our appreciation of all we owe to God, and live our vacation not content with the false reasoning that 'religion in summer does not matter.'"

Daily Vacation Bible School

The Daily Vacation Bible School for Mount Airy will be held in the Presbyterian Church from July 5th to August 5th.

This Instruction for the children during the Summer is Interdenominational. At the Commencement Exercises of Grace Church School the Rector recommended the School to the parents and children. He said the fact that Mrs. Allen F. Horton was to be in charge of the School was sufficient guarantee of a high grade of work. He hoped that Grace Church School would be well represented. This work also offers the older boys and girls who have leisure a fine opportunity to help in directing the activities of the children.

Preparation for the Blessed Sacrament

The following selection was copied from a devotional book lent me by our Rector during Lent. I am sending it to be printed in the Parish News with the hope that others may be helped in their preparation for the Blessed Sacrament as I have been.

A PARISHIONER.

"There is an awful reality veiled beneath the sacramental species. Our Lord Beloved is there, in the fullness of living power, in the wonder of His love. Mystically obedient unto death, He comes to be our life, to abide in us, to be in us, life of our life, the spring and source of all power within us.

"We worship, we adore. But we do more; we receive Him, He receives us, takes us to His Heart, covers us, as it were, with His Hand. We see not His glory, we behold not His face. But His glory is there; His face is towards us while He covers our eyes. Could we more simply submit to His sacramental touch, so as to know ourselves beneath His hand, we should experience a degree of rapture not altogether unlike that in which the soul of Moses was transported.

"The moments are brief during which we make our Communion. They often seem too short for one who would perfectly and with generous love appreciate the reception of those spotless mysteries; but we might do more to deepen the wonderful and holy consciousness of the moment by bringing to it a truer concentration of mind. We might approach the Altar with profounder self-humbling, for we cannot enter the Heart of Jesus while the heart within us is full of pride. We might approach our Lord with more perfect submission. We should not fail to perceive far more than we do of the love within which He would hide us.

"And then having made our Communion we might be more interiorly recollected. We might more simply abide in the silence of love, and fear to lose any part of the blessing and the joy by permitting idle thoughts and words. Ours should be a consciousness of a Divine reality which has not only been presented to us, but which has also passed into us. He whom we adored is now in us and we are in Him. He has covered us with the shadow of His hand and all our being has melted into His in the tremendous fact of sacramental union."

An Acknowledgment

The Presiding Bishop and Council
Protestant Episcopal Church
281 Fourth Ave., New York

Thank you ever so much for your timely help to the people in China. We appreciate greatly, your thoughtfulness in giving us the privilege of transmitting your gift.

A few days ago, we received a cable signed by the three Bishops in China, stating that the situation is desperate. They expressed great appreciation of the help already given and asked us to make the need known as widely as possible among those who have not yet shared in meeting it.

We cable money every week to Bishop Graves. It is disbursed through an International Committee of which he is a member. The Committee has the help of a large number of missionaries for the actual distribution of relief in the famine area. You may be sure every dollar of your gift goes directly to relieve the sufferings of the people who need help.

So far we have cabled nearly $30,000.

Sincerely yours,

JOHN W. WOOD,
Secretary for Foreign Work.

The Ways and Means Committee

Of the Executive Council of the Diocese of Pennsylvania Submit this Joint Statement and Appeal on Behalf of the Diocesan Institutions for Immediate Consideration and Action.

The urgent appeal in behalf of the Institutions of the Diocese which has been brought before the Congregation on the past two Sunday mornings is worthy of the attention and generous response of all. No one who is aware of the splendid work that is being done by these Institutions could for a moment tolerate the thought of allowing them to fail. The responsibility for their support is now up to the Diocese of Pennsylvania. Grace Church is one of the units which go to make up the Diocese. The statement issued by the Ways and Means Committee calls for $50,000. Ought not Grace Church contribute one hundredth part of this amount? Let us send at least $500 from this Parish for the needs of these great charitable and educational Institutions of Philadelphia.

T. S. C.

June, 1921.

To the Contributors of the Diocese:

There is a Crisis Facing Our Institutions

Whereas, last year the Diocese contributed to its Institutions a total of $70,000 (in excess of what they received from all other sources); this year, chiefly owing to the death of several generous contributors, the Diocese would not be able, apart from this appeal, to contribute to its Institutions more than $20,000. This difference of $50,000 must be raised at once for the Institutions listed herein.

As to Separate Appeals by Our Institutions

Appeals have been necessary both in 1920 and in 1921 because of the fact that while our people largely increased their gifts in 1920, they did not pledge sufficiently to guarantee the support of our Institutions. If, however, this joint appeal succeeds as it should, it may be possible hereafter to cover their needs in a single joint appeal, and thus eliminate or modify the separate appeals.

Object of This Appeal

Our aim to obtain new contributions for our Institutions to the amount of at least $50,000; that those who have not yet contributed to the support of any of these Institutions may make an immediate contribution, or a definite pledge, payable within the year; and that those who have already contributed to some one or more of these Institutions may increase their gifts to the same Institutions, or make a general contribution for the combined need as herein set forth.

Institutions Which Will Benefit

The Institutions named in this appeal will benefit. Such sums as may be specially designated will be forwarded directly to the Institutions thereby designated.

As to the Future

It is anticipated that many of our Institutions will, beginning with 1922, be placed upon the budget of the Welfare Federation of Philadelphia; in such case our Church as a whole will be relieved from the duty of paying for their current support, but our members will, of course, be expected, like all of other citizens of Philadelphia, to contribute to the Welfare Federation.

Method of Contribution

Checks should be made payable to the Diocese of Pennsylvania. All contributions will be credited to the quotas of the Parishes of the contributors.

These are Your Institutions

The work of the Diocese comprises the care of its Institutions.

The Institutions named herein represent a varied work of high character rendering service of which the Church should be well informed and justly proud. Their expenses have been pared down to the minimum. They have the endorsement of the Executive Council, and need to feel the entire weight of the Diocese supporting them.

The Rector's Letter

My dear Friends and Parishioners:

My last letter to you in these columns was devoted to a backward glance. This time let us anticipate the coming season's work. The Parish Council at its mid-summer meeting laid out the program for the Fall and I assure you it is a program of unusual interest.

Rally Sunday

Sunday, October 2nd, will be Rally Sunday. By that time I trust we shall all be back from our vacations, refreshed and eager for new endeavor. The Winter Schedule of Services will be resumed on that day. The Church School will hold its opening session at nine thirty that morning.

Missionary Centennial

One hundred years ago this coming November our Church established its national missionary organization. The observance of this important Centennial will naturally color all our plans for the Autumn.

The Missionary note will be dominant in our thought and work.

The Presiding Bishop and Council asks all the people of the Church to celebrate the Centennial during the week of October 30th to November 6th.

The activities suggested by the Committee of Arrangements include an historical pageant, a special program for the Church School, a Centennial Sunday with a Service of Holy Communion, special sermon, offering, etc.

Centennial Sunday, November 6th, coincides with our annual Dedication Festival Sunday. Our Parish Feast will, of course, give place to the national celebration, or to put it in another way, our festival will take on a missionary character. We have replied to the Presiding Bishop and Council that we shall gladly carry out the suggested program in Grace Church.

Confirmation

Notice has been received from the Bishop that he will make his annual visitation to Grace Church for Confirmation on Sunday, December 4th. The date was placed later than in recent years at my request in order to allow a longer time for the preparation in the Fall. The Confirmation Classes will organize Sunday, October 9th, at 4 P. M.. Instructions will follow every Wednesday afternoon and evening until the Bishop's visit. I bring this matter to your attention at this time in order that those who are desirous of being confirmed may have full information. Candidates are requested to notify me of their intention at their earliest convenience. I shall be glad to talk with any who are in doubt regarding the matter.

Let us all labor and pray that many may be guided to seek the spiritual blessings and privileges of Confirmation, and that those who come may be thoroughly grounded in the Faith and ever remain loyal Churchmen.

Pastoral Conferences

The Priest should know his people and they should know him. Our Church is suffering for lack of pastoral contact. The minister would preach better and the people would live better if there were closer relations established. At present this matter is left entirely to the initiative and efforts of the Clergy. If any one is sick or troubled he waits for the Rector to find it out and to search him out. If the Rector calls for meetings or conferences he always meets the same faithful few. Under modern conditions pastoral calling has its limitations. If pastor and people are to know each other and to work together effectively for the building up of the Kingdom of God, some way must be devised to supplement pastoral calling. With this in view I am planning to invite the Communicants of Grace Church to meet me in small groups during the coming season. You will receive a personal invitation to participate in one or more informal conferences regarding things which are vital to you and to me. These conferences will be held in the Parish House Monday and Wednesday evenings throughout the Winter months. But it will be a different group each time. I venture to hope that they will mean a great deal to our spiritual life in Grace Church, and I bespeak your hearty co-operation in making them a success.

Yours very faithfully,

THOMAS S. CLINE.

Flowers for the Sick

Few of us realize what pleasure fresh flowers give patients who are confined in city hospitals during these hot Summer days.

Mr. Lloyd Mellor Smith, Lay Reader of Grace Church, who is visiting city hospitals under the auspices of the City Mission, will be glad to receive donations of flowers from our gardens for distribution on Sundays.

The Rector will see that any flowers left at the Church on Saturdays reach Mr. Smith. Mr. Smith suggests also that bright colored cards are welcomed by the children.

Church Advertising

The Public Ledger announces that at two conferences of officials of the Episcopal Church it has been decided to develop newspaper advertising as "the most effectual form of appeal from the Churches to the unchurched."

This announcement is followed up by an editorial commending strongly this awakening on the part of the Episcopal Church. "Religious business takes a leaf from the book of secular affairs," it says. "Everything that makes for efficiency in industry and commerce makes for it in the work of the Church. It is an encouraging symptom of the tendency of the Church to place itself abreast of modern processes of thought and policies of action, to find it adopting the methods of business to make its voice heard and declare its hospitable invitation."

Perhaps the newspaper is not altogether disinterested in its comment.

It is true that the printed column is an important means of arresting the attention of the masses. But we cannot agree that newspaper advertising is the "most effectual form of appeal" Christianity can make to the unchurched.

The fact is that we are in great danger of overestimating the value of such propaganda.

We are tempted to resort to superficial and spectacular methods and to neglect the patient cultivation of secret sources of moral and spiritual power.

"Let your light shine," said our Lord—but He referred to shining deeds of virtuous living. When Churchmen exemplify Christian principles in their daily lives they are strengthening the Church among the unchurched as no column of "ads" can do. The size and impressiveness of a newspaper "ad" is measured by the money paid for it, not by the merit of the institution it praises. My eye falls at this moment upon a column of six Church "ads" in a Pacific Coast newspaper. They are all of equal size and cleverness. They give one the impression that here are six "churches" each blowing its own horn with equal entnusiasm. They represent the following: "North Side Community Church (undenominational), Third Church of Christ, Scientist, Metaphysical Center, St. Luke's Episcopal Church, Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints (Mormon) and the Unitarian Church."

Now suppose this enthusiasm for advertising develops. Each of these and a few score of others take a full page. They adopt bold face type and resort to colored ink. They introduce cuts and clever epigram. Would it lead to widespread religious revival? Draw your own conclusions.

The various Christian Communions can waste a great deal of money in competitive advertising which could better be devoted to Missions, Religious Education or Social Service.

The Episcopal Church, under the impetus of recent reorganization, has indeed taken many leaves "from the book of secular affairs." In fact, one wonders whether we have not come to trust the book of secular affairs more than the Book of Divine Inspiration.

After all, the Church is something more than a business concern. "Business methods"! Yes, of course, but let us not pin our faith to them.

Let us never confuse propaganda with proclaiming the Gospel. Let us beware of too much playing to the grand stand. Let us not forget that the world discounts all our paid advertisement.

By our fruits the World will know us —not by our clever "ads."

The Diocese of Pennsylvania seems to be very much carried away with this modern fad of Publicity.

Without hesitation our Council and Convention have approved of a budget of six thousand dollars for Publicity for the current year.

But when the suggestion was made that we provide a budget of five thousand dollars for Religious Education it almost brought consternation at the last session of the Council.

And yet who would seriously maintain that publicity is so vital to the growth and success of the Church as Christian Nuture?

It would be a fine thing to have expert leadership in both these Departments. But if we can't afford both, then by all means let us choose Religious Education.

It pays to advertise—but it pays far better to educate. And expert leadership is more essential in the field of education than in that of publicity.

Pennsylvania, once a leader among the dioceses in Religious Education, now lags far behind for want of an expert Director of Religious Education. Our excellent Charitable Institutions have been appealing for financial aid. Everywhere we feel the need of economy except in Publicity.

Is it possible that we believe that paid advertisement or professional propaganda can cover up our defects or take the place of patient and costly constructive work along the less spectacular but more vital lines of prayer, teaching, self-denial, works of charity and deeds of heroism?

If the Church is real the world will surely take notice.

Mission Study

The subject for Mission Study next year will be Hawaii and the Philippine Islands. The text book to be used is "The Fair American," by Miss Dorothy Giles. Books and helps can be obtained by writing to the Publication Department, Church Missions House, 281 Fourth avenue, New York. The Diocesan Normal Training Classes for Mission Study Leaders will be held in the early Fall.

A Convocational Event

The Grace Church delegates to the Woman's Aid to the Convocation of Germantown ask the interest and co-operation of all the women of the parish in a concerted effort to provide funds to help in carrying on most important and very promising mission work within the Convocation.

On Tuesday, October 11th, there is to be a luncheon, followed by a sale of aprons, cake and candy. We are happy to announce that we are to have the use of the Parish House of St. Luke's Church, Germantown, the most central and accessible location possible. Both the Rector of St. Luke's and the President of that branch of the Woman's Auxiliary are whole-heartedly in sympathy with the undertaking and eager to help. All we need for wonderful results is enthusiasm throughout the Convocation. Please keep the day free. Please send one or more aprons to Mrs. E. W. Jenkins, 334 Gowen avenue, Mt. Airy, by October 6th. Cake and candy should be at St. Luke's Parish House before noon of the 11th if possible. Have you any good recipes to send?

While the financial side of this affair is of the utmost importance, we are thinking as well of the opportunity it will afford for closer contact. We need to get together. Fellowship means more than we are wont to realize. We want to know, and be in very real sympathy with, the women of the smallest and the most remote parishes and missions in Bucks County! You can help. Let us put hard work and hearty spirit into this our first big affair, with the exception of those at Mrs. Woodward's home.

We remember that, "in all our doings," nothing is so helpful as prayer. Will you use the following prayer on Saturdays at noon, or on Sundays?

Dear Father in heaven, we ask Thy blessing upon the Missionary work within the Convocation of Germantown. We pray Thee to direct and prosper us in everything undertaken according to Thy will (especially . . . . .), and to bless it to the coming of Thy Kingdom, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

The Missionary Box Committee

The following is a type of letter that comes from various places to which garments have been sent under the new system.

Garments assigned to the Committee are made and delivered to the Diocesan Supply Bureau in Philadelphia, where they are packed and forwarded. In each packing case a list of contents and the names of the donors is placed, for acknowledgment:

Dear Mrs. Burrell:

Attention of Women's Auxiliary Grace Church

Allow me to thank your Auxiliary for the appropriate and timely offerings:

6 Baby Slips; 31 Baby Diapers; 8 Rompers; 12 Girls' Dresses; 3 Women's Aprons.

These gifts are very helpful. Many of the parents of our girls can scarcely maintain them in common decency, and the Auxiliary of the Church who helps them so materially cannot but cause a more enlightened interest in behalf of the Church. To this end more good may be accomplished right here in the South than in Africa.

The American Church Institute for Negroes has promised to take over the work, and we hope then to be of more service to the people.

We humbly ask that you continue to manifest a kindly interest in our work, and we beseech you to remember us in your prayers. We know that God will abundantly bless every member of the Auxiliary and compensate them for their noble spirit of helpfulness.

Again thanking you for past favors, I have the honor to remain with the greatest respect,

Faithfully yours,
ARTEMISIA BOWDEN.

Rector's Vacation

The Rector will be away during the latter part of August and the month of September. During his absence the Services of Grace Church will be in charge of the Rev. William C. Emhardt. Mr. Emhardt is already well known to Grace Church people. A Sunday School Story

A little boy we know—a very little boy—had been to Sunday School for the first time.

"And what did they tell you, son?" asked Daddy.

"Well, Miss Molly said that once upon a time there was a very poor man who went to call on a very rich man and asked for some crumbs. I don't know if he got any, but any way he went out and sat down by the gate and got licked by some dogs. Then the poor man died and went to Paris and the rich man got punished—I think he got spanked."

Mistakes

Robert G. Ingersoll—he who found a Plumed Knight in James G. Blaine—used to deliver a lecture called "The Mistakes of Moses." There are more men than Moses who have made mistakes.

The present writer, for instance, lived more than half his life under the mistaken impression that the Bible claims that God created the rainbow after the Flood. That there weren't any rainbows before Noah's time. This matter has only rather recently been cleared up by our having come to understand that the rainbow was appointed—designated as a token of God's covenant with Noah.

And while we are discussing things optical, let us consider the attitude of a man who has never heard of the composition of white light. If he were shown the range of the colors of the spectrum, and were told that a combination of them makes white, how great an absurdity he would make of it, and how sure he would be that it couldn't be so.

Yet, how much he would be mistaken.

"Who is this that darkeneth counsel by words without knowledge?"

"Hast thou perceived the breadth of the Earth? Declare if thou knowest it all!"

The Rector's Letter

My dear Friends:

During the next few weeks I shall be enjoying the White Mountain regions of New Hampshire. There I shall find new "high places" for the worship of the glorious Creator. How memorable are such occasions! One morning, several years ago, a small group of us read Matins on the summit of Mt. Madison at sunrise (4 A. M.). It will always remain a precious memory. Worship in the open helps us to realize something of the grandeur and splendor of God.

But I believe that God has revelations for us in our houses, which are no less important. To be sure, our most beautiful churches cannot contain Him, nor can the Heavens. But I am one of those who think that Nature is all the more lovely for the time spent before the Altar within the consecrated sanctuary. As you assemble for the appointed worship in Grace Church each Lord's Day you may think of your Rector as officiating in Christ Church, North Conway, New Hampshire.

Among the peaks of the White Mountains I shall not find a more beautiful environment for worship than Grace Church. I never enter its doors that I am not impressed with its loveliness. Frequently I return thanks for the privilege of worshipping in such a sanctuary.

This afternoon I was sitting in the rear of the Church, as I am fond of doing. The slanting rays of the setting sun came intermittently through the clerestory windows and cast a soft glow upon the Evangelists on the Rood Screen. Above them the Cross stretched out its white arms, so clear against the shadowy background of the chancel wall. Through the fine tracery of the Rood Screen rich fragments of color could be seen. A tiny flame, blood-red, shone like a star above the Altar and seemed to give life to the whole chancel. The place seemed to say "O, worship the Lord in the beauty of holiness."

Grace Church is not at its best just now. The old organ has been dismantled and the new instrument is stored about the aisles. The workmen are laying the tile pavement in the new Baptistery. There is not the usual quiet and order. But it is still Grace Church and possesses the atmosphere of devotion. In fact, the present disorder is prophetic of the time, not far distant, when Grace Church will be lovelier than ever. The new organ will be a thing of beauty in more senses than one. The chancel will be enriched by carved work and all its wood work will have the harmonious fumed oak finish. The transept, now happily converted into a Baptistery, has been redeemed, and blemishes in the Church are being removed.

In closing this letter I cannot refrain from saying what is obvious to us all, that all this outward beauty is only the setting of our worship. It is all vain unless there is a richness of love and devotion in our hearts.

"Vainly we offer each ample oblation,
Vainly with gifts would his favour secure;
Richer by far is the heart's adoration,
Dearer to God are the prayers of the poor."

Faithfully yours,

THOMAS S. CLINE.

The Woman's Auxiliary and Guild

The Convocation of Germantown each year undertakes to give aid to certain missions or parishes within its boundaries, and, needless to say, money is required for the purpose. This fall an apron sale will be held to help provide the necessary funds and everybody is asked to help—even a little—to make it a success. A contribution of two or more new aprons is desired, and cake and candy will also be most acceptable. Luncheon will be served at 1 o'clock, at seventy-five cents a person.

This affair will be held on Tuesday, October 11th, in St. Luke's parish house, Germantown, which is centrally located and easy of access. Grace Church should be well represented on that day.

Aprons should be sent to Mrs. Jenkins, 334 Gowen avenue, and any one wishing to give cake or candy will please notify Mrs. Jenkins by postal card and she will see that these articles are collected before 11 o'clock on the morning of the sale.

At the request of a number of our members, the day of the weekly meetings of the Auxiliary has been changed to Thursday for the coming year, and it is hoped that this will be so satisfactory that it will result in a great increase in attendance. The first of these meetings will be on Thursday morning, October 13th. At 2.30 o'lock, October 6th, the regular fall Stated Meeting of the Auxiliary will be held at the home of the president, 334 Gowen avenue, and we are all asked to be on time—it is a good way to start the year. A special effort will be made this season to hold all meetings exactly at the hour set for them. So many minutes are wasted in waiting for the late comers that we should think seriously about the question of punctuality. Those who are on time have every reason to protest against waiting for the others.

The Stated Meeting is usually held on the second Tuesday of October, but as this would conflict with the Convocation Apron Sale, our meeting has been changed to the 6th.

Mrs. Wellington and Mrs. Pease are in charge of our work for the lepers of Kumomoto, and they expect to have wool on hand to distribute to those who will knit it into articles suitable for the purpose. It is well to keep this work in mind throughout the year instead of relegating it to the summer months, when so many of our people are away from home. Odds and ends of wool of any color can be used for a special purpose. Please send Mrs. Pease anything you can spare of this kind.

This column would be incomplete without some reference to the Rummage Sale. Keep it always in mind, and let us have anything useful that can be spared.

The Rector's Absence

The Rector is spending his vacation in North Conway, N. H., where he will remain until the end of September. During his absence the services in Grace Church will be in charge of the Rev. William C. Emhardt, whose residence is at 225 West Mount Airy avenue. Any requests for priestly ministrations should be referred to Mr. Emhardt. His phone number is Chestnut Hill 0619.

Week Day Services

During the Rector's absence the Rev. Mr. Emhardt will celebrate the Holy Communions on the following Wednesday mornings at 7.30: September 14, 21 and 28. The services will be omitted on August 31st and September 7th.

The Centennial

The Centennial of the Domestic and Foreign Missionary Society (1821-1921) will be celebrated throughout the country during the week of October 30th to November 6th. There will be a special program prepared for our observance in Grace Church. Sunday, November 6th, Centennial Sunday will be the great day. The program will be announced later.

At the July meeting of the Rector and Executive Council, recognition was taken of the splendid work done for several years past by Miss Rachel Lamb, who has "mothered" the little children brought to the Church School in coach and bus. Quietly and most faithfully she has gone with them in all kinds of weather, never missing a Sunday unless very ill, and always kindly solicitous for the comfort and safety of every child. No older person could have done the work better. Mothers may have confidence their children are safe while in Miss Lamb's hands.

Reception and Anniversary

Tuesday, October 4th, which is the anniversary of the battle of Germantown, has been selected as the date for a welcome home to our Rector after his return from a vacation in New England, and every member of the parish is cordially invited to be present. A short program has been prepared for the evening which will consist of a brief history of the Battle of Germantown, a paper on "The Old Germantown Road," and the singing together of some of the old well-known songs. The Rector and Mrs. Cline will receive their friends at 8 o'clock, and it is hoped that every one wll arrive in good time.

Notes from the Publicity Department

281 Fourth Avenue, New York

The National Publicity Department of the Episcopal Church sends out these occasional notes of miscellaneous information about various phases of Church work for the use of editors of parochial, diocesan and general Church papers:

One Hundred Years Ago

From the report of the committee appointed to consider founding the Missionary Society, in 1820:

"While Christians of every name are already marshalled for the conflict under their respective leaders, and prepared to engage with the powers of darkness, we cannot see the American Episcopal Church indifferent in this great enterprise without painful and boding regret."

The fact that millions are ignorant of the gospel "conveys a powerful summons, addressed to all who call themselves Christians, to be up and doing, to devote their time, their talents and the means with which God has prospered them, in making known His ways unto men."

To EVERY MEMBER of the Society

Article XII of the Constitution of the Domestic and Foreign Missionary Society

"It is recommended to every member of this Society to pray to Almighty God for His blessing upon its designs, under the full conviction that unless He direct us in all our doings with His most gracious favour, and further us with His continual help, we cannot reasonably hope either to procure suitable persons to act as missionaries or expect that their endeavours will be successful."

To Mothers and Fathers

A campaign must be made not only to educate the child in its responsibilities, but what is equally, if not more important, to educate the parents in responsibilities to their child. I know several instances where young children come to school Sunday mornings, arising to dress themselves and coming without breakfast, while their parents loll in bed. When there is the slightest excuse the children are whirled away on automobile trips, which, if delayed generally one hour, would keep the child in the habit of Churchgoing—by allowing it to go to its Church School.

Upon my word it seems in about half the instances that I meet parents on this subject, they take the attitude they are doing the Church some favor to allow their children to come under its teaching and influence! The reason we do not have as many children in the Church Schools as we should will be found in the selfish indifference of the parent and not in the lack of inclination on the part of the child.—Bishop Sumner in The Oregon Churchman.

Another Bishop for Africa

Our Bishop Gardiner is not the only new Bishop for Africa. On St. Peter's Day, in Bloemfontein, South Africa, Walter Carey was consecrated for the South African English diocese of Bloemfontein. Bishop Carey is widely known and loved in the United States for his books, especially "Have You Understood Christianity?" one of the most popular small books on Christian fundamentals.

The same day saw the consecration of Bishop La Mothe for Honolulu.

Present and Future Problems

In looking into the future as we celebrate our Centennial, think of these statements recently published in The Missionary Outlook.

The 80,000,000 people of Central Africa are still pagan.

Sixty million or 80,000,000 boys and girls of school age in China are growing up with limited educational advantages.

The First Donations

The first financial statement of the Domestic and Foreign Missionary Society, presented to the first triennial meeting May, 1823, lists the following contributions:

Cotton goods
Hardware
Tea
Ink powder
Quills
1 bbl. sugar house molasses
ch. hymns
1 bridle
1 cross cut saw
1 doz. pad locks
Epis. catechisms
1 pr. Pantaloons
1 pr. shoes (valued at $1.62)

Material collected by several ladies for clothing heathen children.

The most costly donation was "2 hhds of tobacco, from several tobacco dealers."

Social and Religious Work in Mission Hospital

St. Andrew's Hospital, Wusih, reports 1,200 ward patients for last year. After speaking of the medical and surgical relief afforded and the economic value of such an institution to a Chinese town, the report mentions examples of direct social service rendered, and adds:

"If there were twelve hundred patients in our wards this last year, then at least thirty-six hundred know of what was done for the twelve hundred, and perhaps they know what was said to them. Good men and women who speak their own language talked to these people daily. So maybe "the story" is spreading faster than we think."

More than 99 per cent. of the college students in South America profess no belief in God.

Ninety-nine per cent. of the women of India may be classed as illiterates.

One-half of the world's 600,000,000 boys and girls under fifteen cannot read or write in any language, are ignorant of Christ, never have had a Christian home.

The Spirit of Missions, as most readers know, is not only an old Church paper, but it is the sixth oldest magazine now published in the United States.

When Bishop Tuttle first entered Denver, Colorado,, June 11, 1867, it was on the "deck" of a stage coach, with a rifle resting across his knee as protection against the hostile Arapahoe Indians, who were then on the warpath. When, June 10, 1921, fifty-four years later, he entered Denver, it was in a Pullman coach, and now Rev. Sherman Collidge, a full-blooded Arapahoe and Priest of the Church, was there as the spokesman of civilization to welcome the visiting prelate.

The contrast was striking enough in itself as representing the triumphs of the Domestic and Foreign Missionary Society of the Church, whose Centennial anniversary is to be observed this year. Bishop Tuttle went forth in 1867 to carry the Word into a region where Force, guided by Passion, was Law. He returned fifty-four years later to find in full flower that Civilization which is only possible when rooted in the doctrine of the Christ.

The story of service which the Missionary Society has to tell in this Centennial Year was written here in the contrasting conditions to which Rev. Mr. Coolidge gave point when, in welcoming Bishop Tuttle, he said:

"In obedience to your sense of duty to God and His Church you first came to our beloved city and state fifty-four yaers ago on your way to your field of labors as the Missionary Bishop of Montana, with jurisdiction in Idaho and Utah. You had just been elevated to the highest office of the Church and forthwith 'banished to the savage desert regions.' Your long journey was made partly on the railroad and partly by stage coach. When you finally reached Denver, in 1867, you arrived with a rifle across your knees and a generous supply of ammunition to protect your party against the hostile Arapahoes and Cheyennes who infested the country. Most of those old warriors have passed away and we are living under new conditions and facing new problems.

"Today you could have come in an automobile or in an aeroplane, but you chose to come all the way on the train; one can easily do that because our great country is now one vast network of railroads over which travels unchecked the iron horse of commerce carrying the wealth of nations and the products of distant climes in his trail.

"Fifty-four years ago, sir, you brought the light of the Gospel to the West from the East. It was our greatest need then; it is our only hope of salvation in this new age of reconstruction. The World War has shown the fatal danger of materialism, the awful calamity of a period of destruction; it has also given us a vision of the world's need of the spiritual and of the value of the realities of the world invisible. The demand is insistent that co-operation and the brotherhood of man eliminate selfish competition and cruel strife; that democracy shall supercede autocracy; that the spiritual shall dominate and glorify the material; that 'peace and happiness, truth and justice, religion and piety may be established among us for all generations.'"

It is not without significance that, within the same month that this contrasting picture of the "then" and the "now" was being drawn in Denver, in cosmopolitan New York there was being consecrated as Bishop Suffragan of Liberia the Rev. Theophilus Momolu Gardiner, who within the fifty-four years embraced in the Episcopate of Bishop Tuttle, was born a member of the Vey tribe of native East Africans, spent his early boyhood in the jungle, but through the agencies of Protestant Episcopal Missionaries was rescued from savagery and has now risen to the highest dignities of the Church.

Here are two concrete illustrations of the powerful influence which the Missionary Society has exerted in Christianizing and civilizing work—one in the Domestic, the other in the Foreign field. Both, significantly enough, come to hand at the opening of the Centennial year of the Society. They tell alike of the glories of the past and of the opportunities which lie ahead—at home and abroad—for the Society which, it cannot be repeated too often, is the Church and every member thereof, "now and forever, one and inseparable," as Daniel Webster said of the Nation upon whose democratic lines the Church is established.

It costs you nothing to say, "I saw your advertisement in the GRACE CHURCH PARISH NEWS." This goes further with the tradesman than you think. It also helps financially the work of the Parish News. Have you read carefully the advertisements this month? Will you not do so, at once, and give your patronage to some of our advertisers?

Fall Planting—Reasons Why

PAEONIES AND MOST ALL HARDY GARDEN FLOWERS ESPECIALLY

1. Moving a plant from one place to another means a disturbance of the feeding system and a check to the progress of the plant. Fall planting allows the entire winter period—the time of plant inactivity—for the soil to settle and compact about the roots and with the arrival of spring the plants are ready to go forward.
2. The natural sequence in plant growth is first roots, second top. In the fall, though the atmosphere may be cool the ground is still warm and with moisture from rains or as supplied by hand, plants will make little rootlets. The value of these to a newly transplantd plant is inestimable.
3. It may be a secondary reason, yet a most practical one, that fall planting is wise because there is absence of the haste which accompanies all spring work.
4. Our guarantee is just as good as in spring. Should any plants fail, we share the loss.
5. If you want to select your own plants, or to see landscape effects produced by certain combinations of plants, the weeks just preceding fall planting show plants still in leaf, whereas in spring they are bare and apparently lifeless.

PARRISH NOTES

The Rector can be seen at the Church after any of the services, or at the rectory by appointment. He wishes to be of service to the people and the community, and will appreciate being notified of cases of sickness and need. He is always ready to respond to calls of mercy, and to administer the Offices and Sacraments of the Church.

The Rector requests that he be consulted before arrangements are made for Baptisms, Weddings or Funerals. This will avoid disappointment to those needing his services.

The Church is the proper place for Baptisms, Weddings and Funerals. There is no charge for the use of the Church building, but whosoever would have the services of the organ and choir must make arrangements with the Choirmaster.

All communicants removing from the parish should ask the Rector for a letter of transfer. Those who come from other parishes and who wish to make Grace Church their Church home are kindly asked to make themselves known to the Rector.

The Duplex Envelope System is in use in the parish, and envelopes may be obtained from the Accounting Warden. Kindly send him a card and they will be mailed you.

The Rector's Letter

My dear Friends of Grace Church:

It seems more than a month since my son and I loaded the faithful little car and started for the North country. We made directly for the coast, stopping for a short visit with old comrades of the Sixteenth Infantry at Camp Dix and a night at Lakewood.

Avoiding the congestion of New York, we took the charming Merrick road along the southern coast of Long Island, ferried across the Sound from Greenport to New London, and sped on to Boston for the week-end.

It was pleasant to drop into Sunday morning worship at St. Stephen's Church, Boston, the scene of my former labors. It so happened that Mr. Lauderburn, who was Vicar of St. Stephen's in my day, was there taking Summer duty, and it made it seem like "old times."

At Dover, N. H., we picked up the Rev. David A. Pearson, also formerly at St. Stephen's, but later for nine years Rector at North Conway. His company cheered the last lap of our journey. He kindly stayed with us long enough to introduce us to this lovely town.

North Conway is well known to some of you as one of the oldest and most attractive of the White Mountain resorts. How proudly the old residents tell of the distinguished persons who have sought refreshment and inspiration here.

I shall not attempt to describe the magnificent views of the mountains on all sides: Kearsarge and Bartlett on the east, the Moats on the west, Chocorua farther south, and the lofty Presidential Range to the north. I shall restrain my raptures over these sweet pine woods, crystal cascades and quiet lakes. It has been a great privilege to feel the spell of Nature once more. It restores one's confidence and inner poise.

The rectory where we have been domiciled during our stay is a charming century-old house half hidden in a grove of pines and white birches. Christ Church is attractive and spacious. In fact, it is too spacious to be heated in the winter and the diminished congregation then worships in a chapel in the rectory.

It has been my privilege to conduct services also at Grace Chapel, Kearsarge. Naturally, the summer visitors are much in evidence, for it is the height of the season. But the permanent residents form the backbone of the church. They have been without a settled pastor now for two years, but have prospects of procuring one soon.

Last week we motored up the Glen Road, skirting the base of Mount Washington, to our former home, Berlin, where we attended a parish party and greeted many old friends.

In the course of the month I have visited both of my former fields of labor; for in the sixteen years of my ministry I have served only three parishes.

In a few days we shall be starting homeward. How glad I shall be to see you all. Your letters have spoken appreciatively of the ministrations of Mr. Emhardt. Recent letters are full of enthusiasm for the beautiful carved screens being placed in the chancel, and keen expectation of the new organ.

Soon we shall have our "Rally Sunday." Let us make it a genuine rally to the Standard of the Cross of Christ. We could not have a more appropriate theme for the opening of a new season's work than that of the collect for the day, "O God, for as much as without Thee we are not able to please Thee: Mercifully grant that Thy Holy Spirit may in all things direct and rule our hearts."

Faithfully yours,

THOMAS S. CLINE.

North Conway, N. H.

St. Matthew's Day, 1921.

The Woman's Auxiliary and Guild

Three hundred cards have been mailed announcing the Stated Meeting to be held at the residence of the President of the Guild, 334 Gowen avenue, on October 6th, at 2.30 o'clock. This means at least three hundred women should be working together.

The day for the sewing meetings has been changed to Thursday this year, in the hope that that day will be more convenient for all.

It is not expected that every woman can come to sew or knit, but let us feel that each one will have a share in the work of Grace Church.

It is our Church, and not the church of a few. It belongs to you and to me. Is it fair that the same people should do all the work all the time?

Some have said, "It is just money they want." We DO want money; what could we do without it? But those who have the mite to give, and give themselves, are giving more than those who give something of their abundance. How wonderful if we could fill the auxiliary room. Our Chairman always has work for all, and everybody knows what a crying need there will be for garments as the winter comes on. If you cannot come, there is plenty of sewing to be done at home.

The annual exhibition of work for the Christmas Box for the Lepers in Japan will take place at an early date, which will be announced by the Rector.

Do not forget that we have not finished our fund for the Memorial or Parish Bed in St. Luke's International Hospital, Tokyo, and those pledges must be paid by January 1st, 1922. Has any one suggestions to make for raising the rest of this amount—about four hundred dollars?

On Tuesday, October 11th, in St. Luke's Parish House, Germantown, there will be a Luncheon and Sale of Aprons, Cake and Candy, for the benefit of the work of the Woman's Aid to the Convocation of Germantown. As you know, in this way we are able to give a helping hand to those smaller parishes who need help so much. All the churches in the Convocation are working to make this Sale a success—and as we are much nearer than many, we hope to see many Grace Church women that day. So, as the women of the Convocation are getting together, let us get together and do our work in a spirit of love and obedience to the will of God.

FLORENCE De G. JENKINS,
President.

The Reception and Anniversary

The Rector is back from his vacation in the White Mountains, and at the reception to Mr. and Mrs. Cline, on Wednesday evening, October 4th, every member of the parish should be present.

The Rector wants us to "get together" before beginning our Fall work; let us do so and give him a warm greeting.

The evening promises to be of much interest. There will be a paper by Mrs. Price on "Old Germantown," a brief history of the Battle of Germantown will be given, and we are going to sing together some of the old well-known songs. Perhaps we shall have a soloist.

The hour is eight o'clock. It is hoped every one will come in good time.

Subscribe for the Parish News

The annual subscriptions for the Parish News are now due and payable.

The price is only one dollar, which may be handed to an usher, sent with other remittances to the Accounting Warden, or mailed to the Business Manager, Mr. J. Howard Fell, 1315 Cherry Street, Philadelphia.

The cost of producing the parish paper is nearly double the figure of pre-war times. Every parishioner is asked to help bear this expense.

The Rummage Sale

Don't forget when you are putting away the Summer things that the Rummage Sale isn't so very far off. Begin saving for it now.

When possible, please send articles to the Parish House, marked "Rummage Sale," for this will save collection trips at the last moment. Anything but furniture can be used. If you have this to spare, please sell it at home and turn in the proceeds to the general Rummage fund.

The Spirit of Missions

Are you a subscriber to our wonderfully interesting missionary magazine — The Spirit of Missions? The October issue is to be an Anniversary (Fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the Woman's Auxiliary) and a special United Thank Offering number. We are to have the same privileges as in 1920. The annual subscription price is one dollar, and the single copies ten cents. For every new subscription—or a renewal—we may retain fifteen cents for the United Thank Offering, and five cents for each single copy sold. A year ago we sent in from Grace Church about twenty-five new subscriptions and a few renewals. We would like to do much better this time. It makes no difference if the subscription does not expire until January 1st or later. Even if you have been subscribing directly for many years, will you not now help the United Thank Offering by renewing through Mrs. Ralph H. North, 7301 Boyer street? All new subscriptions and renewals must be sent in time to reach the New York office before November 1st, when this special offer expires.

During October we gather in our semi-annual United Thank Offering. Notices will go out to the contributors about the fifteenth of the month.

The Rector's Letter

Dear Parishioners:

As the word "Dedication" recurs in our parish program this Fall it seems to take on a larger meaning. For a number of years we have observed All Saints' Day, and the week following as our Dedication Festival. It has meant to us the commemoration of the consecration of our parish Church and the expression of our gratitude for the lives of those into whose labors we have entered. It has helped us to dedicate ourselves anew to build worthily upon the foundations they have laid. I do not think our Festival has ever been merely parochial in scope. When we have thought of Grace Church it has always been for us a symbol of all that Christianity means to us and to the world. Our history extends beyond the founding of our parish, even beyond Apostolic days. Our aspirations reach to the uttermost parts of the earth.

But this year the thought of the Centennial of the Church's Missionary Society and of the Jubilee of the Woman's Auxiliary focuses our attention upon the mission of the Church and illuminates the word "Dedication."

We shall recall how a century ago the Episcopal Church in America, being aroused from her lethargy and provincialism, dedicated her powers to the conquest of the Continent. We shall rehearse the deeds of her great pioneers and estimate the beneficent results of her labors during the century of missionary effort. And our hearts will be filled with gratitude and we shall dedicate ourselves again to the great cause —the spread of God's Kingdom "Among all men everywhere."

What will be the measure of the success of the Centennial? Will it not be the amount of sincere self-dedication it promotes in the hearts of individual men and women?

Yes, and also the amount of co-operation. For our individual good resolutions will be rendered ineffective unless we unite in a few great aims.

The Church has wisely set before us four great centennial objectives.

First, the Church asks for our prayers. "Pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest that he will send forth laborers into his harvest." The effort will be made to enroll 100,000 intercessors.

Secondly, the Church asks us to consider seriously whether we ourselves are not called to labor in the mission field. It is hoped at least 100 additional missionaries will volunteer.

Thirdly, the Church asks us to enroll as stewards, pledging ourselves to give proportionately of our means. In this way we shall help to attain the third objective of the Centennial which is to enroll the first 100,000 proportionate givers. Lastly the Church lays before us the opportunity of making a thank offering to be devoted to the erection of certain buildings which will stand in future generations as monuments of the Centennial.

Instead of our annual offering for the endowment of the parish, let us present a great Missionary Offering on Centennial Sunday, November sixth.

We are glad to have our Parish Festival swallowed up in the greater Centennial Festival, but let us retain as the motif of our celebration the idea of Dedication; self-dedication.

Almost coincident with the Centennial challenge of the Church comes the patriotic appeal apropos to the Disarmament Conference that we "dedicate ourselves anew to building in the war-ridden earth the City of God foretold by the mouth of prophets since the world began."

Therefore let us keep the Feast in the noblest spirit.

Yours faithfully,
THOMAS S. CLINE.

The Bishop's Pastoral

To the People of the

Friday, November 11th, brings the third Anniversary of the Armistice which concluded the Great War.

It also brings the opening of the international conference in Washington on the Limitation of Armaments.

The President of the United States has called on all the peolpe to keep this memorable day with due regard to its unique significance.

The memory of the Armistice recalls the valor, devotion and sacrifice which secured our liberty and national integrity.

The opening of the Conference in Washington marks the dawn of the best hope ever given to men of permanent peace between the races and nations of the world.

The President has reminded us that so great an end can be accomplished only by God's help, and that our first duty as good citizens at this great crisis is to pray.

I therefore, following his suggestion in grateful loyalty, appoint Friday, November 11th, as a day to be marked by special services of prayer and intercession in all the Churches of this Diocese. And I would urge:

That every Church be kept open from sunrise to sunset to give the people opportunity to resort thither for private prayer;

That in every Church there be a celebration of the Holy Communion, at which memorial be made of those who gave their lives for their country and supplication be offered to God that He will guide the Conference in Washington according to His will;

That in every Church provision be made for the two minutes of silent prayer and devotion at the noon hour which the President has specially requested.

I am confident that the people of the Diocese will recognize it both as their obligation and their privilege to mark this day by acts of public and private devotion suitable alike to their responsibility as citizens and to their loyalty and faith as Christians.

PHILIP M. RHINELANDER,
Bishop of Pennsylvania.

Feast of S. Simon and S. Jude, 1921.

Armistice Day and the Sunday Following

On Armistice Day, Friday, November 11th, there will be a celebration of the Holy Communion at 11 o'clock. A special Collect, Epistle and Gospel, have been appointed for this service.

Following the Eucharist there will be Intercessions, which will include the two minutes of silence at the noon hour, for which the President has asked.

On Sunday evening, November 13th, at 8 o'clock, there will be a Patriotic Service in the interest of Disarmament. The speaker will be the Rev. Earl H. Weed, Chaplain of the First Division, U. S. A., and Camp Chaplain of Camp Dix.

These Services will afford Grace Church people an opportunity to comply with the Godly request which comes with all solemnity from those in authority both in Church and State. The President of the U. S., the Federal Council of Churches and the Presiding Bishop and Council of the Episcopal Church all unite in a stirring Call to Prayer and Consecration. They voice the sentiment of the Christian people of America. We hear a voice, like the sound of many waters. Is it vox populi? Is it not rather vox Dei? Thus saith the Lord: "Beat your swords into plowshares and your spears into pruning hooks. Let not nation lift up sword against nation; neither learn war any more."

Your Attention, Please

The financial statement printed in this number shows a deficit on October 1 of $428.40. This compelled the Church to borrow in order to pay the salaries then due.

The Church books show that on the same date there was due and unpaid on duplex envelope pledges a sum in excess of $700 in small amounts. This was more than enough to pay all salaries due and leave a comfortable balance in the Church's treasury.

We believe that most of our parishioners regard their duplicate envelope pledges as debts of honor and expect to pay them. If they would but make it a point of honor to pay them when due the Church and her officers would be relieved of the heavy responsibilities the latter assumed for her on the faith in those pledges.

New Sign Board

We cannot refrain from a word of appreciation of the new sign board in front of the Church. It stands there with such dignity and informs all passers-by of the services of the Church. He who runs may read—so clear is its message. We are told that it was presented by three gentlemen of the Vestry. They deserve our thanks.

"Books and school and the advice of elders have their value, but they are poor substitutes for experience, which is the result of action."—Samuel A. Derieux.

The Woman's Auxiliary and Guild

An all-day meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary and Guild will be held on Thursday, November 3rd.

The women are asked to bring box lunches—hot coffee will be served.

If you cannot give all day, plan especially for the afternoon, for it is hoped Miss Riddell will be with us and will speak in the early part of the afternoon, after which tea will be served.

The annual exhibition of the articles for the "Lepers' Box," Kumamoto, Japan, will be held on Thursday, November 3rd, at the Parish House, Grace Church, Mount Airy. It is hoped many will be interested and come. All donations should be sent to Mrs. J. Arthur Wellington, 7433 Boyer street, before that date.

This is a good opportunity for the mothers to bring their small children. It will be informal; you can hear of the work and you can get acquainted while the children play: the next room with one or two young women in charge.

Those who heard Miss Riddell at the Leamy Home last winter will want to hear her again. Those who have not heard her have a great treat in store.

Mrs. Pilsbry Coming

On Sunday evening, November 20th, following Evensong, Mrs. Pilsbry, for several years successful head of the Mission Study Work of the Diocese, will conduct a Class for the Men and Women of the parish on the Church's Mission.

An evening with Mrs. Pilsbry promises to be interesting and stimulating.

Men's Service League

The Men's Service League has resumed its fall meetings, with promise of increased activity in its various departments of church work and also along social lines.

A new feature this season is social evenings at the homes of various members of the League, the object being that the men of the parish may have the opportunity of becoming better acquainted, one with another. The first of these gatherings was held Saturday evening, October 15, with a gratifying attendance. The next social evening will be Saturday, November 19, at the home of Mr. Robert MacDonald, Jr., Roumfort road, Mount Airy.

The stated meetings of the League are held on the fourth Monday of each month, and it is planned to present at each of these meetings a special subject for consideration.

The October meeting was addressed by the Rev. Frank Goostray (representatives of other organizations of the Church being present) on the subject of "Religious Pageantry," with particular reference to the pageant to be given Sunday afternoon, November 6, particulars of which are given elsewhere in this issue.

All men of the parish are invited and will be cordially welcomed to all meetings of the League, social or otherwise.

Subscribe for the Parish News

The annual subscriptions for the Parish News are now due and payable.

The price is only one dollar, which may be handed to an usher, sent with other remittances to the Accounting Warden, or mailed to the Business Manager, Mr. J. Howard Fell, 1315 Cherry Street, Philadelphia.

The cost of producing the parish paper is nearly double the figure of pre-war times. Every parishioner is asked to help bear this expense.

Welcome to New Comers

At a recent Church Service the Rector addressed a few remarks to New Comers which we wish to give wider publicity.

He said he had been informed of the arrival in Mount Airy of several families of Church people. If any such were present he wished to assure them of a sincere and cordial welcome in Grace Church. He said it was God's House, not man's. All had equal rights and privileges.

But it might help them in their worship to know that their fellow worshippers regarded them with warm cordiality. Any appearance of coldness was unintentional.

The Rector announced that he would be at the door at the close of the service to greet any new comers.

May we add to the cordial words of the Rector a suggestion that Church people recently settled in Mount Airy should meet the Church half way?

There is a Men's Service League ready to welcome most heartily at its social gatherings any men.

The Woman's Auxiliary and Guild which meets every Thursday morning in the Parish House is equally cordial to all the women. There are the Girls' Club and the Scout Troops and the Church School with their various activities to interest the young and afford them an opportunity to become acquainted with their neighbors.

We shall be glad to send the Parish News to any who will forward us their addresses. In this way we can keep you informed regarding Church Services and the many interesting events of one kind or another which are announced.

All seats are free in Grace Church. You will find the Rector ready to respond to any call for spiritual ministrations. The arms of the parish are extended in sincere welcome to you. Pass the word along, please, to any Church person who is somewhat unfamiliar with local Church life.

Thanksgiving Day

Our annual day of National Thanksgiving calls for the public assembly of the people in God's House. The services in the Church are placed at an early hour, allowing ample time for family festivities in the home.

Morning Prayer will be said in Grace Church at 9.30. Holy Communion and Sermon will follow at 10 o'clock.

The full choir will be in attendance. The offering will be devoted to the Episcopal Hospital. According to our custom, there will be a distribution of provisions among the poor of the Community. Articles may be left in the Church tower room where the Social Service Committee will take charge of them.

The Missing

One of the marvellous things to me in the Army was the recuperation of a regiment that had suffered heavy casualties.

My sympathies went out to the colonel who, immediately after being deprived not only of many private soldiers, but also of his trained officers, had to prepare for fresh attack.

It seemed like a rapid series of emergencies and I admired the colonel's courage and resourcefulness. I often wondered what I should do under like circumstances.

Today I find myself in similar straits.

As Sunday arrives I must face sudden and serious losses. They are only temporary losses to be sure. But nevertheless, they do create for me a series of emergencies. Not only many Communicants, but the Key men and women on whom so much depends are likely as not to be missing. They are not among the killed or wounded —they are just out of town.

This practise of disappearing for longer or shorter periods has become so prevalent among us that there is little chance for continuity in our Church work.

The custom is so universal that I can speak of it without a suspicion of being personal. It was never so noticeable as it has been this Autumn and seems to gather momentum like a whirlwind. I confess it makes me positively dizzy.

The worst of it is that it seems so inevitable. The reasons for your going are always so convincing. There is only time for a hasty "God speed" and then you vanish. It is not that I doubt your good behavior while you are abroad. I trust you are in Church somewhere every Sunday. But we miss you in the home Church and your going often creates an awkward emergency.

If you should all stay in Mount Airy some week-end and devote the Lord's day to the performance of your religious duties like old-fashioned Christian folk, I should think the millennium had indeed come.

For Men and Boys

Every male communicant is invited and urged to participate in a great corporate Communion of men and boys on the First Sunday in Advent, in Grace Church, at 7.30 A. M. This is an all-American movement in the Church, under the auspices of the Brotherhood of Saint Andrew.

The spiritual benefits derived from this Communion of many thousands of men and boys are beyond conception.

It is hoped Grace Church may share largely in this through a big attendance.

Arrangements are being made for a breakfast for those who are engaged in the Church School, and others who would find it convenient.

The Bishop of Pennsylvania will visit Grace Church for Confirmation Sunday evening, December 4th. The Class is receiving instructions Wednesdays at four and seven thirty o'clock.

Mission Study Notes

All of us probably will recognize this fact, as we go over the needs of the Parish and the Diocese. The greatest necessity at the present moment is Religious Education. Religious, because Religion means our Relationship to God's—Education and because knowledge of Religion must be given by those who know.

There must be teaching, there must be study—more or less. You can eliminate the word missions and call it "Church Study" or "Religious Study" or "Bible Study"—but this is a time to use our minds. Information may be given through address. It may be given through the lecture method, or, best of all, through the discussion method, which means in a Mission Study Class—(M. S. C.—we might read it this way: Must Study the Church) And a Mission Study Class is not nearly as formidable as it sounds. It means a group of people gathered together, to discuss; to hear; to give; to draw out. It is a "current event class" in the Church and about the Church. It is really fascinating—alluring, enticing. As one new member said last year, "It makes me want to know more." It isn't confined to age; or numbers (in Grace Church); to the gift of speech; to brilliancy; or profundity.

One year the youngest member was 14, and the eldest 80. If you don't want to talk, someone else does. The leader learns with the class. If you have any doubt about all this, come and see.

The Diocesan Mission Study classes for leaders under Mrs. Pilsbry began work by the 24th and 26th of October in the Church House, 202 South Nineteenth Street.

The subject is still "The Survey." We, the Church—looking at ourselves. On Thursday, October 20th, 10.30 A. M., at the Church House, the Education Secretary and M. S. C. Leaders met for a conference before beginning the work for the winter.

MRS. R. L. HAYES.

A Call to Prayer

OFFICIAL

To the Clergy and Laity:

Brethren:

The Government of the United States, through our President, has called a conference of the great Nations to consider the limitation of armaments and other subjects relating to the peace of the World.

The Conference will assemble in the City of Washington on Armistice Day, November 11th, and will conduct its deliberations during the following weeks.

Therefore the Presiding Bishop and Council asks the clergy and laity of the Church to observe Armistice Day and Sunday, November 13th, as days of special intercession to Almighty God, that He will so direct and guide the minds and hearts of the representatives of the Nations assembled in this Conference, that peace and good will may be permanently established among all peoples of the world, to the glory of God and the extension of the Kingdom of Our Lord Jesus Christ.

The following prayers have been approved by the Presiding Bishop and Council, and may be used during the sessions of the Conference, subject to the approval of the Bishops of the several dioceses and districts.

(Signed) THOMAS F. GAILOR,
President of the Council.

October 12, 1921

Almighty God, Our Heavenly Father, Whose Blessed Son came into the world to proclaim peace and good will to men: Have compassion, we beseech Thee, upon Thy children, who are sore oppressed with strife, confusion, and discord. Let the sacrifice of our sons and brothers on fields of blood plead with Thee for the restoration of peace and quietness upon the earth. Send Thy Holy Spirit to kindle in the minds and hearts of rulers and statesmen the sense of their obligation to mankind, that war may be abolished, that armaments may cease, and that men of all nations and races may dwell together in unity and concord, to the glory of Thy Name and the salvation of the world; through Jesus Christ, our Lord, to Whom with Thee and the Holy Ghost, be honor and glory, now and forevermore. Amen.

O God of all the Nations, look down, we beseech Thee, upon us who ask Thy help and blessing. Sustain in us the spirit of justice and humility. Enable us to recognize in other peoples and races their virtues, traditions, and just rights. Cultivate in us more fully the love of the arts of peace: train us in habits of self command and simplicity. And so purge our hearts of suspicion of others and increase a confidence in our brethren, that we may keep our place among the Nations in peace and good will. Through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

O God, who art the Father of all, and who alone makest men to be of one mind in a house, we beseech Thee, at this time of strife and unrest, to grant to us, by the inspiration of Thy Holy Spirit, a fuller realization of our brotherhood, man with man in Thee. Allay all anger and bitterness, and deepen in us a sense of truth and equity in our dealings one with another; for the sake of Thy Son, our Lord, Jesus Christ. Amen.

Centennial Prayer

O God, Heavenly Father, Who would have all men to be saved and come to the knowledge of the Truth; We give Thee thanks and praise for the service Thy Church has rendered to mankind, and especially for the missionary progress of the past one hundred years. Glorious art Thou, O Lord God, and wonderful is the grace and virtue, which Thou hast manifested in the lives of Thy saints, who have carried the Gospel to the people of all lands. Grant us, we pray Thee, such a measure of their faith and power, that we may serve Thee acceptably in our generation, and that, in Thy good time, all nations may be saved and the earth be full of the knowledge of the Lord, as the waters cover the sea; through Jesus Christ, our Lord, to Whom, with Thee and the Holy Ghost, be all honor and glory, world without end. Amen.

Notes

Mr. John E. Greaves has accepted a position on the Vestry of Grace Church to succeed Mr. Fred. M. Dunn recently resigned.

A Dancing Class for the boys and girls of Grace Church School will be conducted in the Parish House this winter.

Many parents will welcome this opportunity for their children to attend classes under careful direction and supervision.

The experiment was tried out two years ago and proved very successful. Mrs. Frank J. Sheble who was then in charge has again taken the position of secretary. Some twenty patrons and patronesses are associated with her.

Disarmament

If one wills the end, he must also will the means to it. That is true of all human endeavors, and it is true of measures of statesmanship. It is a very tough and concrete problem which the Washington conference will undertake to solve. To bring enthusiasm to it is well. To invoke humane and religious fervor in its behalf is desirable. But the actual work to be done is immensely arduous and can be got through only by statesmen willing to face all the facts and able to find a way to harmonize conflicting national interests and to induce their own countries to abate something of their pride and their ambitions. That is no easy task, and those who are essaying it would be foolish to boast while putting on their armor.

Excellent intentions are of no avail unless the people putting them forward are ready to take the steps necessary to carry them out. President Harding might well ask all emotional advisers if they are prepared to surrender something to Japan, are willing to make sacrifices in aid of China, are disposed to give full recognition to the special interests of Great Britain and France and Holland in the Orient. If not, it is perfectly idle for them to express ardent vows for disarming. Arming is caused by national policies, and until they are modified or brought under a comprehensive agreement, there can be no general cutting down of military burdens. This sober truth does not enter into the reckoning of amiable sentimentalists, but they will find it controlling.

If after Kirk ye bide a wee,
There's some would like to speak to ye.
If after Kirk ye rise and flee,
We'll all seem cold and stiff to ye.
There's one that's in the seat with ye
Is stranger here than ye may be.
All here hae got their fears and cares.
Add you your soul unto their prayers.
Be thou our angel unawares.

Conferences on Church Work

Colonel Barba, Assistant Treasurer of the Diocese, conducted three Conferences on "The General Work of the Church" in Grace Church October 20th, 21st and 23rd.

He proved a most stimulating speaker and awakened great interest among those who heard him. Following his addresses many questions were asked. He said at the close that Grace Church with her Men's Service League and Woman's Auxiliary and Guild was already well organized for all branches of Church work as it affects interests outside the parish.

Our urgent need, as he pointed out, is that more of the people of the congregations be interested in the various branches of work being undertaken by these excellent organizations.

Spiritual Communion

In a letter recently received by a parishioner of Grace Church, its writer—a Deaconess serving as a nurse in St. Stephen's Hospital, Fort Yukon, Alaska—speaks of Spiritual Communion as follows:

"I have thought of you several times today and of how I should love to be there to go to Church with you—this being St. Andrews' Day.

"The last time we received the Sacrament was in Seattle the morning we sailed. Think of Christmas without it! It is very helpful to know there is a Spiritual Communion for those hindered from Sacramental Communion, and it means far more to me than I expected it would, to rise early on Sunday morning and Saints Days and read the service in my room.

"It helps to fulfil the desire to receive Him whom we cannot receive Sacramentally.

"It is a link between the last Communion and the next, however long the interval may be; and it keeps alive the flame of love lit by the Divine touch in actual reception."

These words of sincerity and devotion stir us to deep thoughts. Do we appreciate our privileges?

Every Sunday or Saints' Day, and frequently on week days, the Divine Food is spread for us. On great Feast Days we have the choice of hours.

There, in our beautiful sanctuary, with all the accessories of art and music, with reverence and devotion, the holy mysteries ordained by Christ, are constantly celebrated.

There are always those who come, hungering for the hidden manna, sometimes one or two, sometimes a hundred or two. But there are many members of the parish whose privilege it is to come who seldom come, some never.

"Think of Christmas without it!" writes our friend from Alaska. But there were Communicants of Grace Church who deliberately spent Christmas without it—although during the octave of Christmas there were no less than eight celebrations of the Holy Communion.

Have we forgotten the teaching of the Church, speaking to us as a mother and urging us to thank our Heavenly Father "for that He hath given His Son our Saviour Jesus Christ, not only to die for us, but also to be our spiritual food and sustenance in that holy Sacrament"?

I wonder how many of us have ever made a Spiritual Communion? I well remember certain occasions when I was with the troops in France when, being deprived of the Sacrament, I found great comfort and inspiration in Spiritual Communion.

There may be those among the readers of this paper who are unfamiliar with this practice. I therefore take this opportunity of bringing it to your attention. It may mean much to you some time.

The Prayer Book teaches us about it in a rubric following the Communion of the Sick, which reads as follows:

"But if a man, either by reason of extremity of sickness or for want of warning in due time to the Minister, or for lack of company to receive with him, or by any other just impediment, do not receive the Sacrament of Christ's Body and Blood, the Minister shall instruct him, that if he do truly repent him of his sins, and steadfastly believe that Jesus Christ hath suffered death upon the Cross for him, and shed His Blood for his redemption, earnestly remembering the benefits he hath thereby, and giving Him hearty thanks therefor, he doth eat and drink the Body and Blood of our Saviour Christ profitably to his soul's health, although he do not receive the Sacrament with his mouth."

There is a passage in the eighth chapter of Deuteronomy, which was a comfort to our Lord in desolate places, which reminds us that wilderness experiences are intended to teach us that "man doth not live by bread only, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of the Lord doth man live."

Bishop Rhinelander's Address to the Woman's Aid to the Convocation of Germantown, Tuesday, January 14th, at St. Peter's Church, Germantown.

This New Year is to be marked quite definitely with more missionary spirit than was ever known. It is a real crisis. What has been holding up the conference in Washington? Unrest in China, because of its turmoil, it has prevented definite decisions.

Think what it means—only a few days ago China was negligible; now it is a political fact.

The peace of the world future is held up because China is in chaos.

So much depends upon the missionaries in China.

Political leaders and statesmen are sometimes without religious faith, except in the vaguest way—but all depend upon the reinforcement of the world—and all reinforcements are dependent upon the tide of religious faith. So much depends upon the missionary prayers and faith of the Church.

We must keep the whole world right with us. In December the missionary accounts were looked over, especially the Diocesan as related to the world.

The fund seemed likely to come out badly. 1920 was a banner year for general missions. The apportionment had been $150,000, but $90,000 more had been added. The best ever done, not worthy, but encouraging. The $90,000 over in 1920 had been made up in two ways.

The one half a normal forward movement in the Parishes—the other half by one person whom God had blessed.

This man had died.

It was the Centennial year.

If we were to fall noticeably short, we should all be discouraged.

The matter was put before a group of 100 people. They were ready for the appeal—and answered in full.

This week the report comes that several hundred dollars more than last year has been sent to Headquarters for 1921. This was a bad time to make up deficits, but it had not only been done, but had gone over the top.

The appeal went home, but back of the thankfulness comes the fact that it had all been worked wrong. Wrong to leave the business and responsibility to the last of the year. It seems disloyal and we are asked now to start the new year clear. We are here to serve the world; it is a real test of personal religion, whether we care for the world's salvation or not. Do not leave this to the last of the year, but make it first and foremost in our minds, our acts and our prayers.

The thought of our life in the Church cannot be complete without the missionary life in the Church.

He must enter our lives and take possession. He wants us to feel that every Parish shall be kept Christian, missionary minded. Have it the policy, the principle of our work. It is said we do less proportionately than any other denomination. Prove it is not true, work for it, pray for it, until that reproach can never be said of us again. It is a matter of zeal, tenacity of purpose. We must have Faith.

Seek ye first the Kingdom of God and His righteousness, and all these things shall be added unto you.

Just as our Lord was sent to save, so our Church is sent to save. That is the Christian religion. Help Him to get this thought implanted by getting to work now and not waiting to the end of the year. Go out to the world first, then come back to the local things.

Following the remarks of the Bishop and a discussion as to the use of the money resulting from the Luncheon and Sale last October, amounting to $746.47, it was voted that first of all we give $100 to the Bishop Rowe Foundation Fund. Then $200 to Mr. Booth for his Chapel for the Associated Missions at Wrightstown. Fifty dollars had just been given to the Rev. Mr. Thomas for repairs to the roof of the Church of St. Barnabas, Germantown.

The regular pledges are $400 to the Country Center Mission in Bucks County for the upkeep of two automobiles and $300 to St. Barnabas.

The following officers were re-elected for the ensuing year:

First Vice-chairman, Mrs. George Woodward.

Second Vice-chairman, Mrs. Ralph H. North.

Treasurer, Mrs. Thomas M. Bains.

Recording Secretary, Mrs. E. Wheeler Jenkins.

Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. Hollingshead N. Taylor.

Mission Study Classes

The Educational Secretary wishes to announce that the first meeting of the Mission Study Classes will take place on Thursday, March 2nd, at 3 o'clock, in Grace Church Parish House.

All women, whether of Grace parish or not, are welcome and will be warmly greeted even if they only want to come "to listen."

Progress

The diocesan report shows that Grace Church contributed to the general work of the Church (extraparochial objects) in 1921 the sum of $7925.03 as against $5376.38 in 1920. This means an increase of $2548.65 or a little more than 47 per cent.

The report compares the contributions of 1920 and 1921 received from the 305 parishes and missions of the diocese. Some increased, others decreased. The total parish givings applying to the quota were $559,352, making an average from each parish or mission of $1834. The grand total raised in the diocese was $621,387 as against $638,969 in 1920. This shows a decrease of $17,582 in the contributions of the diocese.

If the diocese had made the same proportionate gain which our own parish made, it would have raised $939,304—almost a million.

Grace Church ranks number 18 in the list of 305 parishes and missions of the diocese in point of extra-parochial contributions. The leading parish this year is St. Martin-in-the-Fields, which gave $78,357. The big five who gave over $20,000 were St. Martin-in-the-Fields, St. Paul's, Holy Trinity, St. Mark's and Holy Apostles.

Then comes a group of six parishes contributing over $10,000; St. Peter's, Redeemer (Bryn Mawr), St. James, Christ, Calvary and Good Shepherd (Rosemont).

Then comes a group of seven who gave over $7000; St. Luke's (Germantown), St. Luke and Epiphany, Our Saviour (Jenkintown), St. Asaph's (Bala), St. Peter's (Phoenixville), St. Paul's (Overbrook) and Grace Church (Mount Airy). We may rejoice to take such high rank in missionary efficiency. Any one acquainted with the personnel of Grace Church will realize that it has not been achieved without real sacrifice. It has been a year of business depression to many.

The above figures do not tell the whole story. In addition to all our current expenses we have permanently beautified the Church and installed a superb organ. We have raised special funds running into hundreds of dollars for Social Service and Missions. We have sent a thousand dollars to St. Luke's Hospital, Japan. The appeals are incessant. We expect them, and we are resolved to go right on doing what we can to respond to them. The Kingdom of God must be built—and thank God we are permitted to have a share in it.

Next year we are asked to make an increase of 15 per cent. upon our contributions for 1921. This sets our quota at $9113. Certainly we intend to do our best—whatever the figures may be.

The American Episcopal Church is moving on.

As the current number of The Living Church states editorially, "with all discouragements—the Church appears to have made really remarkable advance during the past year; for all of which may God be praised." Here are some of the signs of progress during the past year.

Contributions have increased from $24,392,091 to $34,873,221, showing a gain of $10,481,129.

Baptisms have increased from 65,597 to 72,246—a gain of 6649.

Confirmations have increased from 50,779 to 61,881—a gain of 11,102.

Communicants have increased from 1,096,895 to 1,104,029—a gain of 7134.

Church School scholars have increased from 417,695 to 444,242—a gain of 26,547.

Let us thank God and take courage.

The Woman's Auxiliary and Guild

A very interesting meeting took place in the early part of last month when the Educational Secretary invited four of her associates in mission study to come out to lunch and talk, very informally, on the subject of the mountaineers of America, the negroes, and the history of the work among the Japanese. Owing to illness and bad weather, Mrs. Pilsbry was unable to be present and this, of course, was a great disappointment, but Mrs. Horner Smith, Mrs. Dillard and Miss Fisher were all very interesting and entertaining, so the day was most enjoyable and a great success.

For this month there are several dates to keep in mind, but remembering the dates is not all; we must try to attend the meetings for which they stand.

February 2 is an all-day meeting of the Auxiliary and Mrs. Kempton, the Diocesan Correspondent of the Church Periodical Club, will talk to us about St. Paul's College, Tokyo, and the books that are being collected by the Club for the library there. Everyone who is unacquainted with the Club and its work, as well as those who are contributors to it, should undoubtedly be at this meeting. A light luncheon will be served as usual.

On February 6, from three until five o'clock, our president will give a Melting Pot Tea to which all the women of the parish are most cordially invited. Each one is asked to bring a piece of old gold or silver, if possible, for the melting pot and this, when converted into money, will find its way into the treasury of the Auxiliary. No one needs urging to attend the tea for we all know how enjoyable Mrs. Jenkins' entertainments are.

The annual Rummage Sale will be held on Thursday and Friday, February 23 and 24, and it is hoped that this will be the best one we have ever had, so please look things up in time and send all you can spare. Clothing particularly is needed, for the unemployed are eager for it; also hats, kitchen utensils, china, today's novels, pianola and Victrola records are all in demand, but almost anything sent in finds some purchaser and we need as much as you can give.

A truck will be sent for the rummage on Monday, the 20th, if you will send a post card to Mrs. Jenkins, 334 Gowen avenue, before that day, and time will be saved in collecting if the bundles are ready and near the door when they are called for.

If you have hats to contribute please send them to the parish house as soon as possible, for several people have volunteered to make over hats that may be out of date or need freshening up, as they sell much better. Any one who is at all skillful at such work will be heartily welcomed as a member of the millinery committee.

A touching appeal came to the Auxiliary from Mrs. Wetmore, who for many years has been in charge of Christ School, Arden, North Carolina. Because people have not responded as they should to the Nation-Wide Campaign, the missionary funds are not sufficient to cover all the work of the Church, and Mrs. Wetmore, among others, finds it necessary to appeal to Auxiliaries and to her friends for money to keep the school going. This is an instance which shows how much hangs upon the decision of each Churchman in regard to his individual responsibility to God. The appeal is given here in order that any one interested in Christ School may know the conditions and have the opportunity to help. The Auxiliary has received donations for this purpose amounting to $15 from two of its members.

Duplex envelopes for monthly contributions to the Auxiliary may be had by applying to Mrs. Crouter, 7406 Germantown avenue.

Meanwhile there is a quantity of sewing to be done at our weekly meetings and many knitted garments are needed by the Supply Bureau, so all workers are welcome.

Recollections of Julia C. Emery

At evening of January ninth, in her home at Scarsdale, N. Y., the sweet spirit of Julia C. Emery passed from earth to the realms of Paradise the blest.

For well-nigh half a century Miss Emery's name was, so to speak, "a household word" in the big family of the Woman's Auxiliary. What more fitting than that, in every parish and mission in which there is a branch of the Auxiliary, time should be taken for recollections of what her life meant to the organizations of which, for forty years, she was the devotedly faithful and dearly loved General Secretary!

Many, many years ago Miss Emery made a missionary journey around the world. It would be interesting at this time to re-read her delightful account of the trip, and this in connection with A Century of Endeavor which she wrote last year in commemoration of the centenary of the Domestic and Foreign Missionary Society. In both of these books, as well as in everything from Miss Emery's pen, the striking characteristic is self-effacement. She loved to lose herself, and to be lost to others, in her great work for the Master and His Church. Not only in writing, but in all things, she was exceedingly modest and retiring. As The Living Church puts its it: "Her character was a remarkable combination of ability and humility." Almost never, during all the years of her life of service, has her photograph been given to the public. Once she was asked to loan it for a lantern slide for the United Thank Offering lecture set. The request was denied with firmness, and yet with sweet graciousness and acknowledgment of the honor conferred upon her by the asking.

It was at St. Louis in 1916 that Miss Emery withdrew from her office as Secretary of the Auxiliary, but for a long time thereafter she had a desk at Headquarters in New York—albeit in a secluded spot!—and she was ever ready to help in any possible way. She continued to be an inspiration to those with whom she had been so long associated, and it was one of the great pleasures of the Officers' Conference days, at the Church Missions House, to hunt up Miss Emery for a hand-clasp and the interest and encouraging words that were always bestowed. Almost the last time the writer met Miss Emery was in Detroit in 1919. It was in the hotel on the day preceding the opening of Convention and Miss Emery had just arrived. After the ever-cordial greetings, she remarked, with animation, that she had come to this Convention to have a good time, to do just as she pleased without any responsibility for anything. We know that they were indeed happy weeks for her as she followed, day by day, the wonderful doings of a General Convention to be ever memorable in the annals of the Church. It was at one of the meetings of the Woman's Auxiliary in Detroit that the Emery Fund was proposed and our own Mrs. Markoe made the National Treasurer. We are familiar with its reason and its purpose, and know that the goal of $50,000—in gratitude for fifty years of Auxiliary life and service—has been exceeded, reaching more than $90,000. We rejoice that dear Miss Emery lived to know, by this expression of the women of the Church, how much we loved her.

Julia C. Emery has left us an example of devotion and "loyalty"—our watchword for this year—which we shall do well to emulate, and to Him, our dear Heavenly Father, be all the honor and glory now and evermore.

"O ye Spirits and Souls of the Righteous, bless ye the Lord: praise him and magnify him forever." M. C. S. N.

Church Periodical Club

Parishioners of Grace Church, will you not help to make Japan a Christian nation?

The Church Periodical Club is pledged to give at least a $15,000 library to St. Paul's College, Tokyo. The old library was disgraceful, but a new one has been given by a Mr. Mattier from Cleveland, Ohio. A picture of the interior is being given and a description of the need of books, etc., in the Epiphany number of The Church at Work, and also in a leaflet for distribution at the Church door.

It is hoped that every organization of the Parish will feel keenly enough interested in this great missionary object to wish to contribute the value of a book, or set of books, from $1 to $3.

The Wardens and Vestry. The Woman's Auxiliary. The Men's Service League. The different classes of the Church School, or the different departments. The Church School Service League. The Altar Guild. The Choir. The Boy Scouts. The Girl Scouts. The Brotherhood of St. Andrew. The Junior Brotherhood of St. Andrew. The Girls' Club, etc.

Let no one miss this opportunity, for if Japan receives Western civilization without Christianity, she will be a menace to the world.

And whose fault will it be?

The Bishop Rowe Foundation

Two years ago our wonderful Bishop of Alaska completed twenty-five years of service in that great diocese of the frozen Northland, and some of his friends, in appreciation of his great work, proposed and started an endowment fund of $100,000, the interest of which is to be used to further his projects. The principal sum becomes a fund for the Alaskan diocese in perpetuity.

Owing to the stress of the times, not half of the desired amount has been forthcoming and now the women of the Church have undertaken to make it an accomplished fact. It is greatly desired to present the Fund to Bishop Rowe in September at the time of the General Convention in Portland, Oregon.

The Indian Hope Committee of the Diocese of Pennsylvania has pledged $5000 and of course our parish must do its share. Any one desiring to contribute may send their gift to Mrs. Charles S. Pease, 166 East Pomona street, Germantown, or to Mrs. A. L. E. Crouter, 7406 Germantown avenue, Mount Airy.

Men's Service League

The stated monthly meeting of the League was in January merged with the meeting held in the Parish House on Tuesday, the 24th, at which time Rev. Guy D. Christian delivered his most interesting illustrated lecture on Alaska.

On Saturday evening, January 14th, the men of the League were the guests of Dr. A. L. E. Crouter at the Pennsylvania Institution for the Deaf, where a most enjoyable evening was passed. There was an exposition of the work of the institution, which gave our members a knowledge, which they did not formerly possess, of the really remarkable work the institution is doing with the deaf.

The next stated meeting of the League will be held on Monday evening, February 27, at the Parish House.

Increasing Church Attendance

Last year, during Lent, an effort was made to call the attention of every person in the parish to a certain cardinal Christian principle, i.e., every Christian should attend public worship at least once every Lord's Day.

The plans of the movement involved getting persons to come to the evening services during Lent in increasing numbers until on the last evening in that period there might be the inspiring result of a notably large attendance.

Unfortunately, last year, a series of exceedingly bad storms broke upon the good efforts, and while the movement was successful, it fell short of the expectations.

This year, the standard will be raised again, and attendance at the evening services in Lent will be emphasized. Will not every one join in pressing home the principles of regular attendance, and demonstrate it through the plans to be shortly set forth.

This is not for just a few weeks, or for any single organization in the parish, but something to enlist the interest and activity of every soul, young and old.

Knitters—Wake Up!

The Supply Bureau of the Woman's Auxiliary is asking the parishes for 2000 knitted garments to be put into the missionary boxes to be sent off this year.

Grace Church has a reputation to sustain—don't let us fall behind in this line of work. Sweaters, caps, scarfs, baby blankets, hoods, stockings, socks, mittens are wanted, and an especial call has been made for men's sweaters.

This is all work that can be done at home, and the wool is supplied by the Auxiliary. Mrs. Pease will be at the Parish House every Thursday morning to give out the material. It is well known what fine knitting was done in Mount Airy during the World War. Our Missionaries need warm garments every winter, and we must supply their wants.

The Rector's Letter

My dear Friends:

This is "Blue Monday." My head is throbbing and my heart aching, but the parish letter is due. You must share my sorrows.

One reason why my heart is aching is because so many of you failed to appear in Church yesterday. In fact, I have missed you several Sundays. There has been inclement weather and considerable illness. But I cannot think such slight considerations would deter you from any engagement which you regarded as important.

There are people who seem to think of Church as a small boy thinks of school—glad to find any excuse to escape it. They put it in the category of life's bores—like the top sergeant who once told me, with some pride in the discipline of his company, "The men who do not attend church, sir, are assigned to some other fatigue duty."

But I am confident that you have a different attitude toward public worship. You do not find the services in Grace Church disagreeable or irksome, do you? You do not wait to be attracted by that which is rare and exceptional as though the worship of God were a matter of entertainment. You have a conscience in the matter. You recognize a duty here. You have a compelling motive, or you should have.

I feel a certain reticence in taking up this subject—and yet why should I? Is it that I think it will sound like scolding? I know you would not stand for that. Is it that I fear an admission of failure? No, I should rather face it. Does the fault lie with the minister? Is it the manner of conducting the service, or of presenting God's truth? What room for heart searching! Who is sufficient for these things?

I am so thankful to you, St. Paul, for writing those reassuring words—"Such trust have we through Christ to Godward. Not that we are sufficient of ourselves to think anything as of ourselves, but our sufficiency is of God."

You must all understand that I am actuated by pure zeal for God's worship and by an honest desire for your best good, as I speak solemnly about your neglect of the services of the Church.

It is not that I think Church-going is the whole of Christian living—but I know it is vital to Christian living. Why does the Apostolic writer warn us "not to forsake the assembling of ourselves together, as the manner of some is"?

Is it not because he knew that such united service is a primary duty we owe to God and to His Church and to ourselves?

If we read our Bibles, we are aware that God requires this of us—that we offer our united worship in the Lord's House on the Lord's Day.

If we are loyal to the Church and believe it is the divine agency for the redeeming of the world, we want to see the Church strengthened—not weakened. What will more surely paralyze the Church than the habitual neglect of its services by Communicants?

Where is the character so highly endowed with virtues, so self-sufficient that it does not need the fellowship of worship? What of the debt we owe one another in this matter? "No man liveth unto himself."

I am confident that we do acknowledge our obligation. We believe that our Lord enjoins this duty and has promised His presence and blessing to those who meet together in His Name.

It is simply that many of us have fallen into lax habits.

"I have gotten out of the way of going to Church," people say to me so often. There is no valid reason, just neglect. We read that this defection from the Church is general throughout the country. If so, then in God's name I call upon you to make Grace Church an exception.

When you rise Sunday morning there should be no question, "Shall we go to Church today?"

It should be a thoroughly established family tradition in every Church home—a matter of principle, of fixed and unalterable habit with every man, woman and child to attend divine worship on the Lord's Day.

How else would you elect to spend those dedicated hours? Could you bring yourself to lounge about the house, or to sport yourself at the country club, or ride out for pleasure knowing all the while that your service is in progress in your parish Church and you are being missed? Would not your conscience make you miserable? If not—what has happened to your conscience?

There are a hundred and sixty-eight hours in the week—do we begrudge a few hours devoted to the praise and worship of God on Sunday? To what state then has our religion been reduced?

As I write, there is going through my mind that thrilling passage of St. Paul's about the overwhelming sacrifice the Son of God has made for our sake, how He waived all His supreme rights and powers, laid aside His heavenly magnificence and took upon Him the form of a servant, and was made in the likeness of men. "And being found in fashion as a man, He humbled Himself, and became obedient unto death, even the death of the Cross."

Can we forget that? And can we accept all God's unfailing mercies day by day and make no provision for His honor? Are we so ungrateful—so irreligious? We do not mean to be.

Lent is here—a suitable time for "extraordinary acts and exercises of devotion." Come to Church in humble and contrite spirit. Come prepared to confess your omissions and commissions. Come, join heartily with your fellow sinners and fellow sufferers in the praise of our One Father in Heaven.

Great will be the compensations. It will do us all good to see you again. Do come. And keep on coming.

"Not forsaking the assembling of ourselves together as the manner of some is."

Make Grace Church exceptional.

Faithfully yours,

THOMAS S. CLINE.

Comments on the Lenten Program

The Lenten Services in Grace Church have been arranged to suit, so far as possible, the needs of all. There are special services for children and for young people. The daily services are held late in the afternoon in the hope that many men will find it possible to attend.

Ash Wednesday will be a full day. Even the business man can begin Lent at the altar; for there will be an early celebration.

Morning prayer will be followed by the Litany and the Ash Wednesday Penitential Office. At the preaching service in the evening the Keynote of the Lenten Fast will be sounded.

Evening Prayer will be read daily at 5. Mondays it will be specially for children, but adults are always welcome. Wednesdays there will be a short address.

Thursdays there will be a service of Litany and Intercession at noon. This will be convenient for the members of the Woman's Auxiliary who are in session Thursdays.

The Mission Study Class, which begins at 3.15 Thursdays, will adjourn in time for Evening Prayer.

Special emphasis will be laid this Lent upon the spiritual training of the young people. Friday evenings will be devoted to services and conferences for them. It is hoped that all the youth in the parish, between the ages of 16 and 25, will attend these Friday night sessions.

While the Sundays in Lent are not, strictly speaking, a part of Lent, yet they partake of the spirit of the Lenten Fast. They offer the best opportunity for many, especially the men, to engage in Lenten devotions.

There will be no change during Lent in the hours of the Sunday services; but it is to be hoped there will be a marked advance in the attendance.

It goes without saying that the Eucharistic services take precedence of all others in importance and obligation. The Lenten preaching should not be slighted.

As last Lent so again now an effort will be made to rally a large attendance at the Sunday night service. This is a more sensible and constructive plan than to neglect the Sunday night service and hold an extra mid-week preaching service. The old custom of a series of sermons by visiting clergymen is more and more being abandoned. Such preaching lacks the continuity which should characterize Lenten teaching. The Sunday night sermons during Lent will be on Moral Standards.

On the third Sunday night of each month there will be a special musical program.

The Three Hour Meditation on Good Friday will be conducted this year by the Rev. Samuel B. Booth, Canon of the Pro-Cathedral and Missioner in Bucks County.

Church Attendance in Lent

Lent must always be a test of sincerity and self-control. How many in Grace Parish are purposed to experience the spiritual benefits through increased and regular Church attendance during Lent? If not yet, start now, and arrange to be present every one of the remaining Sunday evenings. The last Sunday evening is to be a night of inspiration through the force of numbers. Let every one be sure to come that night at least.

To those who have been neglectful of public worship it is a reminder that it is an integral part of the Church's life to attend at least one service every Lord's Day. To those who have been regular at the morning service it is a welcome suggestion that their Lenten season will be the richer for any possible increase in devotions such as the evening service may afford them.

May we not number more and more of those who let nothing but sickness or equally imperative obstacle interfere with Church attendance at least once every Sunday—and especially with the inclusion of these Sunday evenings in Lent?

The Woman's Auxiliary and Guild

Now begin the weekly all-day meetings of the Auxiliary, for Lent is here and the custom of holding the longer sessions will be again followed. Arrangements have also been made to have the mission study classes at 3.15 on Thursdays, following the sewing, when so many women will already be there, and a light luncheon of tea, coffee and sandwiches will be provided to save the trouble of preparing box lunches at home and so enable us to reach the parish house earlier in the morning. It is well to plan for the conservation of time and strength in these busy days. Noon-day prayers will be said in the Church. Thursday, March 30 will be United Thank Offering day. Mrs. Hollingsworth, diocesan treasurer of the organization, has been invited to take luncheon with us and speak on the subject of the Thank Offering on that day. Several of the treasurers from neighboring parishes will also be present and the meeting promises to be very enjoyable and instructive. We hope there will be a great many there to take part and hear the message that will be brought to us. Each one should remember to tell others of the meeting.

The United Thank Offering

Two March "events" for the United Thank Offering! Do not miss them!

TUESDAY, MARCH 28, 10.30 A. M.

The Spring Missionary Service of the Germantown and Chestnut Hill Branches of the Woman's Auxiliary will be held in St. Peter's Church, Germantown. This being the triennial year, the service will be in the interest of the United Thank Offering. We have been so fortunate as to secure, for preacher, the Rt. Rev. James Wise, D. D., Bishop of the Diocese of Kansas. Bishop Wise was one of the most thrilling speakers at the United Thank Offering Mass Meeting in Detroit in 1919. Let us give this western Bishop a cordial welcome by having a crowded Church to greet him.

THURSDAY, MARCH 30

This is to be United Thank Offering day at Grace Church, with Mrs. John P. Hollingsworth, Diocesan Treasurer of the Offering, and other treasurers, as our guests for luncheon at 12.30. Mrs. Hollingsworth will speak after luncheon.

With only about six months to the triennial presentation at Portland, Oregon, our Woman's United Thank Offering looms large. It is the great outstanding opportunity of the year for the expression of our gratitude to our Heavenly Father, not only for personal blessings, but for constantly improving world conditions looking to "peace on earth."

Come on the 30th and get all the latest information about our wonderful Offering.

Remember that the luncheon hour is 12.30.

Instructions at Sunday Worship

Since the beginning of the year the Rector has given a brief instruction at Sunday morning worship following the notices.

Among the questions he has answered thus far are the following:

What is the Rite of Circumcision and what significance has it in the Christian Church?

Why do we believe in GOD?

Is belief in miracles essential to the Christian Faith?

Do not miracles contradict the principle of moral law?

Must I believe in the Divinity of Jesus Christ to be a Christian?

How can we reconcile the statement in Genesis that God made man in His own image with the scientific theory that man was evolved from the brute creation?

Why does the Church include in its practices things which belonged to pre-Christian and pagan religions, such as Priesthood and Sacrifice?

What am I to do if I have received the Holy Communion in the early service, when I find myself present at a late celebration. If I cannot myself receive, what part have I in the service?

The Rector welcomes questions from members of the congregation. He intends to continue these brief instructions throughout the year.

Mission Study Classes

The Educational Secretary wishes to announce that the first meeting of the Mission Study Classes will take place on Thursday, March 2nd, at 3 o'clock, in Grace Church Parish House, and thereafter during Lent every Thursday at the same hour.

All women, whether of Grace parish or not, are welcome and will be warmly greeted even if they only want to come "to listen."

Children and Missions

The boys and girls are, in their own way, just as much interested in Missions as their elders.

In the Church School they are taught about the Missionary Work of the Church. They are organized for missionary work in the Church School Service League. It is surprising how much they accomplish in this way. During the past year their gifts through this organization amounted to $316.26.

During Lent the children practice self-denial and save for Missions in their "Mite Boxes." Last Easter they presented an offering of $153.52 accumulated in this manner.

This Lenten Offering for Missions by the children of the Church has a great history. It was started in the Diocese of Pennsylvania in St. John's Church, Cynwyd, in 1887, with an offering of $200. Since that time the offering from this diocese has grown almost every year, until last year it amounted to $51,562.32. The total raised by the children of the whole American Church was $260,000. Pennsylvania leads the whole Church in this offering. This year we are going to try to make it $55,000.

The service for the presentation of the offerings from all the Church Schools of the diocese will be held in Holy Trinity Church the Fourth Sunday after Easter, May 14th, at 4 P. M. It is always a wonderful and stirring service. Grace Church School could, with a little extra effort, make an Easter offering of $200 this year.

An Opportunity

Some ambitious boy or girl in the parish may be interested in an opportunity to earn some money and at the same time render a service to the Church.

The Business Manager of the diocesan paper The Church News writes that he is engaging a number of Church people to obtain subscriptions for the paper at one dollar a year. He offers the liberal commission of 50 per cent.

The editor of the Parish News is eager to cooperate with the diocesan paper and will give help and advice to any who may be interested.

The Cathedral League

Those who heard Dr. Richardson's sermon about the cathedral will be asking, "How can I show my interest in the new Philadelphia cathedral? What can I do to show my Bishop that I am with him in this important enterprise?"

Those who did not hear him (and they missed a treat) should know that the cathedral is already a thing on the way. There is a staff of specialized clergy and all the great work among the many unchurched of Philadelphia, among foreigners, students, actors and others is organizing more completely day by day. Where does it function at present? At the Pro-Cathedral of St. Mary, Broad and South streets.

Where is the new cathedral to be built? Probably on the Parkway at Twenty-third street where we have a site. When? As soon as there are funds. First of all a Synod Hall for Conventions, Convocations, and other meetings.

In each Parish there is to be a Cathedral League. Has Grace Church Parish one? Yes. How many members? Over seventy. How many do we aim to have? One Hundred per cent. of the Parish. That means you. The dues are only 50 cents a year and intelligent interest.

Soon Grace Parish is to have an illustrated lecture on Cathedrals in America. Ours is the only large city without one. Have you seen the cathedral of St. John-the-Divine in New York or the Washington Cathedral?

Give your name to Mrs. Matlack, 7414 Boyer street, as a member of the Cathedral League.

Reverend and Dear Sir:

The Department of Religious Education has arranged for a series of missionary classes to be conducted by Dr. William C. Sturgis, of New York. They will be given on Tuesday evenings at 8.30 o'clock, at the Church House, beginning March 7th and continuing for seven weeks. Tickets can be secured by those who are interested by applying to the Executive Office. I believe that these courses arranged by the Department of Religious Education for the benefit of the adult members of our Church are exceedingly valuable and important, and I shall be glad if you would be willing to bring this notice to the attention of your congregation.

Faithfully yours,
P. M. RHINELANDER,
Bishop of Pennsylvania.

The Church Periodical Club

If you will refer to the Epiphany number of The Church at Work, you will find an illustration of the interior of the library of St. Paul's College, Tokyo, Japan. For this, the Church Periodical Club is pledged to give at least $15,000 in books.

It is hoped that every organization in the parish will feel keenly enough interested in the great missionary object to wish to contribute the value of a book or set of books, from $1 to $300.

An appeal in more detail was made in the February number of the Parish News, but up to the time of going to press, the Librarian has not received the value of one single book!

Just so that there be no mistake about it, we will add that the need for books still exists, and will for some time to come.

In regard to this, communicate with Miss M. W. Bayard, Librarian, 105 East Johnson street, Germantown.

From a Hero's Story

("Did not we cast three men bound into the midst of the fire?"

"True, O King."

"Lo, I see four men * * * and they have no hurt, and the form of the fourth is like the Son of God.")

In Shackleton's great book, "South!" there is a paragraph that lingers long in the reader's mind. It comes at the end of the chapter describing the desperate journey of the three men, Shackleton, Worsley and Crean, on foot across South Georgia. Shackleton writes:

"When I look back on those days I have no doubt that Providence guided us, not only across those snowfields, but across the storm-white sea that separated Elephant Island from our landing-place on South Georgia. I know that during that long and racking march of thirty-six hours over the unnamed mountains and glaciers of South Georgia it seemed to me often that we were four, not three. I said nothing to my companions on the point, but afterwards Worsley said to me, 'Boss, I had a curious feeling on the march that there was another person with us.' Crean confessed to the same idea. One feels 'the dearth of human words, the roughness of mortal speech,' in trying to describe things intangible, but a record of our journeys would be incomplete without a reference to a subject very near to our hearts."

From Publicity Department

Church House, October 24.

To Editors: Church people of all denominations will be interested in this news story, which tells of twelve Congregations of the Reformed Church of Hungary in the United States going over in a body to the Episcopal Church, on lines laid down by the Lambeth Conference. It marks a great step in advance towards Church Unity.

Announcement was made yesterday by Bishop Rhinelander at the Church House, 202 South Nineteenth Street, of the proposed affiliation with the Episcopal Church of nearly the entire membership of the Hungarian Reformed Church in America, representing twelve congregations in the Eastern States. Three of these congregations are in Philadelphia and vicinity.

The movement of the Hungarian Church into communion with the Episcopal Church has been prompted by the declaration of the Lambeth Conference on Church Unity. It is in direct line with those recommendations and is the first practical step toward Church Unity that has been taken since the Lambeth recommendations were promulgated.

Under an agreement entered into at a conference of Bishops of the Episcopal Church at Princeton, N. J., this body of Hungarian Churchmen, upon formal ratification of the Princeton Concordat by the separate congregations, nine of which have already acted, will be admitted into full privileges in the Episcopal Communion under the pastoral direction of the Bishops in the Dioceses where the Hungarian congregations are now located.

Commenting upon the action at Princeton, Bishop Rhinelander said: "The Conference was most interesting and hopeful. We were impressed by the character, ability and earnestness of the Hungarians, both ministers and laymen. The practical working out of the Concordat will be a most important matter and should have a far reaching influence. The next step will be to perfect the arrangements for the Ordination by our Bishops of these Hungarian ministers with the least possible delay."

The Reformed Church of Hungary, of which the congregations in the United States were a branch, dates back to the time of the Reformation. The agreement of union entered into at Princeton is between the Parishes and Missions of the Hungarian Reformed Church concerned, and the Bishops of the Diocese of the Episcopal Church in which the former are located and the Presiding Bishop and Council, or executive body, of the Episcopal Church in the United States.

The Rt. Rev. Ethelbert Talbot, D.D., Bishop of Bethlehem, presided at the Princeton Conference, which was held in Nassau Hall. Other Bishops of Episcopal Dioceses present at the Conference were: Rt. Rev. Paul Matthews, D.D., Bishop of New Jersey; Rt. Rev. Philip M. Rhinelander, D.D., Bishop of Pennsylvania; Rt. Rev. James H. Darlington, D.D.; Bishop of Harrisburg; Rt. Rev. Edwin Stevens Lines, D.D., Bishop of Newark; Rt. Rev. Robert Carter Jett, D.D., Bishop of Southwestern Virginia.

All the Bishops present signed the Concordat, with the Rev. L. Nanassy, D.D., Dean of the Eastern Classis of the Hungarian Church, and clerical and lay delegates from nine of the twelve Hungarian congregations, representing parishes in Philadelphia, Phoenixville, Pa.; Bethlehem, Pa.; Perth Amboy, New Brunswick, South River, Trenton, Roebling, Woodbridge and Franklin, New Jersey; Kreischerville, Staten Island and Bridgeport, Conn.

The Rt. Rev. William T. Manning, D.D., Bishop of New York, and the Rt. Rev. Chauncey B. Brewster, D.D., Bishop of Connecticut, were not present, but Bishop Manning has since added his signature.

J. Wilson Bayard, Esq., Chancellor of the Diocese of Pennsylvania, and an authority on Ecclesiastical law, who drew up the Concordat, participated in the Conference, along with Robert H. Gardiner, Secretary of the Commission on Faith and Order of the Episcopal Church; Rev. Thomas Burgess and the Rev. W. Chauncey Emhardt, Ph.D., Secretary and Field Director of the Foreign Born Americans Division of the Council of the Episcopal Church; and the Rev. W. Northey Jones, secretary of the Conference and rector of St. Peter's Church, Perth Amboy.

All details of the Concordat were carefully discussed and agreed upon at the Conference. One of the essential features in the details of the transaction is a broad plan of Americanization, since one of the objects of the Hungarians in joining the Episcopal Communion is to identify themselves with an absolutely American institution.

There is no intention on the part of the Episcopal Church to absorb the Hungarian Church, but rather to permit it to retain its entity as an organization with the right to preserve its forms, to retain titles to all its property, to continue its own Deanery, while at the same time the congregations will place themselves under the pastoral care of the Episcopal Bishops in whose Dioceses they are located, and conform to such rules and laws of the Episcopal Church as are fundamental.

Liaison with the Diocese

With the approval of the Executive Council, the Bishop has requested the rector of each Parish to appoint a man and a woman to serve as auxiliary members of the Ways and Means Committee of the Diocese.

This group of several hundred men and women shall be called together once or twice a year to become posted as to the missionary problems of the Diocese. They will serve as connecting links or liaison officers between the Diocese and the Parish.

It will be their duty in co-operation with the Rector to promote intelligent interest in the cause of missions in their respective Parishes.

The appointees to represent Grace Church are Mr. Horace Fortescue and Mrs. E. Wheeler Jenkins.

Family Communions

It was a happy thought to have announced the supper in the Dedication Festival week as a Family Supper. One's mind readily turns to The Great Supper, finding an anology in the coming together of God's family for spiritual refreshment and the strengthening of Christian ties.

Would it not be a fine thing if family units would each arrange for a definite Sunday in every month, or even at other special periods, when all the members of the individual family would receive the Holy Communion together? For those who long to have the family devotional life strengthened, this suggestion is perhaps the most practical solution of a problem not always easily solved where lives are busy. Let as many as will try it.

A Lesson from "Life"

Life furnishes us with much wit and also occasionally with some wisdom. The editor, Mr. Martin, who, by the way, is a Churchman, has this to say in an editorial:

"The religion of the United States for generations back has been considerably a religion of savings banks. There is something, of course, to be said for that religion. It pans out pretty well in a good many particulars, but into many minds in the last ten years has come like absolute news the realization that it will not save the world. Accumulated capital comes in handy, but that is not enough.

"Unless there is something else to hold the minds of men, a fire will sooner or later break out in them that will reduce all savings to ashes. That is an old story. * * * The lesson of it is that the most important inheritance that children get from their parents is spiritual and mental. Dollars cannot make them safe in the world, but character can. With character, dollars will probably be useful; without it, they won't. To teach one's son to give may easily be a better provision for him than to teach him to save."

John Coleridge Patteson, Bishop and Martyr

This is the year in which one may well make special effort to read or to re-read the life of Bishop Patteson of Melanesia, for his martyrdom occurred just fifty years ago.

Melanesia is one of the three large groups of Pacific Ocean Islands, north of Australia and New Zealand, east of New Guinea. The Mission there, formerly English, now looks chiefly to Australia and New Zealand for support. There is a staff of one bishop, thirty clergy (fourteen native), four laymen and fifteen women, with over six hundred native lay teachers. The mission has had a long period of abnormal demands, and is under a severe financial strain.

The September issue of The Australian Board of Missions Review commemorates the death of Bishop Patteson. Any missionary library and many public libraries should be able to supply a biography of him; the best known was written by Charlotte Yonge. He was a famous oarsman in college before he was a bishop. His picture shows him a charming patrician English gentleman. It is impossible to imagine him struck down by a blow from a native club with five spear wounds in his breast.

A cross at the place where he fell has the inscription:

In Memory of John Coleridge Patteson, D.D.
Whose life was here taken by men for whom he would gladly have given it.

Weavers

While our fathers wrought their task, they, then like us now, could only see the knots and ravelled edges of their work, for each man—

"Works on the wrong side evermore,
But works for the right side ever.

It is only when the weaving stops and
The web is loosed and turned
That he sees his real handiwork that
His marvellous skill has learned.

The years of man are the looms of God,
Let down from the place of the Sun.
Wherein we are ever weaving till
The Mystic Web is done.

Weaving blindly—but weaving surely
Each for himself his fate
We may not see how the right side
Looks, we can only weave and wait."

The Rector's Letter

My dear Parishioners:

"Can you hold on?" It was the anxious question which came from the Commander of the First Division over the wire that lay through many a thicket on the Argonne hills to the regimental headquarters of the Sixteenth Infantry. They alone had made their objective on the first day of the great offensive. Far in advance of their comrades they were exposed to enfilading fire on either flank. It was a dangerous position. But the prompt answer flashed back over the wire, "We will hold on."

They did hold on like grim death for seven days and nights, until the victorious tide rose to their level and swept on, carrying everything before it.

"Can you hold on?" It is the message from the Commander-in-Chief to you who are in the far-flung battle lines of the Christian Army. These are days of severe trial. You are exposed to many dangers. Those on whom you have depended have failed you. You have suffered heavy losses. Physical weakness and mental strain have conspired to exhaust your powers. But you are sustained by a resolute faith and loyalty. "We will hold on."

Patience! Heaviness may endure for a night, but joy cometh in the morning. Your suffering is not in vain. Your losses will result in gain. Your weakness will be reinforced with divine strength. The Army that is behind you is a victorious Army.

It is like a rising tide.

The Kingdom of God is coming.

God is overruling the evil.

Out of death emerges life.

This is the faith of the Resurrection. How forcibly it is brought home to us at this season of the year!

We witness afresh the victory of the Cross and we feel that our faith is essentially a victorious faith. We believe in the unconquerable goodness of God. We are confident that we can conquer in His strength.

"We will hold on."

Wishing you all a blessed Passiontide and a joyous Easter, I am,

Faithfully yours,

THOMAS S. CLINE.

Family Sunday

The Rector of Grace Church designated Sunday, March 26th, as "Family Sunday," and invited all the families of the parish to come to the eleven o'clock Service and to sit together as families. In the public invitation he made special mention of the children, and said that even babies would be welcome.

This move grows out of a desire to restore the good old custom, so characteristic of the Anglican Church in former days, for families to attend Church together. No one can doubt the need of a new emphasis upon the integrity of family life in America today.

From ancient times Mid-Lent Sunday, which celebrates the miraculous feeding of the multitudes in the wilderness, has been known as "Refreshment Sunday" and has been observed with more festivity than the other Sundays in Lent. It has also been called "Mothering Sunday," and is still observed as a day for family reunions in England.

It is hoped the observance of "Family Sunday" would become an annual custom in Grace Church. Other Churches might well follow this excellent precedent.

The members of the Men's Service League, which includes every man in the parish, whether the head of the family or otherwise, are asked to give their united support to this movement, when family life is being assailed on all sides by evil influences.

The hearty response to the Rector's invitation, as evidenced by an unusually large congregation of old and young, at the appointed time was most encouraging.

The Church's Part

Few realize the effect produced in Japan by the initiation on the part of the Church of work among types of people who, before the comnig of Christianity, were neglected and hopeless outcasts. The feeble-minded, the blind, the lepers, the slum-dwellers—these were formerly the sunken classes, to be noticed only to be pushed down and out. Then comes a Christian priest or a scientist; he sees the need, and henceforth devotes his life to it. Japan looks on; wakes up; receives an inspiration, and presently a whole new feature begins to characterize the Government system of education and social service. The tourist notes this and says, "How wonderful are the Japanese! Why should we presume to send missionaries to them?" Yet Japan owes it all to the Church.—A Report to the Department of Missions.

The Cathedral

We were favored in having with us recently the Rev. George Lynde Richardson, D.D., Vicar of the Pro-Cathedral of St. Mary.

Dr. Richardson gave us a spiritual interpretation of the function of a Cathedral in a great city.

In introducing Dr. Richardson, the Rector spoke of the local interest in the Cathedral project and stated that there were in the parish over seventy members of the Cathedral League. More have since been added.

The following statement was issued very recently by the Vicar of the Cathedral, and reveals the plans up to date:

The Executive Council of the Diocese has voted to unite with the Cathedral Chapter in requesting the Convention of the Diocese, at its meeting in Holy Trinity Church on May 2, to give its approval of the creation of the Cathedral Foundation, and to appoint a committee which shall submit, after conference with the Cathedral Chapter, recommendations about relating the Cathedral to the Convention and the Diocese.

This is another step in the evolution of the Cathedral. Although approval by the Diocesan Convention is not necessary and in some Dioceses, notably New York, the Cathedral grew and ministered for many years without any canonical regulations, yet for many reasons it seems wise that we should begin now the study of the most efficient method of fitting the Cathedral into the Diocesan system. For us who are working here at the center, however, the controlling thought must always be not of canons and legal arrangements, but of the work to be done. After all that is the matter of the greatest importance. Whatever be the canonical and constitutional government of the Cathedral, whatever be its location or material equipment, all is useless unless we build up a vigorous spiritual life, a wide and beneficial ministry to the community, a service of worship to Almighty God in which reality and devotion are the outstanding qualities. We thank God for the help and favor which we have hitherto enjoyed; let us strive to demonstrate by all we do here the true aim and usefulness of a Cathedral for the Diocese of Pennsylvania.

The United Thank Offering

The Annual Service with the presentation of the United Thank Offering will be held on Thursday, April 27th, at the Pro-Cathedral, Broad and South streets, Philadelphia, at 10 A. M. It is now expected that the Bishop will preach.

This is the month for the gathering in of the Thank Offering, and notices to the Grace Church contributors will be sent out about the middle of the month.

Second Social Service Conference

Tentative programs have been published in the Church weeklies for the second national conference of social service workers of the Episcopal Church. The first was the one held in Milwaukee last June. The next is planned for Monday to Thursday, June 19 to 22, in Wickford, R. I., a little town twenty miles from Providence on Narragansett Bay. Industrial problems and rural work are to receive special attention. Bishop Manning is chaplain of the conference. The National Conference of Social Work, probably the greatest meeting of social service workers in the world, takes place in Providence on the days following.

The Rev. Wm. Palmer Ladd, D. D., Dean of Berkeley Divinity School, preached in Grace Church the second Sunday in Lent.

The Rev. Samuel B. Booth, Canon of the Cathedral and Mission Priest of Bucks County, will preach at the Three Hours' Devotion in Grace Church on Good Friday.

The Woman's Auxiliary and Guild

Every one will rejoice to hear that the Alaskan Indians, with Bishop Rowe as their advisor and leader, have won out in regard to the salmon fisheries on the Yukon. This question has been before the government for several years and has been a source of great anxiety to the Bishop and others interested. Archdeacon Stuck's last visit to "the States" was in connection with it, but the government turned a deaf ear to his pleading and he died almost heart-broken over the failure of his mission.

Bishop Rowe, an authority on all things pertaining to Alaska, and knowing well the importance of the fisheries question to the natives, was fortunate indeed in being able to present his petition to a Secretary of Commerce such as Mr. Hoover, a man of such broad vision and sound judgment. It is well that these two should have come together.

An article elsewhere in this issue gives further details.

In thinking of the opportunity presented by mission study, it seems a great pity that all the women in the parish are not taking part in the classes. They are so interesting, so inspiring, and they give such a good chance for the discussion of the timely and vital things that constantly confront us. The class held in the Parish House on Thursdays at 3.15 is large and very much alive, and the numbers are increasing each week, but there is always room for more and the Educational Secretary will welcome heartily all who wish to come. Let us make up our minds to be present at all of the remaining sessions.

Probably most of us have already heard the returns from the rummage sale which was held in February, but for the benefit of the others we will repeat that the sum of $500 was raised. This amount includes over $50 which was received from the sale of old gold and silver donated at Mrs. Jenkin's Melting Pot Tea, given for the same purpose earlier in the month.

These rummage sales mean a great deal of hard work for some time ahead, but they are well worth the effort, and add substantially to the Auxiliary treasury. More help with the sales is always needed—we can scarcely have too many workers—so please remember next year that even one day given to it will be of the greatest value to those in charge.

Our sewing has gone along splendidly this winter. Mrs. Burrell plans the work so well and is so energetic and enthusiastic herself that the mornings spent at the Auxiliary meetings are never a hardship. The attendance has been very good. There are a number of new members coming regularly, the reports from the central committees bring outside interests to us, and a sociable, friendly atmosphere pervades the meetings. Those who are not in the habit of coming should drop in some Thursday morning and see how pleasant it all is.

Our last consignment of sewing for this year has come from the Supply Bureau, and it consists of thirty sets of men's pajamas. The last sewing meet for the year is held about the second week in May, so there is plenty to do in that time and anyone willing to help will be gladly welcomed.

Knitting for the lepers at Kumamoto goes on all summer and Mrs. Wellington, 7433 Boyer street, will be glad to hear from anyone who would like to do some of it. She will supply the wool and tell you just what is most needed.

A sewing machine, almost new, has recently been sent from our Auxiliary to the one in Bucks County, where it was badly needed and will be of great service.

Indians Win Fisheries Fight

The native Alaskan Indians have won their long fight against the big salmon fisheries interests of that territory.

Bishop Rowe, who for twenty-seven years has directed the missionary work of the Episcopal Church in Alaska, and who recently appeared before Secretary Hoover in Washington as spokesman for the Alaskan Indians in the fisheries controversy, yesterday received word from Secretary Hoover that the Department of Commerce had decided in favor of the Indians.

Bishop Rowe is now in this city. Secretary Hoover's communication was received at the Church House, 202 South Nineteenth street.

"Mr. Hoover has done a wise and humane act," he said. "This whole proposition was fought out two years ago and the Bureau of Fisheries promulgated regulations under which no more commercial fishing was to be permitted in the Yukon and other rivers after September 1, 1921. The packing companies appealed to Washington to have it rescinded, and it was my privilege to go to Washington from Alaska to represent the natives.

"Mr. Hoover's decision is that the regulation prohibiting commercial fishing in the rivers shall stand. It is upon the fishing in these rivers that natives depend for food for themselves and their dogs. This commercial fishing has been going on wholesale, and the result is that the natives have been hard pushed to secure food."

The Rector's Letter

My dear Friends:

I should like to ask all of you, as I asked the members of the Church School on Easter Day—how much you have profited by the discipline and devotion of the Lenten season.

I do not mean to imply that we can accurately measure our spiritual progress. But if we have used rightly the opportunities of Lent we should be conscious of finer coordination of all our powers—the lower being brought into subjection to the higher. Easter should find us disenthralled and thus prepared for service of a high order. Keener spiritual insight, more highly developed faith, should be the reward of our Lenten meditations and prayers. We should be more affable in disposition, more powerful in intercession, more capable in work, more responsive to the world's needs because of Lent.

We should be nearer to God and nearer to one another in Christ and nearer to the central current of God's great purpose for the world.

"The Kingdom of God cometh not with observation." The good results of Lent do not appear on the surface.

The divine seed has been sown. It will bring forth in some thirty, in some sixty, in some an hundred fold.

It appears from the records of attendance which I give below that aside from a moderate increase in attendance at the Sunday services there was no serious effort made by the great majority of Grace Church people to observe Lent. Appearances may be misleading. I am confident that there are those whose observance of Lent has been conscientiously carried on in private although they have rarely been seen in Church. The Father who seeth in secret will reward them openly.

But the tragic contrast between the many and the few which so deeply impressed our Lord, still remains.

Every pastor feels it.

Lent is typical of all spiritual opportunities. Many follow afar off. Few draw near. Many show a superficial interest. Few sound the depths.

As Thomas a Kempis wistfully says:

> "Jesus hath now many lovers of His heavenly Kingdom, but few bearers of His Cross. Many follow Jesus to the breaking of bread; but few to the drinking of the cup of His passion."

We turn now with glowing hearts to the next great spiritual opportunity of the Christian year—the Great Forty Days of our Lord's sojourn on Earth before His ascension to the Father.

Forgetting those things which are behind, let us press on. "Tomorrow to fresh woods and pastures new."

Ever yours faithfully,

THOMAS S. CLINE.

Easter Week, 1922.

Memories of Easter

Easter, 1922, will always be a beautiful memory for Grace Church people. The Church never looked so beautiful before. The music surpassed that of former festivals. The services were well attended. A spirit of Easter joy was in the air. The weather was perfect. All nature seemed attuned to the glad Resurrection Feast.

The number of Communions exceeded that of former years and those who received at the early services returned for the mid-day Eucharist.

After the festival procession the choir sang Foster's anthem, "Upon the First Day of the Week," in a most inspiring manner. In fact, the music throughout the day was suggestive of the triumphant spirit of the Resurrection.

Mr. Robinson added greatly to the services by his preludes and postludes.

Before the Church School Festival service in the afternoon Mr. Robinson was assisted by Mr. Albert Zinger, violinist.

The children sang the Easter carols with a will. The Lenten offering of the Church School presented on Easter Day was $170. The morning offering for General Missions was $429.31, showing an increase over the past few years.

The Angelus At Evening

(The Ave bell in the Orange Valley, New Jersey, bears the ancient inscription, "O Rex Gloriae Veni Cum Pace")

There sounds a twilight bell through all the year
When skies are paling and the night is near,
E'er sweet its song as seasons onward flow
To hearts that hearken and its music know;
For 'tis a song of peace that fills the air,
A plaintive plea that floats, unspoken prayer,
Above the roofs, the hills, the flight of wings
With gentle pleading to the King of kings.
"O come with peace" we seem to hear it call
With silver melody as shadows fall
Upon the labors of the passing day
And weary workers homeward turn their way.
"O King of glory come with peace, O come:
Long years have gone since Thou didst leave Thy home
To find a Mother here and bring to men
The rest of God 'til Thou would'st come again.
O come while Aves cleave the ev'ning skies
And stars are born and fading daylight dies.
O come to lonely ones, the sick and sad;
The burdened and the penitent make glad;
To little children show Thyself so bright;
To souls departing bring eternal light."

The notes of tender intercession cease,
No echo lingers, 'tis the hour of peace.

The Church School Service League

Of all the work accomplished by the various organizations of the parish during the Lenten season just past, none was better nor finer than the Christian service done by the young people of the Church School Service League for the joy and happiness of Easter time.

The interests of the League are not confined to a single field, but reach out in sundry directions. Ten dollars was sent by them to the Rev. Charles Baker, Orleans, California, for his work among the Indians of that region. Six dollars was given to buy three books for the library that is being collected for St. Paul's College, Tokyo, Japan. The ladies of the House of Rest, Germantown, received a large pot of heliotrope from the League and a hyacinth and tulips were sent to a shut-in of our own parish. At Easter time lilies were given to decorate the altar in the Chapel of the Chestnut Hill Hospital for Consumptives, as well as for that of Grace Church.

Many cards were colored and posters and postcard books made by the young people and sent to the Germantown and Chestnut Hill hospitals, to St. Agnes Settlement House, Kensington, for the children's library there, and also to friends who are ill in our own parish and community. The younger boys worked very hard cutting out and coloring large pasteboard parrots and their perches, and in making sets of dominoes—all for the amusement of sick children in hospitals.

Mrs. Parkman's class of girls made five dozen face cloths for use in a Red Cross hospital.

The five fields of missionary activity were therefore all covered by the young people in their work—the parish, community, diocese, nation and world—and they deserve a great deal of praise for so unselfishly giving their time to it; and for the happy, willing spirit with which they came so regularly on Monday afternoons.

The following named girls and boys were given the Church School honor pin by Mr. Cline in recognition of attendance at all the Friday afternoon church services during Lent: Catherine Cline, Lois Cline, Jessie Coburn, Helen Kee, Jane Lewis, Nancy Lewis, Mary Virginia Muzzey, Dorothy Stem, Frank Muzzey, Thomas White.

There were seven others who were absent only once. ✠

Not Only in Ohio

If each Rector in Ohio would pick out the most desirable boy in his Sunday School and take him aside and suggest to him that perhaps God wants him for the sacred ministry, I feel confident that we would have a large number of splendid men in college and in Bexley Hall looking forward to this high and holy calling.—The Church Messenger, Southern Ohio. ✠

Vesper Lights

The altar of Grace Church looked so beautiful at the wedding Easter Monday evening with the vesper lights, that many people hoped they were to be a permanent feature. The seven branch candlesticks were borrowed for the occasion. Perhaps some person would like to present a similar pair to Grace Church.

The Woman's Auxiliary and Guild

The end of the regular meetings of the Auxiliary has arrived, with the last sewing on Thursday, May 4th, and the annual meeting on Tuesday, May 9th, at 2.30 o'clock. The latter is very important, so let us all make a strenuous effort to be present and wind up the year with a big enthusiastic gathering. Elections take place at this time, and as many as possible should have part in selecting the officers for 1922-23.

The attendance on Thursday mornings has been splendid this year—quite the best we have had for some time—and it has been particularly stimulating to have so many members coming regularly who have not heretofore been sewing with us. Perhaps there are many others who would enjoy coming next fall. We must all try to find them for they may be waiting to be invited personally.

In the meantime, knitting is still being done for the lepers. The box usually goes to them in September, and there is room in it for all contributions that may be sent in. Apply to Mrs. Wellington for wool and suggestions as to what will be most acceptable.

Faith

Father O'Leary was off to catch the Dublin express, and on the way to the station he met the bishop.

"Well, what's your hurry?" asked the bishop.

"It's the Dublin express I'm after, your lordship," replied Father O'Leary.

The bishop pulled out his watch.

"Well," he said, "you have seven minutes yet. Let us walk together and both catch it."

They arrived at the station just in time to see the train going out.

"Do you know, I had the greatest faith in that watch, O'Leary?" said the bishop.

"Yes, my lord," replied O'Leary. "But what is faith without good works?"—The Churchman.

The Mission Study Class

The Corporate Communion on Maundy Thursday of the Mission Study Class was held at 7.30 o'clock, and it reassembled at three for a final session.

The enthusiasm throughout the course has been marked by open discussions unusually spirited and general.

A new feature which added greatly to the attendance, was the unselfish arrangement made by our Kindergarten principal, who entertained the little children in another room, while the mothers came in to the class. It was very encouraging to have such a goodly number of members who had never attended a Mission Study Class before.

We are deeply grateful to our devoted Educational Secretary for giving us the opportunity to deepen our spiritual life, and are hopeful that the instructions she so carefully and prayerfully imparted to us may by God's grace, spring up and bear abundant fruit.

Many found the Meditations so especially helpful, that they would have liked the class continued.

As a fitting climax to the seasons study, members of the various classes throughout the Diocese met at Holy Trinity Parish House on the evening of April 27th, and were addressed by the bishop. C. B. L.

The Young People

On the Friday nights of Lent the Rector held a series of special services for young people. Following the service the young people held an informal meeting in the guild room for the discussion of various topics. Among the subjects discussed were temperance, modern criticism of the Bible, the meaning of prayer and the relations of young people to the Church.

This group of young people have decided to form a permanent Young People's Society. An active committee has been at work drawing up a set of by-laws and a plan of procedure presented to a general Young People's Rally held in the Parish House Friday, April 28th, at 7.30 P. M.

While the Rector is in hearty sympathy with the movement, he is leaving it largely in the hands of the young people themselves. He says he has been impressed by the enthusiasm and ability with which they have taken it up and he thinks it holds promise of benefit to all concerned.

Similar societies have been springing up spontaneously in Episcopal Churches throughout the country in the last two or three years.

It appears that the young people of the Church are taking a more active part in religious work than hitherto. Could anything be more interesting?

A Word for Your Vocabulary

What is a diglot? A diglot is a Bible or a testament or smaller portion of the Christian scriptures printed in two languages in parallel columns. At any rate, that is what it means in the language of the American Bible Society. These two-language books are prepared as a means of Americanization and Christianization of the immigrant within our gates and have been used with great success in all parts of the country. The Society now has more than thirty-three such diglots in which English and some other language are printed in parallel columns. These include: Bohemian, Bulgarian, Chinese, Finnish, French, German, Greek, Hebrew, Hungarian, Italian, Japanese, Persian, Polish, Russian, Spanish, Turkish and Yiddish.

It is the purpose of the Society to enlarge this list of diglots so as to meet as far as possible the needs of those in our own land, where more than 100 languages and dialects are spoken. Already the Scriptures are available in the mother tongues of all our immigrant population, but it is believed that the two-language books will greatly help in the Americanization program.

Inquiries and suggestions are invited by the American Bible Society, Astor Place, New York.—The Witness.

Annual Meeting of the Vestry

The annual meeting of the Vestry was held on Easter Tuesday.

The judges of the election of Vestry-men reported that on Easter Monday the following Vestrymen were re-elected to serve for three years:

Messrs. E. V. Lansdale, James Wilson Bayard, William F. Fell and John E. Greaves.

The following members of the Vestry will serve as deputies to the Diocesan Convention in May: Dr. A. L. E. Crouter, Messrs. J. W. Bayard and W. F. Fell. Alternate, Mr. H. Fortescue.

The Rector appointed the following Standing Committees for the ensuing year:

Choir—Messrs. Meehan, Bayard and Landenberger.

Church School — Messrs. Crouter, Thompson and Sibson.

Finance — Messrs. Bayard, Crouter, Fortescue, Greaves and Lansdale.

Building and Grounds — Messrs. Fell, Ball and Webb.

At several previous annual meetings the Rector has suggested to the Vestry definite objectives to be attained during the ensuing year. These objects have always been accomplished.

At the recent meeting the Rector proposed that during the coming year electric lighting be installed in the Church and Rectory. The plan suggested was that the necessary funds be raised by Easter, 1923, and the work be completed during the following summer. This met with the unanimous approval of the Vestry. A committee to make investigations and devise ways and means was appointed, consisting of the following members:

Messrs. Ball, Fell, Bayard, Fortescue, Webb and Meehan.

The Rector can be seen at the Church after any of the services, or at the rectory by appointment. He wishes to be of service to the people and the community, and will appreciate being notified of cases of sickness and need. He is always ready to respond to calls of mercy, and to administer the Offices and Sacraments of the Church.

Christian Stewardship

"If Christian life and money were governed by the Principles of Stewardship, there would be enough of both to insure the swift triumph of Christ's Kingdom."

Does this seem to be an exceedingly definite and startling statement? Do you remember how the bishop put it when he was at Grace Church last November? He was asked a question: "Why doesn't the Kingdom of God come?" And his answer was: "Because people don't want it." That, too, is equally startling, and yet they both point the same way.

"It is estimated that twenty-five per cent. of our church members are engaged in some definite Christian work." What is the remainder—the seventy-five per cent.—doing? What group are you in?

If every member tithed income and life for such service, we should not be a begging Church and a divided family.

"Is there any normal human relationship that should not be controlled by the principle of Stewardship? Home? Church? School? Society? Business?"

"Can a child begin too early to learn the lesson?"

How many of us keep family budgets and personal accounts?

In view of our Stewardship, is not this a matter of Christian obligation?

PRINCIPLES

God is the owner of all.

I am His Steward and must account to Him for all I have.

He requires of my Stewardship, as part of its expression, the setting apart of a definite proportion of my income for the extension of His Kingdom.

The proportionate sum thus dedicated to God should be set apart before disposing of any money received.

The remainder of one's income, whether spent or saved, should be treated as a sacred trust. Christian Stewardship also involves a similar use of one's ability and time.

Three pamphlets are in circulation just now; they are: "Stewardship," by Bishop Johnson. "If I Were a Layman," by Bishop Fiske. "Proportionate Giving," by George Wharton Pepper.

The Rector will be very glad to answer questions concerning this literature, and the obtaining of it.

The Church Periodical Club

Last call for the library of St. Paul's College, Tokyo, Japan.

The librarian has received several donations for books, and is hoping for many more! The Junior Department of the C. S. S. L. and the Mission Study Class have already responded, and it is expected that the Woman's Auxiliary will make a donation at the May meeting. Will not the other organizations of the Parish follow suit?

The fund will be closed in May and the amount sent to the Diocesan correspondent to be added to the Pennsylvania quota, before the total sum is forwarded to the head office in New York.

All members and contributors of the Church Periodical Club are asked to remember the club in their prayers at the celebration of the Holy Communion on the first Sunday in May—praying especially that the workers may have faith and perseverance, and the work be a means of bringing many into the Kingdom of God.

PRAYER

O Lord Jesus Christ, who art the Light of the World, pour out, we beseech Thee, upon all Thy servants Thy Holy Spirit of Wisdom and understanding that they may know the hope of Thy calling, the riches of Thine inheritance in the saints, and the greatness of Thy power to usward who believe. More especially, we pray Thee, to direct and prosper the Church Periodical Club that in all its prayer and labor it may be enabled to make the light of Thy glory shine forth in the dark places of the earth. And do Thou of Thy mercy and grace stablish Thy Church in the truth of Thy Gospel who livest and reignest with the Father and the Holy Spirit ever One God, world without end. Amen.

The Lepers' "Resurrection of Hope"

For only the third time in more than thirty years, Miss H. Riddell, of Kumamoto, Japan, has been in the United States telling the fascinating and wonderful story of the origin and development of the "Hospital of the Resurrection of Hope" for lepers in Japan. Few undertakings in foreign lands have at their head so strong and winning a personality. One often feels that what Miss Riddell is, speaks even louder than what she says, and yet her audience is left with a deep and lasting personal interest in all lepers, especially those in Kumamoto, the old city at the most southern point of Japan.

The Japanese work for leprosy means precisely "cursed of the gods." Obviously, if one is cursed by the gods, one has no hope whatever, no soul, no future in this life or another. Worse than the long physical torture of the disease is the absolute certainty of despair.

To the people thus accursed, Miss Riddell's hospital brings St. Mark's story of our Lord's compassion.

The hospital has long had its chapel room, but money has now been secured for a little church, which is to be made as beautiful as possible, to show the lepers and other people the meaning of the "Resurrection of Hope."

Friends of the hospital have a "Daily Bread League" to assist in its support. The members of the league "endow their birthdays," that is, they each give a sum of money sufficient to provide food for the hospital for one day each year. The names of the donors are recorded in the chapel. Going into the chapel at any time Miss Riddell may find two or three lepers praying for the donors of that day.

The Roman Centennial

The Society for the Propagation of the Faith (Roman Catholic) celebrates its Centennial on May 3, 1922, which makes it just five months younger than our own missionary organization. The March-April issue of its Annals contains a brief survey of its field, listing three hundred "Dioceses, Vicariates and Prefectures" (outside continental United States), in all but five of which there are from three to 200 bishops and priests. (Manila has 320.)

"At the lowest computation there are at present about sixty thousand missionaries" —"in the popular sense those are missionaries who have gone to distant regions and especially to heathen countries for the purpose of spreading the faith among unbelievers." The sixty thousand does not include native workers. "A century ago those missionaries scarcely numbered one thousand, all told." Calling attention to the need for continued and increasing effort, the magazines notes that there are some 1500 millions in the world, only 500 millions are baptized Christians, and "of these only a little more than one-half are Catholics."

This prayer follows:

O God, who wouldst have all men to be saved and come to a knowledge of the truth, send forth, we beseech Thee, laborers into Thy harvest; and grant them with all boldness to preach the Word; that Thy Gospel may everywhere be heard and glorified, and that all nations may know Thee, the one true God, and Him whom Thou hast sent, Jesus Christ, Thy Son, our Lord. Amen.

The Rector's Letter

My dear Friends:

On the eve of Pentecost the disciples of our Lord, faithful to His command, were all with one accord in one place, prayerfully waiting for the fulfillment of His promise of power from on high.

In like spirit we should prepare for the coming Feast of Whitsunday. It should now be the major event in our lives. No week-end trip or personal consideration should be allowed to interfere with our primary spiritual duty. This is one of the high days when all faithful communicants should come to the Blessed Sacrament.

Christians should not be less conscientious in their religious observances than pagans. There is a scene in Herodotus illustrating the honor in which the ancients held their religious feasts. Cleobis and Bito are to take their mother to the feast of Juno. But the oxen did not come from the field in time. Therefore, fearing lest they be late for the sacrifice, they drag the car themselves. As a reward the gods take them to themselves.

Have we such eagerness for worship that we are willing to undergo much labor and inconvenience to be present at the feast? If so we shall not miss our reward.

There will be a service of preparation for the Whitsunday Communion on Wednesday evening, the last day of May. The Eucharistic services on Whitsunday, June 4, will be at 7.30 and 11.00 o'clock. At the early service there will be a corporate communion for the members of the Communicants' Guild.

In the evening there will be a rally of all the organizations of the parish in a Guild Service. The Rev. Dr. Vernon, rector of St. Mark's, will bring us the message. A full attendance will help to make this service a real inspiration to the whole parish. Let our united prayers ascend to God requesting fresh gifts of power from on high. Thus may the work of the church receive divine impetus and direction.

"Show thy servants thy work: and their children thy glory.

"And the glorious majesty of the Lord our God be upon us: prosper thou the work of our hands upon us: O prosper thou our handy-work."

Faithfully yours,
THOMAS S. CLINE.

Come, Holy Ghost

The only metrical hymn in our Prayer Book is the beautiful prayer to the Holy Ghost known as the Veni Creator Spiritus.

It appears in two translations in the Ordinal, page 519 of the Prayer Book.

It has been the custom for nearly a decade to use the longer form of this ancient hymn as a Processional Litany at the opening of the late celebration in Grace Church on the Feast of Whitsunday. Starting from the Chancel the Priest and Choir encircle the church chanting responsively the verses. The people, kneeling, respond singing the parts written in italics.

This beautiful and sincere prayer for the gifts of the Holy Spirit has endeared itself to the worshippers of Grace Church and Whitsunday would not seem complete without it. So far as we know, the custom is purely a local one.

Whitsunday Guild Service

On the evening of Whitsunday, June 4, there will be held in Grace Church a Guild Service which will be of unusual interest.

This service will be a rally of all the parish organizations which are invited to march in the procession and sit in separate groups.

A resumé of the work of the various societies during the year will be read.

The special preacher for the evening will be the Rev. Frank L. Vernon, D. D., Ditt. D., rector of St. Mark's Church, Philadelphia.

The parish organizations which will participate are as follows: The Vestry, the Executive Council, the Woman's Auxiliary and Guild, the Men's Service League, the Communicants' Guild, the Young People's Society, the Girls' Club, the Boy Scouts, the Girl Scouts, the Altar Guild, the Servers' Guild, the Church School and the Church School Service League. Places will be reserved for these groups, but there will be room for all. It is hoped the people of the congregation will attend this service and make it a general thanksgiving for the blessings of our Christian labors during the year.

Church School Commencement

Sunday, June 25, has been appointed as the Commencement Day for Grace Church School. There will be no morning session of the school on that day. The final exercises will be held on the church lawn at 3 o'clock. Plans are under way for the presentation of an out-door pageant. The pageant selected is one of the famous St. Agnes pageants by Miss Hobart—an Old Testament story, Rebekah.

Mrs. William M. Price is in charge of the pageant which insures a high-grade presentation.

The Church School Examinations will be held on Sunday, June 18, at the regular morning session. A full attendance is important.

The Women's Auxiliary and Guild

At the annual meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary, held on May 9, very gratifying results of the year's activities were told by all chairmen. To begin, the treasurer, after reading a most interesting report, gave the total value of work done for the years 1916-17 and 1921-22, the former sum being $1676.78 and the latter $5165.08. We are certainly not standing still.

Mrs. North announced that Grace Church is already assured of a position on the honor roll of the United Thank Offering of parishes contributing over $2000 for the triennium, as the amount to date for presentation at Portland is $2032.78, with one more in-gathering to be made this summer. The ideal honor roll is where every woman and girl in a parish is a contributor. There are three parishes on this list.

Mrs. North, who is a member of the board of managers for the House of Rest, Germantown, announced that she has several regular contributors to that institution in our parish and hopes soon to find one or two for each month in the year.

The report of the work room and box committee given by Mrs. Burrell, was entertaining as well as interesting; $340.70 represents the money value of the work done for diocesan, domestic and Indian missions, but it gives little idea of the time and labor spent by Mrs. Burrell and her sewing force. The work for the Diocesan Supply Bureau consisted of 214 garments, valued at $290.70, but beside this there were many other garments made and not included in the above estimate. sixty-four were sent to Labrador and ninety-one to the Mount Airy Branch of the Needlework Guild. One item of the work was the making of 1054 buttonholes, 300 of which were done by Mrs. Hartman. All of this represents the work of about twenty women. Several valuable new sewers have been added this season and the former "regulars" have stood by the ship. The knitting for the diocesan work is in charge of Mrs. Pease who reported thirty-six garments completed.

Largely through the efforts of Mrs. Pease, the amount collected for the Bishop Rowe Foundation fund has now reached $126.81.

Mrs. Wellington reported that the five Christmas boxes sent to Miss Riddell for the lepers in Kumamoto, Japan, were valued at $250, and a check for $250 was also sent for the endowment fund, called the Daily Bread League, to provide the expenses for one day a year in the hospital. Grace Church day is December 13.

Mrs. George, chairman of the finance committee, announced that a garden party is being arranged by Mrs. Thomas H. Ball, to be held in the parish house and grounds on the afternoon and evening of June 8, and she urged every woman to rally to the support of Mrs. Ball and help make the party a great success. Keep the date open!

In reporting for the Social Service Committee Mrs. Sheble told of so many good things accomplished that it is impossible to recount them in this article, but they include splendid work at the Home for Consumptives and the House of Rest; distribution of food and gifts at Thanksgiving and Christmas; of flowers and fruit at Easter; and a gift to the Consumptive Home of three invalid chairs—two from the diocesan committee and the third from a member of the Social Service Committee. The basis of their work for this year was regular friendly visiting and the plan has been carried out with happy results.

Miss Margaretta Bayard reported $66 in hand for books for St. Paul's College, Tokyo; and told of the numerous pathetic appeals that come to the Church Periodical Club for magazines and other reading matter.

In explaining the purpose of the Cathedral League, Mrs. Matlack said that the fifty cents membership fee goes to the Endowment Fund, not the building fund. Grace Church membership is now seventy-five, but does not compare favorably with many other parishes. Mrs. Matlack asked our prayers for the League's growth and urged each member to bring in one other member until all are included.

Mrs. Matlack also reported that our own library has lately had its largest addition in years, mainly through the kindness of the rector, a large donation from Mrs. North and several from other members of the parish. Miss Kaighn has kindly catalogued the books and now we need more closets to hold them.

Miss Elizabeth Mott collected $10.75 for the Tract Society.

Miss Alday, who has charge of the Font Roll and regularly visits the mothers of new babies in the parish, has planned a meeting of the mothers and their children on the afternoon of June 1, with a short service at the close.

Mrs. Shephard reported 429 garments collected by six directors for the Labrador Needlework Guild. These articles were displayed in the guild room and comprised a fine assortment of warm garments for the people of that cold country.

In the report of the Educational Secretary, Mrs. Hayes said that the business of her office is not only to see that mission study classes are held in the parish, but also to assist in any branch of the church work in which she may be needed. In January three mission study leaders were invited to the parish to conduct a special class; through the secretary also, speakers were obtained for the Girls' Club; and during Lent the largest mission study class in the history of the parish was held. The attendance averaged twenty and very often more were present. Ten new members came this year, and Mrs. Hall offered to take care of the little children so that their mothers could attend the class. The voluntary offering was $46, which was divided among the Chinese in the slums of Wuchang, the memorial hospital to Miss Conway in Liberia, St. Barnabas parish house, Germantown, and

St. Paul's library, Tokyo. Boxes valued at $40 were sent to the southern mountains at the suggestion of one of the class, who also packed and mailed them. The text-book for next year's study is on the "Immigrants of this Country."

Various sums of money were voted to several purposes; $20 to the Supply Bureau toward the overhead expenses; $10 from the Auxiliary as an organization for books for the library of St. Paul's College, Tokyo; $25 toward the salary of a teacher in the Polish school at the Church of the Redeemer; $10 for the hospital at Fort Yukon, Alaska; $5 for the Rev. A. Pearson's work in the Virginia mountains; $25 for Bishop Wise's work among the university students in Kansas.

Our rector was present at the meeting and spoke of the interesting and impressive reports that had been given and congratulated officers and members on the achievements of the year. He added a word in favor of the Cathedral League, telling that the Diocesan Convention had put its stamp of approval on the cathedral and had appointed a splendid committee to take charge of it. He then announced that a Guild Service will be held in Grace Church on the evening of June 4, Whitsunday, and asked that the women attend in a body, assembling in the guild room at 7.45, then going into the church and sitting together. Dr. Vernon, from St. Mark's, will preach the sermon.

All the last year's officers of the Auxiliary were re-elected to serve for 1922-23.

The Communicants' Guild

The Communicants' Guild which is composed of the members of Confirmation Classes presented to the Bishop during the past ten years, will make its annual Corporate Communion on Whitsunday at 7.30 a. m.

The Guild will attend the special Guild Service on the evening of Whitsunday in a body. Members are requested to meet in the Primary Room in the Parish House promptly at 7.45 p. m. and be ready to march in the procession.

Seats will be reserved for them in church and they will sit in classes.

Following the service there will be a brief business meeting of the Guild in the Primary Room. The rector will propose a change in the organization providing that new communicants remain as active members of the Guild for a period of two years.

A full attendance is desired.

The rector specially invites the members of the Guild to the service of Preparation for Whitsunday Communion Wednesday, May 31, at 8 p. m.

Garden Fete

Come one, come all, to the Garden Party on Thursday, June 8, on the Church lawn and in the Parish House. In the afternoon the children are promised all kinds of fun, from a lolly pop and ice cream cone to a Punch and Judy Show. Balloons in abundance, and instead of the usual Fish Pond, a novel tree, bearing fruit one least expects to find. For the "grown ups" there will be useful and fancy articles—rolls, cake and candy, various refreshing beverages and plants. Tea will be served at 4 o'clock and supper at 6. Supper tickets, at $1.00, have been sent throughout the Parish, hoping all will stay who can, for in the evening, Professor H. D. Bailey, of Muhlenberg College, Altoona, will give an illustrated lecture on "Personal experiences in dismal swamps and jungles of the South." Tickets, 50 cents. This is not the first large affair Mrs. Ball has planned for Grace Church, and we know how delightful her entertainments always are. Then, too, the women need money to start their work in the Fall. So let us get together and make this a most successful and sociable occasion.

Grace Church Camp for Boys

At a recent meeting of the Men's Service League Mr. G. Frank Shelby made a stirring address upon the church's responsibility for the boys. In the discussion which followed the men voiced their desire to show their interest in the boys of the parish. It was proposed that the parish conduct a camp for boys during the early part of August and a committee with Mr. Robert MacDonald, Jr., as chairman, was appointed.

This committee is developing plans for a camp for boys of the parish at Wrightstown the first week in August. The site is on the mission farm of the Rev. Samuel B. Booth, beautifully located on the Neshaminy Creek.

The Brotherhood of St. Andrew will conduct a training camp for church boys on the same site the last two weeks in July. The parish will use some of the same equipment.

Mr. MacDonald will be in charge of the camp, which is in itself adequate guaranty of its careful and successful management.

The choir boys will go under the leadership of Mr. Robinson. Other boys of the parish who desire to attend should notify Mr. MacDonald. The camp will open Tuesday, August 1, and close Tuesday, August 8. The cost for each boy will be seven dollars.

Full information will be furnished by the committee regarding the required equipment.

There is no intention of slighting the girls. If a suitable leader can be found and a sufficient number of girls are interested, we can arrange for a second week, from August 8 to 15.

This part of the plan is as yet tentative.

The boys' camp is practically assured. If it works out well this year it may well become an annual event.

Parish Notes

The Young People's Services are held in the Guild Room at 7 p. m. the second and fourth Sundays of the month. The speaker at the meeting Sunday evening, June 11, will be the Rev. E. H. Bonsall, Jr., who is now devoting his whole time to work among the Young People with the state of Pennsylvania for his field.

At a recent meeting the speaker was the Rev. Wood Stewart, Rector of St. Martin-in-the-Fields.

At the May meeting of the Executive Council the following committee was appointed to make plans for the annual Dedication Festival of Grace Church, to be held the first week of next November: Mrs. William C. Burk, Mrs. E. W. Jenkins, Mrs. R. L. Hayes, Mr. J. W. Bayard and Mr. Horace Fortescue.

The United Thank Offering

The United Thank Offering looms large It is daily increasing in importance. One cannot be criticised for saying that during the next three months it will be the most important thing before the women of the Church, both in our own land and beyond the seas.

Thanks be to God, more and more women are offering their lives for the mission fields—during 1921 between fifty and sixty of our own Communion. We, the women of the army at home in the service of the Church Militant, must keep pace, with our prayers and our gifts.

The United Thank Offering, presented at Detroit in 1919—the "Victory Thank Offering"—together with the interest on the unused portions during the three years, has amounted to more than a half million. The clarion call today is for $1,000,000 at Portland this year. What can —what shall we do about it? Most encouraging reports have come from all the dioceses and districts—reports of good gains, and in some cases of offerings doubled (a falling off in only one, and that of only $10). This should be a great encouragement, but to double an offering of $500,000 means unceasing energy. It means faithful work in every parish and mission.

Grace Church has made very good progress. We are already sure of our place on the diocesan Honor Roll of 1919-1922, of parishes whose triennial offering is $2000 or over. In 1919 we held the sixth place on that Roll. We shall probably "go up one" at least in the next report; but the wonderful, satisfying achievement would be to find ourselves on the "Ideal" Honor Roll—every woman communicant of the parish—senior and junior—a contributor! This would be possible if only every woman in the parish were interested and would "lend a hand." She surely would if she could realize what the United Thank Offering might mean in her own life, to say nothing of what it stands for and accomplishes in the missionary work of the Church.

The General Convention has been moved forward one month, which means that our United Thank Offering is to be presented at Portland on Thursday, September 7. The in-gathering must be in August, which makes it a bit difficult, but when we have to do a thing, we do it!

This offering of 1922 is to be the great "Peace Thank Offering," and, as far as possible, throughout the Church, every woman—whether or not she is a regular contributor—is to have the opportunity of a share in it. Women of Grace Parish, behold the privilege which awaits you in the not distant future! Yes, yours the privilege—yours the great joy!

"The Lord shall give His people the blessing of Peace."

"All praise and thanks to Thee ascend."

"Come and offer thy gift."

The Diocesan Committee's Quiet Afternoon

This meeting, at St. Martin's on Saturday, May 13, in Mr. Woodward's garden, was most restful, Miss Barry's choir adding much to the beautiful surroundings.

The Bishop gave an impressive meditation, stressing the thought that personal religion which does not bear fruit in service for God, is worthless, just as good works without the consecration of the inward life are also of no avail. Mrs. J. Willis Martin, president, reviewed the year's work as follows: At Camp Dix last summer over 300 parishes were represented in the social work among the soldiers. From the Supply Bureau over 82,000 garments were turned out. All calls for surgical dressings and hospital supplies filled, and over 8000 garments for institutions made.

In the Knitting Department 2000 garments were made, this being "way over the top," great stress being laid on the fact that the sweaters were better made than ever before.

Every child in the various institutions had a Christmas stocking. The great work has been for the foreign-born Roumanians, Italians, Poles, Jews and Hungarians. Every call has been answered, but today there is a special call for greater service. Volunteers for the church are needed in this great diocese, Volunteer Aid Detachments to be called upon in emergency. They are needed in the Philadelphia General Hospital; many calls are needed for strangers in the city, nurses and social service workers themselves often need help and a cheery word. This is a chance for the younger women who want to work.

Are there some in Grace Church who will help?

For further particulars go to the president of our Auxiliary and she will direct you.

Let us be ready to answer the calls that come to us from all over the city and let us get the children into the churches.

Again the call to greater service comes from Brother Mark, a worker in the southern mountains, who spoke of the duties of the intelligent classes and that our first responsibility is receptive minds—then we can know.

We hear of chaotic conditions here and everywhere, but we blind our eyes to facts.

Children when first arrested are often thrown with criminals, instead of being cared for individually. In Philadelphia, fortunately, our laws are wiser and more humane.

What of our state prisons, and do we know of the poverty and the starvation near and around us? Thousands and thousands need us, and we who are in the church should help those who are not.

It is associated effort and habit of expression that counts. It is for us to make good citizens for the Kingdom of Christ. We must know the needs, to interpret His will in every-day life, not to admit conditions and then turn our backs.

Prayer requires action and it is upon us that the decision depends. God grant us intelligence in this work. F. De G. J.

Christian Stewardship

"We show our loyalty to Christ by our support of the Body which we believe He gave us to represent Him in the world."

A Christian is one who has received the Holy Ghost in baptism, thereby making him a member of that body—the Christian fellowship.

To become a member of any organism or organization entails responsibility and obligation. Nor is this in any way a newly devised scheme; look at I Corinthians, Chapter 16.

"Now concerning the collection for the saints, as I gave order to the churches of Galatia, so also do ye. Upon the first day of the week let each one of you lay by him in store, as he may prosper, that no collections be made when I come."

The order of the church in apostolic days was regular and systematic giving; even more than that—there was a special offering for visiting missionaries. See Romans 16.

"I commend unto you Phoebe, our sister, who is a servant of the Church . . . that you receive her . . . and that ye assist her in whatsoever matter she may have need of you . . ."

Why do men resent the fact that the church asks them for their money! The support of the body was a thing taken for granted in the early days of the church; they even provided for "Specials." See The Acts: 28: ". . . a great famine over all the world . . . and the disciples, every man according to his ability determined to send relief unto the brethren which dwelt in Judea, which also they did."

We are afraid to give—we have not learned the joy in so doing.

Try it and see! Try it and know the blessing that flows in and around us when we set aside a certain proportion of our income as a thank offering to God. He has given us the privilege of saying how we shall give, but He has never granted us an immunity from giving.

Of the Jew, He expected one-tenth. Is the standard of the Jew above or beneath you?

"Do good, hoping for nothing in return, and your reward shall be great."

Pamphlets concerning the support of the Church and Proportionate Giving are distributed with this issue of the Parish News.

The Bishop's Bricks Fund

The Church School scholars are now collecting their dimes for the Bishop's Bricks Fund. Every dime represents a brick to help build new churches in this ever growing diocese.

The annual Presentation Service will be held on the eve of Whitsunday, Saturday, June 3, at 3.30 o'clock, at the Church of St. Martin-in-the-Fields. The Bishop himself will receive the offering and the "Bricks" and "Churches" made by the children.

We hope Grace Church School will be well represented both in members present and in contributions.

The librarian of the Church Periodical Club has had a request for school books. Are there not many boys and girls in Mt. Airy who are through with some of their school books and would be willing to give them to girls and boys who are in great need for the up-to-date books—up to the eighth and ninth grades? Please send them to the Parish House as soon as possible.

The Library at S. Agnes Settlement House, Kensington, is much depleted. Will you not help to fill the shelves with good books for children of all ages—stories, fiction, books about animals, books of reference, history, etc.? A box will be packed next week for the Settlement House, so please send in the books quickly.

The Librarian again wishes to thank all the unknown donors of magazines and books, and would remind them that the demand for reading matter is still greater than the supply.

Will every contributing member of the Club send in the names of the magazines he or she is sending away regularly, and the addresses of the persons to whom the magazines are sent?

About $80, up to date, has been received for the Library of S. Paul's College, Tokio. It is hoped $100 will be raised before the fund is closed.

The Cathedral League

1. What is the Cathedral League?

The Cathedral League is an organization in the Diocese of Pennsylvania, whose purpose is to work and pray for a Cathedral for the Diocese.

2. Who can be members of the Cathedral League?

All persons, men, women and children, are eligible for membership who will use the Cathedral League prayer, interest others in the Cathedral, and pay the annual dues fifty cents.

3. Why is the annual contribution made so small?

The annual contribution of fifty cents is made small so that it may be possible to enlist all people in this great community undertaking. There are, however, for those who desire to donate larger sums, other kinds of membership:

Life $50.00
Sustaining (good for ten years) 10.00
Associate (good for five years). 5.00

4. What is done with the money paid in dues?

The money paid in dues goes into the Endowment Fund and is invested without any deduction as a part of the principal of that Fund.

5. How is the interest on the Endowment Fund used?

The interest on the Endowment Fund goes at present to the support of the work at the Pro-Cathedral of St. Mary, Broad and South streets.

6. When will the Cathedral be built?

The Cathedral will be built when: First, the Endowment Fund has become large enough to support Cathedral work; and secondly, when a sufficient sum is in the Building Fund to warrant making a beginning.

7. What is the use of a Cathedral?

A Cathedral is the Bishop's Church, his official headquarters, and the spiritual heart of the Diocese. It is used for diocesan, as distinguished from parochial, purposes. It should not have a parochial organization, but should be the meeting place of all the parishes.

Attached to the Cathedral there should be a staff of clergy selected to assist the Bishop in extending the work of the Church in the three fields of missionary endeavor, religious education and social service.

The Cathedral is intended to minister to the unattached and transient population, and to be the center of efforts to shepherd special groups, such as students, nurses, actors and workers in industry.

A Cathedral, when a suitable edifice is erected, should provide great and impressive services of a diocesan and civic character, united choir festivals, mass meetings in the interest of missionary and philanthropic objects, courses of special sermons by eminent preachers, and other undertakings which are only possible in a large central building.

8. How is the Cathedral League organized?

There is a Diocesan Central Committee, and parochial branch in many churches in the Diocese.

9. Has Grace Church a branch?

Yes, of seventy-five members. Will you join? Mrs. Matlack will receive your name and dues any Sunday morning after service.

New Calendar for Family Prayer

I wish to recommend to the families of the parish through these columns, as I did recently from the chancel, the Church Calendar and Manual of Prayers adapted for Family Prayer recently published by the Brotherhood of St. Andrew.

This calendar will add new interest to family devotions. It has a valuable series of daily Bible readings harmonious with the seasons of the Christian year and covering a cycle of three years. These Bible readings which have the sanction of the National Church, are short and well adapted to private or family devotions.

An interesting feature of the calendar is a blank column where may be entered family anniversaries and dates of church meetings. This gives local color to the chart.

The Manual of Prayers which accompanies the Calendar is the result of experience as well as study; many both of the clergy and laity having contributed to its contents.

Both the Calendar and Manual can be procured from the Church House, the cost together being fifty cents. T. S. C.

The Church's European Policy

On Sunday evening, April 30, the Rev. William C. Emhardt spoke in Grace Church on "The European Policy of the Episcopal Church."

Mr. Emhardt has just sailed for Europe as the special representative of the Presiding Bishop and Council of the Church. The mere mention of the chief purposes of his mission suggests the complexity of the foreign problems confronting our communion.

In response to an invitation from the Patriarch of Constantinople Mr. Emhardt (together with Bishop Gore) will confer with him on a closer co-operation between the Angelican communion and the Greek Orthodox Church.

In response to a request from the Armenian Church that the Episcopal Church establish a Theological Seminary for Armenians at Jerusalem the situation will be surveyed.

In response to a request from the Archbishop of Canterbury the wisdom of undertaking work among the Nestorians of Mesapotamia will be considered.

In response to a request of the Synod of the Hungarian Reformed Church Mr. Emhardt will see what steps are possible to extend to the whole Hungarian Church and the whole Angelican communion the movement for union which has already become effective between the branches of those two bodies here in America.

Furthermore Mr. Emhardt, acting as secretary of the Episcopal Commission on Near East Relief, will make investigation regarding the policy and methods of the relief in the Near East.

Mr. Emhardt will visit Greece, Constantinople, Egypt, Palestine, Syria, the Balkan States and Central Europe.

His many friends in Grace Church will follow with interest the reports of his important and delicate mission to these far-off lands.

Mr. Lloyd Mellor Smith

Mr. Lloyd Mellor Smith, who has been a member of Grace Church for several years and has served faithfully as a Lay Reader and Church School Teacher, has just completed his course of studies in the Philadelphia Divinity School and is to be ordained Deacon in the Pro-Cathedral on Trinity Sunday, June 11. He is specially commend to the prayers of the Congregation during this coming Embertide. Mr. Smith will take up his duties as Curate in the Church of St. Mary, West Philadelphia, on October 1.

Mr. Smith enters upon his sacred profession with the advantage of five years' experience as a teacher in Japan. Mrs. Smith, who shared these years of missionary labor with him was a Grace Church girl. We take this opportunity to congratulate them upon the birth of a son and to wish them every blessing in the future.

To Episcopalians Who Are New Comers in Mt. Airy

Dear Friends:

I address you as "friends." You are more than friends, for whether we have met or not we are drawn together by a spiritual fellowship in the Church.

Do you love the Church? Then you will be interested to know that there is a Church in the community waiting to welcome you.

Be sure and locate it before Sunday. It is known as "Grace Church," and it stands on Gowen avenue, midway between Stenton avenue and Main street.

You can see its pinnacled tower from afar. But if you are a true-blue Churchman you will not be satisfied with a long-distance view, nor yet with a sight of its beautiful exterior. You will, before long, be kneeling before the altar and asking God's blessing upon the parish and promising Him that so long as you sojourn in this community you will share loyally in the work and worship of the Church.

You need not wait until Sunday to do this for the side door is always open. You may be a lover of solitary worship. But if you desire Christian fellowship in worship come next Lord's Day. There is always a celebration of the Holy Communion at half after seven.

The late service is held at half after ten during the summer. It consists of the Holy Eucharist on the first and third Sundays of the month and Morning Prayer on other Sundays. Evening Prayer is at five thirty.

Whatever the "Churchmanship" of your former parish you will be able to enter sympathetically into the worship of Grace Church, for the churchmanship here is comprehensive. There is an atmosphere of freedom and of reverence.

Please feel free to sit in any part of the Church. The seats are all free. The spirit of the congregation is most cordial. If you are familiar with suburban life you will understand that the personnel of a congregation is always changing. If your neighbor in the pew fails to show you a cordial spirit, the chances are he, too, is a new comer. Do not hesitate to make yourself known. There are cards in the rear of the Church upon which you may register your name and address and leave a request for the Rector to call.

So soon as possible new comers should become fully identified with the parish by letters of transfer. Those who wish to become regular contributors will be furnished with the duplex envelopes.

The parish is thoroughly organized and there is a place for every man, woman or child to take up interesting and fruitful Christian service. This side of parish life is not in operation during the summer.

The Church School will open again the first Sunday in October.

The Rector will leave for his vacation on August 10. Meanwhile he will be glad to call upon any who will make themselves known.

"And the Spirit and the Bride say, Come! And he that heareth let him say, Come! And he that is athirst, let him come: he that will, let him take of the water of life freely."

Most cordially yours,
THOMAS S. CLINE.

Proportionate Giving

Do you believe the Church is worth while? Have you often wished the Church might be free to carry out her great mission to the world without financial embarrassment? Have you felt that repeated money-raising campaigns were a detriment? Have you been worried as to your personal duty in the matter of giving? Have frequent appeals irritated you?

Then be sure to read carefully Senator Pepper's leaflet entitled "Proportionate Giving," a copy of which you will find enclosed in this number of the Parish News.

You will understand it better if you have read the first and second of the series which we sent with previous issues. They were "Stewardship," by Bishop Johnson, and "If I were a Layman," by Bishop Fiske. This literature is very enlightening, and if studied by all churchmen would prepare the way for a great forward movement in Church support.

We have made tremendous progress in recent years as a result of the general adoption of the duplex envelopes throughout the Church. These have promoted regular and systematic giving. There is a great improvement on the old-fashioned spasmodic, haphazard giving.

But another great step remains to be taken. It is described in Senator Pepper's tract," "Proportionate Giving."

There are already a number of Proportionate Givers registered in Grace Church. It is hoped that some day every parishioner will be one. It is easy to get a misconception of what is meant by a Proportionate Giver. Don't jump at the conclusion. Read the pamphlet first.

The Bishop's Bricks

The furious storm that gave nearly everybody a good wetting could not dampen the ardor of the Church School children with their Bricks and miniature Churches who gathered at the Church of St. Martin-in-the-Fields on the Eve of Whitsunday.

The Bishop himself was there to receive the offerings at this Annual Presentation Service, and gave an address that made the boys and girls resolve to do even better next year.

The banner parish this year was that of St. Mary's, Wayne, while Grace parish stood fifth in line with an offering of $113.34.

The total sum realized from all sources amounts to about $1750.00.

A Comforting Thought

It was in May, not long after his election as Bishop Coadjutor of the Diocese of Massachusetts, that Dr. Slattery was preaching in Philadelphia, and he closed a very helpful sermon with this touching anecdote:

A little girl, ten years of age, lost her mother and was left with father and three younger children. For four years she cared for them, preparing the meals, looking after their clothes and performing the many duties of an household. Naturally it was too much for her, and finally she broke down under the strain. When on her deathbed, she said to a little friend who had come in to minister to her and was sitting by her bedside: "I don't know what I can say to my Saviour when I meet Him over there, for I have been so busy all the years taking care of father and the children that I haven't had time to do anything for Him." After a moment of thought, the little friend replied: "If I were you I wouldn't say anything to my Saviour, I would just show Him my hands."

O blessed thought, so full of comfort, that we may just show Him our hands, for He knows what we have done, and "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these My brethren, ye have done it unto me."

The Woman's Auxiliary and Guild

A very delightful Garden Party was given on June 8 by Mrs. Thomas Ball for the purpose of raising money for the missionary work of the Auxiliary. The fete was held on the lawn of the Church, where attractive tables were placed for the sale of fancy and useful articles, cake, candy, ice cream cones and refreshing drinks, rugs and flavoring extracts. Tea was served during the afternoon and the children were much interested in the toys and the tree hung with surprise packages. A Punch and Judy show was also given for the young people. The most beautiful booth was that occupied by the flowers, which were arranged on the rectory porch, and attracted a great deal of attention.

At 6 o'clock supper was served in the parish house, where the young women of the Church, who are always so willing to help when called upon, acted as waitresses.

Later in the evening Professor H. D. Bailey, of Muhlenburg College, gave a most interesting and instructive lecture on "Personal Experiences in the Dismal Swamp and Jungles of the South," which he illustrated by excellent pictures, most of them taken by himself. The party was delightful from beginning to end, and netted about $301.

Year after year the Church in Philadelphia hears appeals from the Episcopal Hospital, which, for some reason, never receives an adequate amount of money to keep it going at its greatest capacity. Yet the necessity for such an institution in such a district as Kensington, where factories are fairly crowded together, is freely admitted by all. Now each parish in this diocese is expected to contribute a quota of the expenses of the Episcopal Hospital, and Grace Church is not excepted, so Mrs. Burrell, with her usual energy and her keen interest in such institutions, gave a subscription bridge and five-hundred party on the 12th of June for the purpose of raising money for it. It was a glorious day, and the tables were put on Mrs. Burrell's beautiful lawn and that of her neighbor. There were fifty tables, all occupied, and every one had a wonderful afternoon. As a result, $230 was raised.

Summer Sessions of Church School

There will be a special summer course this year in the Church School, beginning Sunday, July 9, and at the usual hour, 9.30 a. m.

The entire school will be arranged in two or three divisions instead of in numerous classes. ✠

Grace Church Camp for Boys

Here is a chance for every Grace Church boy to have a taste of real camp life this summer.

The Grace Church Camp will be on the Mission Farm of the Rev. Samuel B. Booth on the Neshaminy Creek, near Wrightstown—some thirty miles from Mt. Airy.

It will begin Tuesday, August 1, and continue until Tuesday, August 8.

Mr. Robert MacDonald, Jr., will be director of the Camp, and he is "a host in himself." Mr. Robinson, Choirmaster, will be there and have charge of the choir boys.

Any other boys of the parish who wish to go will be welcome. The cost for each boy will be seven dollars. Names of boys wishing to register should be sent at once to Mr. MacDonald.

A skillful cook has been engaged, and the food will be wholesome and abundant. The boys will sleep on cots in well-appointed tents. They will have good swimming and all manner of outdoor sports.

It will be a memorable Campfire.

The Men's Service League of Grace Church is back of the plan and assure the boys' parents that they need have no hesitancy about sending their boys to the Grace Church Camp.

Conference on the Ministry

Great interest has been aroused throughout the Church by the Conference on the Ministry being conducted at St. Paul's School, Concord, N. H., the last week of June.

The Conference was open to boys of the three classes prior to college. No pledge or decision regarding life work was asked or accepted, but the Conference offered to many well equipped young men a chance to learn much about what it means to be a minister. They will have made a study of one of life's great careers.

Grace Church was represented by A. L. Edgerton Crouter, Jr., who left with the Philadelphia delegation June 25.

The response to the invitation was so large that many boys had to be refused registration. Dr. Drury deserves much credit for planning this timely Conference.

Christian Stewardship

In the former "suggestions" upon this subject we have tried to point out that no Christian can evade the responsibility of Stewardship—that every loyal churchman, woman or child, must support that organism—The Church—that field of Grace He has given us in which to work for the Kingdom of Heaven.

Money is a loan for which we must account; we are trustees, administrators of an estate which belongs to another. If we spend it on ourselves, we waste it. Unless we consecrate what we have by giving a certain proportion of our income to the glory of God, we are not honest stewards of His property. And further: we must account for more than material things; life, talents, memory; all are given to us for one supreme end, to use to and for His Honor and Glory.

With our influence, power, position—what impress are we making on the lives with which we come in touch? We can only contribute to the Body (the Church) that which we curselves are. All the good we can do—all the harm we may prevent, comes under the responsibility of Stewardship.

But beyond and above the waste of money, of life, of talents, of influence, is the waste of His gifts of Grace. Grace—"the helping power of God, for every need." It flows into our lives at every sacrament—what do we do with it? "We beseech you," says St. Paul, "that ye receive not the Grace of God in vain."

Truly, our opportunities and our responsibilities are great! But just so truly are our blessings from Him unceasing.

Do we make it our business to give a due portion of our lives, our talents, and our money to His service?

Do we realize that this also may be our experience:

"And He called him and said unto him, 'How is it that I hear this of thee? Give an account of thy stewardship, for thou mayest be no longer steward.'"

Church School Commencement

The final exercises of the Church School for the season were held on the Church lawn Sunday evening, June 25.

Unusual features of the program were two mystery plays.

The Junior Department gave "Lady Catechism"—which they had previously given in Church on Trinity Sunday. They were trained by Mrs. Pratt Thompson, head of the department.

The Senior Department gave the pageant, "Rebekah," under the direction of Mrs. Sara F. Price. It was very effective, given in the open field with the wooded background.

The two plays appropriately suggested the year's study of the Church Catechism and of the Bible.

It was clearly stated that there will be post-graduate courses for these young men and women next year. Religious education should not stop with adolescence, but extend into adult years.

The following pupils received certificates of graduation, having completed the regular course of instruction in Grace Church School:

Elizabeth Lees Burton
Elizabeth Wilmot Coale
Katherine Ann Matlack
Margaret Robinson

The banner was awarded the seventh grade girls, Mrs. Pratt Thompson, teacher, for the best year's work.

HONOR ROLL (SCHOLARSHIP)

(It should be stated that members of the senior classes taking special courses did not enter this competition.)

The classes having the highest average attendance during the year were:

The Third Girls, Miss Margaret Wilkinson, teacher, and the Fifth A Boys, Miss Helen Rebmann, teacher.

The department having the highest average attendance was the Intermediate, Mrs. G. S. Weiler, teacher.

Twenty-eight children received awards of Bibles, Prayer Books or Hymnals for bringing new scholars to the Church School.

The bronze school pin with enameled initials G. C. S. was awarded to Misses Audrey Rust and Katharine Cline for perfect recitation of the Church Catechism.

The Vacation Period

The Rector will take his annual vacation during the latter half of August and September. His address will be Christ Church Rectory, North Conway, N. H.

During his absence the services in Grace Church will continue as usual. During the last three Sundays of August the Rev. George Mair, Rector of St. Stephen's Church, Bridesburg, will officiate. During September the Rev. Henry Bedinger, of Philadelphia, will be in charge.

The choir will be absent during August and the first Sunday in September.

The Church School Rally Day will be Sunday, October 1, at which time the winter schedule of services will be resumed.

A Dividend-Declaring Investment

Did you read in the May number of The Spirit of Missions that interesting article, "A Dividend-Declaring Investment," by Bishop Wise, of Kansas, giving such a wonderful vision of the possibilities in the University town of Lawrence? It was late in March that the Bishop, returning to his diocese from New York, stopped over in Philadelphia to preach at the annual spring service of the Germantown and Chestnut Hill branches of the Woman's Auxiliary, held in St. Peter's Church, Germantown. This year the service was in the interest of The United Thank Offering, but the Bishop was given five minutes, after the service, that he might tell us about his plans. He did not exceed the time allotted. As the result of that brief, but thrilling, statement of the problem and its logical solution, we have had the joy of giving $1000 of the $50,000 that the Presiding Bishop and Council authorized the Bishop to raise for this special work. This gift represented contributions from individuals, and from parish branches of the Woman's Auxiliary in this section of the Convocation of Germantown. Our Grace Church share was $208. A number of men, in several of the parishes, were glad to have a part in this good work. One of them, when sending his contribution, wrote: "I do regard the work of the Church among the University students as one of the most important missionary works which it has." When we face the fact that eighty-five per cent. of the students enter the college with religious faith, and about fifty per cent. of them lose it before they leave the institution as graduates, what more worth-while than the proposed parish house, or "workshop," to furnish a center for student activities—a place for a Bible School and for week-day religious instruction! Bishop Wise wrote, under date of April 11: "I was there (Lawrence) last Sunday morning for Confirmation, and with the Church packed to the doors with a congregation of 600 people, most of whom were University students, almost one hundred had to be turned away from the Church unable to get in." May our prayers be helpful—even a little bit—in the splendid work Bishop Wise has the good courage to undertake.

June has been rich in suggestions of thoughts of, and prayers for, young men. In the early part of the month there were the Ember Days and the three-day Retreat of our own dear Bishop, at the Mission House in Wrightstown, for the candidates for the ministry. What precious hours they must have been to enrich the lives of those to whom they were given! There followed immediately the ordination service at the Pro-Cathedral on Trinity Sunday. We were especially interested this year because a member of Grace Parish was ordained and our Rector preached the sermon. We also remember the Conference for Boys at St. Paul's School, Concord, N. H., from June 26 to July 1, in which there has been such widespread interest. With this issue of the Parish News that Conference passes into history. What far-reaching results there may be! Who can tell!

With these thoughts about the young men and the boys of the Church, there comes to mind once again that charming book written by Dr. Slattery—"The Ministry." We hear that it is having the large circulation which it certainly deserves. A group of women, associated for service by prayer, have placed about fifteen copies in our diocese and country, and in China and Japan. There isn't a dull page in the book. It is wonderfully illumined by fascinating revelations of the joyous life of the truly devoted Minister of the Gospel, especially in his pastoral relations. One reads on and on to the close of the last chapter and then wishes that there were another—and another! May God bless this little book and all who read it.

Guild Service

The Rev. Dr. Vernon, Rector of St. Mark's Church, Philadelphia, was preacher at the Guild Service Whitsunday evening. His sermon on the Holy Ghost was instructive and inspiring.

The Rector summed up briefly the work of the parish organizations during the past year. At the close of the service the Te Deum was sung in praise for God's blessing upon the work.

Rector's Letter

My dear Friends:

It is midsummer and the parish family is widely scattered. Those of us who are at home should be all the more faithful in public worship. Those who are traveling by land or sea should be in our prayers. The vacation period breaks in upon the continuity of our parish life--but eventually it may enrich that life. Those of us whose privilege it is to visit new scenes should bring new treasures of thought and power to the shrine of our common worship. As the early Christians had all things in common, so should we be eager to share our experiences.

I like the suggestion, recently made, that we have one or more gatherings for "Vacation Echoes." Think how varied and interesting they might be—especially if illustrated by a reflectoscope.

Our fellow parishioners are on the seacoast from Jersey to Maine, in the mountains from the Poconos to the Rockies. Some are enjoying the wonders of Yellowstone Park and some will reach the Pacific Coast.

We have representatives in Canada, Europe and the Near East.

Echoes would reach us from Camps and Summer Conferences from the Brotherhood Convention and the General Convention of the Church, from the Good Will Delegation in France, from the Passion Play in Oberammergau, from important Conferences in Constantinople. Would not such a Vacation Echo meeting be a delightful feature of our Dedication Festival next November?

I have just received notice that Bishop Garland will visit Grace Church on the Sunday next before Advent, November 26, for Confirmation. The Class will be organized Sunday, October 15. I mention this well in advance so that all unconfirmed persons in the parish may have the matter under consideration.

Faithfully yours,
THOMAS S. CLINE.

The Good Will Delegation

All Grace Church people were gratified to learn of the election of Miss Margaret L. Conarroe as a member of the Good Will Delegation to France.

In reply to a letter of congratulation from the Rector, Miss Conarroe said in part:

"Needless to say, I am anticipating with the greatest pleasure my trip to France, which, under such favorable auspices should give me peculiar opportunities to observe and learn about the country which has been so closely linked with ours for so many years.

"I trust I may bring back sufficient interest and enthusiasm to warrant the efforts of my friends in my behalf.

"May I assure you that besides representing the Emergency Aid, I shall consider myself one of the Church's representatives and shall endeavor to do credit to Grace Church."

Miss Conarroe and her companions will be at sea when this issue of the Parish News appears. They are commended to the prayers of the Church.

In Memoriam

The Rector of Grace Church, assisted by the Rev. Stanley V. Wilcox, conducted the funeral service of Warren Westmoreland Rommel in Grace Church on Wednesday, July 12. The American Legion furnished a military escort. The interment was at East Laurel Hill.

Mr. Rommel was a chorister and Church School scholar in Grace Church in his boyhood, and though he has not lived in Philadelphia in recent years his love for his original church home never waned.

During the war his name was on the Grace Church Honor Roll. After the close of the war Mr. Rommel was one of the speakers at a parish dinner. His earnest remarks made a lasting impression upon his hearers.

During his residence in San Francisco Mr. Rommel, always a devoted churchman, has been increasingly active in church work. The Bishop of California coveted him for the sacred ministry. His sudden death at the age of 36, which occurred on Independence Day, came as a great shock to his relatives and numerous friends, both east and west.

The Rector made the following remarks at the burial service:

"He whose memory we honor today will ever remain an inspiration to those whose privilege it was to know him.

"He was a man of sterling character, devoted to home and friends, loyal to Church and Country, true to himself and to his God; a man who sought first the Kingdom of God.

"The strength and tenderness of his character — as comrade, patriot and churchman—are reflected in these words which he wrote on the occasion of the first anniversary of the close of the great war:

"'I regret exceedingly that I cannot be with my Grace Church comrades-in-arms on that occasion. Will you please extend for me hearty greetings and best wishes to each one of them.

"'It is most fitting to have such a service on the anniversary of the signing of the Armistice and I trust it will be continued each year.

"'Coming as it does during the octave of All Saints, we cannot but think of the brave lads we left sleeping in France.

"'As I sped across the continent from Philadelphia to San Francisco, I was inspired to write the following which expresses what I feel at this time.'"

In quoting the following lines the Rector said:

"The sentiment which follows being the sincere expression of a patriot's deepest feeling about the sacrifice of the war should be engraven in stone or bronze and preserved to posterity."

A patriot's heart is well-nigh filled,
He knows why heroes' blood was spilled
In that fair land where poppies grow—
A cross on every grave to show
They fought that these greats States might be
A place where Love and Liberty
Could live for aye, and Souls enjoy
Earth's grandeur, and all means employ
To render honor, thanks and praise
To Him through all the length of days.

"I trust we will all go forward in the spirit of Bishop Brent, from whom I quote the following:

"'Our military triumph has thrown wide open the door of new opportunity which must be seized and used by the moral and spiritual forces of the world duly organized. Just as the French artist, who portrayed the spirit of the Allies, symbolized by their flags, driving before its relentless passion, the enemy of freedom, foresaw victorious achievement, so must we foresee with the certainty of hope and expectation, ourselves taking by force the Kingdom of God and enthroning it above the nation and the League of Nations.'

"God bless us every one, and may the Lord watch between us while we are absent one from the other.

"Fraternally yours,

"WARREN WESTMORELAND ROMMEL,

"Erstwhile of the 110th Infantry."

The Peace Thank Offering

Peace is our most inclusive blessing. It carries with it exemption from a thousand unspeakable ills and guarantees to us and to our children, so long as it endures, a thousand privileges and joys.

If we are grateful for the many blessings which brighten our lives, how much more should we return thanks for Peace, the mother of them all! And our thanks should not be by word only, but in gifts. Our great Benefactor is a Person—God our Father. He appreciates our grateful and affectionate offerings.

One great service the United Thank Offering has done to the Church during this past third of a century is to educate multitudes of women to translate their gratitude into offerings. The practical results have been stupendous.

Three years ago the women of the Church expressed their thanks for Victory by an offering of half a million dollars at Detroit. Next October they will make their United Thank Offering for the Crowning blessing of Peace at Portland. Their aim is to present a million dollars.

Their offering will go a long way toward promoting international peace, for it will be devoted to the spread of the Kingdom of Peace by faithful Christian women.

Mrs. North, whose enthusiastic labors on behalf of the United Thank Offering are appreciated far beyond the boundaries of our own diocese, is about to bring the matter to the personal attention of all the women of this parish.

I wish we might have a one hundred per cent. response to the suggestion. It is only a suggestion. The Thank Offering loses its meaning if it is regarded as an assessment. It has nothing to do with one's regular obligations in the matter of Church support.

The United Thank Offering is a spontaneous, cheerful, whole-hearted giving to God as a token of appreciation of His goodness.

T. S. C.

Prisoners Confirmed

Forty-four prisoners in the Eastern Penitentiary were confirmed recently by Bishop Garland, presented by a clergyman of the City Mission staff. The class was one of the largest ever presented in that institution and included several long-term prisoners. Five separate services were held, one for twenty-eight men in the men's chapel, one for fourteen women in the women's chapel, and the others in the prison hospitals.

Camp Cline

A group of some twenty-five boys of the parish, including most of the choir boys, will be leaving for a week's camping party on August 1. Mr. Robert MacDonald will be in charge, assisted by Mr. Newell Robinson, choirmaster, and Mr. Robert Cridland. No stone has been left unturned to insure a happy and beneficial outing for the boys.

The campers assembled at Mr. MacDonald's home for final instructions Saturday evening, July 22. It was a most enthusiastic meeting. The following memorandum was handed each boy:

CAMP CLINE

Wear second-best clothes to Camp.

Any clothes that are comfortable may be worn during the day, but at the evening meal best clothes will be worn.

What to bring:

Two heavy blankets, three, if possible.

Gym jersey or light sweater.

Running pants—shorts of any kind.

Change of underwear; extra pair of stockings.

Bathing suit.

Sneakers are comfortable camping.

Rain coat or poncho.

Pajamas.

Toilet articles—Turkish towels, comb, brush, toothbrush and paste, handkerchiefs, small mirror. Safety pins are useful.

Desirable things to have:

Heavy sweater.

Camera and films.

Flash light.

Musical instrument—if you play it well.

Good magazines.

Stationery—fountain pen or pencil.

Don't encumber yourself with a lot of other things.

No firearms or explosives permitted.

Campers will meet at Grace Church, Tuesday, August 1, at 8.30 a. m., and catch the 9.41 train at Wayne Junction for Newtown, Pa.

Tents provided are quite roomy. Bags or suitcases can be utilized, or campers can roll their blankets with clothes inside, "Boy Scout" style, and carry over shoulder. This, however, is not desirable for the younger lads. Inasmuch as the blankets may make a heavy load for the younger boys, a truck will be at the Church to carry baggage to Wayne Junction, and arrangements will be made at Newtown of a similar nature.

No smoking will be permitted at Camp, and the leaders will themselves set an example in this particular. There will be no irksome rules or regulations, unless it is necessary for the comfort and happiness of the boys themselves. Each lad is expected to do his part to make the whole Camp happy and comfortable for the rest of his chums.

DAILY PROGRAM

7 a. m.—Reveille—All up.
Setting up exercises.
Wash up—brush teeth, etc.

7.45 —Breakfast.

9 to 10—Straightening up tents.
Inspection of Camp and boys by leaders.

10.30 —Morning swim.

12 to 1—Idle hour—writing home, reading, etc.

1 p. m.—Dinner.

2 to 3—Rest period and quiet relaxation.

3 to 5—Athletic games — Baseball, hikes, sports, etc.

6 p. m.—Supper.

7 to 9.30—Camp Fire. This will be the most delightful part of the day and suitable entertainment will be arranged for each night. Songs that boys love will be learned and sung, and, if any lad develops an entertaining ability he will be used. This program will be varied by night games, such as night attack, etc.

9.30 p. m.—Taps. Quietness rigidly enforced.

The above program will be followed closely, and everything will be done in a body, as per schedule, and no boy will be allowed to seek his own entertainment. This is particularly true of swimming hour. Any boy who violates this Rule and goes in swimming outside of the regular time, when it will be carefully supervised, will be sent to Newtown, put on the train and returned to Wayne Junction. Camping experience dictates that the best time is to be had with the crowd.

The Rector's Vacation

The Rector will take his annual vacation during the latter half of August and September. His address will be Christ Church Rectory, North Conway, N. H.

During his absence the services in Grace Church will continue as usual. During the last three Sundays of August and the first Sunday in September, the Rev. George Mair, Rector of St. Stephen's Church, Bridesburg, will officiate. During the remainder of September the Rev. Henry Bedinger, of Philadelphia, will be in charge.

The choir will be absent during August and the first Sunday in September.

The Church School Rally Day will be Sunday, October 1, at which time the winter schedule of services will be resumed.

A Correction

In the report of the Church School Commencement, which appeared in the July issue of the Parish News, the name of Richard Newnham was omitted in the Scholarship Honor Roll. His name is entitled to the third place in that honorable list.

New Memorial Window

A beautiful pair of stained-glass windows have been placed in Grace Church by Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Sheble in memory of their daughter, Elizabeth. The subject is "Christ Among the Doctors." The setting is the Temple Porch with a distant landscape in the background. There are only three figures, the youthful Christ appearing alone in one panel, and the two learned doctors in the other.

The window will be a source of inspiration, especially to the youth of the Church.

With its rich coloring and its ornamental gothic canopies it is a great addition to the beauty of the Church. It is the work of Heaton, Butler and Bayne, of London. The stonework was done by Mr. E. Maene, of Philadelphia, builder of the Grace Church Rood Screen.

The window was dedicated on St. James Day at eventide. The following is the inscription:

And all that heard were astonished at His understanding and answers.

To the glory of God and in loving memory of

It has been well said that no man ever sank under the burden of the day. It is when tomorrow's burden is added to the burden of today that the weight is more than a man can bear. Never load yourselves so, my friends. If you find yourselves so loaded, at least remember this: It is your own doing, not God's. He begs you to leave the future to Him, and mind the present.—G. MacDonald.

The mid-week celebrations of the Holy Communion will be omitted during the absence of the Rector in August and September.

The United Thank Offering

When this number of the Parish News reaches its readers, every woman and older girl of Grace Church will have received a letter from the parish treasurer of the United Thank Offering, giving her the opportunity to share in the Peace Thank Offering of the Women of the Church. It is hoped that no one has been overlooked.

The Triennial Presentation Service will be in Trinity Church, Portland, on the morning of Thursday, September 7, and on the evening of the same day, at a Mass Meeting in the auditorium where the General Convention is to be held, the amount of the offering will be announced. In 1919 there was a diocesan service in Philadelphia on the morning of the same day as the triennial service in Detroit. If there is to be one this year, notice will be given in the September News.

From the Church Missions House in New York there comes a quite recent and timely United Thank Offering leaflet beginning and ending with the words: "How Great Will Be Your Share?" While "great shares"—commensurate with the ability of the givers and worthy of the special nature of this offering of 1922—are certainly to be desired, far more important is it that every woman and girl be represented in the offering—no matter whether the individual gift be large or small. Our United Thank Offering diocesan slogan this triennium has been: "The Woman Rather Than the Dollar!" That is always, and can never cease to be, the right emphasis.

The New York leaflet gives the following interesting information: "The records at the Missions House show, as far as they have been received, that the amount of the United Thank Offering up to January 1, 1922, was $226,818.88, a gain of approximately $100,636.61 over the corresponding date three years ago. This is a splendid advance, but we must hope for even greater things.

"More than ever in these last months before the Triennial are our thoughts with the women whose service to the Church is made possible by the United Thank Offering; 167 of them—a splendid company of whom we are justly proud.

"A generous offering will multiply service such as they are giving—service of which the Church stands in great need. To what degree shall the type of work which these women are doing be extended? It is the privilege and the responsibility of the women of the Church to determine. The work is ours as well as theirs—it is all one."

Parish Treasurer, U. T. O.

Summer Sessions of the Church School

The Summer Sessions of the Church School began Sunday, July 9, at 9.30 a. m., and will continue throughout the summer.

Miss Frances Shipley is in charge of the School. Mrs. R. N. Hall continues to teach the Beginners. Among the officers and teachers who have offered to assist during the summer are Mr. Meehan, Miss La Rue, Mrs. Shelmire, Mrs. Steelman and Miss Irwin.

Mr. Francis Murphy is serving as pianist.

These summer sessions are an experiment this season. The attendance thus far has been about thirty. This may increase as some children now away return to Mount Airy.

The boys and girls who have attended have been amply repaid.

Church Support During the First Half of the Year

The Diocese of Pennsylvania has recently published one of its periodic statements showing the comparative amounts credited on the quotas of the various parishes and missions for extra-parochial purposes during the first six months of 1922 and 1921.

It shows that Grace Church, Mount Airy, has contributed $2559.17 during the first half of 1922, as compared with $3373.55 during a like period in 1921.

The Church School Lenten offering in 1922 was $182.45, as compared with $153.52 the previous year.

Some interesting figures concerning neighboring parishes follow: St. Paul's, Chestnut Hill, first half of 1922, $12,930.36; similar period, 1921, $22,309.57. St. Martin-in-the-Fields: 1922, $12,532.65; 1921, $22,719.63. St. Luke's, Germantown: 1922, $2614.75; 1921, $3326.57. St. Michael's, Germantown: 1922, $1759.82; 1921, $1429.06. Christ Church, Germantown: 1922, $1186.96. 1921, $1174.43. Calvary, Germantown: 1922, $4169.67; 1921, $2682.96. St. Peter's, Germantown: 1922, $1450.07; 1921, $2460.96. St. Timothy's, Roxborough: 1922, $922.97; 1921, $1017.48.

The statement shows that the "total parish givings applying on the quota" during the first six months of 1922 have been $217,244.13, as compared with $238,085.99 in a similar period in 1921.

Parish Notes

Francis Murphy, a pupil of Mr. Robinson on the organ, will act as substitute organist during Mr. Robinson's absence in August.

Secretaries of all Parish Organizations are requested to refer all parish lists to the Registrar for frequent correction. The Registrar is Mr. Harry M. Brown, 7440 Devon street, C. H. 2646.

Parish House Improvements

At a special meeting of the vestry, on July 18, the report of the Building and Grounds Committee, recommending improved toilet facilities and more sanitary arrangements in the parish house, at a cost of approximately $500, was approved and the Committee authorized to proceed, "provided a sufficient sum of money be raised."

This is an extra expense not provided for in the budget, and the present deficit in the current expense account of the parish makes it necessary that a special fund be raised. The vestry are always averse to going into debt.

Subscriptions for this purpose can be sent to the Accounting Warden. The alterations should be made before the fall.

The vestry also recommended the painting of the rectory.

Advice from India

Gandhi, the curious patriot, nationalist and popular leader now so much in evidence in India, was asked by a gathering of Indian Christians and British missionaries how Christians could make Christianity a real force in the national life of India. He replied:

"I would suggest four things. First, that all you missionaries and Indian Christians should begin to live as Jesus Christ did. Second, you should all practice your religion without adulterating it or toning it down. In the third place, I would suggest that you should emphasize the love side of Christianity more, for love is central in your religion. Another suggestion I would make is that you should study non-Christian regions more sympathetically in order to find the truth that is in them, and then a more sympathetic approach to the people will be possible."

The Rector's Letter

North Conway, N. H.
Tenth Sunday After Trinity.

My dear Friends:

A friend of mine, who is himself a clergyman, remarked to me recently that he could never quite reconcile vacation and vocation. To be sure, no clergyman who is in health wants to get away from that service to which he has devoted his life. In that work he finds his joy and refreshment.

Many of the clergy prefer to continue their priestly functions during their vacation—as I am doing. I venture to say I preached and ministered the Sacrament to more people today than I should have been privileged to do in Grace Church. I have been much happier so than I should have been in spending the Lord's day in idleness.

But there are great advantages in spending a few weeks away from the home parish. I am not thinking now of the physical benefits to be derived from a stay in this beautiful White Mountain region, but of other things, such as the opportunity for reading and meditation.

There is no telephone in this beautiful old rectory among the pines. Here I spend delightful hours in uninterrupted study and reflection. These studies center in the great mysteries of our holy religion.

Bishop Gore, speaking of the need of a fundamental reconstruction of belief in the light of modern thought, says "there is no class for whom this fundamental reconstruction of their religious belief is so necessary as for ministers of the Christian Church. They are often enthusiasts for religion, who have no personal doubts, but who are eagerly interested in a great many questions, doctrinal and ceremonial and social; and their temptation is to take up the questions that interest them which are secondary and derivative, and not really to study and test their foundations."

I quote Bishop Gore, partly because I want to recommend his book, "Belief in God," to any members of the parish who find themselves perplexed and dismayed by modernism. It is ignoble to give way to skepticism and to remain in uncertainty and bewilderment without at least a serious effort. "The right course," says the Bishop of Oxford, "for any one who cannot accept the voice of authority but feels the imperative obligation to 'face the argument' and to think freely, is to begin at the beginning and to see how far he can reconstruct his religious beliefs, stage by stage, on a secure foundation."

This is what the Bishop has done himself, and his book has the charm of an autobiography. It will help you to accomplish the same great result provided you have the sincerity and readiness of mind to undertake the task. To many of you it will seem a task well worth while, however difficult. To some it has become a necessity.

I should like to write to you about some other books I have been reading.

My time is not all devoted to books. I like to begin the day with a few sets of tennis before breakfast. Tomorrow we expect to ascend Kearsarge Mountain.

Very faithfully yours,

THOMAS S. CLINE.

Are You an INTELLIGENT Churchman?

You are probably an intelligent citizen. At least you read the papers and know the news of your community, your city, your country, the world. You'd be ashamed to do less.

Are you an intelligent inheritor of the Kingdom of Heaven? Do you read the church papers and know the news in this parish, this diocese, this country, the world?

You are also, no doubt, an intelligent business or professional man or woman. You read along the lines of your work. You have reason and knowledge behind your opinions; not mere personal prejudices.

Have you also reason and knowledge when the Faith and Practices of the Church are under discussion, or merely a set of prejudices, mostly inherited? Do you read books on the Faith of the Church?

A reading Church is an intelligent Church. It prays; it works; it grows. There is a fine library in the Guild Room. Have you ever used it? Books on the Faith and on various mission fields, as well as books of devotion and meditation are there. Perhaps you think they are dull. No romance is more thrilling than some of the Indian stories. The people of Tipi Sapa; The Oneida Stone; or, Bishop Talbot's tale of life and work in the far west fifty years ago; My People of the Plains.

Is your mind logical? Then read The Sacramental Principle (Rev. Paul Bull). You must have a good mind to read that book and appreciate it. It is thrilling. The articles of the Church's creed fit together, piece by piece, till a perfectly logical and beautiful whole is discovered. And it gives one a philosphy of life, a raison d'etre, a final goal.

Now another question: Do you know the history of these United States? "Well, rather," you say. "What kind of an American would I be if I didn't?" Well, then, do you know the history of your church—in America—in England—in the world? Perhaps you think it's one of the "denominations" born in the sixteenth century, and the creation of an English king? If you do, you'd better stop reading magazines for a while and get A Penny History of the Church of England by Jessopp.

Once more, and this I ask tenderly: Are you in sorrow? The Church's teaching about the departed is full of comfort and hope. Read The Gospel of the Hereafter (Patterson-Smyth).

Have you read:

Reasons for Being a Churchman?
The Green Book?
Why Men Pray?
Have You Understood Christianity?
The Faith by Which We Live?
The Making of the Bible?

Have any of your children lost their faith at the age of adolescence, or at college? Do you know how to guide them? What to tell them about the Bible? How to reconcile it with modern science? Do you know what parts are history, what poetry, what are legend and allegory? Read How We Got Our Bible (Patterson-Smyth); The Fourth Gospel (Strachey).

As for news—can you answer these questions?

A. (Our own Parish)—What flourishing society was lately formed in Grace Parish? What gift to adorn the Altar has the rector recently suggested?

B. (Our Diocese)—What action did the Annual Convention take regarding the Cathedral? Women delegates? Where are two Italian missions? One Polish? Jewish? Who are the Sisters of St. Margaret and what do they do? What important rural work can you name? What fine hospital is in great need of funds? Where and what is the Church Farm School? Name our Bishops.

C. (Our Country)—How many Church Colleges have we? Are there any for women? Where and what is Kent School? St. Andrew's? St. Mary's, Rosebud? Who is the Bishop of New York, Alaska, South Dakota? Who is the Presiding Bishop? Who is President of the Council? How are these so made? Who is editor of the Living Church? Name two great summer schools or conferences of the church; five divinity schools; three hospitals; two industrial schools (one Indian and one negro).

D. (The World)—For what great International Hospital in Japan has the American Church been raising funds and workers? For what heroic Missionary Bishop is an Endowment Fund being raised? Who are Bishop Overs, Dr. Teusler, Miss Riddell, Father Huntingdon, Dr. Mary L. James, Mrs. Biller, Sister Lydia, Miss Grace Lindley, Bishop Tuttle, Dr. Pott and Deaconess Newbold?

What do these words mean to you: Liturgy; chasuble; sanctuary; roodscreen; reredos; Sanctus; Bendoo; Kumamoto; Wind River; Valle Crucis; Triennial Convention; Wellesley; Portland, Oregon; Lambeth Conference?

And now, get out pencil and paper, get all the family busy and try to make a passing mark of 70 on this Church examination. (Answers on page 5.)

Are YOU an INTELLIGENT Churchman? K. M. M.

The Church Periodical Club

The amount raised by the Church Periodical Club for the new Library of St. Paul's College, Tokio, Japan, exceeded the $15,000 for which it aimed.

Grace Church, Mount Airy, comes second in the list of Philadelphia churches, and is to be congratulated in having given $117.25 of this amount.

Will not every one remember to keep their summer literature of books and magazines and send them to the Parish House for the Church Periodical Club when the holidays are over.

M. W. BAYARD,
Librarian.

A Diocesan Service

Thursday, September 7, will be the great Thanksgiving Day of the Women of the Church, with the Presentation of the United Peace Thank Offering in Trinity Church, Portland. In 1919 we had, in this diocese, a beautiful service on the Presentation Day in Detroit. All who were present will be glad to know that there is to be the second triennial observance, at the Pro-Cathedral, Broad and South Streets, on the above date, at 10.30 o'clock.

Several dioceses have established this custom—a wonderful privilege for the women at home. Doubtless there are many in Grace Parish who will be glad to attend the service on the seventh. It will afford the opportunity to present any belated or "special" offerings. They will be included in our Pennsylvania total, which Mrs. Hollingsworth will be presenting at the same time in Portland. Be sure to enclose any special offering, or Communion alms, in envelope marked "Grace Church, Mount Airy."

St. Matthew

I heard His call,
"Come follow," that was all.
My gold grew dim,
My soul went after Him;
I rose and followed; that was all.
Who would not follow if they heard Him call? U. R. Newell.

A simple and seemingly not very inspiring slogan for the children of Calvary Church School, in New York, has proved to be useful and compelling. "Every Sunday on Time." "We printed it on our attendance cards," say the authorities, "and we taught the children to recite it all together. It is to be hoped that reverberations of it often reach the fathers and mothers in their homes!"

Camp Cline—1922

The kind gentlemen who financed this undertaking, and those who were willing to manage it, little realized when they went into it that they were staging a melodrama worthy of the movies!

The boys, thirty-five in number, left Mount Airy on Tuesday, August 1, and arrived safely at the Camp near Wrightstown, Pa., where we found our leader who had gone out a couple of days before, had a comfortable camp all ready, also a splendid dinner. After dinner we had just settled down for our rest hour when it began to rain. The Leaders scanned the splendid tents with looks of satisfaction, and gave no more thought of the matter.

But all at once, a violent cloudburst occurred and amidst the wildest thunder and lightning a little insignificant stream nearby turned into a miniature Niagara Gorge, swept over its banks and on through the tents, soaking everything. For a minute the leaders despaired and thought it time to pack every lad home and call the project off.

But the boys were all so gritty about it we persevered and tried to salvage the outfit. The storm continued with unabated fury, so we gave up and awaited developments. Fortunately, the tents remained standing, but there was a torrent a foot deep flowing through them.

Supper time arrived with the storm still raging, and as Mess Hall was across the torrent the problem was how to get there.

A rope was procured, thrown across, and the leaders stationed themselves up to their waists in rushing water and passed the boys over hand by hand, meanwhile holding to the rope to prevent being washed away themselves.

We all reached Mess Hall wet to the skin, and found our first guests, who were to entertain at Campfire, awaiting us. No doubt we presented a sorry spectacle. Fortunately a supply of dry blankets were found and the boys undressed and wrapped themselves in these, had supper and were put right to bed, while the leaders crawled into a friendly hay loft nearby. The guests were dismissed with but scant courtesy we fear.

The next day was sunshiny, and the wreck of the camp was salvaged after much hard work by the leaders. In the evening our first Camp Fire was held under a full moon, with George Bodine entertaining the boys with camp stories, poems and a talk on the stars. Then taps, and everybody happily to bed, the leaders rejoicing that at last the camp was running smoothly.

The next night, Thursday, was to be the big night, as Mr. Cline and Mr. Fortescue were to be on hand. After a pleasant day, and just as we were getting ready for supper, the weather got nasty again and not only did it rain, but a young cyclone swept the camp. The now anxious leaders about came to the conclusion that soon there would be nothing to worry about, as the storm threatened to blow the whole camp away!

However, the splendid equipment was equal to the strain put upon it, and the boyish deeds of heroism performed through the afternoon will linger long in our minds.

Once again we crossed the torrent to find Mr. Cline and Mr. Fortescue awaiting us in the mess hall. Camp Fire was impossible that night, but Mr. Cline entertained the boys under cover, to their immense enjoyment. Fortunately, they were able to return to their tents after taps this time.

The weather now permitted us to lead a normal camp existence, and the remaining days were spent in happy athletic competition.

The last Camp Fire was an event long to be remembered; under a glorious full moon expectant faces looked up at us as the prizes were to be awarded.

The Camp Cline banner, awarded by the boys themselves, went to Bob Burton for the best deportment in camp and athletics during the week.

Then it was announced that a large cake had arrived from Miss Thompson, and under the wonderful night sky the whole camp stood for a minute in absolute silence around the fire in memory of a beloved Choir Mother who had passed beyond. The tribute was so beautiful that it almost seemed that her gentle spirit was present. Then hand in hand we sang our farewell song under the twinkling stars. The whole thing was a glorious success and too much grateful appreciation cannot be given to Messrs. Robinson, Cridland and Jefferson, who in patience and to the point of absolute weariness struggled on and made a most happy issue out of what bid fair to turn out a flat failure.

The kind friends at home who made the whole thing possible by their generous contribution of funds, will no doubt be amply rewarded when they hear the boys talk of Camp Cline during the coming months, for in one busy week they furnished happy memories for thirty-five lads, which will stay with them for the rest of their lives; that's a tremendous recompense!

[Note.—The Leader-in-Chief, the presiding genius of the whole show, wrote this article; we could not expect him to toot his own horn! Without detracting one iota from the recognition of the splendid performances of the associate leaders, let the big and little trumpets sound the praises of the master spirit of Camp Cline—Robert MacDonald, Jr.—EDITOR, PARISH NEWS.]

The Rector's Letter

My dear Friends:

Sunday, October 1 is Rally Day for Grace Church. The announcement comes as a summons for every faithful communicant to report for duty. How promptly will the Rector be able to say "All present or accounted for"?

The summer is ended. The vacation season is over. The activities of the new year challenge our attention and our best efforts. Let us all respond with great sincerity of purpose.

St. Paul writing from Rome to his parishioners in Ephesus concluded his letter with these words; "Grace be with all them that love our Lord Jesus Christ in sincerity."

Evidently he was conscious of a distinction between the sincere and the insincere, the genuine and the nominal Christians. Sincere love is transparent. It conceals no guile or malice. Those who love our Lord Jesus Christ in sincerity are ready to cooperate heartily with all who are like minded in building up His Kingdom. They will not "begin with one accord to make excuse." Their souls are nourished with "the unleavened bread of sincerity and truth."

It is sincerity which saves us from spiritual stagnation. What makes us discontented with those immature ideas and beliefs about the future life, about God and about the universe and insists that we discard them for larger and nobler conceptions? Mr. A. Chelton-Brock answers this question in one of his essays:

He says man, in his eager search for a God worthy of his disinterested love, is tempted into spurious loves and spurious certainties, "And for a time, perhaps, he is certain, convinced by miracles or documentary proofs that he has found the true God whom he can love, the creator and ruler of a righteous universe. But gradually, through that terrible unconsciocus sincerity of his, the very proofs which have given him certainty cause him discomfort. He finds that the God who has been revealed to him so precisely does not satisfy his own values."

Our sincerity will never let us rest with a belief that is artificial or egotistical or that does not harmonize with the belief in a perfect GOD. It insists upon our discarding the imperfect to make room for the perfect.

We see the same process going on in the National Church in Convention Assembled.

In spite of the inertia of conservatism the "terrible sincerity" of the living church is ever striving to discard outworn, antiquated and unsatisfactory forms in order to make room for growth.

It is this irrepressible sincerity which has accounted for the heroes, saints and martyrs of all ages. It is unconquerable. St. Paul expresses it in his letter to the Romans:

"For I am persuaded that neither death, nor life, nor angels, nor principalities, nor powers, nor things present, nor things to come, nor height nor depth, nor any other creature shall be able to separate us from the love of God which is in Christ Jesus our Lord."

Let me close with the apostolic salutation, "Grace be with all them that love our Lord Jesus Christ in sincerity."

Very sincerely yours,
THOMAS S. CLINE.

The Woman's Auxiliary and Guild

Personal invitations have been sent to the women of the Parish for the stated meeting to be held at the home of the President, Mrs. E. Wheeler Jenkins, 334 Gowen avenue, on Thursday, October 12, at half-past 2 o'clock. The articles for the Christmas box for the lepers at the Hospital of the Resurrection of Hope will be on exhibition and an interesting afternoon is promised.

We hope that all who possibly can will be present to help plan and discuss the work for the year. Suggestions are always acceptable. Too often matters are left entirely to a few people to carry the organization along, whereas each member should feel the responsibility of keeping it alive and growing, as well as helping with the work itself. Sewing will commence the following Thursday morning, and we hope to see some new members as well as all the former regular (or irregular) workers.

Once more—do not forget the rummage sale. Articles for this purpose are acceptable at all times and we can never have too many. The results are limited only by the amount there is to sell.

An Acknowledgment

The people of Grace Church wish to gratefully express their appreciation of the ministrations of the Rev. George Mair, of St. Stephen's Church, Bridesburg, and the Rev. Henry Bedinger, of Philadelphia, during a portion of the vacation period of their own Rector.

Confirmation

The annual visitation of the Bishop to Grace Church will take place Sunday morning, November 26.

The Confirmation Class will be organized Sunday, October 15, at 4 p. m.

All persons desirous of receiving Confirmation are requested to notify the Rector.

Young People's Society of Grace Church

So far, the Young People's Society of Grace Church has not been prominent; it has been in the making.

Now its tactics are changed. We want everybody to know that there is a Young People's Society, and furthermore, we ask support.

During the Lenten season of 1922, Mr. Cline held Friday evening discussion classes. The classes were attended mainly by the younger people in the parish. The average attendance was surprisingly good. When the discussions threatened to stop, owing to the passing of Lent, Mr. Cline suggested that the classes perpetuate themselves in the form of Sunday Evening Services and discussions. A committee was appointed, and by-laws were drawn up and submitted to the class as a whole for adoption. These were revised and passed on.

Finally, on the fourth Sunday of April, the Young People's Society held its first service.

The idea of young people conducting services is a comparatively new one, but it is, nevertheless, gaining great popularity.

It was discovered, by the four meetings, that there were held in the spring, the Young People's Society was just what was needed in the parish. It brings all the young people together, and, judging by the attendance of those first meetings, it is interesting enough so that they want to come.

The idea, or rather the plan, of the Society is to put the religious side first. For this reason the meetings were changed to Sunday, and the services are conducted by the young people.

Our first fall service will be on the second Sunday in October, at 7 p. m., in the Parish House. We want everybody to come that is interested in the Society. If you are not interested, tell some one who will be. We will not be contented until every young person's name is on the roll.

The Church School

The attendance at the Summer Sessions of the Church School beginning on July 9, and continuing to the last Sunday in September have proved the success of the experiment.

Miss Frances Shipley, in charge of the Upper School, and Mrs. R. N. Hall, with the Beginners, are to be congratulated upon the good work done.

The regular sessions of the Church School will be resumed with a full corps of teachers at 9.30 on Sunday morning, October 1.

There should be a full attendance, and let every one adopt the slogan: "Every Sunday on Time."

The School will go into session at the appointed time with a short service, and then every scholar will be appointed to class and regular work immediately begun. There is no time to be lost, as the opening is later than usual this year.

Remember the slogan: "Every Sunday on time."

"Suppose Nobody Cared?"

This is the slogan of the second annual drive of the Welfare Federation of Philadelphia which begins October 23 and continues until the 30th.

In this drive sufficient money will be raised to pay the running expenses of 124 nonsectarian charitable organizations in the city, embracing twenty-four hospitals, numerous orphanages, nurseries, homes for the aged, and agencies caring for those in need.

Six of the institutions benefitted by the Welfare funds raised last year are those in which members of the Protestant Episcopal Church in this diocese are interested. These are the Philadelphia Protestant Episcopal City Mission, Church Home for Children, St. Martha's Home, Church Dispensary of Southwark, St. Agnes' House and The Sheltering Arms of the Protestant Episcopal Church. Relieved of the necessity of raising operating expenses, these organizations were enabled to devote their entire time to the service of the community. Each has tstified to the worth of the Federation plan and each will participate in the forthcoming campaign.

The work conducted by these agencies during the year has been immense. As an example of the magnitude, the Church Home for Children reports that 17,168 days' care was given children; St. Martha's shows that the daily average attendance has been 2000, while the Church Dispensary, operated in conjunction with St. Martha's, has treated 2120 patients in the dispensary during the past twelve months. Sheltering Arms has given 13,879 days' care. Readers of these columns are well acquainted with the splendid annual showing of the City Mission.

Last year 60,769 Philadelphians gave $2,070,153.83 to these organizations. According to figures compiled by the Federation, more than 15,000 persons benefitted daily in service received, due to the gifts of the people.

One hospital alone cared for an accident patient on an average of one every twenty minutes; another treated 27,000 patients in the free dispensary. More than 3000 children were fed, clothed and mothered by the various child-caring agencies.

The story of the entire work will be unfolded during the campaign. On the opening day the sum needed to finance these institutions for another year will be announced.

Judge J. Willis Martin is president of the Welfare Federation. Effingham B. Morris, president of the Girard Trust Company, is chairman of the executive committee. The committee on campaign organization consists of Colonel Franklin D'Olier, former commander of the American Legion and now president of the Sesqui-centennial Association, assisted by William M. Elkins.

The Woman's Aid to the Convocation of Germantown

The Woman's Aid to the Convocation of Germantown will meet at St. Andrew's Church, Yardley, on Tuesday, October 17. On the following Saturday, the 21st, a musicale will be held at the home of Mrs. George Woodward, St. Martin's, Chestnut Hill, for the benefit of the convocation work. Tickets are 50 cents and can be obtained from Mrs. Jenkins of our parish. Afternoon tea, cake and candy will be for sale.

Donations from our parish should be sent to the Parish House by noon of that day, or on notice will be called for.

Last year's bazaar and luncheon held at St. Luke's Parish House, Germantown, was so well attended that it is hoped that excellent music in such beautiful surroundings will prove successful this year.

Grace Church women are asked to respond as generously as is their wont.

The Dedication Festival

Plans are under way for an interesting Dedication Festival Week. As All Saints Day comes round each year, we commemorate the dedication of our Parish Church. Beside the religious observances we are promised an unusually fine organ recital on one evening.

On another, some of our parish members will show us on the screen the beauties and wonders of their travels during the past summer. The young people are promised an evening for themselves, but it is too early now to give particulars. The November issue of the Parish News will have a full program.

It is hoped there may be some desiring to become members. If so, they can be registered at this time.

Lepers

We make the following extracts from a letter of Miss H. Riddell, the devoted founder of the Hospital for the Resurrection of Hope, Kumamoto, Japan, to the ladies of the Leamy Home, acknowledging Christmas gifts for her charges.

"I think you know there is a great deal written at the present time about Chaulmugra Oil as a cure for leprosy, and that it is generally mentioned as something quite new. That is not the case, it has been used for centuries in India, China and Japan, and thus far, seems to be the only thing that has ever operated as a cure for leprosy. The oil is made from the large seeds of a fruit like grapefruit. These seeds, four or five in number, when crushed produce a very nauseous and acrid oil; so nauseous that after a few days it becomes an emetic and few are able to retain it.

"Any cases of cures we have had at this hospital have been due to this oil, and we have had it in constant use since 1895. But these cures have been exclusively among the young and strong or in incipient cases.

"At Honolulu I went to see what was being done at the Experimental Station there, because a greater number of cures have been reported from there during the past year than during any year previous. New derivatives of Chaulmugra have been developed, but the fact remains that even in their use only the young and incipient cases seem to be benefited.

"If it were in my power to bring it about, there would be no incipient cases, for I should carry out the sex-segregation of lepers universally.

"After twenty-eight years of practical experience with this disease, I now think it a crime that there should be any leper children born into the world. The disease is of course contagious as well as hereditary, but it is more hereditary than contagious, and when it skips a generation or two, it often appears in a most aggravated form."

"Early in February last my oldest 'son' in the hospital died; he was 66 when he came to the hospital and was 76 when he died. When he came he was a most ardent Buddhist, but after a few years, although he frequently said to me, 'Takaoka San will never become a Christian,' he did eventually, and his child-like faith and constancy were remarkable. In the last years of his life he was very frail, and when I went in to say 'Good-night,' I would find him kneeling and praying earnestly; his hands together and his head bowed.

"One day I saw him sitting on a bench under a peach tree in full blossom; his back was turned, and he did not hear me coming. As I came near I heard him say: 'Oh! Lord, help me to give up my will. I do not like this, but if it is Thy will, Oh! Lord, help me to bear it! Not my will, but Thine be done! Oh! Lord, I am very weak, please help me,' and then I went away lest I should hear what was not meant for me. In my mind I treasure the sight of the dear old man with his bald head and mumbling voice, sitting on the bench under the tree full of pink blossoms, pouring out his poor heart to his Lord."

Settling Strikes With Soviet Money

An American who recently made a journey across Russia and had opportunities for intimate observation while there, gives an interesting account of how Lenin prevented one Bolshevik strike. In the opinion of the soviet dictator it was necessary to keep the printing presses going for the full eight hours of each day in the grinding out of paper rubles. When money is measured by quantity instead of by quality nothing must be allowed to clog the source of supply. And the source of supply for "cheap" money is the printing press.

The Bolshevik pressmen did not seem to be able to comprehend why a "workmen's government" should keep them going at high pressure while all about them thousands were idle. This sort of reasoning brought the pressmen to the point where they threatened to strike. Lenin took a personal interest in the controversy. He told the pressmen that they must keep on turning out rubles. He said they, the pressmen, were a part of the government organization, just as necessary as the "red" army and that they must keep up a maximum daily supply of Bolshevik money. But this did not ease the situation.

Finally Lenin said to the men something like this: "You help us. You be faithful to us and work along until four o'clock in the afternoon, the eight-hour day, and produce all the money that we need. After four o'clock you and the boys can produce all the money you want on your own account."

"A strike among the firemen of a great city is unthinkable, and yet the total damage likely to be done by fire, even if all the firemen in the country should go on strike and picket against fire fighters, could not be greater than that which is bound to arise from a concerted railroad and mine strike if carried to the bitter end. Yet the firemen have as many and as sacred rights as have shopmen or the miners. The right to strike and prevent others from working in an essential industry is not an inalienable privilege in a free country, for its logical conclusion is anarchy and civil war; and we are very close to the time when the chief labor problem will be that of maintaining a government free from the dictation of a powerful but irresponsible supergovernment set up by a class and operated for its special advantage over other classes.

"Power without corresponding responsibility must come to an end in labor matters and in all other human relations."

An Ancient Prayer for Landlords

In the "Prayer Book of Edward VI," but not to be found in the modern Angelican prayer book, appeared this prayer: "We heartily pray Thee to send Thy Holy Spirit into the hearts of them that possess the grounds and pastures of the earth, that they, remembering themselves to be Thy tenants, may not rack or stretch out the rents of their houses and lands, nor yet take unreasonable fines or moneys, after the manner of covetous worldlings, but may so let them out that the inhabitants thereof may be able to pay the rents and to live, and nourish their families, and remember the poor. Give them grace also to consider that they, too, are but strangers and pilgrims in this world, having here no dwelling place but seeking one to come; that they, remembering the short continuance of this life, may be content with that which is sufficient, and not join house to house and land to land, to the impoverishment of others, but may so behave themselves in letting their tenements, lands and pastures, that after this life they may be received into everlasting habitations. Amen." It is an interesting supplication and would not do any harm if it were offered generally today.

The Rector's Dedication Festival Letter

There is nothing we need more in Grace Church just now than a real Dedication Festival.

It sets before us the idea of dedication. We begin by commemorating the consecration of our parish Church which took place a third of a century ago. But we do not stop there. We go on to think of the great Church of which it is a part—that spiritual temple "built upon the foundation of the Apostles and Prophets, Jesus Christ Himself being the head corner-stone."

We are reminded of the fact that we, as individual members of that Church, have been dedicated to God in Holy Baptism. We are God's building. Are we living consecrated lives? Are we fully conscious of our great debt of gratitude to God for the blessings He has bestowed upon us through the Church? Are we standing loyally by the Church and giving it the place of honor in our lives which it deserves?

There is great need of heart-searching among us. Many have grown lax and negligent. Some have lapsed into unbelief and godlessness. The families that are doing their full duty by the Church are very few. Oh, my friends, you who regard so lightly your religious duties and privileges; have you forgotten your covenant with God? How can you go on, week after week, absenting yourselves from God's House, holding aloof from Christian fellowship and refusing to take your rightful share in God's work?

Would that the Feast of Dedication might mean to some soul a sincere self-dedication.

"O Jesus, full of truth and grace,
More full of grace than I of sin;
Yet once again I seek Thy face:
Open Thine arms and take me in;
And freely my backslidings heal,
And love the faithless sinner still."

"Thou know'st the way to bring me back,
My fallen spirit to restore;
O for Thy truth and mercy's sake,
Forgive, and bid me sin no more:
The ruins of my soul repair,
And make my heart a house of prayer."

There is another reason why we need a Dedication Festival; because it is a Parish Festival. For the moment it focuses our attention upon our fellowship within the parish family. Sacred and wonderful is this fellowship in Christ. The more fully we realize its power and joy the more effectively will we work together for the many worthy causes which demand our aid. But powerful influences tend to alienate our affections. Our home ties need strengthening.

Grace Church has a great and noble work to do—for those who are near as well as for those who are far off. Our children must be taught the Faith, our lapsed communicants must be reclaimed, new converts must be won. The congregation must be aroused to its duty in rendering God sincere worship and obedience and in corporate service to mankind. New-comers to the community must be attracted to the Church and definitely affiliated with the life and work of the Church.

These great aims cannot be realized except through the united efforts of a body of people who are loyal—not only to Christianity in general—but also to Grace Church in particular. It would be a baffling task to attempt to accomplish these things with a group of people who had a "world-wide vision" and yet were afflicted with a parish blind-spot. It would be disheartening to attempt it with people who regarded the parish simply as a field for exploitation for the benefit of sundry good and worthy causes. The fulfilment of our great commission awaits the loyal co-operation of dedicated souls who love Grace Church.

It is the purpose of a Parish Dedication Festival to promote this love. It reminds us of the loyalty which characterizes the founders and builders of this parish in former generations.

In our beautiful Church edifice we have a noble memorial of their devotion. Their interest in the welfare of Grace Church was deep and permanent. They have left us a rich heritage and a worthy tradition.

I take this opportunity, therefore, to lay before all whose names adorn the Communicant List of Grace Church the claims this parish has upon your loyalty, your love and interest, your time and energy, your prayers and gifts.

May our Lord kindle the flame of love in every breast.

With renewed consecration,

Your Pastor,

THOMAS S. CLINE.

Finances

The following letter has been sent out to Grace Church parishioners:

October 18, 1922.

To the Parishioners of Grace Church, Mount Airy:

On October 1st the deficit in the current expense account of the Church was over $1200. This does not include the cost of painting and other repairs to the Rectory necessary for its preservation, and amounting to a little over $400. The principal causes of this deficit were, first, the extraordinary expense of locating and remedying the block in the church sewer connections, and, second, the loss by death or removal of thirty-two of our subscribers, whose pledged contributions for the entire year were almost $600.

The Rector's appeal made on Sunday, October 15th, for contributions to cover this deficit produced in cash and pledges $376.50.

Our current income for the rest of the year will not more than meet our current expenses, if it does that. The remaining $1225 of the deficit must, therefore, be specially raised of we are not to close the year in debt.

Your Vestry are bearing their full share of this burden, which is the result of conditions they could not anticipate but it is only proper that the other members of the parish should also help.

If you have not already responded to the Rector's appeal please send your contribution to the Accounting Warden.

On behalf of the Vestry,
A. L. E. CROUTER,
Rector's Warden
JAMES WILSON BAYARD,
Accounting Warden
105 E. Johnson street,

A Spendthrift Nation

"The story of the development of life and industry here in America is the most amazing tale of the waste of wealth by a careless, improvident people that the world has ever known. We have flooded the air with that wonder fuel—natural gas, covered our land with the ashes of burned forests, killed off our wild animal life for the sport that was in it, and robbed our virgin acres of so much of their fertility that in many of the regions first settled farming as a pursuit is about as obsolete as the home manufacture of linen on an old-fashioned spinning-wheel.

"If our fuel experiences this winter finally jar us into a real consciousness of our national negligence, and fire the people with a hot determination to end the present orgy of waste, then the discomforts and losses we endure will not have been borne in vain."

The Rector Addresses the Young People's Society

At the opening meeting of the Young People's Society, Sunday evening, October 22, the Rector made an earnest request of the young people of the parish to reserve Sunday morning for religious uses.

He asked them to refrain from secular studies, reading the Sunday paper, playing tennis or other games, hiking, horseback riding, motor trips and other recreations until high noon. He pointed out the effect of taking Sunday morning for such unhallowed uses, the interference with Church worship, the estrangement from the spiritual life, thought and fellowship of the Church, the detrimental influence upon younger boys and girls, the affront to the Church and its pastor whose public teaching is ignored, the discourtesy to parents who desire to attend Church and to have their families with them.

The Rector said that if this custom of ignoring the religious character of Sunday should grow among our young people it would eventually kill the Church.

At the opening meeting of the Young People's Society, Sunday evening, October 22, the following officers were elected: Vice-President, Heber Hood; team captain, Miss Dorothy Shelmire.

These were elected to fill vacancies. The other officers are: President, A. L. E. Crouter, Jr.; secretary, Miss Katharine Matlack; treasurer, Miss Stuhlmiller; team captain, Miss Kathleen Irwin.

The young people are planning a special event for Friday evening, November 3, in connection with the Dedication Festival.

The Bishop's Visitation

Bishop Garland expects to visit Grace Church the Sunday next before Advent, November 26th, at 11 o'clock.

The Confirmation Class is now meeting regularly Sundays at four o'clock for instruction.

In Memoriam

As we thank God this All Saintstide for the wonderful grace and virtue declared in His saints, we shall be specially mindful of one who has recently entered into Paradise.

Grace Church has never had a more devoted member than Mrs. Charles McKean Bayard. She left the impress of her beautiful character upon the parish during the formative years of its history. As the first head of the Woman's Auxiliary and Guild she set before the women of the parish a high standard of Christian service. She was a pioneer in many lines of missionary and charitable work, including the United Thank Offering. She was interested in every phase of Church work. For a number of years she conducted a women's Bible class with great success. Having served for many years as a Missionary Delegate of the Woman's Auxiliary, she was made Honorary Delegate.

Mrs. Bayard was beloved by all who knew her. In her, goodness was combined with winsomeness. With wonderful tact and graciousness she made all around her happy. Her nature was of "sweetness and light." In the memory of her stedfast faith, her noble character, her generosity and good works, her grace and charm, Grace Church has indeed a precious heritage and a great incentive to holy living.

"For Thy dear saints, O Lord,
Who strove in Thee to live,
Who followed Thee, obeyed, adored,
Our grateful hymn receive.

For Thy dear saints, O Lord,
Who strove in Thee to die,
Who counted Thee their great reward,
Accept our thankful cry.

Thine earthly members fit
To join Thy saints above,
In one communion ever knit
One fellowship of love."

The Woman's Auxiliary and Guild

The stated meeting held at Mrs. Jenkins's home in October was an interesting one, and it was very pleasant indeed for us all to be together again after the long summer holidays. A feeling of sadness pervaded the meeting, however, for we could not but think of the loss we have sustained in the death of a former, much-beloved leader, Mrs. Charles McKean Bayard. As Mrs. North told us of her many and varied interests, in Grace Church and in missions, we realized how much we are indebted to Mrs. Bayard's leadership for the success and growth of the Auxiliary. She was the first president of our organization; the first to take part in the work among lepers; the first delegate from the parish to the Woman's Aid to the Convocation of Germantown; and she also was the first United Thank Offering treasurer in Grace Church —the first offering, of $12, being made in 1895.

It was the desire of those present at the meeting that an expression of sympathy be sent to the family of Mrs. Bayard in their sorrow, and a resolution to that effect was immediately offered by Mrs. Lowber, after which the secretary was directed to enter it on the minutes as follows:

"The Woman's Auxiliary of Grace Church, Mount Airy, as a body, wish to put on record their sorrow in the passing away of Mrs. Bayard. This is a real, personal loss to everyone who knew her, for no one ever went to her for counsel or advice who did not receive spiritual strength and comfort.

"Surely we may feel that her prayers will continue to guide the Woman's Auxiliary and Guild as they have ever done since its inception, and, both as an auxiliary and as individuals, we extend to her family, of whose life she was the center, our most sincere sympathy."

November 2 being the first Thursday of that month, an all-day meeting will be held by the Auxiliary, with special speakers at 11 o'clock. They will talk to us of social service and missions and we anticipate a very interesting morning. Luncheon will be served at 1 o'clock. This is the women's special part in the program for our Dedication Festival Week and we hope that our members and friends will all help towards its success by making the effort to attend the meeting.

The Educational Secretary of the parish calls attention to the Bible Class beginning the first Wednesday in November, held each week at the Church House, 202 South Nineteenth street, by Mrs. Pilsbry from 4 to 5 p. m. for men and women. "The Missionary Message of the Bible" is the subject, and it affords a long desired opportunity to many of our people to attend a Bible class on the Bible.

The text-book for mission study classes this year will be, "Neighbors and Friends"; the subject, the foreign born in our country; the watch-word, unity.

Thanksgiving Day

The annual day of National Thanksgiving coincides this year with the feast of St. Andrew. The services in Grace Church will be as follows:

Morning Prayer, 9.30 a. m.

Holy Communion and Sermon, 10 a. m.

According to our usual custom, the services are placed at an early hour to allow ample time for family festivities in the home.

The choir will be in attendance. The offering will be devoted to the Episcopal Hospital.

There will be a distribution of provisions among the poor of the community. Articles may be left at the Parish House where the Social Service Committee will take charge of them. Contributions for this purpose may be made to Mrs. Sheble (Chairman), Roumfort Road.

The Annual Canvass

The General Convention put the stamp of the Church's approval upon the work of the National Council during the past three years and unanimously adopted the great progressive program proposed for the next triennium. This new program calls for the raising of $6,000,000 during 1923. Pennsylvania's share of this is $470,000.

The Annual Canvass to secure pledges for the Church's work during the coming year is to be held in this diocese on Sunday, November 26th. We expect to comply with the diocesan program and make the canvass in Grace Church on the appointed day. All parishioners will be asked kindly to pledge the amount they can contribute through the duplex envelopes both for the current expenses of the parish and for the general work of the Church. We have not yet received the figures, either of the parish budget or of the quota for missions.

The loss of a number of contributors has reduced our parish income by $600. Unusual expenses have helped to create a deficit as the parish has been already informed. Consequently the coming canvass assumes unusual importance. It is hoped many new contributors may be added to the list and that pledges may show a substantial increase.

The parish meeting on the evening of All Saints' Day, November 1st, will help to prepare us for the Annual Canvass. Colonel Barba, whose former visits to Grace Church are remembered with pleasure, will speak on this theme.

The Missionary Service Sunday evening, November 5th, with Dr. Wood, head of the Department of Missions, the speaker, will help us to see our duty to the missionary side of the envelope.

All Saints' Day

"Lord, where Thou art our holy dead must be,
Unpierced as yet the Sacramental mist;
But we are nearest them, and nearest Thee
At solemn Eucharist.

O Lord, we crave for those gone home to Thee,
For those who made the earthly home so fair;
How little we may know, how little see,
Only, that Thou art there.

Lord, where Thou art, our happy dead must be,
And if with Thee, what then their boundless bliss!
Till faith be sight and hope reality,
Love's anchorage is this."

The Lamps

"Lamps that gleam in the city,
Lamps that flare on the wall,
Lamps that shine on the ways of men,
Kindled by men are all.

But the desert of burnt-out ashes,
Which only the lost have trod,
Dark and barren and flowerless,
Is lit by the Hand of God.

To lighten the outer darkness,
To hasten the halting feet,
He lifts a lamp in the desert
Like the lamps of men in the street.

Only the wanderers know it,
The lost with those who mourn,
That lamp in the desert darkness,
And the joy that comes in the dawn.

That the lost may come into safety,
And the mourners may cease to doubt,
The Lamp of God will be shining still
When the lamps of men go out."

Social Service Publications

"The Motion Picture Problem" is the title of a fifty-page booklet written by the Rev. Charles N. Lathrop and published by the Social Service Commission of the Federal Council, 105 East Twenty-second street, New York, price 15 cents.

It reviews the general question, discusses standards, gives the arguments for and against censorship, and reports various methods of work in different states and by different organizations.

There could scarcely be a less emotional title than "The City Mission Idea," as a little book by Dr. Will Jefferys of Philadelphia is called, but the emotions are all there. It is a practical discussion and bringing together of the ideas and methods of city mission work. Dr. Sunderland, superintendent of the New York City Mission, contributes a chapter on work in that city. The book is illustrated and contains many stories of successful achievements or faithful attempts. There is a satisfaction in having Dr. Jefferys write such a book because he has been a missionary in China and one feels that in spite of his intimate contact with conditions at home he is not unaware of other fields.

The booklet is published by the Department of Christian Social Service and may be obtained from the Bookstore, 281 Fourth avenue, New York, for 15 cents. It would be of interest not only to workers already in city missions, but to all people who are troubled by the evils and problems of city life. "The genius of the city mission is . . . its readiness to go after the fellow who is bewildered and lost, to lead him home."

Bird's-Eye View of the National Council's Departments

The end of the first three years' work of the National Council and the departments reorganized or created by direction of General Convention in 1919 finds an increasing number of people interested in the promotion and prosecution of the Church's work.

While the general purposes of the departments are clear, they have now so many undertakings and the work of each has grown to such proportions that it is well to stop and consider just what each department is intended to do and what the differences are between them. This is outlined in the Triennial Report presented by the Council to General Convention. It may be summed up briefly as follows:

The Council itself, with the Presiding Bishop, has charge of the unification, development and prosecution of the missionary, educational and social work of the Church. The Council has held five meetings a year to hear department reports and transact necessary business.

MISSIONS AND CHURCH EXTENSION

The Department of Missions and Church Extension is the department which prosecutes the evangelistic, educational and social work of the Church in what we know as the mission field, whether in the United States or elsewhere. Under the missionary bishops the actual work of the Church in that field has gone forward. Through the department, missionaries are secured and sent out and mission buildings, churches, schools and hospitals are erected. Included under that brief statement is an enormous volume of work that stretches into Asia, South America and Africa.

RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

Different from the foregoing, but underlying and promoting it, is the work of the Department of Religious Education. Among the many aims toward which the past three years' work has been directed are:

To guide children and young people of the Church Sunday Schools through a three-fold curriculum of study, worship and service; to train teachers; to recruit the best of our young men and women for leadership in Church work, especially men for the ministry; to equip Church boarding schools for their service to religious education; to hold our college men and women in vital relation to the Church's life; to equip and develop our Church colleges; to provide for our theological seminaries; to develop co-operation with the public schools; to train groups of persons in correct methods of religious drama; to foster religious observances and training in the home.

One of the two leading ideas guiding the department is that adequate methods must be provided to meet the needs of children and young people as they progress through parish, school, college, university and seminary.

The other determining point of view in the department's policy is the increasing conviction that certain educational tasks are too large for parish or diocese and should be handled by national agencies and funds: such undertakings as the gathering and administering of scholarship funds; the making of grants for maintenance to Church institutions; the building of a larger field force, in response to an overwhelming number of requests, to demonstrate educational methods; the supplementing of salaries of clergymen in college communities.

PUBLICITY

The whole mission of the Church, the Church itself, and the activities of the various departments of the Council are three subjects about which the Department of Publicity undertakes to spread information. The department serves also as printing and publishing agency for the Council and departments, and also publishes The Spirit of Missions, Exchange of Methods, The Church at Work, and the official bulletins. It promotes publicity organization throughout the Church.

Shall I Pledge?

Here is a little parody on Hamlet's soliloquy written by the Rev. William Harmon van Allen, S. T. D., D. D., of Boston, which is timely for us:

"To pledge or not to pledge—that is the question:
Whether 'tis nobler in a man to gather
The Church's blessings free, and leave the others
To foot the bills and spread the gospel tidings
Or to take pen, to sign a pledge that's duplex
And share the cost. To write—to sign—to pledge—
To pledge—perchance to pay! Ay, there's the rub;
For in six months I may have lowered salary.
Stocks may have sunk, or bad investments swat me,
And then, besides, the increased cost of living
Must give me pause; then, too, there's the respect
I owe myself to run a costly motor;
The dues of clubs, the children off at college!
Why not content myself with casual giving
On pleasant Sundays when I journey churchward
And not commit myself to certain moneys?
WHY NOT? BECAUSE I DO NOT PROPOSE TO BE A SLACKER!"

The Church's Program

At the request of the Parish Council we are publishing a resumé of a statement made to the congregation by the Rector, Sunday, November 19. It contains data with which every parishioner should be familiar at this time.

Bishop Garland has furnished the diocese with a timely slogan. He says: "I earnestly urge every clergyman and every communicant of our diocese to adopt the slogan, 'Stand behind the Church's Program.'"

Certain Things Taken for Granted

In presenting to you this Program I take for granted that all present acknowledge the Christian Church as a beneficent institution, essential to civilization and worthy of the support of all public-spirited citizens. And among the various communions that compose that Church, none is more responsive to appeals for patriotic and humanitarian work than the Episcopal Church.

But with most of you the Church has a far greater claim. You believe in the Church as Christ's Body. You are partakers in the Sacramental life. And in gratitude and loyalty you feel that you have a share of responsibility for the world-wide mission of the Church. You acknowledge as your chief concern in life the building up of the Kingdom of God. You regard yourselves as stewards who must some day give an account.

If these assumptions are correct all that is required of me at present is to present the facts regarding the Church's Program.

The Episcopal Church Has Been Waking Up

During the past three years the Nation-Wide Campaign has brought about a great forward movement in our communion.

Awakened interest in the mission of the Church has led to a new sense of responsibility and a greater unity and co-operation.

Improved organization has resulted in great increase in efficiency along many lines. One hundred and eighty-seven new missionaries have been placed in the field since January 1, 1920. There has been an increase in the enrollment of our Sunday Schools of 24,000 pupils and 1700 teachers.

An increase is reported in the number of candidates for the ministry and of volunteer workers in parishes.

A comparison of the first year of the Nation-Wide Campaign (1920) with the previous year shows an increase in contributions for all branches of church work amounting to $10,481,130, or 43 per cent.

This great advance made possible, the complete underwriting of the maintenance work of the domestic missionary districts.

Formerly the missionary bishops had to leave their districts and travel about to raise money for this purpose. It also made possible the doubling of the appropriation for the vital work of Religious Education.

It doubled the amount available for diocesan institutions. It resulted in a general increase in the salaries of the clergy. It reduced the debt upon the Missionary Department of the Church by $352,954.

This marked increase in church support in 1920 has been maintained throughout the triennium.

The Nation-Wide Campaign has been justified. The new organization has proved its worth. The report of the National Council to the General Convention is a great document revealing "great gifts of intellect, devotion and spirituality which have been given to the work of Christ by the men and women whose activities are there recorded."

THE CHURCH'S PROGRAM FOR 1923

The program which was unanimously adopted by both Houses of the General Convention of the Church now claims our interest.

It is a masterpiece. It was prepared by an able commission and represents the results of fourteen months of investigation and labor based upon the Church Survey of 1919. It presents us with a budget of needs. It is not only authoritative but convincing. It is divided into two parts: (1) The Budget, showing the expense of maintaining the work as now being carried on, and (2) The Priorities, showing a list of advance projects which the Church should accomplish.

The Budget calls for $4,000,000, of which $500,000 will be available from sources other than offerings. This leaves $3,500,000 to be raised.

This is approximately $500,000 more than the Church's offerings in the best year of the past triennium.

With the Priorities added, the Program calls for $6,000,000, which is $2,500,000 more than the amount raised the best year of the Nation-Wide Campaign.

The Program provides for the wiping out of the debt of $567,000 during the triennium.

THE DIOCESAN PROGRAM

If the national Church is to raise the whole $6,000,000 required to carry out her Program, each diocese must do her share and Pennsylvania's share is $470,000.

The diocese has also her own work to consider. The Budget for the maintenance of our own diocesan work for 1923 is $201,-971.

Pennsylvania is a growing diocese and has her list of new enterprises as published in the current number of the Church News, amounting to $125,596. When this amount is added to the budget for current expenses the diocesan goal for work within her borders is $327,568. This makes the entire diocesan Program for 1923 $797,568.

Incidentally the diocese like the National Church, has a deficit. The Ways and Means Committee is just now raising $100,-00 to clear up the current financial year.

THE PARISH PROGRAM

Grace Church resembles the National Church and the diocese. We, too, have our Budget and our Priorities.

If the diocese is to raise her full quota of $797,568, the parishes must bear their several shares. We are told our share is $15,-573.

Our average extra-parochial giving for the past two years (1920 and 1921) was $6650, or 42.7 per cent. of the amount now asked.

The parish has also her own work to consider. The estimated budget for our parish expenses for the year 1923 is $14,668. This includes some increases, such as $500 for the choir and care of the organ; $500 for repairs and added cost of coal and electricity. The average expenditures for parish expenses during the last two years (1920 and 1921) were $12,507.

Like the diocese and the National Church the parish has its ambitions for advance work and improvements. The Vestry and Council have approved the plan to install electric lighting in the Church, parish house and rectory. The estimated cost is $4370. Certain alterations in the parish house are urgent. No estimate is in hand. We may guess at the amount as $1000.

When we add the probable cost of these advance projects to the parish budget we get a parish goal of $20,038. The General Church and the diocese look to us for $15,-573. This would make our entire parish program for 1923 $35,573.

Again we resemble the diocese and the National Church in having a deficit on the current year now drawing to a close.

This deficit now stands at $400.

Let us suppose for the moment that we make no allowance for any advance work, eliminate all priorities and confine ourselves to maintenance only in the parish, diocese and National Church. The program would then call for:

National	$4,000,000
Diocesan	501,079
Parish	24,634

In this case we would be giving $14,668 for parish work and $9966 for extra parochial work. In order to meet this sum we should have to give an average of $50 per communicant. Of this $20 would go for missions and $30 for parish work. If we were to raise the full amount and meet all expectations we should have to give an average of $73 per communicant.

During the past two years (1920-1921) our giving has averaged per communicant $38, of which $13 has gone for missions and $25 for parish support.

THE CANVASS

The date set for the annual canvass in most parishes is November 26, but we have adopted a unique method of conducting the canvass in Grace Church.

One layman is calling personally upon all members of the congregation and distributing the pledge cards. He will return to collect these cards on or after December 1. I am therefore laying these facts and figures before you that you may the better decide the amount you will pledge for missions and for parish support during 1923.

I know you will be conscientious about it. But one thing is clearly manifest from the foregoing statements. If we are to stand loyally back of the Church's program we shall have to increase our pledges for 1923.

Even supposing thirty new contributors may be added to our list to take the place of those we have lost by death or removal. Still there will be required larger giving than heretofore.

If only we could visualize the work of love and humanity represented in the Church's Program and realize something of the relief, the blessing, the joy it will bring to countless men, women and children in many lands, we should be eager to have our full share in its support.

THOMAS S. CLINE.

Christmastide

It is always with joyous anticipation that we announce the Christmas program,

This year Christmas Eve will come on Sunday. As usual our Church School will hold its annual celebration at 4 o'clock Christmas Eve. There will be no evening service that day.

The features that have endeared this beautiful and reverent service to young and old in recent years will be repeated this year. It is hoped the Church will be filled again as last Christmas Eve. Bring the Children that their first and most enduring impressions of Christmas may be of a religious nature.

CHRISTMAS DAY

On Christmas Day (Monday) there will be three celebrations of the Holy Communion: at 6, 7.30 and 11 o'clock. Morning Prayer at 10.30. Evening Prayer will be said quietly at 8.

It will be noted that there is no special children's session on Christmas Day.

It is to be hoped that all who are old enough will attend one of the Communion Services. Those who are communicants will, of course, want to make their Christmas Communion.

There has been a falling off in the attendance at the 11 o'clock Eucharist on Christmas Day in recent years. This should not continue. The Church should be crowded for that great Christmas Service.

Those who have made their Communions at the earlier services should return to unite in the great offering of praise and to hear the message of the day. Families should come together. The Church should be half filled with children and youth. The music should be glorious, the responses hearty and joyous, the sermon short, the communions few (because of opportunities at earlier services) In short, the Christmas Eucharist should be one of the most inspiring of the whole Christian year. It should be one of the events no Churchman would want to miss. It should be planned for long in advance, and held as a sacred obligation.

Shall we make this Christmas a glorious day in Grace Church? T. S. C.

The Woman's Auxiliary and Guild

The work of the Auxiliary is going nicely, and there is sufficient variety to it to allow of a choice so that each woman may do what she likes best. The machines are always in demand; the gauze table brings to mind the days of our Red Cross war work; and wool will be supplied to any who care to knit. The Supply Bureau needs several hundred knitted garments besides the hospital supplies and articles of clothing for other institutions. Later on there will be sewing for Edward Lyman, the boy from the Consumptive Home, who has been cared for by the Social Service Committee for some time. The Auxiliary has undertaken the making of his clothes at such times as they are needed, and the work should appeal to those who bemoan the loss of the personal interest since our missionary sewing has been managed by the Supply Bureau. It is a significant fact that from 1919 to 1921, inclusive, the number of people provided for under this efficient system has been almost doubled.

If there is any one in the parish who has not subscribed to the Red Cross this year please do so at once. Mrs. Burrell or Mrs. Burk will gladly take charge of any such money.

Rummage, rummage, rummage! We are ready for it at all times. Let us know now, if you have any, and it will be collected.

Sunday Night Services

It is hoped that an ever increasing number of persons will come to appreciate the Sunday night services and form the habit of regular attendance.

The Rector is giving a series of ten-minute addresses on important issues. His general theme takes the form of a personal question, "Where do you stand?" The subjects being discussed are as follows:

Nov. 12—The Outlawry of War.
Nov. 19—Foreign Missions.
Nov. 26—Prohibition.
Dec. 3—The League of Nations.
Dec. 10—The Inspiration of the Bible.
Dec. 17—The Divinity of Christ.
Jan. 7—Socialism.
Jan. 14—Spiritualism.
Jan. 21—New Thought.
Jan. 28—Sunday Observance.

At the close of Evening Prayer Mr. Newell Robinson plays a short organ recital. The program for the month of December will be as follows:

Sunday, December 3

Suite Gothique—L.Boellman.
a. Choral.
b. Minuet Gothique.
c. Piere a Notre Dame.
d. Toccato.

Sunday, December 10

1. Chant de bonheur—E. Lemare.
2. Cantaline (by request)—Golterman.
3. Fanfare D'Orgue—H. R. Shelly.
4. Bercuse—C. Dickinson.

Sunday, December 17

The Junior Service League

The boys and girls of the League are hard at work at their Christmas preparations for some of the unfortunate children who have very little of such joy. Candy bags and stockings and sewing bags are being made by the girls for the Indian children under Mr. Baker's care, and the boys are at work on cardboard and wooden toys.

It is a very fine thing that these young people are doing, giving up their playtime to make others happy, and the letters that come in acknowledgement of their gifts show how well worth while all their work is. There is very little time left now to finish all that we want to do, so every boy and girl who will give the time is invited to come and help on Tuesday afternoons, from 3.30 to 5 o'clock.

The Program

Once in a while, but not often, there appears a piece of Church literature which is fine enough to stand alone, dispensing with special advertisements and publicity, and going entirely "on its own." There have been examples of really interesting volumes in the past among our Church publications, but it is unlikely that ever before has there been an appearance of three such good things at once.

"Program" is a good word that has not yet been overworked and through repetition rendered meaningless. The Church's General Convention has adopted a definite program of Church work for the next three years. Through the three books mentioned it is possible for every Churchman, from the stranger lost in the big city parish, to the man or woman far from any church, who sees a missionary once a month and a bishop once a year, to learn exactly what things are needed and where and why and how much they will cost.

The great thing now is to make known as widely as possible that there are such books available.

"The Program Presented," Budget Priorities, 25 cents.

The Needlework Guild of America Mount Airy Branch

The fourth annual meeting of the Mount Airy Branch of the Needlework Guild of America was held at Grace Church Parish House on October 26. Eleven hundred and ninety-three garments were exhibited. Of these, 877 were later sent to local institutions, 168 to private cases, and 148 were kept in reserve for emergency calls.

The following officers were elected: President, Mrs. William H. Sheard; vice-presidents, Mrs. William C. Burk, Mrs. Frank P. Brooke, Mrs. N. N. Peterson, Mrs. Walter Willard; secretary, Mrs. William H. Craven; assistant secretary, Mrs. Horace H. Burrell; treasurer, Mrs. George A. Henrich.

The Supply Bureau

The recent annual report of the Supply Bureau of the Church House of the Diocese of Pennsylvania presents food both for thought and action.

During the first year of the Supply Bureau, 135 Parishes sewed for Missions. Last year 165 Parishes sewed similarly, through the Bureau. Last year, twenty-two Personal Boxes, amounting in value to $3643.37, were sent through the Bureau to Missionaries, and 18,846 articles were shipped to Institutions, 4200 of which went to Institutions in the Diocese of Pennsylvania. The total values exceeded the preceding year by $2386.26.

It has been argued, and not unwisely, that the personal touch has been eliminated through the establishment of the Supply Bureau and the subsequent abolishment of the Personal Missionary Box by the Parish. In a sense one has lost the pleasure of the individual touch in these boxes, but by the new method every Missionary has received a box, adequate for his needs, and many more boxes than heretofore have been sent out. By the earlier method, some boxes were far too elaborate, while others failed to comply with the necessary requirements. In such an instance, fancy the disappointment of a Missionary and his family, coupled with the knowledge that two years must elapse between boxes.

There is still great need for individual donations of money for the Garment Work in Grace Church Work Room. The Parish allotment for this year is fifty Operating Gowns and fifty pairs of Pajamas. Some of the Operating Gowns are for the Episcopal Hospital, and some for St. Luke's Hospital, Tokio. Some of the Pajamas are for the City Mission and some for the General Mission Field.

Besides the garment work, Grace Church is asked to contribute a Catechist's suit for a Missionary in South Dakota, price $26.00, and to supply the gauze and make surgical dressings for Bishop Randall's Hospital in Lander, Wyoming. Both these branches of work afford opportunity for individual donations for those who desire to give for a specific purpose.

A real Personal Box for a real live boy, will be sent to a lad at the Home of the Good Shepherd at Rosemont. He is 13 years old and was baptized at Grace Church at the conclusion of his cure at the Home for Consumptives. Clothing in good condition, as well as money for shoes, will be well placed in this box.

Come to the Work Room on Thursdays. Bring a clean apron with you. It will save your clothes, and sanitary precautions must be observed in the Surgical Dressings Department. Come and see the work in process. You will not only observe that the personal touch is still present, but you will become inspired to take a personal interest in the production of the season's allotment. A cordial welcome awaits you. S. S. B.

Clothing for St. Andrew's School

Will everybody please have a look into clothespresses and try to find spare clothing for boys of from 7 to 17 to send to St. Andrew's School in the mountains of Tennessee?

Anything that would partly or wholly outfit boys or young men; suits, or parts of them, hats, caps, shoes, shirts, collars, woolen socks or stockings, bedding. The superintendent of the School adds: "As you know, any old clothes that you may send, women's as well as men's and boys', are of benefit to us—we trade them with the mountain people for their produce."

Please send things to the parish house as soon as possible, marked "For St. Andrew's School."

The Dedication Festival

The festival opened on All Saints' Day with an early and a late celebration of the Holy Communion, with a sermon and the commemoration of members of the parish who have died in the past twelve months.

This year the purely social affairs were omitted from the week's program to allow more time for educational meetings. In view of the fact that the National Canvass was about to be undertaken, the parish meeting on Wednesday evening was devoted to two important subjects, the Church budget for the next three years, and a message from the recent General Convention. Both Mr. Barba and Mr. Earle were interesting and instructive speakers and those who heard Mr. Barba explain so clearly the program of the Church for the coming triennium will be able to pledge for their weekly offerings much more intelligently, and perhaps more generously, than they otherwise would.

The women's special part in the week's plans was the meeting on Thursday morning. Miss Dean was present, and she told a great many splendid things about the Co-operative Shop, and the numerous lines of service that extend through the diocese from the shop as headquarters.

Mrs. Taylor spoke of the Cathedral League, the importance of building up a large membership and of spreading abroad information in regard to it. The rector conducted the noon-day prayers and the guests remained for the luncheon which followed.

Sunday was a day full of inspiration. It began with the celebration of two corporate communions for the entire parish, and a timely sermon by the rector, whose subject was, "The Feast of Fellowship," and the text from I John, 1-3. The day closed with a beautiful service in the evening, at which Dr. John W. Wood spoke of the supreme importance of increasing prayer in connection with our missionary endeavors.

A splendid service of the American Guild of Organists, on Tuesday, brought Festival Week to an end. The Rev. Clarence W. Bispham spoke at that meeting of the uplifting power of beautiful music and the great necessity for it in the churches. The musical selections were lovely and the singing of the combined choirs of St. Luke's, Germantown, and Grace Church, under the direction of Newell Robinson, was most enjoyable.

The Young People's Society

As the Y. P. S. is now a parish institution, it merits support from all the young people. The attendance is good, but it should be much better. If those who have not as yet taken an active interest in the meetings, will just come once, we are sure their presence may be counted on as a regular thing.

Every one knows the stimulus arising from the concerted action of large numbers —we need just that.

A feature of the meetings, aside from the devotional services, is the addresses provided for in our general plan. We have frequently most timely talks by the rector. Dr. Crouter told us the other night of many interesting things about the deaf. During the Dedication Week, the Rev. Thomas R. Hazzard, here from a three-year service in the missionary field of Africa, gave us a most vivid account of his experiences there, and brought with him for inspection many curious souvenirs and implements of the natives of that country.

Addresses by good speakers may be expected throughout the winter.

Come next Sunday evening—7 o'clock is the time. A. L. E. C., JR.

Troop 67

Boy Scouts of America, meets every Monday evening at 7.30 in the parish house of Grace Church.

Thanksgiving Day has just passed. The day set aside by our President for all people of all creeds to give thanks, for as the psalmist has said, "It is a good thing to give thanks unto our God, yea a joyful thing it is to be thankful." And on the third day after the Christian world looks forward—on the first Sunday in Advent—to a new year.

Begin the Church Year Right

December 3 is the First Sunday in Advent—the beginning of the Church year. What could be more appropriate than to come before the altar and in the Holy Communion dedicate afresh your "soul and body?"

Our Rector has gladly issued a call to the confirmed men and boys of Grace Church to receive corporately on this First Sunday in Advent at the 7.30 service. May there be a ready and devout response to this worthy idea.

"Manual of Prayers" and "Church Calendar"

The national organization of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew has issued a new edition of the Manual of Prayers and Church Calendar, which they published for the first time this last year. The Calendar is, of course, revised to agree with the new Church year. The daily Bible readings are a second course, based this year on the Gospels in the Prayer Book.

The Educational Secretary takes advantage of this opportunity to announce that she has a quantity of fine Christmas Cards for sale, and will be glad to show them to any who may wish to see them. Many are Mowbray's cards from England; they are dignified, churchly and beautiful. Also, they are very reasonable in price—five to ten cents.

Another assortment is from the West—cheerful, bright and pretty—very reasonable in price, too.

Will the parishioners consider buying their cards this way, thereby saving themselves a tiresome trip to town and a wearying search in selecting and buying? This plan brings in a good percentage for missionary work.

Missionary Educational Secretary,

E. S. HAYES.

Memories of Christmastide

CHRISTMAS EVE

The Sunday on the eve of Christmas proved a blessing by affording opportunity for spiritual preparation for the great Day.

The Rector used the Sunday morning service as a preparation for Christmas Communion.

The Christmas Eve service, under the auspices of the Church School, was held at 4 o'clock. The Church was well filled. This service has come to be a community affair. Everybody loves it—most of all the children. After a word of welcome the Rector interpreted the service somewhat as follows:

We begin our Christmas festivities by an act of worship. We forget the busy world outside and we think only of the Holy Child.

Many customs, ancient and modern, are associated with Christmas—the candles, the yule log, the holly and mistletoe, the sparkling tree, the mysterious presents, the feasting and merrymaking, the friendliness and comradeship; but what makes Christmas? Is it not the remembrance of the birth of our Saviour, Jesus Christ? To keep Christmas we must, first of all, bow down and worship our Blessed Lord.

The keynote of this service was sounded in the joyous hymn with which we entered the Church, "O Come, Let Us Adore Him, Christ the Lord."

We came bearing gifts in the shape of stockings which will be sent to the children of St. John's Settlement House, Northern Liberties. We believe, as our Lord Himself has taught us, that "it is more blessed to give than to receive."

Presently we shall listen to the reading of the sacred story of Jesus' birth as recorded in the Holy Gospel.

We shall chant the song of blessed Mary, the Virgin Mother. We shall rehearse our belief in Jesus Christ, God's only Son, our Lord, "Who was conceived by the Holy Ghost, born of the Virgin Mary."

We shall sing the reverent carols, some of them centuries old, which tell so quaintly the sweet old story of the joy of the Angels, the wonder of the Shepherds, the adoration of the Wise Men, the dawn of a New Light upon the world.

But we are not here simply to sing of the worship of others; we are here to bow down ourselves and worship the Prince of Peace.

We shall make our acts of Thanksgiving, Adoration and Welcome to the Holy Child. And as the darkness covers us we shall sing softly "Silent Night, Holy Night."

Before we are dismissed we shall make a pilgrimage to Bethlehem as did the ancient Kings of Orient.

Do you see how everything leads directly to our Lord? The Angels announce Him and then vanish. The Star shines only to cast its bright beams upon Him. The Shepherds, the Wise Men think only of Him. Even Joseph and Mary keep in the background.

Our thoughts center upon Jesus only. "O come, let us adore Him, Christ the Lord."

The service was a true unfoldment of this prediction.

The following carols were sung:
"O Little Town of Bethlehem."
"Good King Wenceslaus."
"All My Heart This Night Rejoices."
"Holy Night."
"We Three Kings of Orient."
"The First Nowell."

The little children sang "Away in a Manger."

Cantique Nöel was sung as a solo by Norman Shermer, with a violin obligato by Albert Zinger.

CHRISTMAS DAY

The majority of Communicants made their Christmas Communions at one or another of the early services. The attendance at the 11 o'clock service was sadly depleted as a consequence. The Rev. W. C. Emhardt was celebrant at the 7.30 service and assisted at the late service. The Rector preached upon the text, S. John 3:16, "God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son," announcing as his theme "The Heart of Christmas."

The musical program was as follows:
Prelude—Pastoral Symphony from the Messiah .....Handel
Festal Procession—Adeste Fideles.
Anthem—Nazareth ..... Gounod
Communion Service in E, Horatio W. Parker
Anthem—Sing O Heavens.....Tours
Postlude—Hosanna ..... Dubois

The Christmas offering, including that for the Christmas Fund and that for the Church Pension Fund, amounted to $261.14.

The children of the Primary and Beginners' Departments of the Church School held their Christmas party on Wednesday afternoon, December 27 (S. John's Day), and had a beautiful time.

The Rector's Letter

My dear Friends:

Another Christmastide passes into history. It has brought us great joy. Has it left any permanent effect upon our spiritual life?

Christmas has a bearing on personal religion. Christ was born in the flesh that we might be born in the Spirit. Christ became Son of Man that we might become sons of God. Therefore, the Christmas Feast celebrates not only the Nativity of our Lord, but our own new-birth in Holy Baptism. Its faithful observance should stimulate in us a greater desire for growth in grace. As the Christ-Child grew to manhood in His new and human nature, so we who have been born again must daily grow in our divine nature by the renewing of the Holy Sprit.

Throughout the new year just beginning let us keep alive the Christmas aspiration as expressed in the Christmas Collect, "Grant that we, being regenerate, and made Thy children by adoption and grace, may daily be renewed by Thy Holy Spirit."

In the degree in which we realize the answer to this prayer will our corporate life in Grace Church grow more fruitful. I believe the year 1923 should be marked by more aggressive work than its predecessor. New plans are being perfected which will be presented to you soon. They will challenge the loyal co-operation of all parishioners.

They will encourage spiritual progress in the individual member and afford opportunities for united service.

Let us perpetuate the Christmas spirit throughout the new year.

Yours faithfully, THOMAS S. CLINE.
S. Stephen's Day, 1922.

The Young People's Society

The Christmas Party of the Y. P. S., on Saturday evening, December 23, was largely attended and a most successful affair. It was doubly enjoyable because of the presence of a considerable number of members home for the holidays.

The Church School room was tastefully decorated and the dance program all that could be desired.

Special Missionary Offering

On the Sunday before Christmas the Rector announced that a special offering for Missions would be made on Sunday, December 31.

He said the Bishop Suffragan had urged the Clergy to make every effort to enable the Diocese to raise $50,000 necessary to clear up Pennsylvania's quota for Missions by the end of the year.

Our Church has learned to depend upon this Diocese for large missionary gifts, and we must not fail them. Unless this money is raised, the National Council must borrow to pay the salaries of our Missionaries.

The Rector said that other parishes were making a special effort to raise this money, and urged that Grace Church keep faith with them by doing her share.

During the first eleven months of 1921 Grace Church contributed $5580.37 to Missions. During the same period of 1922 the amount given was $4804.58. Our apportionment for the year was $9113.78.

At this writing the special offering on the last day of the year has not been made—nor have we the data as to the contributions for Missions through the envelopes during December.

It is hoped Grace Church will not fall below last year's achievement.

Any who have not contributed toward this deficit in the Diocesan Missionary quota may send gifts to the Accounting Warden, Mr. J. W. Bayard, 105 East Johnson street, Germantown.

The Woman's Social Service Committee

Any case of distress or need in the parish should be reported to one of the members of The Woman's Social Service Committee, or to the Chairman, Mrs. Frank J. Sheble, Roumfort Road, Mount Airy.

The Annual Canvass

The Annual Canvass resulted in pledges from about 275 persons:

For Parish Support.....$11,450.86
For Missions, 1923..... 3,916.78

We have therefore a little more than made good our losses by death and removal during the year.

The amount actually given through envelopes and pledges during 1922 being:

For Parish Purposes.....$10,322.36
For Missions 3,771.55

The Junior Service League

When the work of the children in the Junior League is mentioned people sometimes ask, "Can those children do anything that is really worth while?" They not only can, but they do splendid work, as will be seen by what follows:

Even though the League meetings began rather late in the fall, the interest and enthusiasm of the children have accomplished a great deal. One box was sent to the Rev. Charles W. Baker, Orleans, California, who is a Missionary to the Karock Indians. It contained twenty post-card albums, made of colored cambric; 120 candy bags, done by the girls; and several fine wooden animal toys which the boys manufactured with penknives and saws; a check for $10 was sent to buy candy to fill the bags, also twelve pretty Christmas calendars and fifty Christmas cards, with tags and seals.

Another box went to the Rev. J. E. King, Charlotte, N. C., and in it were eleven sewing bags, each containing needles, scissors, black and white thread, thimble, emery and tape line. The bags were all made by the older girls and were most attractive. Eleven colored linen handkerchiefs, red and green paper, tags, seals and ribbon, were also sent. These two boxes constituted the contribution of the League to missionary work in our nation. For that in the diocese and the community, the children sent a bag of candy and an orange to each boy and girl in the Chestnut Hill Home for Consumptives; and for the older people there were flowers, and sixteen small baskets of fruit, prettily arranged with bright paper and holly, were sent by the Junior and Senior Leagues combined. A large basket of fruit and a box of candy made by the older girls went to the House of Rest, Germantown.

Among the articles made by our boys were a number of toy boats with masts and sails, and these were given to Deaconess Norris at St. Agnes House, Kensington, to distribute to some of the children that she looks after in that neighborhood.

Work of this kind is certainly well worth while, and it involves a good deal of sacrifice on the part of our boys and girls. Joan Kraus and Robert Shertz were present at every meeting of the League, and Betty Martindale and Billy Watts were absent only once.

Notes

The Rev. Lloyd Mellor Smith, formerly of Grace Church, was ordained to the Priesthood by the Rt. Rev. Thomas J. Garland, D.D., in St. Mary's Church, West Philadelphia, on Sunday, December 24.

Mr. Smith has the prayers and best wishes of the people of Grace Church as he enters upon his Priesthood.

Mr. Newell Robinson is about to complete his first year as Choirmaster and Organist of Grace Church. He has achieved marked success and has brought the music of the Church to a high point of excellence in so short a time. The spirit of the choir was never better. The organ recitals which Mr. Robinson has been playing Sunday nights have been deeply appreciated.

Troup 67, Boy Scouts of America

To every Brother Scout, a Happy New Year!

To every boy of Scout age, a Happy New Year and an invitation to "join up" with the Biggest Boy's Club on Earth!

To everybody, a Happy New Year and a hope that all parents of boys—whether they be of Scout age or not, will acquaint themselves with the advantage to the boy to be had in Scouting.

We have at present eight boys: T. Moths, H. W. Derrickson, W. R. Graham, W. M. Insinger, H. A. Insinger, W. C. Martindale, N. Walton and R. W. Woodland, and each one of them is trying hard to put Troop 67 on the honor roll of a "Full Troop" by January 15. So they are asking everybody's help to reach their goal of thirty-two boys by that date. And, oh, yes: there is the Fathers and Sons' Dinner on January 11—don't forget the date.

Willing Workers

There are always some willing hands to serve the Church, in times of need, even at inconvenience. The decorating of the Church with Christmas greens is no small task, and, of course, it usually has to be done at a time when everyone has a countless number of things which he should or could do. The young men who gladly did this work, and the young women who, with equal readiness, gave of their busy hours to trim the Christmas tree, have the grateful thanks of all those of us who are privileged to enjoy the festal decorations of Grace Church. Other than this, much has been done by still other devoted workers,—for the Church, for the poor, the sick, and the—we almost said "friendless." Thank God they are not now the latter. Blessings come to those who serve. May they continually increase in numbers.

For Family Devotions

The Manual of Prayers and Church Calendar for use in the home in family devotions is on sale in Grace parish. They may be had from any member of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew for 50 cents the set.

This is one of the three calendars with daily Bible reading courses recommended by the Rector in a recent sermon. It is published with the approval of the National Council, a Commission of which furnished the Brotherhood with the Bible readings.

It would be a spiritual blessing to the Church if many homes would adopt this beautiful and helpful custom.

The Woman's Auxiliary and Guild

During the busy weeks immediately preceding and following Christmas it was thought wise for the Auxiliary to lay aside its regular work in order to give time for that which belongs particularly to the season, so two meetings were omitted. Sewing will be resumed the first Thursday in January, however, and the Auxiliary extends to the women of the parish a hearty invitation to be present on that day.

A Happy New Year to all.

Epiphany

Between Advent and Lent, the great penitential times; between Christmas and Easter, our most joyful seasons, fall the calm weeks of the Epiphany, ushered in by that radiant star that led the first of the Gentiles to the world's Saviour. The inimitable story is told in the Gospel for the "Epiphany, or the Manifestation of Christ to the Gentiles." All we know about "the Wise Men" we learn from the Evangelist.

In the most straightforward way the Evangelist relates how that, when "Jesus was born in Bethlehem of Judea, in the days of Herod the King, behold there came wise men from the East to Jerusalem, saying, Where is He that is born King of the Jews? for we have seen His star in the East and are come to worship Him."

It is a very simple story, but fancy has been free in trying to establish it. A great mass of poetic and legendary tales has grown up around the Gospel record. As undisguised fancies or mere legends they are harmless, and many of them are beautiful. An old tradition tells us that the Wise Men were three Oriental kings, named Melchoir, Caspar and Beltasor. In the peerless cathedral of Cologne, a verger will, for a sufficient consideration, show you three old bejeweled skulls, which, he has the temerity to tell you, are the skulls of those very men who came "from the East to Jerusalem, saying, Where is He that is born King of the Jews?" A late well-known clergyman skillfully reproduced the legendary story in the familiar Christmas carol that greatly appeals to the imagination of our children:

"We three kings of Orient are,
Bearing gifts we traverse afar,
Field and fountain,
Moor and mountain,
Following yonder star."

The author of "Ben Hur" effectively reproduces the old story in his great work, and the Rev. Dr. Van Dyke adds to the legend an exquisite tale entitled, "The Other Wise Man." Indeed, so much that is imaginative and interesting, too, in its way, has been written about the Wise Men, that we need to bear in mind that all we really know about them and their holy quest is told us by the Evangelist.

It is enough to know that their worship of the Holy Child was prophetic of the ingathering of the Gentiles; and we may reasonably infer that their royal gifts were a provision for the necessities of the Holy Family during their sojourn in Egypt until the death of Herod made it safe to return to the Holy Land.

As to incidents of the flight into Egypt, and its duration, we know nothing. A gifted artist, Oliver-Merson, in his "Rest in Egypt," portrays on canvas a truth that could hardly be so effectively preached in any other way. The Holy Family are at last beyond

"The brook that parts Egypt from Syrian ground;"

are at rest in Egypt. Anxiety is at an end. They sleep. It is eventide. The interminable desert stretches off into the gloom. In the fore-front there is a great Sphinx. Its stony, wistful eyes look out over the sands in sad, baffled inquiry, but they gaze on as if hoping against hope to penetrate the awful shades. St. Joseph, in true Oriental fashion, wrapped in his abba, lies fast asleep on the sand, while in the very arms of the Sphinx, and just beneath its fixed, far-looking eyes, the Holy Child sleeps peacefully in the arms of the Virgin. It is a very personification of rest, protection, peace, the peace of God. The meaning is manifest. The weary eyes and parted lips of the Sphinx seem to say: "Oh, for light! for some star of hope; some one clear ray of light upon that darkness; for some satisfying solution of the awful mystery of life; for some adequate knowledge of man's origin, duty and destiny; for some true knowledge of God, and of what we ought to be and do to inherit eternal life and peace." This had been the importunate cry of the ages, an unsatisfied cry until Christ came, the Desire of all nations. The Holy Child was God's answer to that cry. He is the Light of the world who dispels its darkness, a Light to lighten the Gentiles as well as the Glory of His people Israel.

—Rev. G. W. Snyder.

THE COMMUNICANTS' GUILD

The Lapsed—One of the greatest handicaps the Church has is "the Lapsed." If all who received Confirmation became steadfast and faithful Communicants, the Church would grow by leaps and bounds. But some fall into carelessness and neglect. They make a good beginning, but they do not persevere.

The Guild—Realizing this tendency, Mr. Cline, soon after he became Rector of Grace Church, organized a Guild for the newly Confirmed. The purpose of this Guild was to strengthen the ties that bind the Communicant to the Church, to encourage growth in grace by regular Communions and active participation in the work and fellowship of the Church.

A Decade—This Guild has now been in existence for ten years and, though it has not been very active, it has rallied its members once or twice a year for a pastoral talk and a corporate communion. It has been a reminder of the spiritual bond which unites all Communicants in Christ.

A Change—At the annual meeting last Spring it was decided to alter the form of the Guild and to make it more effective in the future. Seeing that the Guild is chiefly concerned with the newly Confirmed its active membership will hereafter be composed of those who have been confirmed during the past three years.

Associate Members—Members of more than three years' standing become Associate Members. It is hoped their interest in the Guild will be permanent and that they will attend the Annual Meeting and Corporate Communion.

Pastoral Instructions—For the active members the Rector will give each year a course of Pastoral Instructions bearing upon the duties and privileges of Communicants. While these Instructions will be open to all, it is especially hoped that the active members will attend them. The Course will cover a three-year cycle.

THIS YEAR'S PROGRAM

For the present year the Rector is giving a Course of Pastoral Instructions on Sunday afternoons at 4 o'clock, in the Guild Room, on "Things Every Churchman Ought to Know."

These instructions began December 10, and will continue until January 21.

The Rector's Letter

My dear Friends:

How many of you will join me in earnest prayer and effort toward a deep and widespread spiritual awakening in the Church?

The coming of Lent, with its emphasis upon personal religion affords us a special opportunity.

Let all loyal Christians renew the good fight of faith, putting aside even allowable pleasures and reducing life to its simplest terms in order the better to serve God and man.

Lent should stimulate true religion among us as a parochial mission is intended to do.

Bishop Rhinelander in a recent letter to the rector of a parish about to undertake a mission, speaks in terms which apply equally well to the Lenten season. In quoting him I shall take the liberty of substituting the word "Lent" for "Mission."

> "Your people these days require spiritual intensity and concentration; not superficial zeal among the many, but deep and enlightened devotion in the few anchors that hold; sails that catch the wind; pilots that steer not only congregations, but homes and social groups.
> "Your people, through a well-kept Lent, may leaven a large lump, with wisdom, courage and, above all, by faithful obedience to the Holy Spirit in the Church. The leadership, not of word, but of example, is within their reach, in their community and diocese.
> "It will go far if faith goes deep."

In my last parish letter I said new plans were being worked out which would challenge the loyal co-operation of every parishioner. I had hoped to feature those plans in this issue of the Parish News. But the necessary leadership is not available at present. Nevertheless, Lent is coming, and Lent will "challenge the loyal co-operation of every parishioner."

There will be special services for children and young people. There will be frequent opportunities on Sundays and week days for increased devotions.

The Mission Study Class, which has proved a great spiritual help in past years, will be continued.

As during the past two Lenten seasons, emphasis will be laid upon the Sunday night services. Many who are deprived of attending the week-day services will be eager to make the most of the Sundays in Lent.

Here is an opportunity to show your loyalty not only by the example of your regular attendance, but by bringing others to the House of Prayer.

Faithfully yours in Christ,

Thomas S. Cline.

St. Paul's Day.

Troop 67, Boy Scouts of America

The Eagle Patrol has the lead in the race for full membership, they having secured three new boys in one week. Keep up the good work, boys!

We want to thank the ladies for the pleasant evening on the fifteenth of January, also Mr. Betz, Mr. Bodine and, last, but not least, our committee.

We almost forgot to thank Scout Bodine for running the lantern for us—Robert, we hope we can do your troop a good turn some day!

The Rector's Tenth Anniversary

The Rev. Thomas S. Cline was instituted Rector of Grace Church by the Bishop of Pennsylvania on March 1, 1913.

The tenth anniversary of his institution will be marked by a special service Thursday evening, March 1st.

The special preacher will be the Rev. Gilbert E. Pember, Rector of St. Michael's Church, Germantown.

A year ago Bishop Rhinelander kindly promised to be present and preach on that occasion, but his absence from the diocese has made that impossible.

Mr. Pember is a happy choice not only because he is a neighbor, having come to Germantown soon after Mr. Cline, but because he has been a personal friend of the rector's since their student days at Berkeley Divinity School.

Seeing that March 1st comes during Lent the social part of the anniversary will be held on Shrove Tuesday.

The rector and Mrs. Cline will be at home to receive parishioners and friends on Shrove Tuesday, February 13th, from 4 to 6 and from 8 to 10.

The Mt. Airy School Association

One of the most important community movements for years is the organization of a School Association.

This organization not only aims to promote the building of a new school building that the present deplorable conditions may be remedied, but to interest the parents more vitally in the educational work of the community.

The opening of a Kindergarten in the Lovett Memorial Library is an excellent beginning. A member of the Board of Education, upon hearing of these activities, recently remarked: "Mount Airy shows great enthusiasm. I wonder if it will last?"

It is to be hoped Mount Airy will demonstrate that this interest is permanent.

Mission Study Class Notes

The Mission Study Classes will begin on the second Thursday in Lent—February 22—at 3 P. M., in the parish house of Grace Church.

Subject this year: The American Mission of the Church. A Study of the Foreign-born in this Country.

What is the Church doing? What can we do to bring Christian and American ideals to these strangers who are crowding into our country with an overwhelming influence of which we are probably unaware?

Thirty-five million people in this country are foreign born—one-third of our population! More are coming.

Let us study this problem together during Lent and learn how we may help transform this element into fellow-citizens of the Church and of the country. Mrs. Hayes will be glad to receive names of those expecting to come into the class. That information would be of great assistance in ordering books and assignments.

E. S. HAYES,
Educational Secretary.

Coal Economy

The recent coal shortage has been so serious that many poor people have been unable to obtain coal at all.

In order to release as much fuel as possible for the use of those in urgent need, many churches have omitted week-day services and meetings as far as possible.

Grace Church has joined in this movement and so economized somewhat on coal.

The week-day services and meetings will be resumed during Lent.

The Protestant Episcopal Prayer Book Society

Annual subscriptions for the Protestant Episcopal Prayer Book Society of $1 and up will be received and forwarded by Mrs. Lowber.

The Woman's Auxiliary and Guild

The rummage sale has been postponed until after Easter. A date early in February had been selected for the sale, but illness is so widespread just now that there are few families not affected, so, taking into account the contagion of the diseases of children and the prevalence of colds and grip, it was decided to wait for a more propitious season. Lent brings other demands; the time is needed for devotional purposes, extra church services, mission study classes, sewing and the like. It is hoped, therefore, that on Thursday, the 12th of April, a whole army of women will be ready and willing to do their part in making the sale a real success—the best ever.

In the meantime miss no opportunity to accumulate rummage, as much as can be found; ask neighbors and friends, whether they are church people or not; they may have something they would like to give away.

Commencing February 15th the sewing meetings of the Auxiliary will be resumed and the women are asked to stay for lunch. Let us plan our household affairs so that we may be free to devote Thursdays to missions. Heaven knows there is need of an interest in the subject.

Massed Scout Service Germantown Theatre

In celebration of Scout Anniversary Week, there will be a massed Scout Service at 4.30 p. m., Sunday, February 11, 1923, at the Germantown Theatre, which will be donated free of charge for this purpose. All scouts, their parents and friends in the congregation are cordially invited to be present, assembling at 4.15 at the theatre, as the service will start promptly at 4.30. The speaker will be Rev. Carter Helm Jones, D.D.; the song leader, Rev. H. F. Wilkie, and the organist, Mr. Karl Bonawitz, the organist of the Germantown Theatre.

The Church Periodical Club

It may be of some interest to those who contributed to the fund for new books for St. Paul's College, Tokyo, Japan, to know that the $15,000 required was oversubscribed.

Dr. Reifsnider, the head of the university, sent his thanks and said: "The cablegram containing the news of the amount raised reached me the day of our celebration of the new license making St. Paul's College a university. It was a fitting climax to a great day. The number of those contributing to its successful conclusion, the missionary enthusiasm and interest shown, the sacrificing spirit evidenced in so many of the gifts—all go to make up one of the greatest missionary endeavors the church has undertaken. We are deeply grateful." As you know, we contributed $121.25 to this fund.

Our objective for 1923 is to help the Boone Library in Wuchang, China, which has been for years under the wise leadership of Miss Wood. They have about 10,000 books and need another 15,000 if the Boone Library is to maintain its prestige among the University Libraries of China. The government universities are beginning to buy books in quantities, but it is Miss Wood at Boone who trains all the librarians for these new libraries, thus keeping the lead in this respect. It must not fall behind in the relative size of its library. It especially needs reference books of all kinds. They need standard works in chemistry, sociology, history, manufacturing and biography. Miss Wood sends out circulating libraries, so second-hand books in good condition and of recent publication can be sent her."

Will you not help in this missionary enterprise? Please send your contributions to the librarian, and also the names of any books you can give, and she will submit the list to the head correspondent.

Bishop Roots calls the intellectual awakening in China the Chinese Renaissance, and writes there is a great opportunity for the Church now to send good literature to China in order to supplant the flood of evil propaganda sent out by the Bolshevists, Buddhists and Confucianists.

During the year the current periodicals sent regularly were	42
Donors of above magazines	25
Bibles and Testaments	12
Prayer books and hymnals	15
Books theological and secular	50
Odd magazines	1000
Boxes of magazines not counted	3
Christmas and Easter cards	100
Music sheets and books	100
Number of institutions in Diocese helped	9

This is a fair showing, but the librarian hopes for more members who will send a magazine regularly each month to a special recipient.

M. W. BAYARD,
Librarian.

Organ Recital

The present series of Organ Recitals following Evening Prayer Sunday evenings will close on Sexagesima Sunday evening, February 4.

The recital that evening will be played by Mr. Fred Smith, Organist of the Church of the New Jerusalem, Wilmington, Del. Mr. Smith is a composer of note and the three numbers on Sunday night's program will be of his own composition. They will be as follows:

Festal Prelude.
Chanson Graciens.
"Adagio" Sonate in A minor.

On Quinquagesima Sunday, February 11, both the Rector and the Organist of Grace Church will be participating in the Service of the American Guild of Organists at Calvary Church, Germantown.

The Rev. James Brownlee, Curate of Calvary Church, will be the preacher that evening in Grace Church.

Mr. Robinson will play another series of organ recitals after Easter.

Family Sunday

Last year the rector of Grace Church designated Mid-Lent Sunday as Family Sunday and invited all the families of the parish to attend divine worship and to sit together as families.

The response was general and enthusiastic. The church was filled. Parents brought their children, even including the babies, and sat together as families. The rector preached on "Family Affection." Altogether it proved one of the most helpful and inspiring services of the year. Many expressed the wish that it might become an annual custom in Grace Church.

The rector announces that Mid-Lent Sunday will be observed as Family Sunday again this year. We mention it in advance that all may look forward to it and plan to make it a great success.

Mid-Lent Sunday—the fourth Sunday in Lent—will come on March 11th this year. The hour of the special Family Service will be 11 o'clock. It is to be hoped that our second observance of this excellent custom will surpass the first.

The Program Presented

"The Program Presented" is the title of an interesting book published by the National Council and suited for general reading.

It is a bird'seye-view of what the Church is doing and should be doing in the realms of Missions, Religious Education and Social Service.

This information would make parishioners more intelligent members of the Kingdom of God, and furnish them with a reason for the faith that is in them.

Picture of House of Bishops

A framed picture of the House of Bishops, assembled at Richmond, Va., October, 1859, was recently presented to Grace Church by Mrs. S. M. Meehan, and has been hung in the Guild Room.

This picture is a rare one, as the plates from which it was made were destroyed by fire and only six copies have been preserved.

Bishop Brownell, then presiding Bishop, sits in the center.

The others in the picture are Bishops Smith, Scott, Davis, Hopkins, Hawks, Kemper, Otey, Whitehouse, Mead, Lee, Eastman, Polk, Alonzo Potter, Lay, Chase, Boone Rutledge, H. W. Lee, Kip, Williams, Cobbs, Horatio Potter, Whittingham, McCoskry, McIlvaine, Green, Bedell, Atkinson, Elliot, Burgess, Talbot, Upfold, Odenheimer, Whipple, Payne, Johns, Clark, Bowman, De Lancey and Gregg.

The Choir Dinner

On Monday evening, January 29, the men of Grace Church tendered a dinner to Mr. Newell Robinson, organist and choirmaster, and the men of the Choir, in recognition and appreciation of the exceptionally fine music now heard at our Church as a result of their ability and effort.

An interesting program was arranged, and a representative gathering of the men of the Church were present on this occasion to greet the guests of honor.

Blind Churchmen Aided

It must be impossible for any but the blind people themselves to realize what it means to receive copies of parts of the Bible and the Prayer Book services in Braille, but all of us should know that our Church prepares such material for their use.

The Committee on Literature for the Blind, through its secretary, Mrs. W. J. Loaring Clark, reported at the last meeting of the Department of Missions that 160 copies of the Service of Holy Communion in revised Braille have been distributed and that many letters of grateful appreciation have been received.

The Chief Librarian of the Canadian National Institution for the Blind writes: "These volumes are of special value to us, as there are numerous requests for portions of the Book of Common Prayer and other peculiarly Anglican works. Through your generosity you are conferring a benefit on the whole of Canada."

A New Jersey communicant says: "To think they are mine to keep and read at times when it suits me! I love the books."

A clergyman in Wisconsin says: "The two sets of books for my blind people have arrived and are in their homes. That the books have made them very happy is but a weak way to tell of their delight."

Your Committee recommends that other parts of the Book of Common Prayer be embossed and distributed amongst the blind at once, and within the appropriation.

There are seventy-two public institutions for the blind in this country; eight of these have departments for colored children; twelve cities have departments for educating blind children in connection with the public schools, and five institutions care for the adult blind.

Bishop Tuttle's Youth

"How old," asked an editorial in an Oregon daily paper just before General Convention, "how old is Bishop Tuttle? The record makes him eighty-five, but that has nothing to do with it. That is merely the tale of years credited to his account. The problem of his age must be solved by the application of entirely different principles. For instance, is Bishop Tuttle given to reminiscence? Absolutely not. 'It is not my way to look back,' he says. . . . Is he despondent as to present-day moral tendencies, and does he deplore modern falling off from higher and better standards of years gone by? Emphatically no. . . . Here are two established tests of old age which Bishop Tuttle fails to meet. . . .

"Evidently he is somewhere between twenty and thirty years of age. He meets the characteristics of that period of life as set forth in McGuffey's High School Reader. 'In the first thirty years of a man's life,' says a selection in that invaluable work of reference, 'he is healthy and happy.' Bishop Tuttle is healthy and happy. 'He labors cheerfully,' says McGuffey, 'and rejoices in his existence.' Bishop Tuttle labors cheerfully and not only rejoices in his existence, but makes others rejoice in it and fervently hope that it may be greatly prolonged.

"As a compromise figure, the statement is ventured that Bishop Tuttle is just about twenty-seven years old."

Junior Service League

The meetings of the Junior Service League have been discontinued until further notice.

Remarks from the Children

Last year the rector of St. Mark's Church, Fall River, Mass., "questionnaired" his Church school children, calling for letters from them answering three questions: Why do you give money in your "might" boxes? How do you want your money spent? Who is your favorite missionary bishop, and why?

Writes a small boy: "My favorite bishop is Bishop Roe, because he teaches the Eskimos to believe in the Gospel."

A girl of 8 ended her letter trustfully with: "Now, Mr. Findlay, you said we had to tell you what we wanted our money to go for. I don't just know, but you do what you think best with it."

A boy of 12: "My favorite missionary bishop is Bishop Roots. He teaches the Chinese people not to worship idols, but to believe in God. I would like my money spent to educate the idol-worshipping Chinese. We put our money in the mite boxes to pay for the expenses of teaching uncivilized people."

Observations from Brazil

"I hope," writes Dr. James W. Morris cheerfully from our theological seminary in Brazil, to The Southern Churchman, "I hope the General Convention left us some remnants of the Prayer Book. I tremble for fear their work may be described in the words of Amos, 'As the shepherd rescueth out of the mouth of the lion two legs, or the piece of an ear.'"

Dr. Morris has been exploring book stores. He didn't find what he was looking for, but he found "some Roman books of controversy. They are great fun in many respects, and what they tell of the besotted wickedness of Luther, Calvin and our Saint (as he is called) Henry VIII, is a plenty.

"I asked the nice man in this store to sell me a Bible. He was sorry, but he had no copy in the house. He had written frequently to Rio for Bibles; but he could get none. And yet he had frequent requests for Bibles. I wanted to know why he couldn't get the books. He declared that they didn't exist; authorized copies of the Bible were not in print. He assured me that our Bibles would not do, as they were not authorized. And so, only the Bible authorized by the Roman Church can be bought by good Romanists, and there is no available supply of such Bibles.

"But things are moving. In our principal morning paper there is published each Sunday the Gospel for the day in Portuguese, accompanied by a nice little comment. And it is said that the Pope has authorized a copy of the Gospels and Acts in Italian. And so pressure is beginning to tell."

Intercession

The hours from 10 to 4 on Fridays are observed in a New York church as a time of continual intercession, beginning with a celebration at 10 and including the Litany at noon. Various members of the congregation come in to pray for whatever time they find possible, each one being responsible for the same definite period each week.

Subjects for intercession are supplied, on typewritten sheets. The Litany is prefaced by any special prayers for which request may have been made. These special intercessions at present include each week a group of the priorities as listed in the program.

Moses' Little Friend

Little five-year-old Ernest, who lives at St. Mary's Home, Honolulu, is especially devoted to Moses. He wants to know when Moses' birthday was, so he can keep the day. He says: "We keep Washington's birthday, so we ought to keep Moses'."—Hawaiian Church Chronicle.

SOCIAL SERVICE

The program and policy of the Department of Christian Social Service, though stated in general terms, is of interest because it seeks to relate itself directly to every Churchman:

To bring the people of the Church to the realization that social service has an important contribution to make to the conscience of every member of the Church;

To make social service an effective useful part of the individual parishes of the country;

To relate the various social service commissions of the dioceses, to get them all to working, and to get them to working in some relation to one another.

This, however far reaching it may be, is only part of the responsibility of the department. It has also made a beginning and is carrying out further activity in connection with Church institutions, rural work and city missions; it has taken action in many other matters of temporary or occasional importance, certain legislation, cooperation with other social service organizations, motion picture problems, national social service conferences, normal courses in summer schools.

FINANCE

All budgets required by canon to be submitted to General Convention are prepared by the Department of Finance; this department has also to examine and pass upon budgets of all other departments. The treasurer is in charge of all funds under the control of the Council (except trust funds of the Missionary Society, which are administered by a committee). He has charge of the care and operation of Church Missions House. The shipping office, which handles shipments to our missions stations, is under his care.

Here again the immense amount of detail, mathematically exact, which is included in these brief statements, can only be imagined. The shipping office alone sends over 600 shipments a year, of "almost every known article, from Bibles to baby carriages."

THE FIELD DEPARTMENT

Under this name, more logical than the former "Nation-Wide Campaign Department," is found activity which seeks:

To promote throughout the whole Church the sense of its unity and responsibility in the prosecution of its world-wide mission;

To promote, with diocesan co-operation, periods for intensive training in the Church's enterprise;

To initiate and direct plans for presenting appeals for financial support;

To direct and co-ordinate the work of speakers in the field, and to promote preaching missions.

The department also gathers information and suggestions from the field for the guidance of the National Council.

The work has been based on the fact that the diocese is the autonomous unit. The department aids and co-operates, where desired, but the responsibility for reaching and enlisting the people of the diocese belongs to and is left with the diocesan organization. Every diocese now has a chairman or executive secretary to whom the department may look for co-operation; more than two-thirds of the dioceses and districts have adopted the "Bishop and Council" form of organization. Diocesan work has been quickened in every way.

An Affectionate Testimonial

At a special meeting of the Wardens and Vestry held on February 4, 1923, it was on motion duly seconded:

RESOLVED, That the Wardens and Vestry of Grace Church, Mount Airy, desire to express to the Reverend Thomas S. Cline, on the occasion of the tenth anniversary of his Rectorship of the Church, their appreciation of his devoted interest and untiring effort and of all that he has accomplished in the spiritual and material advancement and upbuilding of the Parish during the past decade. His unceasing labor and interest in all forward movements of the Church are an inspiration to all associated with him.

It is also a pleasure to record the uniformly happy relations characterized by a mutual spirit of co-operation and helpfulness which exist between the Rector and the Vestry, both as a body and individually.

It is directed that a copy of these Resolutions be engrossed and presented to the Rector.

These resolutions were, as directed, duly engrossed, signed by all members of the Vestry, and presented to Mr. Cline on the evening of February 13th, the occasion of the reception tendered by Mr. and Mrs. Cline.

The Rector's Letter

DEAR FRIENDS OF GRACE CHURCH:

The tenth anniversary of my institution as your rector seems to be the natural theme for my parish letter at this time.

It was very pleasant to greet so many of you in the rectory on Shrove Tuesday. Your sincere expressions of congratulation and affection brought us fresh cheer and courage. From the exquisite primroses and pussy-willows sent by the little tots of the Church School to the noble and dignified resolutions presented by the Wardens and Vestry—there were so many tokens of your thankfulness that we were deeply impressed.

It was fitting that we have a social gathering before Lent, especially since we have had no parish reception this Fall. But the more appropriate observance of the anniversary will be the service in Church on Thursday evening, March 1st. Then we can give our united thanks to God for His continual care and watchful providence over this parish, and particularly for the mercies and benefits of the past decade.

I feel deeply the significance of such an anniversary. So much so that I hardly dare trust myself to write much about it. It stirs in me thoughts of joy and gratitude mingled with great sorrow.

What a privilege it has been to minister the Word and Sacrament among you in the name of Jesus Christ for nearly ten years! I say "nearly"—for the war came as a great interruption, a far more serious interruption than we realized at the time.

Just think, the whole public ministry of Our Lord was crowded into one-third of that period. Think what those ten years have meant in the formation of character. The boys and girls of five or six have become the young men and women of today. Many who were lighthearted youths have now entered upon the responsibilities of manhood and womanhood, established their homes, and are raising families. Not a few of the older members of the parish have entered into their rest. How we miss them!

Meanwhile, Grace Church has not ceased to minister to young and old and to bear constant witness regarding the precious things of holy religion. They have not been years of unbroken tranquility. We have not all thought alike. We have not always been as patient and forbearing as our Lord would have us. Nor have we been as much in earnest. It is true Grace Church has made a fair showing during these ten years, as parishes go. Impressive figures could be presented regarding the number baptized, trained, confirmed and admitted to our fellowship in Christ; regarding our constant labors and our ever-increasing gifts of time and money for the good of humanity.

None knows so well as the Priest the deeper things that statistics do not reveal. He knows something of the volume of unwavering devotion among the true and loyal members—their patience, their perseverance, their faith, their unexhaustible cheer, their heroic sacrifices, their love. But there is another side to the picture, one of unutterable sadness. The Shepherd sees not only the ninety and nine, but the one. It is the absent one who haunts the father's mind as the family forms its broken circle.

This is why the Priest's retrospect mingles sorrow with joy. And he prefers silence to speech.

One poet has conceived it as follows:

First Angel:

Say, Priest, on whom His task was laid,
What of thy sowing thou hast made?

Priest:

The wholesome seed of that quick Word
I sowed, Sir, with no niggard hand,
Upon the waste and rock it poured
As on the good and fruitful land.

First Angel:

Oh, tried and faithful: Thus sowed He
When the crowds thronged in Galilee.

Second Angel:

Now say, dear Priest, how thou madest yield
The thorny waste that marred the field,
Following His skill who cleaned the soil
With heedful hands and day-long toil,
Till lust grew clean, extortion meek
And sons of thunder turned the cheek.

The Priest is silent.

Third Angel:

The stubborn rock how didst thou melt,
With what libation of blood spilt,
Whose forceful heat can win its way
Through sturdy stone or limber clay;
As broke that robber's heart to see
How His heart bled on Calvary?

The Priest is silent.

Faithfully and affectionately,
Your Rector,
THOMAS S. CLINE.

St. Matthias' Day, 1923.

The Faith

Several parishioners have asked me what I thought about the utterances of Dr. Grant which have called for the rebuke of his Bishop and provoked such wide discussion.

These questions must have been asked just to draw me out, for I am confident every one in the parish knows where I stand regarding the Faith. Every churchman has a right to know where his rector stands on so vital a matter. I stand where the Bishop of New York stands—upon the Eternal Rock. "Other foundations can no man lay than that is laid which is Jesus Christ." If I falter or stammer when challenged as to my belief in Jesus as Lord and God, then let my right hand forget her cunning and let my tongue cleave to the roof of my mouth.

All that the Bishop asked of Dr. Grant was to make a profession of his faith in Jesus Christ.

The Bishop says: "The real issue which you have raised by your own utterances is whether you believe that Jesus Christ is Lord and God, for if you do not so believe it is plain that you cannot, with self-respect or with freedom to express your real convictions, continue to hold your place as a minister of a Church whose whole life and teaching is founded on this belief."

Why doesn't Dr. Grant hasten to proclaim to his Bishop and to all who will listen his belief in Jesus as God and Saviour. That should be his chief joy. He owes it to those who await his answer. Most of all, he owes it to Jesus, Who died to redeem him and all mankind.

I have read carefully Dr. Grant's sermons as reported and the correspondence between him and his Bishop.

I find myself in perfect sympathy and accord with the Bishop of New York in everything he has said, not only in his letters to Dr. Grant, but also in his address at the Church Club dinner in New York on February 8th.

Lest some of you have overlooked the report of that notable address, I am going to quote it:

"I am sure you will all agree with me when I say the thing we need above all other things at this time is an awakening of true vital personal religion. We need an awakening of personal religion to give us firm hold on life, clear guidance, true standards, definite convictions of right and wrong, to give us the true purpose and satisfaction and strength in life that we should have.

"This all comes to us through the stirring of religion in our souls, the realization of our relationship to Jesus Christ.

"Never was the world more in need of Jesus Christ and of His divine light and guidance than it is now. And let us remember that He is able to be our light and help, able to bless and guide and be with us only because He is God as truly as He is man. Never in the whole history of the Church did the great words of our Creed mean more to us than they do today: 'God of God, Light of Light, Very God of Very God.'"

Again the Bishop said:

"We want all men to know that we believe in the Lord Jesus Christ with the fullest and freest use of our minds as well as our hearts. We want all men to know that like St. Paul we are 'not ashamed of the Gospel of Christ,' and that we accept its whole message. We want the whole message.

"We want the whole world to know that we believe in the Christian religion as a supernatural revelation from God. It is that or it is nothing whatever. We believe in 'Jesus Christ the same yesterday, today and forever.' Amid all the changes, the speculations, the passing opinions of men, this Church will stand to bear her witness to the truth and power of the Gospel in the present and future as she has in all her past."

THOMAS S. CLINE.

The Young People

The Young People of the parish are meeting Friday nights in Lent. The Rector is giving a series of addresses on "Some Crises in Church History." After the service the young people assemble in the Guild Room for conferences.

Recently they had an interesting debate on the subject:

"Resolved, That the Rev. Dr. Grant should either state clearly his faith in the divinity of Christ or resign from the Ministry of the Church."

The Woman's Auxiliary and Guild

In order to know more about the missions and institutions for which we work through the year, it was decided to have speakers at nearly all of our meetings during Lent. So often interest does not extend beyond the actual sewing itself because of the lack of such information.

At our first meeting the Rev. John A. Welbourn, missionary from Japan, gave us a very clear picture of the city of Tokyo, with its contrasts of the old and the new; the changes that are coming about in the Japanese people and their customs; and of the way in which the missionary must approach the people in order to interest them in Christianity. First-hand information such as this is very enlightening, and no one can ever feel quite so aloof and disinterested in respect to these far-off places after an intimate talk such as the one on Tokyo. It is a pity that only twenty-five or thirty people out of the whole parish ever avail themselves of such privileges.

In order that all may be present at the meeting on Thursday, March 15th, we are asking you now to keep the day open for the Auxiliary. Mrs. J. Allison Scott, President of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Diocese of Pennsylvania, will be at Grace Church on that date, at 11.15 o'clock, to meet her co-workers in this parish and to talk to us on Auxiliary matters. Every member should be present to hear the message that Mrs. Scott will bring—we cannot afford to miss it. On the other hand, we are guilty of neglect when, by our absence, we make apparent our indifference to the head of the great woman's organization of the Church.

The rummage sale this year will be held in April, possibly a week later than was formerly announced, and we hope it will be an improvement, in many ways, on previous ones. A garage has been secured for our use and, if the weather permits, we may have some tables outside. This will give us fresh air and better conditions than heretofore, and we will also have a clean, comfortable house in which to eat lunch or leave extra wraps. With such improvements it is hoped that many women will volunteer to help, as there are never sufficient to take proper care of such a sale.

Please send rummage to the Parish House at any time; or notify Mrs. Jenkins, and it will be called for.

Family Sunday

Sunday, March 11th, will be Family Sunday in Grace Church. Bring the whole family—father, mother, brothers and sisters—yes, even the babies. Occupy a pew all together. Let the Church be filled to the brim with Christian families. It will be a joyful service and well pleasing to the Great God and Father of us all.

This family service has peculiar appropriateness on Mid-Lent or Refreshment Sunday, familiarly known in the Church of England as "Mothering Sunday." It is a day with associations—and the custom of family attendance has ancient and honorable traditions in the Episcopal Church.

But such a custom needs no sanction of ancient tradition. It has such intrinsic merit and charm that it commends itself to us at once.

Of course, it is a beautiful and fitting thing to do. So let us rise early and bring the whole family to the 11 o'clock service March 11th.

Mr. Sargent's Visit

Mr. Edward Sargent, of the Department of Religious Education of the National Council, addressed the congregation of Grace Church Sunday morning, February 25th, on the next great forward step in Religious Education—Week-day Instruction.

Mr. Sargent has been invited to come to Philadelphia under the auspices of our Diocesan Department of Religious Education to assist in development of plans for aggressive work along lines of Week-day Religious Training, which has proved so successful in other cities.

He will probably come soon after Easter to spend two weeks or more in the city studying local conditions and advising as to the policy of the Church in this important work.

The Church School Service League

What shall be done for our parish by the Church School Service League?

This question had been under discussion for some time, and when it was finally put before the girls and boys on Sunday morning it was unanimously decided to buy prayer books for use in the Church School room where they have been badly needed.

These prayer books, sixty in number, were presented by members of the League at the services on Sunday, February 18th, at 9.30 a. m.

The boys and girls of the League deserve a great deal of credit for such a substantial and worthwhile gift.

In accepting them, the Rector thanked the children. He said that he was glad they loved the Church enough to bring a gift. He asked all the members of the Church School to handle the prayer books carefully and reverently.

News in Diocesan Papers

It is said that librarians of public libraries would have a comparatively easy life if it were not for the public, and that choirmasters would not have to worry much if it were not for the choirs, and we believe that editors of diocesan papers might all relax and draw long breaths if it were not for parish news items.

In the first issue of The Eastern Shore Churchman of the Diocese of Easton, the Rev. Edmund Burke, Ph.D., wrote such a beautiful little philosophy of News Notes and painted such shining little haloes around their diminished heads that we believe all our readers (every member of a parish, not just the editors) will feel happier for reading what he says, which is in part as follows:

Next in importance to the plans and work of our Bishops, it is essential that we keep in touch with the plans and efforts of each other. We often laugh at the personal notes of our local papers with their oft repeated information that Mrs. Sykes spent the week-end with Mrs. Jones. But these things are wholesome. It is good to know where Mrs. Sykes is; and better still to feel that she is pleasantly and wholesomely occupied; and that she is not disporting herself in the dark and clouded by-paths of the world.

We would be glad to hear that Mrs. Sykes spent part of the week-end in church; but if she won't go to church we prefer to hear that she ate her Sunday dinner with Mrs. Jones than that she fed on the apples of Sodom—somewhere else.

And so it is that out of these little personal touches we develop a personal sympathy with our neighbors, and, because we take an interest in what they are doing, we develop a community of life which extends out from a locality to a county; and so in ever widening circles to a state, a national, and eventually an international life.

This is the value of the news notes of a diocesan paper. We must know what our various Guilds and organizations are doing in order that we may feel the pulse of the diocese, that we may realize that the churches around us are living, as we are living, and in the wholesome contact take heart of grace to live even more abundantly.

After a service in which twelve people took part a devout member of our Church said sadly to me, "The Church is dead." I answered her, "My dear lady, you must not think that. As long as you are alive, the Church is alive. Look around you. Do you realize that while we twelve were worshipping here, three thousand were worshipping in St. Paul's, London, and hundreds of thousands all over the world?"

We are too prone to scramble under a juniper tree with Elijah, and declare that we, and we only, are left. But when we look around, as Elijah was compelled to, we will find that there are not two hundred and fifty, but uncountable thousands who have not bowed the knee to Baal, but who are alive and quick with a devotion and service which is transforming the world, and in which we must take a living, active part.

It will be this that will make the News Notes of a diocesan paper a large factor in quickening the life of the parish to which it is made welcome; and it is this that will bring us out from under our juniper trees, and bind us together in a common purpose. Its influence will point us beyond our parish into the larger fields of our diocese, and beyond this into the broad plains and templed hills of the great life of the Church in the world.

The Church in Japan

Reliable and interesting material about our missionary work in Japan is none too plentiful, and intelligent interest in it is correspondingly scarce. This is particularly unfortunate because there is a source of information easily available. "The Church in Japan" is published quarterly, with the small subscription price of fifty cents a year. (This may be sent through the Morehouse Publishing Co., 1801 Fond du Lac avenue, Milwaukee, Wis..) The paper includes news and information about the districts of Tokyo, Kyoto and Tohoku, with occasional more general articles. Demanding so little either of time or money in the course of a year, the paper should have a large number of readers in every diocese among those who count themselves faithful to our work in Japan.

Recruiting for the Ministry

"In China," wrote the Rev. S. H. Littell in The Spirit of Missions some months ago, "we keep our eyes open for the very best of the young men and women in our schools and congregations and lay upon them the duty of considering the call to the ministry, or to study medicine, or to become teachers, or nurses, or catechists, or Biblewomen, or deaconesses, and the result is that we are rapidly training the future leaders of the Church."

Writing of a South Carolina clergyman who had marked success in winning men for the ministry, a writer in The Holy Cross Magazine says: "History tells us that when the great St. Bernard used to pass through the country on his journeyings, mothers hid their sons until he had gone by lest the power of his word and presence should draw them to leave all and follow Christ."

"Does any one think for a moment that this Bernard of the Nineteenth Century contented himself with an occasional sermon of an impersonal quality on the subject of the ministry? Far from it. Like a lion of the Lord he went forth and fell upon the young men of his little parish and bore them away in happy captivity to the power and service of the Holy Ghost."

Reading from the Bible Every Day

Enthusiastic welcome has been given to the "Churchman's Kalendar of Daily Bible Readings." A most useful method of distribution appears to be for a parish to order it in quantity and provide it for the people. One of Bishop Mann's last official acts as Rector of Trinity Church, Boston, was to order 500 copies for distribution. Trinity Chapel, New York, recommends its use and supplies it to any of the congregation who request a copy. A missionary working among isolated people of Newfoundland finds it inspiring and most useful. The Warden of the Guild of the Ascension sent copies of one of the three series with his quarterly letter to each of the Guild members, one of whose rules is to read at least a little each day from the Bible.

The readings are arranged in three courses, one on the Christian year, one on the life of our Lord, and one for children. "It is hoped," says the foreword, "that in no way will these courses be looked upon as a substitute for the calendar in the Prayer Book, or for the Lectionary, but rather as the first step in daily reading of Holy Scripture leading up to the Prayer Book standard."

Two small children, whose governess hears them read the daily selections aloud, have been much engrossed by them. Martin, aged seven, has also been reading a certain popular scientific work and lately inquired whether the glacial period came between Adam and the Flood.

The Daily Bible Readings, the three courses under one cover, are twenty cents a copy, or $15.00 a hundred. Copies of any single course are five cents each, or $3.00 a hundred. Orders should be sent to the Book Store, 281 Fourth avenue, New York.

Church School Commission

"We are seven," said the Commissions of the Department of Religious Education, having to do with various aspects of "Sunday school" work. "You are all one," said the Department, "and your name is now the Commission on the Church School." "It looks better on paper," says The Leader, "but it probably will not reduce the number of actual groups at work." It takes over all the work of Sunday and Week-day Schools, Teacher Training, Church School Service League, Daily Vacation Bible Schools and Religion in the Home.

The Rector's Letter

My dear Friends:

The recurrence of Easter should give each of us a greater purchase on immortality. Man's hope of immortality is waxing—not waning.

"The case for survival and immortality is susceptible of stronger treatment and more powerful presentation than it has ever had before," writes one of the greatest living Christian philosophers.

Belief in the future life is not an outworn tradition. The fact that nineteenth century conceptions of heaven and hell have become untenable does not dim our hope of immortality. Higher criticism of the Bible has left the foundations of that Christian belief secure.

Even Science, with its demonstrations of the intimate union of mind with brain has not weakened the belief in personal immortality.

Many have been misled to think that immortality is a fading hope. There are ignoble persons who say "Let us eat and drink for tomorrow we die." Some pious souls in panic turn their backs upon the new knowledge and cling in desperation to an infallible Bible or an infallible Church. Others seek new light in spiritualistic séance or in Theosophical revelation. Still others deliberately refuse to let their thoughts dwell upon the beyond—and seem to succeed for a time.

But the question of the future is insistent. As Christians we need not remain in doubt and darkness.

In our risen Lord we have the assurance of victory over death and the grave.

And this assurance gains strength as knowledge increases.

The argument for immortality is cumulative. It has many strands. phychological, moral, metaphysical and religious. All these strands have been strengthened by the progress of modern thought. That man who gathers these various strands of knowledge and unites them all in himself is in a position of stronger rational conviction than men of former generations could ever have been.

Belief in immortality rests on a wider and surer basis than ever before. Therefore, if the recurrence of the Easter Feast does not find us with a firmer hold on that great purifying Hope of the Resurrection—we are not moving forward abreast with the most enlightened Christian thought and conviction.

Faithfully yours,

Thomas S. Cline.

Evolution and Immortality

"The more thoroughly we comprehend the process of evolution by which things have come to be as they are, the more we feel that to deny the everlasting persistence of the spiritual element in man would rob the whole process of its meaning. It would go far toward putting us to permanent intellectual confusion.

"For my part, therefore, I believe in the immortality of the soul as a supreme act of faith in the reasonableness of God's work."—John Fiske.

Easter Day

Every Communicant of the Church should make his Easter Communion without fail. This should be done if possible at one of the early celebrations (6 a. m. and 7.30 a. m.).

There will be a Service of Preparation for Easter Communion Maundy Thursday night at 8 (postponed from Wednesday).

All communicants should assemble for the great Easter Eucharist at eleven o'clock.

The Church School Festival Service will be held at 4 o'clock. Everybody is welcome to this joyous Carol Service.

There will be no Evening Service on Easter Day.

Good Friday Offering

The National Council has authorized me to urge that the Good Friday offerings of the Church be given jointly for:

1. Jerusalem and the East Mission.
2. Support of American advisers and seminary instructors at Jerusalem, Beirut and Constantinople, requested by the Eastern Churches and sanctioned by the Council, and
3. Relief of suffering Christians in the Near East.

All checks should be marked "Good Friday Offering" and sent to Lewis B. Franklin, Treasurer, 281 Fourth avenue, New York.

Family Religion

Family Sunday proved a great success again this year.

There was a general response to the invitation for families to attend the 11 o'clock Service on Mid-Lent Sunday. The children behaved beautifully. All felt the inspiration of the occasion.

The Rector preached on Family Religion. Taking as his text, "Behold I stand at the door and knock," he said Christ sought admission to every home. Christianity is a domestic religion. And nowhere do we so need the presence and influence of Christ as in the home.

The Rector read the following statement by Bishop Brent, apropos of the family service:

"There has grown up in our Communion, without our conscious recognition, the Cult of the Adult. It has crippled us already, and unless it is abandoned, it will kill us. Disproportionate attention has been given to grown-ups, and the children have been granted a meagre second place. Few little ones even get the idea into their heads that the great services of the Church belong to them as much as to their seniors. They should be taught that there is no separation in the mystical Body of Christ between young and old, and that however desirable it may be to have special services for the young, these are in no wise substitutes for the Liturgy of the Church, but a preparation for their intelligent appreciation of it.

Sunday by Sunday as I go from parish to parish it is seldom that I can recognize a family pew, seldom that I see a little head nestling to its mother's side. If we complain that our young folk find the golf course or the automobile more congenial on a summer morning than the Church, it is in some measure due to the fact that the duty of worship has not been emphasized for the child and the meaning of its beauty and power has never been taught.

Even supposing the Cult of the Adult were in itself good, we have developed it badly. Let us unite in crushing it. Let us secure the co-operation of parents to restore in public worship the family group. Let the clergy work hard to make the service intelligible to the people, wings wherewith to carry worship upward to God, inspiration by which to became better followers of Christ."

Neighborliness in the Parish

In order to make more fully known the privileges and benefits of Grace Church to all people of the Community who care for them, and especially to new-comers, the Parish has been mapped out into districts.

In charge of these districts the Rector has appointed leaders whose duty it will be to keep the Church informed of new-comers into the Community and the new-comers informed about the Church.

Eventually there will be ten districts. At present six have been organized and are at work. Three of the districts have held meetings in private dwellings for the promotion of neighborliness. Many interesting facts have been brought out by the discussions at these meetings.

It is evident that new-comers do not always feel the warmth and cordiality of Christian fellowship in Grace Church. They are not called upon by their neighbors and even after residence in Mount Airy for many months still feel like strangers.

This condition of affairs should not exist in any live parish. The new system of district supervision will correct this.

The co-operation of every parishioner, new and old, is necessary to create the atmosphere of neighborliness, and true friendliness which should characterize a Christian Church and Community.

The Woman's Auxiliary and Guild

As our quota of sewing from the Supply Bureau has been completed, we were able to respond to a very urgent emergency call from the Red Cross. Numberless garments are needed, not only for Near East Relief, but also for our wounded war veterans, and for the Home Service Department of the organization which cares for the families of those men, so there is plenty of sewing on hand to keep us all busy. At the same time the gauze work for the hospital in Wyoming is still going on and provides interesting work for those who do not wish to sew. Helpers, therefore, are needed just as much as ever.

Every one will be glad to hear that a check for $500 has just been taken to the Episcopal Hospital as part of our allotment for the running expenses of that institution. Most of the money was raised by the women.

The date and place of the rummage sale have been definitely settled. It will be held on Thursday and Friday, April 12 and 13, from 10 o'clock to 4, in a garage at 6035 Magnolia avenue, Germantown. Note time and place carefully and be on hand to help. Magnolia avenue runs between Morton and Chew streets, and East Walnut lane and High street. Please have your rummage ready soon, as the pricing and tagging of the articles will be done at the Auxiliary meeting, one week before the sale, so that it may be taken to the garage and arranged there without delay. Kindly notify Mrs. Jenkins by postal card if you want your rummage called for, and tell her also if you will help.

Will not all the women of the parish rouse themselves to do something for this sale? It requires of you no expenditure of money—just a little time and energy, and all the rummage you can collect. Every one send something. It is such a good way to make money, and never have we been more anxious to do that, for the $400,000 deficit in the budget of the Church for 1922 weighs heavily on hearts and minds, and the same thing must not occur in 1923. Here, in our parish, why cannot each member make a special, extra sacrifice this year for Missions? When we think that the amount of the offering from this great American Church averages 4¾ cents a week for each member, we may be quite sure that something has got to be done about it—and that right soon.

The United Thank Offering

The Nineteenth Annual Service, with the presentation of the United Thank Offering, is to be at St. James' Church, Twenty-second and Walnut streets, on Thursday, April 26th, at 10.30 a. m. This presentation will be that of the first semi-annual offering of the women of the Diocese for the new triennium 1922-1925.

Notices, calling in the offering, will go out to our Grace Church contributors about the middle of the month. As the last ingathering was made in mid-summer because of the triennial presentation at Portland, on September 7th, we have now had eight months instead of six in which to mark our blessings!

The Pennsylvania Triennial Report of the United Thank Offering, received recently, is most interesting, and reflects great credit upon our Diocesan Treasurer. (By the way, every one will be glad to hear that Mrs. Hollingsworth, who has not been well since the first of the year, sends a message from Bermuda that she is "getting full of health.") All Grace Church women should know that we stand number four on the Honor Roll of the parishes in this Diocese making triennial offerings of $2000 or over—our amount being $2526.78. Gratifying as this is, even more to be desired is a place on the "Ideal" Honor Roll—which means every woman a contributor. Is it too much to hope and try for this consummation in 1925? Who will help by enrolling now as a contributor, or, if already on the United Thank Offering list, by securing some one who is not? Names and addresses may be sent to Mrs. Ralph H. North, 7301 Boyer street.

The Triennial Report shows a grand total of $73,155.50, which was contributed by 7505 women.

HONOR ROLL

St. Paul's Chestnut Hill	$6127.42
St. James'	4150.92
St. Peter's	3676.71

The gifts from Grace Church for the three years were as follows:

1920—112 contributors	$699.90
1921—114 contributors	902.88
1922—135 contributors	924.00

In 1921 the sum of $200 was given as a memorial to Mrs. Lavinia B. Thompson.

Anniversary Service

A service commemorating the tenth anniversary of the Institution of the present Rector of Grace Church was held Thursday evening, March 1st.

The Rev. Gilbert E. Pember, Rector of St. Michael's Church, Germantown, preached the sermon.

The service was intoned by the Rev. S. Atmore Caine, Rector of St. Timothy's Church, Roxborough, who officiated in Grace Church for a period during the Rector's absence in France in 1917-1918.

The Rev. Charles H. Arndt, D.D., Rector of the Mother Church from which Grace Church was started, Christ Church, Germantown, read the lessons.

The Dean of the Germantown Convocation, the Rev. John H. Chapman, read parts of the Institution office. Other clergy present were the Rev. A. R. Van Meter, Rector of Calvary Church, Germantown, and the Rev. P. Sidney Irwin, of the City Mission.

Mr. Horace Fortescue, Secretary of the Vestry, read the resolutions adopted by the Vestry at a recent meeting, and presented to the Rector as a token of appreciation of his ten years' service in Grace Church.

The service was beautiful and impressive, as well as one of historic interest. The choir rendered appropriate special music. At the end of the service a solemn Te Deum was sung as an act of thanksgiving and praise for God's blessings upon the parish during the past decade.

Summer Trip Abroad

An excellent opportunity for young girls who wish to spend the summer abroad under careful supervision, is offered by Miss Potter, of Boston, and Miss Jane Harvey, of Wellesley College. Miss Potter, who has had years of experience in conducting tours, will act as chaperone.

The party is to sail on June 23, 1923, from Montreal, on the steamer Doric, White Star Line, and expects to visit England, Scotland, Holland, Belgium, Switzerland, Italy and France. The return steamer is the St. Paul, American Line, sailing from Cherbourg, September 13th, to New York.

Approximate cost of the full tour is $1,435.

For further details one may apply to Miss Jane Harvey, Claflin Hall, Wellesley College, Wellesley, Mass., or to Mrs. Harvey, Homecrest, Chestnut Hill, Pa.

The Spring Service

The Tenth Annual Missionary Service of the Germantown and Chestnut Hill Branches of the Woman's Auxiliary will be held in our own Parish Church on Tuesday, April 10th, at 10.30 a. m.

This is the one missionary service each year for the women of this part of the Diocese, and we have not had it at Grace Church since 1916, so will every one please take special interest and be on hand to help fill the Church?

These services are always in the interest of some department of our missionary work. This year it is for missions in the domestic field, and the offering will go through the Domestic Committee of the Pennsylvania Branch of the Woman's Auxiliary.

We have certainly been most fortunate in securing as our speaker, the Rev. Carroll M. Davis—the Domestic Secretary of the Department of Missions. Come one, come all, to welcome him!

The Diocese of Pennsylvania
Department of Missions

The Church House,
Philadelphia, Pa.,
Mid-Lent, 1923.

REVEREND AND DEAR SIR:

The Department of Missions of the Diocese of Pennsylvania has decided that the Sunday after Ascension shall be known as "Exchange Sunday," as on that day some of our Rectors are asked to exchange pulpits with the Missionaries of the Diocese. The benefits of this exchange will be fourfold:

1. Some thirty-five of our parishes will hear about one of our Diocesan Missions from the Missionary in charge, or the Dean of a Convocation; and thus our people will be inspired to take a deeper interest in the missionary work of the Diocese.

2. Our Missionaries will be encouraged by having the opportunity of telling of their work and needs in some of our larger parishes.

3. Our Mission congregations will be encouraged by having some of our better-known Rectors conduct their services and preach to them.

4. The Rectors who visit the Missions will gain a direct knowledge of one Mission a year, and thus be able to speak from experience concerning it.

If the observance of this Exchange Sunday is continued, as we trust it will be, there being a different exchange year by year, our clergy and people will by degrees gain a more intimate and intelligent knowledge of Diocesan Missions, and thus be stirred up to take an ever deepening interest in this most important aspect of our Diocesan activities.

We write to ask you if you will be willing to exchange pulpits with one of our Diocesan Missionaries on the Sunday after Ascension this year—May 13th; and if so, whether there is any Missionary with whom you prefer to exchange? We enclose a list of Diocesan Missions with the name of the Missionary in charge.

Yours very sincerely,
LLEWELLYN N. CALEY,
NORMAN V. P. LEVIS,
FRANCIS M. TAITT,
Committee.

A SOCIAL EVENING FOR MEN
MONDAY EVENING, MAY 28

Will the men of the Parish please keep this date open—for there will be given in the Parish House, on May 28th, at 6.30 p. m., a dinner and entertainment.

The district meetings recently held have demonstrated the need of getting together in a social way and making the acquaintance of our neighbors both in the Church and in the neighborhood. It is the hope, therefore, that the men of the Parish will be enabled to become better known to each other, which is almost sure to be the result when men spend such a social evening together. There will be an advance notice of this dinner sent to every man in the Parish and a final notice sent at a later date.

Will each man please help to advertise this and to use his influence among his neighbors and friends and also return promptly the card of acceptance which will be enclosed with the second notice?

The Rector's Letter

My dear Friends:

Welcome, May, most beautiful of months! You are familiar with the ancient custom of rising at dawn on May Day to welcome the advent of Spring.

Let those who can rise early that day and walk to Church. The altar will be decorated with flowers. The Sacrament of Eternal Spring will be celebrated. It happens to be the Feast of Saints Philip and James.

The month of May has many great and beautiful things in store for us in the Church as well as in nature.

First, there comes the Commemoration of our Lord's Ascension into Heaven, then the Festival of the Divine Spirit from Heaven.

On the octave of Whitsunday comes Trinity Sunday, which sums up our glorious Faith. May will be a month rich in spiritual privilege.

The Church should be filled with worshippers every Sunday. All conditions are favorable—the fair spring weather, the subsidence of epidemics, the attraction of the great Feast Days, the new birth of gratitude to the Creator.

I call upon all to make the most of these shining days of opportunity. All too soon we shall be scattered by the summer exodus.

Parents, bring your children and sit together as families as you did on Mid-Lent Sunday.

Teachers, you have but few sessions before Commencement; gather up the fragments that remain.

Leaders of organizations make May a banner month in achievement. Prepare for the annual rally of parish workers on Trinity Sunday night.

May is the month for calls. Let all Grace Church people call on their neighbors. They will have the time of their lives and make some delightful discoveries.

Somehow the thought of May suggests to my mind a hymn which the children love:

All things bright and beautiful,
  All creatures great and small.
All things wise and wonderful,
  The Lord God made them all.

Each little flower that opens,
  Each little bird that sings,
He made their glowing colors,
  He made their tiny wings.

The purple-headed mountain,
  The river running by,
The sunset, and the morning
  That brightens up the sky.

He gave us eyes to see them
  And lips that we might tell
How great is God Almighty
  Who has made all things well.

Faithfully yours,
Thomas S. Cline.

Exchange Sunday

Sunday, May 13, will be observed as "Exchange Sunday" in this Diocese.

The Department of Missions has arranged for some of the Rectors to exchange pulpits with the Missionaries of the Diocese.

The speaker in Grace Church will be the Rev. T. Hubert-Jones, Rector of St. Bartholomew's Wissinoming, and Canon Missioner of the Pro-Cathedral.

St. Bartholomew's has recently become an independent parish as a result of Mr. Hubert-Jones' successful work. He is, therefore, no longer listed among the "Missionaries," but he can tell us a great deal about the missionary side of our diocesan work.

The Rector of Grace Church will preach at St. Bartholomew's.

Pray for Unity

Christians of every name in every land are asked again by the Continuation Committee of the World Conference on Faith and Order to fill the octave, May 13 to 20, being the eight days ending with Pentecost or Whitsunday, with ardent prayer that their hearts and the hearts of all their brethren may be given wholly to the fulfilment of our Lord's prayer for visible unity.

The Continuation Committee represents national churches of the following Communions: Anglican, Armenian, Baptist, Congregational, Czechoslovak, Disciples, Eastern Orthodox, Friends, German Evangelical, Lutheran, Methodist, Moravian, Old Catholic, Presbyterian, Reformed and South India United.

Vital Statistics

In his annual report of the Diocesan Convention, the Rector of Grace Church reported for the year 1922, eighteen Baptisms, fourteen Confirmations, two Marriages and twenty-six Burials.

We have received by transfer ten and transferred to other parishes nineteen persons. Our present Communicant list numers four hundred seventy-one.

There were conducted during the year some five hundred and thirty-six services, of which three hundred twenty-six were Holy Communion services.

The Church School has a present enrollment of twenty-eight teachers and officers and one hundred ninety-six pupils, making a total of two hundred and twenty-four.

Ember-tide

During Whitsun-week it becomes our duty as faithful Churchmen to pray for the candidates for the Sacred Ministry. It is a subject which is very much to the fore now-a-days, both in the religious and secular press. A regional Conference on the Ministry for boys of high school age, similar to the one held at St. Paul's School, Concord, N. H., last year, will be held June 26-30, at Chestnut Hill Academy.

There are signs of an awakening of the Church to the importance of selecting the best available material for the leadership of the future. Apropos of this we are publishing Bishop Slattery's article, entitled "What the Ministry Really Is." We hope every lad in the parish will read it thoughtfully.

The Junior Service League

Meetings of the Service League are now being held in the Parish House on Tuesday afternoons, and any boys and girls who are willing to help make the toys and other articles that are needed are asked to be sure to come. Most of these things are to be sent to children who are sick or crippled, and they live right near us—in our own Diocese.

Ascension Day

The services in Grace Church on Ascension Day, Thursday, May 10, will be as follows:

Holy Communion .....7.30 a. m.
Morning Prayer .....9.00 a. m.
Holy Communion and Address.9.30 a. m.

Letters of Transfer

All Communicants of the Church moving into a new Community should promptly connect themselves with the local Episcopal Church by procuring from their former Rector letters of transfer. They should continue to attend the Sunday services as regularly as in their former parish—not waiting for any special invitation.

The Rector should be notified of name and address in order that he may call and become acquainted with the family.

Children should be brought to Church School without delay. Inquiry should be made regarding the parish organizations in order that new comers may find their places and enter at once into the interesting and worth-while work of the Church.

Duplex envelopes will be furnished upon request to the Rector.

If these simple suggestions were acted upon by new comers, no time would be lost in the Church life of those concerned.

There are a number of Communicants who have for a longer or shorter time been regular attendants of Grace Church —but who have neglected to get their letters of transfer from their former parishes.

They are earnestly requested to attend to this matter in order that they may have full standing as Communicants of Grace Church and that our records may be brought up to date and made complete.

These things are religious duties and should be promptly and carefully attended to out of respect for the Church and loyalty to Almighty God.

Vestrymen Associated

A meeting of the Vestrymen of the Diocese will be held at Holy Trinity Church Friday evening, April 27, to organize "The Associated Vestries of the Diocese of Pennsylvania." The purpose of the organization will be to have one or more meetings each year, at which problems of the Church will be presented and discussed for the information of Vestrymen.

The Bishop's Bricks

The annual Diocesan meeting in the interest of The Bishop's Bricks Fund will take place at 3 p. m. on the Eve of Whitsunday, May 19, at St. Mark's Church, Frankford.

Those who have ever attended one of these gatherings wish never to miss another. It is hoped that there will be a large attendance from Grace Church to meet the Bishop, who is expected to take charge of the meeting as usual.

Our offerings have heretofore been creditable to Grace Parish—let us see to it that we do not fall short this time.

Eastbound Frankford cars on Chelten avenue pass near St. Mark's Church.

The Woman's Auxiliary and Guild

The active season for the Auxiliary comes to a close with the Annual Meeting, which will be held in the Parish House Tuesday, May 8, at 2.30 o'clock, when all members should be present. Reports from the various committees will be heard and they will show just what has been accomplished during the year. While the work is going quietly along it may not seem that a great deal is being done, but in the summing up in May the results are quite surprising. With comparatively few women in the parish taking part in this, it is easy to imagine what wonders could be wrought if each one should do a share.

Those who had the planning of the rummage sale were very much gratified with the splendid array of helpers on the first day, which is always the busiest time. It is impossible to keep a watch on our stock without plenty of salespeople behind the counters, as well as some who mingle with the crowd to see that articles are not lost. Unfortunately we could not be on Germantown avenue, where the sale could be more easily reached, but there was no store available. This, and the fact that the second day was very rainy, cut down the profits considerably. However, about $350 is in hand, with a little more to be heard from; and though it is not so much as we would have liked, it makes a very substantial addition to the Auxiliary funds.

Of the articles that were unsold, the best were sent to the Supply Bureau, in response to an urgent call from headquarters. These will be valued and our Parish will receive credit for the amount. A bundle of clothing was also sent to the City Mission, where everything finds a use.

A very enjoyable service in the interest of domestic missions was held in Grace Church by the Auxiliaries of the Convocation of Germantown and Chestnut Hill. The offering amounted to more than $94, and will be sent in through the Domestic Committee.

Remember Tuesday, May 8.

Mount Airy Section, American-Labrador Branch Needlework Guild

The annual meeting and display of garments of the Mount Airy Section of the Labrador Branch of the Needlework Guild will be held at the Parish House on Tuesday afternoon, May 8, in conjunction with the yearly meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary.

Two new garments a year are required for membership. The Mount Airy Section needs members and directors. All who do not belong may join by sending two new garments to Mrs. Horace H. Burrell before May 8.

Labrador needs all the help we can give. The Mount Airy Section represents, to a large degree, the work of the ladies of the Leamy Home. Mrs. Thomas H. Shepard is President, and earnestly solicits more members from Mount Airy.

Mission Study Class Notes

Under the efficient leadership of Mrs. Ralph L. Hayes, the meetings of the Mission Study Class during Lent were most interesting and helpful. Our subject was a vital one and the watchword "Unity" was made something more than a mere word. It gave us a key to the great problem of the work among the foreign-born in our midst and how we should approach these strangers flocking to our country needing our sympathy, our interest and our real friendship. Unity was made a very personal thing—a part of our daily lives.

The average attendance at our meetings was twenty, and surely we all appreciated the time and interest and work our leader gave to the careful preparation of the subject matter of the course.

Our Intercessor was the Reverend Franklin Joiner, Rector of St. Clement's Church, Philadelphia.

The session closed with a Corporate Communion on Maundy Thursday, and the voluntary offering amounted to fifty-two dollars, which was sent to Archdeacon White for work among the foreign-born in the city, and five dollars to Bishop Garland for work among the Jews.

A number of the class attended the annual diocesan meeting of the Mission Study Classes held in the Parish House of Holy Trinity Church on the evening of April 19, under the direction of the Educational Secretary, Mrs. Pilsbry.

Church School Lenten Offering

Special emphasis was laid this year upon the Children's Lenten Offering for Missions.

The mite boxes were distributed at a special service on Quinquagesima Sunday. The boys and girls worked hard to earn and save their dimes for the Church. Every Sunday in Lent the Rector gave a short talk on Missions, illustrating it with posters from the Church Missions House. There was much competition among classes.

The objective set was two hundred dollars.

The offering was presented at a special Missionary Service on Palm Sunday morning. A new feature at the presentation was the report of each class separately and the announcement of the amount.

The total given by the School was two hundred twenty-five dollars.

The following shows the amounts given in recent years:

1918	$157.65
1919	177.80
1920	146.85
1921	153.52

Conference of Social Service Workers

Washington, in May, offers many attractions. The National Conference of Social Work celebrates its fiftieth anniversary from May 16 to 23 with a program of extraordinary interest. Church people will be particularly interested in the program for Sunday, May 20. On that day, "The Church in its Relation to Social Service," will be considered. We will have a corporate communion and a great service at the Church of the Epiphany.

The third National Conference of Social Service Workers of the Episcopal Church will begin on Tuesday afternoon, May 22, and will run through Friday the 25th. This Conference has now a history that can speak for itself. The two Conferences that have preceded have made large contributions to the work of social service in the Church.

We believe that the Conference this year will be the greatest contribution to practical social work in our Church that has yet been made, and we ask your help in making your plans now to be present from May 22nd to the 25th. It is to be hoped that many can plan to be present as well at the National Conference of Social Work.

What the Ministry Really Is

By

CHARLES LEWIS SLATTERY,

Rector of Grace Church in New York. Author of The Ministry, Present-Day Preaching, The Historic Ministry and The Present Christ. Printed by permission from the Proceedings of the Church Congress of 1922.

How can we best meet the hesitancy of young men to enter the Ministry? What is needed is not theory, but fact. To this end, I purpose to mention certain hesitations which I have heard expressed, and then give the answers which I can candidly give from my own experience, which has for its background a small New England town, a town of seven thousand people in the Northwest, a New England city of one hundred thousand, and the city of New York; and naturally the experience which I link with my own is that of my friends in those neighborhoods.

I. The fear arises in the minds of some young men that, if they enter the Ministry, they will work almost exclusively among women and children. First, let me say that if a man works exclusively among women and children, it is only because he prefers to do so, and not because he must. Nearly all the beggars who come to his door will be men. Among the poor of the parish, the individuals who need the most advice, and occasionally the most violent shaking up, will be men. The people in the town who are doing the town harm, and who, therefore, need the active opposition of the clergyman, are men. If a man has any conception of the task which he undertakes when he be comes rector of a parish in a village, town, or city, he will know instantly that all his imagination and resources will be required to deal with the masculine element in the population, and it will be a strange parish in which there are not noble men who will not only become loyal supporters of the work, but intimate and inspiring friends. Let me say quite definitely then that if a clergyman limits his ministrations to women and children, it is simply because he is stupid or too indolent to seize the whole of the varied opportunity which lies before him.

And there is something even more important to say. No parson who has done genuine parish work for a quarter of a century will allow any neophyte to speak slightingly of work among women and children. It did not require woman suffrage to tell us that a large proportion of wives are superior to their husbands, not only in traits which are called feminine, but in traits which are sometimes presumptuously called masculine. I mean leadership, intellectual grasp, critical faculty, executive ability, and unflinching courage. Men afraid that their work will be confined to women and children are apt to lose sight of the importance of the women and children, and never really gain their respect. They believe that it is more influential to have long desultory conversations with men in clubs than it is to talk with a mother about the training of her boy, and they do not much mind if, when the mother wishes to consult a wise counsellor about some hard problem in education or discipline, she never thinks of turning to the hail-fellow-well-met who is always loafing about in clouds of smoke with her husband. It is most desirable that a clergyman should have the confidence of the men of the community, as well as of the women and children; but if a parson is lacking anywhere, the one group whom he can least afford to slight is that most potent group, the mothers of the coming generation. Before a man dreads the possibility of a life given largely to women and children, let him see if he can gain the genuine respect of an able woman and of her alert boy of twelve. If he can, he will find it a comparatively easy matter to enter into the friendship of her equally able husband.

II. When I came home one afternoon of my early ministry, I was told that a certain lady of the parish had called, and had inquired for me. When it was explained that I was making calls in the parish, the lady said, "Oh, really! I have often wondered what he did between Sundays." I fancy that many young men have the impression that, should they come into the Ministry, they would find time hanging heavily on their hands. I have had parishes in the country and parishes in the city; but I cannot remember that the days were ever long enough to do the parochial work which I longed to do.

The Rector's Letter

My dear Friends:

We have enclosed with this issue of the Parish News a copy of the letter from the leaders of the diocese regarding the "Bishop Rhinelander Fund." As already announced, an offering for this purpose will be taken in Grace Church on the Sunday After Trinity, June 3rd.

Our first thought upon hearing the announcement of Bishop Rhinelander's resignation was naturally one of deep regret. We had hoped and prayed that he might return after his year of rest, restored in health, to continue his Apostolic labors among us. We feel deep personal sympathy for our beloved Bishop when he tells us "The best medical opinion I have been able to secure is definitely to the effect that I may not hope in the future to bear the strain of this difficult and important office." We also feel great concern for the welfare of the diocese that will be deprived of Bishop Rhinelander's spiritual guidance.

But another thought comes to all devoted churchmen—that of thanksgiving for the blessings that have come to the Church during the twelve years of Dr. Rhinelander's bishopric. It is fitting that our gratitude find expression in monumental fashion as proposed in the accompanying letter.

We have been highly favored in our Bishop. His presence and work have been a constant inspiration to us all. He has been a staunch Defender of the Faith, an energetic Builder of the Church, a devoted Spiritual Guide.

It was my privilege to sit at Dr. Rhinelander's feet in my student days. I learned then to love and honor him. It was the thought of working under him that brought me from Boston to Philadelphia. It has been a great privilege to do so during these ten years.

I have just been reading the manuscript of an address on St. Francis which I delivered in Grace Church soon after I came here. These were the concluding words:

"What a privilege we would count it to know such a Christ-like person, one of such simplicity and charm, such sincerity and mirth, such generous love and spiritual sympathy!

"Such is indeed our privilege for such a man is Philip Mercer Rhinelander, our Father in God."

The Bishop's resignation has been sent to the Presiding Bishop, who has announced his intention to call a special session of the House of Bishops next November. If they accept Dr. Rhinelander's resignation our diocese will proceed to the election of his successor. Many have expressed the wish that the Bishop remain at the head of the diocese and assign to a Coadjutor, assisted by the Suffragan, the jurisdiction of the diocese. Those nearest to the Bishop discourage any such hope.

Let us pray, first that Bishop Rhinelander be blessed with improved health and be enabled to serve the Church as Doctor and Author for many years, and second, that the Holy Spirit guide the Diocese of Pennsylvania in the choice of its future Bishop.

Let us take to heart these fatherly words of our Bishop himself:

"Christians, when crises come, must try to meet them with a forward, not a backward look; with a strengthening of will, not with a stirring of emotion.

"Nevertheless, there is no tie whose breaking brings more pain than the tie which binds those who have worked together through long years, in hope and fear, in cloud and sunshine, in honor and dishonor, in evil report and good report, loyal to a common faith, strengthened by a common grace, in the Name of our Blessed Lord, for the doing of His will, and for the coming of His Kingdom. True it is that He, Whose we are and Whom we serve, is the same yesterday, today and forever. Service for Him, fellowship with Him, beginning here, is perfected in Paradise and Heaven.

"But the eternity of our fellowship and service does but make the earthly term of it so much the more privileged and precious.

"Each moment vouchsafed us here on earth is transfigured by the very atmosphere of Heaven; has in it something of the joy and glory of that other world so close to this, where God is all in all, where we shall know as we are known."

Faithfully your Pastor.

THOMAS H. CLINE.

Conference on the Ministry

The Conference on the Ministry at St. Paul's School, last June, aroused nation-wide interest. The boys who attended were deeply impressed, as we learned from "Sandy" Crouter, who represented Grace Church. This summer a similar Regional Conference will be held at Chestnut Hill Academy (June 26-29).

James Weiler has been appointed as delegate from Grace Church.

The Conference will be limited to 200 boys, of whom fifty have been chosen from the Diocese of Pennsylvania. The object of the Conference is to consider the Christian Ministry as a life work. It is open to boys of Junior and Senior Classes in High Schools.

No pledge or decision regarding life work will be asked or accepted. As Dr. Mockridge says, "This year's Regional Conference will have as its background the knowledge that boys—real boys—are ready to meet and hear about the ministry, that their parents are willing that they should, and that the Church has men who know how to put the subject before boys so as to win their interest."

Summer Schedule

During the summer the schedule of services in Grace Church is altered. The midday service is advanced from 11 o'clock to half-after 10 in order to avoid the heat of the day.

Evening Prayer comes at half-after 5 instead of 8 o'clock. The full summer schedule may be found in the fore-part of this issue.

The choir will take its annual vacation during August.

The Rector will be absent during the latter part of August and September. His address will be Christ Church, Rectory, North Conway, N. H.

During his absence the services in Grace Church will continue as usual. The Rev. P. Sidney Irwin, of the Episcopal City Mission, has consented to officiate for several Sundays. In September the Rev. Henry Bedinger, whose ministrations last summer were deeply appreciated, will again be in charge.

The Service League Dinner

On the last Monday evening in May, amid the plaudits of many enthusiastic men roaring "He's a jolly good fellow," Mr. Fortescue, as President of the League, retired full of honors with a great bunch of posies, and Mr. Rice rose to reign in his stead.

The dinner and entertainment following, carefully arranged and carried through, reflect credit on the committee. They have the thanks of all who were fortunate enough to have been present.

A feature of the evening was the eloquent address of Rev. H. Cresson McHenry, the Secretary of the City Mission, who announced that he would speak on the subject of "Junk."

His audience were shown how many men "down" could be saved from going "out," and finally landing in the "dump."

Your Character

Although some critics indicate there is a doubt that the book of Ecclesiastes was a personal legacy of Solomon to his son Rehoboam out of his own unexampled experience, the matter of authorship is not material, for in the twelfth chapter we find "the conclusion of the whole matter" as to the formation of character.

The following from the first president of the Leland Stanford University is a similar and notable admonition in present-day phrase:

"Your first duty in life is toward your afterself. So live that your afterself—the man you ought to be—may in his time be possible and actual.

"Far away in the years he is waiting his turn. His body, his brain, his soul, are in your boyish hands. He cannot help himself.

"What will you leave for him?

"Will it be a brain unspoiled by lust or dissipation; a mind trained to think and act; a nervous system true as a dial in its response to the truth about you? Will you, boy, let him come as a man among men in his time?

"Or will you throw away his inheritance before he has had the chance to touch it? Will you turn over to him a brain distorted, a mind diseased, a will untrained to action, a spinal cord grown through and through with the devil grass we call wild oats?

"Will you let him come, taking your place, gaining through your experience, happy in your friendships, hallowed through your joys, building on them his own?

"Or will you fling it all away, decreeing, wanton-like, that the man you might have been shall never be?

"This is your problem in life—the problem vastly more important to you than any or all others. How will you meet it, as a man, or as a fool? It is your problem today and every day, and the hour of your decision is the crisis in your destiny!"

Summer Church School

There is no valid reason why the children and youth of the Church should cease their religious studies during the four summer months. The time devoted to religious education is very inadequate during the winter months. It is therefore the more urgent that use be made of the summer term.

We made a beginning last summer and hope to build upon the foundation then laid during the coming season. The summer school will again be in charge of Miss Frances Shipley. Mrs. R. H. Hall will gather around her a circle of beginners. Other teachers have volunteered to assist. The opening session will be held Sunday, June 10th, at 9.30 a. m., and the school will continue to meet at the same hour throughout the summer.

We hope for the interest and enthusiasm of the parents as well as the children of the parish to make the Summer School a success.

All scholars of Grace Church School who expect to be away part of the summer are requested to attend Church worship and instruction wherever they may be. Reports of such attendance will be asked for by the Rector in the fall.

We cannot expect the principles of the Christian religion to dominate the lives of the rising generation unless we make adequate provision for their instruction in the Gospel.

Let us not neglect this duty for one-third of the year.

Extra Expenses

Unexpected demands upon the funds will come up.

Blocked drains from the rectory had to be replaced at a cost of $665.42, hence a deficit, as will appear by an inspection of the financial statement herein.

The Church School Commencement

The Church School Commencement will be held in the Parish House on the first Sunday after Trinity, June 3rd, at 4 o'clock.

There will be demonstrations of work done by the various departments. The Honor Rolls and Awards will be announced.

Following these exercises the School will march into the Church for Evening Prayer. All parents and friends are invited to attend.

The Bishop's Bricks

The annual meeting of those interested in The Bishop's Bricks Fund filled St. Mark's Church, Frankford, on the Eve of Whitsunday, May 19th. Our beloved Bishop was present and as usual made an inspiring address.

Representatives from nearly all the parishes in the diocese were in attendance and one by one presented their "bricks" in bags, hods and church models to the Bishop, who received them in his own hands. The total offering amounted to nearly $3000—the largest in the history of the fund.

The Bishop indicated that of the receipts, Sr. Barnabas parish (colored) would be liberally provided for in the building of its parish house.

The Banner School was St. Mary's, Wayne, Grace Church, Mount Airy, came fifth in the list with an offering of $120.73 and something in expectation.

The Bishop's Bricks enterprise is very dear to the heart of the Bishop; he says he would like to add another "B" and call it

THE BISHOP'S BLESSED BRICKS.

The Woman's Auxiliary and Guild

The year 1922-23 came to a close with the annual meeting of the Auxiliary on May 8, 1923, at which time there was also a display of garments for the Labrador Branch of the Needlework Guild. This latter is in charge of Mrs. Shephard, of the Leamy Home, who, with her eight directors, collected 638 garments, an increase of 205 over last year.

The Treasurer's report for the year was most gratifying, and showed a grand total of $3685.63, a splendid increase over the normal amount of other years, as it contained no large sums raised for special purposes, as was the case last year. More than $380 was made at the rummage sale, practically in one day, as it rained hard all of the second day.

Mrs. North's statement for the United Thank Offering gave a total of $885.77 from May, 1922, to May, 1923. This included $100 in memory of Mrs. Charles McKean Bayard. Part of the total was in the Presentation at Portland, $391.77 being the amount in hand towards the new triennium. Mrs. North's goal for Grace Parish is—Every woman and girl a member of the United Thank Offering by the end of this triennium.

The report of the work room and box committee was most interesting. Garments seem to materialize as if by magic under Mrs. Burrell's guiding hand, and the results are very gratifying—152 articles were made for the Diocesan Supply Bureau, which, with household supplies and surgical dressings, a new suit for an Indian catechist, used clothing for St. Andrews' School, Tennessee, and used clothing for the Supply Bureau for various missionaries, amounted to $455.70. One hundred and fifty-six other garments made in the work room were sent to the Needlework Guild of America to Labrador, and to the American Red Cross—a total of 308 articles in all.

Mrs. Pease, who has charge of the knitted work, reported forty splendid articles sent in to headquarters.

Mrs. Wellington told that a check for $50 has been sent to Miss Riddell for her leper hospital, and that three boxes of knitted and other articles were mailed her, valued at $200. This work is largely done by the ladies of the Leamy Home.

Among the many fine things accomplished by the Social Service Committee, Mrs. Sheble told of the constant friendly visiting; of sending (by one member) a convalescent to the country for a much-needed outing; of families supplied with clothing, and helped in money difficulties. At Thanksgiving, Christmas and Easter, food, gifts and flowers were distributed, and there are continual calls on the treasury for help for the sick and needy. A new plan has been adopted for financing the work, whereby the Men's and Women's Committees have a common treasury to which all members of the parish are invited to contribute.

Everyone was pleased with the fine report of the Church School Service League given by Lois Cline, which told of work completed in four of the fields of service since October. Money and gifts were sent to the Indians of the West and a colored mission in the South. Baskets at Thannksgiving and Easter, and stockings at Christmas, were sent to institutions in the diocese and community, and $30 was given for Prayer Books for our own Church School.

Gifts are now being made for the crippled colored children in Philadelphia and money was given to the Bishop's Bricks Fund.

Mrs. Crouter made a motion that our thanks and appreciation be sent to Mrs. Pratt Thompson for the splendid work with the children of the Church School Service League. The motion was unanimously carried.

The origin of the Tract Society was told by Miss Mott, and she reported collecting $10.05 for it this year. Miss Mott has also held two meetings of the Hospitality Committee, and calls are being made.

Our President was delighted with the large number of 25-cent subscriptions sent in for the Woman's Aid to the Convocation.

The Educational Secretary, Mrs. Hayes, wrote that this year's course was certainly one of the strongest that has been given; the leader never put so much work into the preparation for her class, and the meaning and necessity of "unity" never seemed so imperative. The one session on Russia and her false "Living Church" was alone a thrilling story. The whole problem of immigration, as it concerns the nation, the state, the city, the community—as it concerns us—takes on a different light entirely when illuminated by this proclamation, God hath made of ONE, all men. The voluntary offering was $52.

From the Altar Guild we heard that the brasses are in need of being re-lacquered; and Miss Bayard announced that the objective of the Church Periodical Club for this year is to send books to Miss Wood to enlarge the library at Boone University, China.

It was with deepest regret that we read Mrs. Matlack's resignation from the various committees of which she was a member. Mrs. North proposed that, "as a tribute to Mrs. Matlack's loving service and devotion to the parish," a bookcase shall be placed in the Auxiliary room, and Mrs. North will see that this is done. The meeting gladly accepted the offer.

In reporting on the Library, Mrs. Matlack wrote that no new books have been added this year, as there is no room for those we have. She urged the necessity of more book-shelves for the present and future growth of the Library.

The intensive campaign for the Cathedral League, made in the fall of 1922, added forty-three new members, making a total of 103 for the parish; and $54.15 was turned over to Mrs. W. B. Taylor, Treasurer of the Cathedral League. The Cathedral movement now has the cooperation of the Convocation and will be pushed strenuously in each parish. The much-regretted resignation of Bishop Rhinelander, who has lost his health in service for the diocese, should strengthen our resolves to carry to a beautiful conclusion the Cathedral plans that had their inception with him, and will be a memorial to his consecrated life.

Miss Lucy Alday resigned from the chairmanship of the Font Roll and everyone sincerely regretted the necessity of accepting her decision. Miss Alday has done conscientious work in this connection and will be missed very much.

We were happy to have our rector present at the meeting, and in a short address he told us that owing to unforeseen expenses it will require strenuous effort on all our parts to meet the parish budget for this year. He also said that he is always impressed by the splendid reports at our annual meetings, and as Rector of the Parish he would take this opportunity to thank the officers and other members for their faithful and efficient work. He announced that the Young People's Society holds regular weekly meetings, but they want more to do in the parish. They should be linked up with the activities of the older members. One older boy has already been appointed Secretary to each of the men leaders of parish groups. Could not the girls be used similarly by the women? Mr. Cline hopes that we may draw them in.

All of last year's officers were re-elected to serve for 1923-24.

A Meeting for Men

The annual meeting of the Pennsylvania Diocesan Assembly, Brotherhood of St. Andrew, will be held in Epiphany Church, Sherwood, Saturday afternoon and eveninng, June 9.

Any man would enjoy this meeting at ter of importance. When the man has gone, the parson starts out to make calls in his scattered parish. He knows when people are likely to be at home, and so times his calls so that he may reasonably expect to find his parishioners. Though the conversation may start on an ordinary level, the parishioner almost always takes this opportunity to ask questions. The parishioner is always sorry if there are other visitors at the same time, because there are subjects which it would be convenient to discuss with the parson alone. Some of the calls are short, some are long. The parson never has the sense of being hurried, because he wishes the people to know that he is among them to serve them. He keeps on calling till dinner time, not only because he wishes to make the best use of his time, but because towards dinner the men of the family are returning from their work, and he sees them, too. Whether he finds the man at home or not, he may be sure that every detail of his visit will be told at the dinner table, and that the man of the house will be grateful that the parson cares about him and his family. In the evening there is a mid-week service, followed by a Bible class. A good many school teachers of the town belong to the class. They bring keen intelligence and a critical spirit. The parson knows that he must be equipped to answer difficult questions. He knows further that he may not give answers which are merely formal. The answers must include not only his knowledge, but his honest convictions. No stereotyped phrases will suffice. He is grateful for the information he has gathered in the morning, and he is humbled by its inadequate measure. He must study harder. He must read more. He must think more.

The Communicant List

The Communicant List of Grace Church has been printed and a copy will be mailed to each family in the parish.

This list, which includes the addresses of parishioners, will be found useful in connection with the work of the various parish organizations.

Another reason for its publication is the perfection of the list. The Rector or the Registrar should be promptly notified of any corrections or changes.

It is important that parish lists be kept accurate and up to date. This can only be done by co-operation on the part of parishioners.

A limited number of extra copies of the printed list may be obtained upon application to the Rector or Registrar.

The Rector's Letter

My dear Friends:

We continue the publication of the Parish News throughout the Summer in the hope of keeping in touch, even with those parishioners who are at a distance.

We are not furnished with the temporary addresses of vacationists, but we hope copies of the parish paper will be forwarded in many cases.

The choir boys are now in camp. We shall miss them during their vacation in August. But they never deserved a good holiday more than this Summer.

Under Mr. Robinson's fine leadership they have done excellent work during the past season. It was my pleasure to visit them in camp a few days ago. Our party, including Mr. Rice, the new president of the Men's Service League, and Mr. Greaves, the treasurer of the camp enterprise, arrived at the camp about 11 o'clock (standard time). The boys were just returning from a hike, and we joined them in a refreshing swim in Big Elk Creek. It reminded me of boyhood pleasures in the "old swimming hole."

We all did justice to the wholesome and tasty dinner. After that dinner we could understand why the men and boys were so enthusiastic in their praises of the cook.

After the rest hour we all turned out for the athletic events of the day. Competition ran high between the two teams which took their names from their camp streets—Gowen avenue and Stenton avenue. After the contests, the boys had a second swim and then dressed for supper. We were reluctant to leave before the campfire, which is one of the most delightful events of the daily program.

It was a pleasure to inspect the camp. The tents are pitched on top of Mount Hope, from which a beautiful panoramic view of the surrounding country may be had. The tents were models of neatness. Each day the camp banner adorns the tent which is found to be in most perperfect condition.

The dining hall and kitchen, constructed by the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, are well appointed. The water is piped from a spring.

In a shaded grove near by is a chapel with an impressive stone altar surmounted by a cedar cross. The chancel is enclosed by a rustic rail. The whole effect is artistic. It was here that the men's conference was held under the auspices of the Brotherhood last week-end. The people from the countryside responded to the invitation to attend service there. They were invited to come again next Sunday.

Such a situation might be disconcerting to some men. But Mr. MacDonald is a true leader, ready for any emergency. He was already thinking up an appropriate sermon on the story of David and Goliath—or "What the little fellow can do if he will."

Mr. MacDonald has the boys all heartily with him. He has the faculty of drawing out the manly qualities in boys. With few words he makes it plain what he expects from them, and the boys do not fail him. He has three reliable counsellors in Messrs. Cridland, Brown and Insinger.

There are twenty-nine boys in the camp—most of whom are choir boys. They are having a great outing and learning many important lessons. Parents of the boys and generous supporters of the camp may be assured of excellent management. I am proud to have the banner "Camp Cline" flying over such a camp, and I feel grateful to all who have aided to make it a success—especially, Mr. MacDonald.

Yours faithfully,

THOMAS S. CLINE.

Confirmation

Once a year the Bishop visits the parish to administer the rite of Confirmation to those whom the rector has prepared for presentation.

The date set for this current year is Sunday, November 4, when Bishop Rhinelander will come to us.

The class of candidates will meet to organize Sunday, October 7, at 4 o'clock. The instructions will continue each Sunday at the same hour—until Advent Sunday, December 4.

This program provides for four instructions before and four after Confirmation. The class will not meet on Sunday, November 4.

Any who are desirous of Confirmation should notify the rector at their earliest convenience. The instructions will be open to all who care to attend.

June 23 1923.

Rev. T. S. Cline,

Grace Church, Mount Airy.

Reverend and dear Sir:

Before further conference relative to the quotas for 1924, the summer will have intervened. The schedules under consideration have been distributed at the Convention in May, and at each of the meetings of the six Convocations. If you have not a copy at hand, we shall be very glad to send you one; and it is hoped you will give your consideration to the items involved, so that you may be able to report in the Fall as to the quota figure acceptable to your parish.

I call your attention particularly to the schedule as it stands. The first column of figures on the schedule under the heading, "Mathematical Calculations," represents what would be your share of $500,000 for the diocese as a whole (this representing only the Maintenance requirements, both Diocese and General,) if a mathematical curve could entirely represent the facts, and if conditions were equal. If your parish has been able to exceed this figure, it is evident that there are elements of interest or giving ability in your parish which cannot be accurately calculated by a uniform method. If, on the other hand, your parish has not been able to contribute such a sum as indicated in that column, you will be all the more interested to consider the further suggestions offered in the schedules as submitted.

The figures in the last column under the heading, "Average Contribution for Maintenance," will show the apparent willingness of your people to give as recorded during the preceding two years. This does not include all extra-parochial gifts, but simply those which would apply on the Diocesan and General Budgets for Maintenance.

To reach the total of $500,000 in 1924, it is necessary that your parish be willing to set as its goal (which, with your people, you will earnestly and expectantly seek to obtain) the sum in the last column, plus the amount indicated at the bottom of the page as the average increase desired of each parish in your group. It is hoped that this figure will be found sufficiently possible for you to accept, and make every effort to reach or to exceed.

Will you kindly be prepared to report on this in the Fall? If further explanation is desired at this time, I shall be glad to consult with you at your convenience.

These are the figures particularly relating to your parish:

(1) Mathematical share of $500,000	$8569.50
(2) Average contribution of two years applying on Maintenance	5618.67
(3) Minimum increase necessary in 1924	2900.00
(4) Minimum expectation from your parish	8518.00

We are sure you desire to consider this matter with a view to answering in the Fall the question, "Will your parish be able to do it"—with the response, "We will."

Appreciating your hearty co-operation, I am, faithfully yours,

PERCY R. STOCKMAN,
For the Quota Committee.

The Story of the Program

The Church, through the last General Convention, has laid a large task on her members and a wonderful opportunity confronts the leaders of the Church.

A General Church Program for the years 1923-1925 has been issued. It is definite and clear, and if the people can but see and know what is being done, both at home and abroad, and realize the urgency of the task, there will be no lack of interest and support.

But do they see—do they know?

A recent letter from one of the officers of our National Council says: "The general apathy is appalling."

The National Council has a comprehensive plan for the education of the people. How can we co-operate?

We can all read the book just issued by the National Council, entitled "The Story of the Program." It is a graphic description of the work which the Church is doing and of the wonderful opportunities presented at this time.

How many parishioners of Grace Church will read "The Story of the Program" right through between now and the Dedication Festival next Fall?

It would be an excellent preparation for next year's work.

An Appeal

As Grace Church has been interested in the boys at the Home for Consumptives, I am going to state an interesting case and make a plea for help.

Edward Lynam, an ex-consumptive, now 100 per cent. cured and in normal health, was baptized at Grace Church two years ago. Four of us acted as sponsors, and since that time we have clothed him and paid his board at the Home of the Good Shepherd, Rosemont.

On July 1 this institution closed its doors and sent fifteen selected boys to the Church Farm School. The tuition there is $800 per year. Having sold their property, the Home of the Good Shepherd furnished $500 per year for each of these boys, and various wealthy residents of the neighborhood have subscribed $300 annually for them. Edward's sponsors are providing his $300, he being one of those chosen.

The problem is Edward's younger brother, Leonard, 8 years old. Rather than separate the brothers, the Farm School has taken him, also three other lads about his age, full of faith that the money will be forthcoming somehow. Again the Home of the Good Shepherd has furnished $500 annually for these boys. In a recent interview with Dr. Shreiner, he told me that the course for these little fellows will take ten years. At $300 per year, therefore, the ultimate goal for Leonard is $3000. Dr. Shreiner has appealed to me regarding him, and has urgently asked my assistance.

Leonard is a bright child and full of promise. His jolly disposition has already made him popular with the boys and with the teachers. Both his parents deserted when he was a baby, leaving six small children for aged and poor grandparents to rear. Grandma, whom I have often seen, is a woman of principle and character, but she has had a heavy burden in her old age, and is nearing the end of the road. The other children are pretty well scattered in institutions, the old lady realizing that she must place them somewhere before passing on.

Any persons desiring to assist in the education of this boy will please make checks payable to the Church Farm School and mail them to me. Enough small checks will aggregate the whole.

Of course, I have ten years in which to raise the three thousand, but I am anxious to complete it in the near future, so that the boy will be provided for, in case anything happens to me.

It is of vital importance to keep these two orphan brothers together. The Church Farm School makes of its boys loyal followers of the Cross and the Flag. Surely this is worth while. The fund for three thousand dollars is started. Will anyone at Grace Church help it grow?

STEPHANIE S. BURRELL.

The Summer Church School

This is to remind all parents, as well as all childdren of the parish, that the Church School is conducting a special Summer course of instruction.

Sessions are held every Sunday morning at 9.30. Boys and girls may enter at any time during the Summer and take advantage of the fine instruction of Miss Shipley, Mrs. Hall and their assistants.

The Rector's Vacation

The rector will leave August 16 for New Hampshire. As previously announced, the Rev. P. Sidney Irwin, of the Episcopal City Mission, will officiate in Grace Church from August 19 to September 9.

Mr. Irwin's address after August 1 will be 7007 Cresheim road, Mount Airy.

During the remaining Sundays of September the Rev. Henry Bedinger will be in charge.

Confirmations

From the Convention address of Bishop Slattery, 1923

I have often heard Bishops (never one connected with this diocese) say that they dreaded the routine of confirmations. And I have heard some men say that they ought to be set free to do the great work of the Episcopate. I have always wondered what they meant. And I wonder more than ever after my brief experience in my new work. I can imagine no higher privilege than to put my hands on the head of a young person, at the most impressionable moment in life, with the prayer for the gift of God's Holy Spirit, and then to look into the expectant eyes and give the charge that the heart and mind and soul remain open to the greatest and best for ever. It is a moment when everything seems possible. If congregations and rectors and bishops could so meet that moment that the soul of hope and joy should begin an ascent which could end only in victory for Christ and His Church, then all the problems of the world would be solved. The Kingdom of God cometh not with observation. I can imagine, when all the shadows are done away, how cheap and hollow will seem the noisy and conspicuous deeds and words which so-called leaders put first; how endlessly glorious will be the meeting of a great emotion in a young and earnest life, at confirmation time, whereby a destiny is decided, and a determination to give all to Christ is fixed. I once heard Phillips Brooks say to a group of theological students, "Never get used to funerals." At the beginning of a new ministry, which may be long or short, I should like to register the aspiration never to get used to confirmations. May I see always in the eyes of boys and girls, of men and women, what I have seen in these five months, the eager reception of the Holy Ghost. May I always know that I am in the holy of holies when I see what those eyes reveal. It is the center of whatever power a bishop's life may possess.

The hope I have for the success of the world-wide work of the Diocese of Massachusetts is symbolized in the shining faces of the boys and girls who stand before the bishops at confirmation. Through the light in those faces I have had a glimpse of the Kingdom fulfilled. If we can rise to the heights of sensitive youth as it consciously receives the Holy Ghost, as it dreams of the glory of service, as in ignorance it discounts all difficulties, as in faith it takes God's greatest and hardest command as literal, as in love it dares to follow Christ to the very end, then the Spirit of the living God shall guide us, and we shall move steadily forward to that victory which is given to him who, loving God, loves his brother also; which is given to him who takes up his cross and follows, without compromise, now and forever, the Lord Jesus Christ.

Bishop of Osaka Elected

As the Church weeklies have already noted in more detail, the synod of the diocese formed by the city of Osaka has elected as its first Bishop the Rev. Yasutaro Naide, under whose long and faithful rectorate Christ Church, Osaka, has built up the largest self-supporting congregation of our Communion in Japan.

Bishop Foss, of the English Diocese of Osaka, which lies west and south of the city of that name (see map, page 52, The Story of the Program), resigned recently, after nearly fifty years in Japan, twenty-four of them as Bishop. He proposes to place himself wholly at the disposal of the Japanese Church in order to assist in revising the Old Testament in the vernacular. His successor has not been announced.

An Acknowledgment

The following came from the wife of the missionary in charge of the Mountain Missions in several districts in the Blue Ridge Mountains of Virginia. The articles referred to were goods left over from the last rummage sale of Grace Parish:

"My dear Mrs. Lowber:

"Your fine box of ties came duly to hand and they can be made use of. We thank you so much for them and also for thinking of us. Ties are things we have many calls for—in fact, there are not many things we do not have a call for.

"I should have acknowledged your box sooner, but I was away from home. Our stock, especially of Summer clothing, is very small at present, and the demands on us are many and varied.

"Again thanking you, I beg to remain,

"Yours most sincerely,

"SALLIE W. LEWIS."

St. Swithin and the Choir Boys

You will remember reading that a long time ago, just because some over-zealous admirers moved his bones into a crypt from the outside where the rains would drip upon his grave—he liked rain—St. Swithin vowed he would get even, and settled it that forty days of much wetness should thereafter follow the recurrence of his natal day if it rained so much as a drop on that occasion. Being a Saint, however, he can well afford to make an exception occasionally, for he has plenty of time in which to show his resentment year by year!

Perhaps you have doubts about all this—I'll prove I'm right—so you will please attend with care to what follows:

In a certain parish not far from here, the day of the Saint befell upon Sunday and it rained—some. Just some—quite enough to start the machinery though. Losing no time, the spell started working early Monday morning. Up rolled black clouds from up Bucks County way and omenous bumps of thunder shook down big splashing drops. Soon there was a downpour that promised a deluge for all that day at least.

Suddenly—mind you—suddenly, about 10 o'clock, the rain ceased and the sun came out to the delight and astonishment of the choir boys of the parish aforesaid, for it was the first day of Camp Week.

The explanation is very simple—there is no doubt at all that at 10 o'clock that Monday morning the old Saint heard of the plans of the campers and canceled the request for the torrent, furthermore it did not rain a drop for a week!

Right fine of old St. Swithin, wasn't it?

AN OLD CHOIR BOY.

How to Make Your Bishop Happy

One of our most glaring inconsistencies is in the matter of reading material. I visit in many homes. In every home I find at least one daily paper, and generally more. The homes are well supplied with all sorts of fiction and professional magazines. I find periodicals telling about the latest fashions in women's dress, and the latest recipes for desserts. But when I look for a Church paper I generally hunt in vain. Our own diocesan paper, which should be in every home, I find in less than half. I rarely find a copy of a national Church weekly. And as for The Spirit of Missions, I feel like falling to my knees and thanking God when I find a copy of that.

When I speak about it I am gravely told, "You know we take so many magazines that we really cannot afford to take any more." There is the meaning of that word "afford" with many of our people. Our time, our brain power, our money, goes to all things else first. What is left over, if there is any, goes to God.

BISHOP ROBERTS.

Showing That the Quota Can be Met

South Dakota missions are distinguishing themselves. To mention only four:

St. Peter's congregation in the Crow Creek Indian mission, the weakest in numbers, leads off, and is the first in either the white or Indian field to pay, and overpay its 1923 quota.

Buffalo Gap is the first in the white field, and with very few to do it sends a check for its 1923 quota in full. They also pay with exemplary regularity their portion of clergy support and pension, and keep the mission finances in the very finest shape.

All Saints' School had paid 125 per cent. by the 10th of April. Having a quota "which everybody knew was too high," teachers and students neither flinched nor quit, but simply buckled into the harness with a devotion that could not be denied. Instead of being satisfied when they saw their $400 quota reached, they aimed at $500, and then added $6.54 just to let the executive office know they had not stopped at an even sum.

Trinity Mission at Winner, having paid in full for 1922, determined that a repetition of last year's record was not enough, and that the thing to do was to pay as quickly as possible. Winner has paid its 1923 quota.

Shall We Stand "in the Background" in Cuba?

Other people's troubles in the matter of high rents and housing problems do not make engrossing reading, but perhaps when we are ourselves to some extent responsible for them we may at least try to understand some of the details; as, for instance, in the case of the school for boys in Marianao, Cuba, a suburban branch of the Cathedral School for Boys in Havana.

The house is of old Spanish construction with lofty and well-ventilated rooms which could be admirably adapted for a small school, but the whole building has been much neglected, due chiefly to the fact that the owner lives in Paris and takes no further interest in it than having the rent collected assiduously every month. Efforts have been made at various times to purchase the building and site, but these have been ignored. The situation being such, no expense for repairs could be warranted, so that though the school could be made very attractive to parents, this cannot be done, as only a non-repairing lease can be obtained, and were improvements to be made, it would simply mean the risk of having the rent raised.

In the second place, no land is available either on the site or in the vicinity on which the boys can play, with the result that they are always more or less penned in when playing, a drawback if only from a disciplinary point of view.

The school, which has now only fourteen pupils, half of them boarders, was started four years ago and has done excellent work in spite of handicaps. There is an ever-increasing demand for schools run on modern American lines, and a somewhat feverish activity in building and improving on the part of Romanists, Baptists, Methodists and Presbyterians.

In connection with Priority 376 in the General Program, and pages 107 and 108 in The Story of the Program, there may be quoted a recent letter from the headmaster:

"Given a chance, this school stands in a very fair way to becoming one of the best Church schools in the island, and of thus accomplishing its sole aim of helping and teaching the boys to be good Christians and loyal Cuban citizens. . . . It seems a deplorable fact that the Episcopal Church, which is always considered the parent body, should be left in the background in the religious field of educational work where there is such a clamoring demand and where so much appreciation is shown for the work done in Havana and other parts of Cuba by the Episcopal schools."

The Music of the Spheres

Here is our little planet, chiefly occupied, to our view, in rushing round the sun; but perhaps found from another angle to fill another part in the cosmic scheme. And on this apparently unimportant speck, wandering among systems of suns, the appearance of life and its slow development and ever increasing sensitization; the emerging of pain and of pleasure; and presently man with his growing capacity for self-affirmation and self-sacrifice, for rapture and for grief.

Love, with its unearthly happiness, unmeasured devotion, and limitless pain; all the ecstasy, all the anguish that we extract from the rhythm of life and death.

It is much, really, for one little planet to bring to birth.

And presently another music, which some—not many, perhaps, yet, in comparison with its population—are able to hear. The music of a more inward life, a sort of fugue in which the eternal and temporal are mingled; and here and there some, already who respond to it.

Those who hear it would not all agree as to the nature of the melody; but all would agree that it was something different in kind from the rhythm of life and death. And in their surrender to this —to which, as they feel sure, the physical order, too, is really keeping time—they taste a larger life; more universal, more divine. As Plotinus said, they are looking at the Conductor in the midst; and, keeping time with Him, and the fulfilment both of their striving and of their peace.

Woman's Auxiliary Special Offering

The Woman's Auxiliary Committee which during the present triennium is devoting special efforts to raising the standards of training for women Church workers and providing better opportunities therefor by preparing two houses, a residence for workers training in New York and a combined school and residence for colored workers in the South, reports that the whole Special Offering, $75,000, is to be made a memorial to Bishop Tuttle, as an expression of the Auxiliary's veneration of him and gratitude for his long continued interest in Auxiliary work.

More than one-fifth of the whole amount of money needed, $16,650, had been pledged by June 1, by only fifteen dioceses. Thirty-four of the diocesan representatives have been appointed, and no diocese so far has pledged less than the amount given for the Emery Fund in the last triennium, while many have doubled the pledge made for that fund.

Mrs. D. T. Huntington is the special representative for this offering in the Oriental districts, and Deaconess Newell in the Latin-American field.

Some Japanese Church Figures for 1922

Total contributions to the amount of Yen 181,790, or about $90,000, were made by the members of the Church in Japan during 1922, an increase from about $70,000 in 1920.

Counting only those who communicated during the year, the per capita offerings for 1920-21-22 are about $9-$9-$11. (In 1913 the same figure was less than $4.)

There are 216 "churches and mission churches," thirty-five of which are self-supporting; 7163 pupils in 103 boarding and day schools: 19,825 pupils in 326 Sunday schools; 16 students in two Biblewomen's schools. There were 37 students in the Divinity School, while six priests and 14 deacons were ordained during the year. Baptisms numbered 1142 adults and 503 infants; confirmations, 1104.

It will probably be quite a definite shock to the Younger Generation to find itself written down in cold print as in the past tense. We remember a similar shock when our young nephew, just out of college, referred to us as the past generation! We said that we were feeling as young as we ever did, and that made our young nephew laugh and tell us that feeling as young as one ever did was the first sign of Age!

From the Rector
In the New Hampshire Mountains

My dear Friends:

One of the last things I did before leaving Philadelphia for my annual sojourn among these glorious mountains of New Hampshire, was to visit the workshops of Mr. Samuel Yellin. It is said that there is no finer wrought-iron artist in the country than Mr. Yellin. When we told our architect (I refer to Mr. Wetherill who designed our Chancel screens) that we wanted some lamps which would be worthy of Grace Church he said at once that we should have Mr. Yellin's handiwork.

I was charmed by that workshop. It seemed to belong to some mediaeval castle. Young men were bending over their trestle boards and tracing out all manner of fantastic shapes.

Powerful men were twisting and hammering iron—subduing it to their wills and transforming it into designs of strength and beauty. Here were massive gratings for a New York bank, there were delicate traceries for the doors of a Philadelphia church. I wish I could describe Mr. Yellin's "office" but its wonders defy description, and so do those of the museum. I was duly impressed by the library, said to be the best collection of books on wrought iron in America; but I was chiefly interested in the draughtsman who was intent upon the completion of a full-sized drawing of a gothic lamp for Grace Church, Mount Airy.

He was enthusiastic about the six lamps which are to be wrought for us this summer—and so was I; therefore, we had a pleasant visit.

No two of the six will be exactly alike—though they will follow the same general design.

The six will be hung now—but eventually we must complete the whole series of ten.

These lamps will hang by chains from the trusses above the nave—one in front of each pillar.

The electricians are already at work wiring the church for the new lamps. This plan to light the nave of the church was conceived, and is being carried out by the leaders of the Men's Service League.

The lamps are to be memorials—all, I believe, to be dedicated to the memory of parents. The spirit which prompts these gifts is a noble and beautiful sentiment of filial devotion and reverence.

There could be no lovelier symbol of the faithful departed than these lamps shedding their bright beams upon us as we assemble in God's house.

"O blest communion, fellowship, divine!
We feebly struggle, they in glory shine;
Yet all are one in Thee, for all are Thine. Alleluia."

That bright world seems near to me as I write you tonight. This afternoon I said the last rites over the body of a brave lovely girl of sixteen whose soul has taken its flight.

All day I have been asking myself "whither"? In my meditations I have tried to follow her—and she has led me to seek that happy land

"Where loyal hearts, and true,
Stand ever in the light
All rapture through and through
In God's most holy sight."

This is my third summer in North Conway and I enjoy meeting many old friends. Sunday I had the privilege of celebrating the Holy Communion both in Christ Church, North Conway, and Grace Chapel, Kearsarge, and of preaching to fair congregations in both places.

Tomorrow I expect a visit from the Bishop of New Hampshire—that will be a great pleasure indeed.

I hope all parishioners of Grace Church who are in Mount Airy will stand loyally by Mr. Irwin and Mr. Bedinger while they are in charge of the services. I have just been reading a clever paper by a San Francisco minister on "The Mannerisms of the Pew." He speaks of "the Restless Pew," "the Critical Pew," "the Drowsy Pew," "the Sympathetic Pew," etc. And this is what he has to say about "the Regular Pew":

"Regular as the clockwork of the skies.
Regular as the movement of the stars.
Regular as the return of the seasons.
Regular as the alternations of night and day.
Regular as the home-coming of the birds.
Regular as the falling of the snow.
Regular as the turning of the autumn leaves.
Regular as the tides of the sea.
Regular as the march of events.
Regular as the rippling of the stream.
Regular as the turning of the wheel of life—are the folks who occupy the seat in the Regular Pew. Heaven bless them!

"Thomas Carlyle once remarked: 'If I could only find men like my father and his minister I would have new hope for the world.' Thomas had been taken, regularly, to the Regular Pew.

"William E. Gladstone went to church twice on Sunday, because there were so many people who went to church only once. He was a double-barreled regular. Jesus, 'as His custom was,' went into the synagogue on the Sabbath day. What the church needs today is consecrated regularity. The principal people in the church are the people who go to church on principle."

Regularity counts for just as much in the summer as in the winter.

Gentle reader—be a regular churchman.

Very faithfully yours,
THOMAS S. CLINE.

Confirmation Again

The rector wishes us to keep prominently before the people of the parish the approaching Visitation of the Bishop on November fourth at 11 o'clock.

This notice is specially important for all who are desirous of receiving the rite of Confirmation. The rector has already enrolled twelve candidates as a nucleus for the class. Others, both among the boys and girls in their early teens and the adults of the community, are considering the matter. Confirmation is highly esteemed among us as a great spiritual privilege. We are taught to believe that by the Laying on of Hands we are strengthened by the Divine Spirit. It is the door by which we are privileged to pass into the inner sanctuary of the Christian religion for it prepares us for the reception of the Holy Communion.

The class will meet for organization Sunday, October 7, at 4 o'clock. The rector will be pleased to know of all who desire to join the class at as early a date as possible.

Officiating Clergy

During the absence of the rector on his annual holiday, the following clergy will officiate in Grace Church:

The Rev. P. Sidney Irwin from Aug. 19 to Sept. 9.

The Rev. Henry Bedinger from Sept. 16 to Sept. 30.

Mr. Irwin's address is 7007 Cresheim road and his phone is C. H. 2703.

The services will be held according to the regular summer schedule.

The rector's address will be simply North Conway, New Hampshire.

He will enjoy letters from parishioners during his absence.

The Woman's Auxiliary and Guild

This is to announce a change in the day for the Auxiliary Sewing! Beginning October 10, the meetings will be held each week on Wednesday morning, and the notice is given early so that we may keep that day for the auxiliary when we plan our activities for the fall. Let us make a good start and all report for work Wednesday morning, October 10, at 9.30 o'clock.

On Tuesday, October 9, the regular stated meeting of the Auxiliary will be held in the parish house at 2.30 o'clock. Try to be on hand! The articles that have been made during the summer for Miss Riddell's leper hospital will be on exhibition in the guild room that day and, following the stated meeting, Mrs. Wellington will serve tea.

We are all most cordially invited.

Gypsies

"What have I done," one gypsy boy said, "that they should put me in school? My feet hurt in the shoes, and I sit on a bench with other children, and it's all walls and windows, and the teacher speaks about birds and trees, and I don't see birds and trees, and then soon I don't hear the teacher, and I think and think. And when the door opens I don't go home, but I go out of the city to hear the birds sing and to see the trees. And at night I sleep outside. In the morning a man came to my father and he says my father must bring me back to school or go to jail. And so my father finds me and they bring me to court and ask my father to whip me, and then they send me back to school. My father he can't read and he can't write, and he is the Barasan of the tribe, the chief."

We ourselves are adopting many gypsy ways. We encourage living in the open part of the year. We, the city people, speak glibly about camping in the open and outings. We have our Boy Scouts and Camp Fire Girls.

A Men's Church Paper

Probably few persons know that the Brotherhood's publication, St. Andrew's Cross, aims to deal broadly with men's work in the church, and should be found interesting to a wide field of readers. Its circulation is now more than 10,000 copies monthly. Its editorials are ably written, and the articles and notes inspiring and interesting. The subscription price is $2 per year. The September number will give an engrossing account of the eight training camps for boys conducted this summer in various parts of the country. October will be the convention number.

Men of Prayer and Service

An impressive service was held in Grace Church Sunday, August 12, following the early celebration. Three men were received as members of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew. The candidates, Messrs. John W. Irwin, Frederick Burness and Joseph F. Stumm were presented by the director of Grace Chapter, Mr. Meehan. The rector gave them the right hand of fellowship and presented them with the Brotherhood badges—bearing the symbol of St. Andrew's cross.

In this ceremony the rector describes the Brotherhood in the following words:

"The Brotherhood of St. Andrew is an organization for the spread of Christ's Kingdom among men by means of definite prayer and personal service.

"The Rule of Prayer is to pray daily for the spread of Christ's Kingdom among men, especially young men, and for God's blessings upon the labors of the Brotherhood.

The Rule of Service is to make at least one earnest effort each week to lead some man nearer to Christ through His Church."

This brief address gives the keynote of this great organization. Few people fully appreciate the influence this organization exerts for good. It works quietly but persistently and is the spiritual leaven in many a parish.

Grace Chapter has a long and honorable history. It is not large but it numbers in its personnel three national officers of the Brotherhood.

The Chapter feels the loss of one of its earnest members, Yale Crouter, who expects to take up residence in western Pennsylvania.

Memorial Service to the Late President

The Eucharistic service on Sunday, August fifth, took on unusual solemnity as reference was made to the death of President Harding.

Following the sermon a period of silence was observed. As the priest and people stood with bowed heads Chopin's funeral march was played. The cross and the flag took their stations before the altar. Prayers followed for the repose of the soul of the deceased President, for his widow and for the guidance of the nation under its new ruler.

In accordance with the proclamation of the President and the request of the Governor of this Commonwealth and the Bishop of this Diocese there was held in Grace Church a special memorial service for the late President on Friday, August 10, at 10.30 a. m.

The bell was tolled fifty-seven times. The service opened with "The Star-Spangled Banner," during the playing of which the rector, accompanied by the cross and flag, took his stand before the altar.

The service of morning prayer began with hymn 430, "God of Our Fathers." The special psalms were 102, 121 and 130.

The proper lessons were: Eccles. 12 and I Thess. 4:13-end. President Harding's favorite hymn, "Lead, Kindly Light," was sung. The address was made by Councilman William W. Roper.

Mr. Roper paid a beautiful and sincere tribute to Mr. Harding, saying that he believed he would go down to history not as a politician but as a statesman. He spoke of the characteristics of this simple, conscientious, noble public servant, and summed up the great achievements of his administration.

After a period of silence appropriate prayers were offered by the rector. The closing hymn was "My Country 'Tis of Thee."

The church was well filled. The Rev. E. B. Collier, who is temporarily in charge of the services of St. Martin-in-the-Field, invited his congregation to unite with Grace Church. Many of them responded.

The very fact of the presence of so many people in the church and the loyal motive which brought them together made the occasion an impressive one.

The following letter to the rector expresses the feeling which is no doubt quite general among the people of the church and the community.

Dear Mr. Cline:

Before this day's sun sets I wish to voice my appreciation of this morning's memorial service for President Harding. It was dignified and impressive—simple and beautiful, quite in keeping with the character of the man for whom it was held.

It proves two things, that the people of Mount Airy are patriotic and that they do heed a national call. Several workmen whom I invited personally came, some black, some white.

An individual notification even though only a postal, carries weight and there are always many who, for various reasons, are uninformed regarding these patriotic services.

Personally I am strong for them. The more that the flag is associated with the cross the better it will be and the closer the cross comes to the flag the more it becomes a Living Thing and Part of our every day lives. To heed the one turns us toward the other and vice versa, so strangely are their symbols interwoven.

Convention of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew

The Brotherhood celebrates its fortieth anniversary this month. Speaking of this interesting event the St. Andrew's Cross editorially says:

The fortieth anniversary of the founding of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew is about to be celebrated in Chicago where the late James L. Houghteling was, under God, a spiritual architect who builded wiser and more enduringly than he knew. Mr. Houghteling's religious leadership of men resulted in an influence that widened to embrace first the entire American Church, later included Canada, England and Scotland, and finally was felt in Australia and other outposts of the Church of England and of the American Church's missionary districts. It shaped itself into an Order of Churchmen that for forty years has pledged men to personal prayer and personal service for the extension of Christ's Kingdom.

The Order, now completing its first generation of life, is, fittingly, to celebrate its fortieth anniversary in the city where it had its beginning. This celebration will take the form of an international convention and will include in its sphere of interest, as does the Order itself, many Churchmen not of its membership. For one of the glories of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew is that it has been a leaven rather than an institution, awakening Churchmen to definite duties that are their reasonable service.

An anniversary as such has a certain impressiveness and a degree of sentiment. It imparts a pronounced sense of accomplishment; and the marking of successive milestones stirs us to succeeding endeavor. These features alone would not be a worthy basis for the Brotherhood's International Convention, commemorating the fortieth anniversary of its founding. The purpose of this anniversary is more significant, the object of the Convention is far greater.

The annual conventions of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew are so planned as to make them of interest to all churchmen. The objects of the Brotherhood are simply an intensification of the aim of every loyal churchman, so the convention program could hardly be otherwise than of interest to any who might go.

Grace Church Chapter will be represented by Messrs. Shelby, Meehan and Irwin at least. Others are considering it, and any volunteers, whether members or not, will be most welcome. Young men would be especially interested in the Junior Convention which runs parallel to that of the senior.

The general theme of the convention is "The Consecration of Manhood to Service."

This will be the thirty-eighth in the series that began when eighty-five Brotherhood men gathered at Chicago in the year 1886. There is a blessed privilege in the annual return of seasons and events that we love. As children we early began to anticipate festal days such as Christmas. Hardly had we begun school when we looked forward to the holidays that broke its routine. As time passed, the circle of life widened, and we found our calendar studded with an increasing number of anniversaries, while the seasons took on deeper meaning, the festivals of Church and State grew in significance, and the range of one's life came to be measured somewhat by the events that we gave prominence. Our annual Convention is an occasion marked "important" on the calendar of every member of the Brotherhood. Hundreds will go if they possibly can. Other hundreds will deny themselves the privilege only of necessity or wise expediency. But their Convention is a matter of common interest. This year it occurs, by a curious coincidence of dates, September 19 to 23, 1923: the thirty-eighth annual Convention of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, celebrating the fortieth anniversary of the founding of the Order, including the Brotherhood throughout the world; an International Convention, at Chicago where the Brotherhood had its beginning. "Hitherto hath the Lord helped us." Over the Ebenezer stone floats the standard of our Commander, "Go Forward!"

BROTHERHOOD CONVENTION PRAYER

Almighty God, Who hast called us to be workers together with Thee for the advancement of Thy Kingdom amongst all peoples throughout the world; grant, we beseech Thee, Thy guidance in the coming International Convention of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew: quicken the hearts, purify the minds and strengthen the wills of all its delegates from this and other lands, that through prayer and conference they may go forth to live and labor more joyfully for Thee, through Jesus Christ, our Lord, Amen.

Honorable Mention

The new Grace Church Directory calls our attention to the fact that our parish has representatives engaged in the work of the diocese and the national organization of the church.

It is an honor to the parish indeed to have Mr. Bayard serving as chancellor of the diocese and Mrs. George serving as treasurer of the Diocesan Woman's Auxiliary.

We are proud also to have three men serving as national officers of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, Mr. Shelby, Mr. Meehan and Mr. Irwin.

Mr. Irwin has also taken large responsibilities in the publicity work of the national council. It is a difficult work he admits, but says he is very happy in it.

Others from Grace Church have been prominent in diocesan church affairs—notably Mrs. North, who successfully headed the United Thank Offering of Pennsylvania for five years.

The Directory records another fact which is cause for pride and gratitude—H. Dimmick Baldy, from this parish, begins his studies at the General Theological Seminary, New York, this fall as a candidate for holy orders. The interest and prayers of the parish follow him as he prepares himself for the great work of the ministry.

The Leper Hospital
Two Letters From Miss Riddell

436 Furu-Shinyashiki
Kumamoto
Kiushiu, S. Japan
28th May, 1923.

To the Woman's Auxiliary and Guild of Grace Church, Mt.
Airy, Philadelphia, Penna.
By favour of the President.

My dear Friends:

I am sorry that you have not yet received a formal receipt for your kind gift of $50.00 for the Daily Bread League which arrived in April. The amount was carefully written up and otherwise attended to, but I wish to write myself. Excess of overwork alone has delayed this and I must ask you to pardon a typewritten note on this occasion, for the audit of 1922 is now going on and I feel your receipt and my thanks must no longer be postponed.

I wish you could see the Hospital and its inmates, who teach us many lessons of faith and love and saintliness. A clergyman who went to the Hospital a few weeks ago, said of one to whom he had been talking, "When a man like that can say "nothing shall separate us from the Love of GOD," there is not anything more to be said,—words fail."

Thanking you for your kind and continued interest,

Believe me, with kindest remembrances to you all,

Ever sincerely yours,

H. RIDDELL.

6th December, 1912

My dear Friends:

It is very nice to be writing to you from Japan once more. I reached Kumamoto on 14th May, having left Seattle on 29th April. The boat arrived in Kobe just in time to connect with a small boat leaving for our island of Kiushiu: and then from the port of Moji it was only a few hours by train to Kumamoto. Although Japan is such a small country, it is very long and slender, and those who have not taken the journey can hardly realize that from the port of Yokohama to our city of Kumamoto, the distance is practically the same as from London to Berlin (900 miles).

During my absence, there were thirteen deaths in the Hospital, an unprecedented number, and chiefly among the oldest patients with whom I had the closest ties of friendship, because of the Hospital having been for so long a time their home:—they were not simply patients nor just my much-loved children:—we were (and are) "one in Christ Jesus,"—and in His good time, can hope to meet again.

Their places were speedily filled up, for there is always a long waiting list.

It was very hot on arrival in May and there was a stupendous amount of important matters waiting my return (an audit among these) and the heat increased till it was perfectly torrid in July and by the end of that month, although at the time I did not realize it,—I had got beyond my limit and a little re-action set in which has, among other things, delayed my writing to you.

Happily, the very hot weather suits our patients better than any other season and I can leave for the mountains in great peace of mind. But this year I was very sorry to go for there were three so ill that they could not, humanly, be expected to live for many days.

One was a dear woman, a Miss Hoshino, 29 years of age She had been in the Hospital for several years and had become a good Christian. She was much loved because of her great unselfishness and tenderness for others, no matter how great her own sufferings might be. She did indeed "die to self" in this life and passed on early in September, very happily, murmuring the key-note of her life, "Victory! Victory!"

Another was a little boy of fourteen, Yasuji Horikawa,—so suffering and so weak when I said "Good bye" to him—but he has recovered, and I hear, offered to wrestle with one of the men-patients who sympathized with him too much for his heroic little spirit to bear with equanimity. He has not been in the Hospital very long, and was found by one of our lepers (formerly a University Professor) who is sufficiently well to go into the country roundabout to try to reach lepers who are being concealed by their relatives, and are well-cared for, on the whole, but lead desperately lonely and often humiliating lives. This phase of work can only be done by a leper and very privately and carefully.

Yasuji is happier and better in the Hospital than he could be under his former circumstances:—and he is much loved and petted. I wanted to give him something, anything he really desired to possess for his own special pleasure, and he chose a flute; but when he received it, he found that his fingers would not bend sufficiently to cover the holes in the flute to enable him to play it. Until then he did not know that the muscles of his fingers had begun to shrink. You can imagine his pain and disappointment! Then came his illness, but as I said he is now better and full of fun.

The third patient is a dear man, who was in a Divinity School preparing for the ministry when he found he was a leper. He has been in the Hospital for a long time and has been of great help and blessing to many. Though he is still with us, and many of those who love him dearly are praying for his recovery, he is very weak, but patiently, lovingly waiting to know the Will of his LORD.

Let me insert a letter received from one of my many godsons, while still in the mountains, written in English, and epitomizing what I have told you:—

"At the Hospital.
10th Sept. 1922.

Dear God-Mother,

Many many thanks for your kind permission! The magazines which I asked you for a few days ago reached me safely this morning. I am so grateful and I think they will be blessed by Our LORD. I hope that many of the patients who read will recognize the LORD's marvellous healing power and His Name be glorified.

You know that Hoshino San has entered into Everlasting Rest at last, don't you? Her life was one of the most victorious. I am told that even with her last breath she was saying "Victory! Victory!"

Muraoka San is neither better nor worse, but seems to every one, very tired. We hope he will be stronge and more comfortable in the Autumn.

Nakahara San is ill and in bed.

Malcolm is very well and very much interested in the new book you have sent him: he asks me to read it every day. And he is so much interested in the new Chaplain's preaching that he tries to seize every opportunity to listen and he goes to church every Sunday.

Thank you also for those verses you sent me: very much touching! (N. B. He meant "very suitable and to the point." Even a professor's English may fail occasionally!)

Yasuji is quite well.

Your very affectionate son,
Thomas."

I have written about the Hospital rather than of my journeyings, but I must just say that though there was more journeying than I could have thought it was possible to accomplish, and so much more hard work connected with it all, in addition to the usual secretarial work I had to carry on all the time, there was also so much happiness and blessing connected with it from beginning to end,that my heart is full of thankfulness.

I am in very real need of two ladies who would come to be helpers in the work—will you pray that this need may be filled? Please do, and, because expenses are greater in Japan than in any other country in the world, will you try to interest one new and praying friend for the Hospital and its needs, during 1923? (Phil. 4:6.)

Several times I have been asked for a legal form of bequest, and the enclosed form was drawn up by the lawyer of one of those desiring it. My financial advisers have suggested to me to distribute it, as they think that none could be offended even if it were not used; and I hope that it may be so.

Among Forbes Robinson's "Letters to his Friends," there is one in which he expresses so exactly what my own feelings have been since my return that I venture to quote it:—

"What a strange place a Hospital is! How wonderful the Gospels are with their hope and comfort on every page—hope for the physical as well as the mental side of man's life! I like more than ever now to read how JESUS went about healing all maner of diseases and all manner of sickness, and bringing life and strength wherever He came, showing us that Heaven is on our side in our wrestle with all that deforms and degrades human nature."

You will be remembered in the Hospital at Morning and Evening Prayer on your day, the Thirteenth of December, and thanks will be offered for your kind provision for the "Bread" for that day.

Regretting unavoidable delay in sending this on to you,

Believe me,
Very gratefully yours,
H. RIDDELL.

The Rector's Letter

My dear Friends:

On the first Sunday in October I shall begin a series of Sunday morning sermons which will continue until Whit-Sunday—covering a period of thirty-five Sundays.

The subject of the course will be "The Church as a Spiritual Power." This is the great theme of the hour. Our deepest need as individuals, our desperate need as a people is for the enhancement of power—spiritual power.

Although there is now a general recognition of this fact, there is a pathetic confusion as to the source and secret of real power. In their search for new life and for that force which is to recuperate the world the vast majority of people—even of nominal Christians, pass by the church. To them the church seems powerless today.

And yet it was for this very purpose that the church was born. It was in fulfilment of a divine promise, "Ye shall receive power." "I can do all things" was the typical expression of the Christians of the apostolic age. They attributed that enhancement of power to the operation in and through them of a divine energy which they called "The Spirit."

Is not this same divine strength available for us today? If so what is the secret of attaining it? Can we find the secret of spiritual power independently of the church? In what sense is the church vital to us and to the world?

The study of the church may be approached from various angles. We may consider it as an historic institution or as a school of thought. But throughout this course our interest will center upon the church as a Spiritual Power. We shall be concerned with the supernatural rather than the natural aspects of the church's life. Our effort will be to penetrate beneath the surface and discover the secret of the moral and spiritual achievements of the church. What has the church actually meant to the world?

In tracing, as best we can, the track of the Holy Spirit we shall employ an historical method of presentation. Beginning with our Lord's Ascension and the descent of the Holy Spirit as Pentecost, we shall follow roughly the history of the church down to the present. Each Sunday we shall consider some conspicuous events or persons which are typical of the church's life. Beginning at Jerusalem we shall follow the spread of Christianity, first in the East, then in the West. We shall study English church history for a few Sundays and thence to America and to our own diocese and parish.

The main outline and substance of the course will be found in the book entitled "The Work of the Holy Spirit in the Church," published by the Department of Religious Education. Like all the Christian Nurture books this one does not bear the author's name. But if the author of this course of sermons follows somewhat closely the thought of the author of the book it will not be plagiarism for the two are identical.

I shall publish in the Parish News from month to month a synopsis of the sermons. This will make it possible for those who are unable to be present to follow the development of thought. But I urge your regular attendance that you may derive the full benefit of these instructions.

It will be a great advantage if the thought of the whole parish can be centered upon this mighty theme throughout the year.

It will mean the enhancement of our spiritual power and our stronger fellowship in the church.

Books for collateral reading will be recommended. Some of these will be available in the parish library.

Elsewhere in this issue will be found a general outline of the whole course and a synopsis of the sermons for the month of October.

The success of this year's teaching will depend largely upon your interest and co-operation. Shall we not unite in our thought and prayer and effort in a really constructive program this year?

Very faithfully yours,

THOMAS S. CLINE.

Synopsis of Sermons for October
General Theme: The Church as a Spiritual Power

Sermon I., October 7
The Exalted Head of the Church

1. Introduction: For the announcement of the scope, aim and method of the course see the Rector's Letter in this issue of the Parish News.

2. After the Ascension, what?

We cannot understand the secret of the church's power unless we recognize in the ascended Christ the divine Source of that power.

We cannot begin our study in a better place than on the mount of the Ascension. There we shall be reminded of our Lord's heavenly life. All through our study of the church's history we must remember that He is the active Head.

Our Lord's last words to His disciples as the cloud received Him out of their sight was a promise of new power. "Ye shall receive power after that the Holy Ghost is come upon you."

The apostles had received intimations of their Lord's far-reaching plans to build a spiritual kingdom or "church." This accounts for the fact that they were filled with joy in spite of the departure of their Lord. They cherished a great secret—the church. They were inspired by a great hope—power.

How were they to receive this divine power? How would it manifest itself in them and through them? We shall see.

Meanwhile do men care today about this great mystery? Does the world understand the secret of spiritual power which caused hope to spring up within the breasts of those men who hastened back to Jerusalem nineteen centuries ago?

No, not yet, even though it has been an open secret for all these years. But we must understand this great purpose of Jesus, the Christ, the Son of the Living God. "I will build my church." We must understand the secret of spiritual power for we are His disciples and we have a share in this great enterprise.

Sermon II, October 14
The Mother Church

As we began our study of the church on the mount of the Ascension, let us continue it in the upper room at Jerusalem. There the disciples prayerfully awaited "the promise of the Father." They were not disappointed. They did actually receive "power from on high." There was no uncertainty about it. The divine power swept over them like a rushing mighty wind. It appeared in flames of fire. It brought inward illumination, and inspired their tongues with eloquence. They were conscious of new strength to endure and to achieve. They wielded a new influence over others. Overwhelmed by a desire to proclaim to the world their new found experience of God they went out into the crowded market place where S. Peter became their spokesman.

We must not be diverted by the strange and mysterious sights, sounds and marvels reported as happening on the day of Pentecost from consideration of the main point. What really happened at Pentecost?

Certainly a new spiritual power came to men.

How did this spiritual power manifest itself? In many wonderful ways, but chiefly and primarily in the Fellowship.

We can understand the nature of this new power better by studying its manifestations in the mother church which it created than by considering the miracles of Pentecost itself.

We learn that "they continued steadfastly in the apostles doctrine and (the) fellowship, and in the breaking of bread and in (the) prayers."

The new and wonderful power that bound the disciples together was called "The Fellowship." That was the primary result of the coming of the Spirit.

This fellowship came later to be known as the church. So far as our course is concerned the stages of the development of the outward organization of the church are irrelevant.

This new society—the church—made a profound impression upon the world. Its manifestations of spiritual power filled observers with amazement. At first it won the favor of the people and its growth was rapid. By and by persecution scattered the faithful and the church began to spread throughout the world.

Sermon III, October 21
The Spread of the Church

As we began our study of the church on the mount of the Ascension and continued it in Jerusalem, where it first manifested the characteristics of spiritual power, so today we must go to Antioch to watch a third stage of its wonderful development.

In spite of its early popularity, the mother church soon encountered fierce opposition in the persecution which arose about S. Stephen and which was led by the brilliant Pharisee, Saul of Tarsus.

This cruel treatment proved a blessing because it led directly to the spread of the church in distant parts. So irrepressible were those spirit-filled disciples that they planted the Faith wherever they went. Settling in Antioch, the capital of the East, they preached the Gospel to Greeks as well as Jews. It soon became evident that the church could thrive among Gentiles. The characteristic signs of spiritual power were evident.

In the spring of A. D. 46 an event took place which made the church at Antioch the mother church of the Gentiles and the starting point of the great missionary movement which was to leaven the whole Roman Empire.

The Holy Spirit said, "Separate me Barnabas and Saul for the work whereunto I have called them." Obeying the divine command these men were consecrated for their work as missionaries and sent forth to evangelize distant lands.

Saul had been changed from a destroyer to a builder of the church by a vision of the Christ in glory.

From that time he knew that the church was no fanatical sect, but rather a divine society vitally bound up with Jesus, its living, exalted Head.

This was the beginning of a revelation of the church as a Spiritual Power to Saul. He exemplified that spiritual power in his own life and in all the centuries from that day to this he has no peer as a master builder of the church.

We see the evident guidance of the Holy Spirit in the missionary achievements of S. Paul's time—and in the approving action of the first Council at Jerusalem.

Can we doubt that the Holy Spirit has inspired the missionary work of the church in all later ages?

Do we not see convincing evidence of the spiritual power of the church in the heroic and fruitful work of her missionaries?

Christianity spreads by virtue of its irrepressible spiritual vigor. It cannot be confined within any fixed bounds. It has a genius for world conquest. In the degree in which we are filled with spiritual power we shall become effective missionaries of the church.

Sermon IV, October 28
The Noble Army of Martyrs

In our study of the church as a Spiritual Power we looked first of all unto our exalted Lord, the Fountain Head. Then we turned our attention to the manifestations of new powers in human life first in Jerusalem the center of Jewish life; second in Antioch the center of missionary effort in the Gentile world.

Today we note another proof of spiritual power in the church's patience to endure suffering. The first three centuries of persecution reveal as no other period in its history the true nature of the church. Persecution purified the church and exhibited to the heathen world the true credentials of Christianity.

We must not imagine that the same intensity of zeal and loyalty which characterized the primitive days of the mother church was to be found throughout the rapidly growing army of professing Christians scattered over the empire. Many broke under the fire of persecution. And yet the church remained unconquerable. In spite of attacks from without and apostasy within, there abode within the church a Spirit—powerful enough to overcome the world.

The early attacks upon the church were local and limited.

Instances of these attacks are the persecution following the burning of Rome, the torture and death of venerable saints like Ignatius and Polycarp, outbursts of cruelty in Southern Gaul and in the province of Africa.

About the middle of the third century the Roman Empire began a systematic persecution of Christians over the whole extent of the empire.

The bloody climax was reached during the reign of Galerius when the whole empire was in a tumult. Finally upon his death-bed the emperor confessed the Christians had conquered. Then came Constantine and toleration.

The Roman Empire was mighty but the spiritual power of the church was mightier.

Do not look forward to what might happen tomorrow; for the same everlasting Father who cares for you today will take care of you tomorrow, and every day. Either He will shield you from suffering or He will give you unfailing strength to bear it. Be at peace then, and put aside all anxious thoughts and imaginings.—St. Francis de Sales.

Bishop's Day

In July Bishop Rhinelander wrote from his summer home at Eastern Point, Gloucester, Mass.: "I am glad we are to have another Bishop's Day in the fall." This was certainly a bit of good news, for early in the spring the bishop was not at all sure that he could be with us.

For ten years our Bishop's Days have been increasingly the favorite feature of our women's activities in the convocation of Germantown. Last year the "day" was omitted because of the absence of the bishop from the diocese, and now we want to make this last gathering with dear Bishop Rhinelander "a perfect day" the memory of which shall ever be an inspiration.

The service and conference are to be at St. Luke's Church, Germantown, on Tuesday, October 30th. In the afternoon we shall have the Question Box as usual, and probably one or two short addresses.

Please keep this date free, and pass on this information.

Japan

My dear Mr. Pease:

I am aware that the members of the congregation are fully informed regarding the awful calamity in Japan and that the appeals both of the Red Cross and our own church authorities have been adequately presented by Mr. Irwin and Mr. Bedinger. I cannot refrain, however, from urging upon all the duty of rendering all possible aid.

I am pleased to hear that over a thousand dollars was raised in the Mount Airy churches on September 9th, of which Grace Church gave $151.85. I hope this sum has since been much increased.

The staggering losses of our own communion demand unusual sacrifices. Our interest in St. Luke's Hospital, Tokio, is very deep as evidenced by our recent gift of a thousand dollars.

We must now give fresh evidence of that interest by aiding Dr. Teusler in his splendid plans.

Meanwhile our sympathy prompts us to intercession on behalf of the multitude of sufferers.

I shall appreciate it, Mr. Pease, if you will find room in the Parish News for these sentiments.

Yours faithfully,

THOMAS S. CLINE.

As to the Book of Esther

"Such of the clergy as conduct daily morning prayer have had their knowledge tested during July. Alas, in so few of our churches is the daily office used that the test is not a very general one.

"On the morning of July 5th the first lesson appointed is from the eleventh chapter of Esther; on the seventh from the thirteenth chapter; on the tenth from the thirteenth; on the eleventh from the fourteenth, and on the seventeenth from the sixteenth chapter of the same book.

"Yet reference to the Book of Esther in the Old Testament shows only ten chapters. Where are the others?

"In the Apocrypha, following the Book of Judith, we have, 'The rest of the chapters of the Book of Esther, which are found neither in the Hebrew nor in the Chaldee.' In this section the tenth chapter is completed and six additional chapters are added. Among these are the chapters which the present lectionary adds to the canonical chapters of Esther and uses during July. These additional chapters, taken from the Greek of the Septuagint, should really be distributed among the canonical chapters, and their position in the lectionary accords them their proper places in the Esther narrative.

"Their use in the lessons is legitimate; but we venture to say that many a clergyman was momentarily at a loss to find the place unless he had looked it up well in advance.

"How many of us could have found the thirteenth chapter (for instance) of Esther quickly, without this explanation?"—From "The Living Church."

The Summer School Picnic

The picnic of the Summer Church School was held on September 5th with great success due to the splendid plans made by Miss Shipley. Although the day was cloudy the children met at the parish house with smiling faces where they waited for the bus to take them to the park. There were too many children for one bus load, so it had to come a second time. As soon as the picnic ground was reached lunch was prepared; such a bounteous luncheon! Each child seemed to have brought enough for himself and for one other, so the tables were loaded with good things. When everyone had eaten as much as possible, quiet games were started, but soon the relay and three-legged races were holding the interest of the main school, while the kindergarten children were playing many interesting games directed by Mrs. Hall, Mrs. Tyler and Miss Lois Cline. We must mention that the three-legged race was won by the girls. Great excitement came when a park guard came to tell that the ice cream had been left at another place, but after much discussion in which the boys all gladly offered to carry down the ice cream, it was decided that it would be nicer for all to walk through lovely Fairmount Park along the Wissahickon stream to the spot where the ice cream was. So instead of a disappointment it rather added to the enjoyment of the picnic. A two by two procession was formed, with Mrs. Hall and the little ones leading and the older boys keeping guard at the rear. It was truly a charming walk; then, too, such a fine place where we stopped to eat the ice cream, right beside a rocky stream. It was not many moments before shoes and stockings were off and wading was the sport of the hour. Many thanks to Mr. Meehan and Mr. Yale Crouter, who much to every one's delight, had joined the picnic, carried the huge freezer of ice cream from the park guard's station to the stream where the children were wading. Then came the call to eat. With reluctance stockings and shoes were put on, but the bountiful supply of ice cream and cake made up for all. Then more games. Afterwards a short walk to a smooth, green hill on which the children delighted to roll until with regret the bus came to take them home, each child begging to go on the last load.

Will the subscribers to the Spirit of Missions who have been renewing through the treasurer of the United Thank Offering, kindly remit this year directly to the New York office, on receipt of notice of the expiration of their subscriptions.

The Woman's Auxiliary and Guild

On Tuesday, October 9th, at 3 o'clock, we hope our auxiliary room will be filled with women eager to know about the work planned for the winter, and to see the Christmas box which is to be sent to the lepers in Miss Riddell's hospital, in Kumamoto, Japan.

Come and show Mrs. Wellington how much we appreciate her efforts for these sufferers. Also, she asks us to be sociable and stay for a cup of tea.

Our regular work day will be Wednesday, beginning October 10th, 9.30 a. m., hoping that it will prove to be a better day for more women.

As you know, Mrs. Burrell plans the work, so every one can do something. Machine work, hand work, hospital or gauze work. To those who will make knitted articles at home, Mrs. Pease will furnish the wool on application; any kind you wish, but after all, it is the "get together spirit" which counts—so come and hear what is being done in missionary work in the whole world by the whole church.

We want more of our young mothers to come together (somehow they are always too busy to get acquainted), so a day is being planned in the near future when the children in the primary and intermediate classes in the Church School can bring their mothers and have an informal afternoon at the home of the president, who wants to know every one in Grace Church, and who wants you to know each other.

As we look back upon the summer and realize what the months have brought—first, our great national loss in the death of President Harding—and last, the dreadful calamity in Japan, let us come together now, in the spirit of self-sacrifice, ready to live for the welfare and peace and brotherhood of humanity.

FLORENCE DeG. JENKINS.

The Church School Service League

Although the work and the weekly meetings of the Church School Service League were discontinued during the summer months, we have continued the praying and giving.

With a certain sum of money, the Little Helpers under the careful and wise guidance of Mrs. Hall, with the help of her assistant, Lois Cline, have packed and sent to the Rev. L. R. Craighill for the Nanchung Primary School in China, an attractive box of joyful and useful gifts, for Christmas. With more money the Juniors have bought several presents, both useful and joyful, making another attractive box which was packed and sent to the Rev. B. Wood Gaither, St. Paul's Mission, Eagle, Alaska.

We earnestly hope these two boxes will arrive safely and in time to add to the joy and happiness of the little ones in China and Alaska at Christmas.

A Message to Parents from Grace Church, Mount Airy

We have, in common with all Christian parents, a great interest—the religious training of the boys and girls.

Grace Church School opens its winter session Sunday, October 7, 1923, at 9.30 a. m.

All boys and girls of the community who are not already connected with some other church school are welcome to enter as regular scholars.

We enroll children at the time of their baptisms as members of the Front Roll. At 4 years of age they are received into the Beginner's Department. The training continues throughout childhood and youth according to a carefully graded system known as The Christian Nurture Courses.

We feel that the success of this training depends largely upon the co-operation of the parents. We are planning a forward step along this line this coming fall.

On Wednesday evening, October 17th, we expect to hold a meeting of all the parents of the Grace Church children and other people of the community who are interested in the work of religious education. At this meeting we plan to organize a Grace Church School Association.

The purpose of this new organization will be to establish a closer relation between the church school and the homes of the parish, and to promote active co-operation in this most vital work of training the boys and girls in religion.

Members of the Association will be asked:

1. To attend three meetings of the Association each year.

2. To attend the Church School Commencement.

3. To visit the School at least once during the year.

4. To show an interest in the home work of the scholars and where possible to co-operate.

5. To pay annual dues of 50 cents per family, in return for which they will be furnished with a Church Calendar and Manual of Prayers and Daily Bible Readings.

6. To further the aims of the School, so far as possible, by setting the example of church attendance and Christian living before the younger generation.

The Children—God Bless Them

Almost every one likes a true story in preference to one of the synthetic variety. Mark Twain used to say that "Truth is stranger than fiction, but it is because fiction is obliged to stick to possibilities; truth isn't."

So here is a truly, truly story—it happened just so.

A lady interested in a colored kindergarten had just told the story of the Nativity and of the gifts of the Magi. Then, to see if the children had paid close attention, she asked one of the older boys to tell the story in his own words. He did it all pretty well, but astonished the teacher by announcing with confidence that the Wise Men brought "Gold, frankfurters and myrrh!"

The Rector's Dedication Festival Letter

Dear Parishioners:

Our Dedication Festivals are never twice the same. Two years ago the Centennial of the Church's Missionary Society gave a Missionary coloring to our celebration. We interpreted Dedication in terms of the Church's world-wide mission.

This year for the first time a class will be presented to the Bishop for Confirmation on our Dedication Festival Sunday.

As we hear those persons renew the solemn vows of their Baptism, and acknowledge themselves bound to believe and to do accordingly; as we see the Bishop's hands placed upon their heads to certify them of God's favour and gracious goodness towards them, and hear his prayer that the Holy Spirit may ever be with them; we shall be deeply impressed with the meaning of Dedication as it applies to our lives as Communicants of the Church of God.

The presence of Bishop Rhinelander will make this Dedication Festival memorable. We are highly honored that he has chosen Grace Church as one of the few to be visited before he lays aside his work as Bishop of Pennsylvania. We shall be attentive to his message, we shall be grateful for his blessing. We shall give him such a welcome as only Christian gratitude, loyalty and love can inspire.

As seems most fitting, the new lanterns in the nave will be dedicated on that occasion by the Bishop. They commemorate the shining deeds of parents as remembered by grateful sons and daughters.

The offering will be for the Bishop's Fund and the offering for our Parish Endowment Fund will be made on the following Sunday.

Once a year on the Sunday of our Parish Festival we hold a corporate Communion for the parish. On this occasion we give expression to our unity in Christ by coming together and partaking of the One Bread.

The Lord's Supper is essentially a Sacrament of Unity and it becomes especially so to us at All Saints tide. Our fellowship in Christ is very real. The bond will be strengthened by our corporate act of Communion.

All Communicants of Grace Church should make their Communions Sunday morning November fourth—for the sake of The Fellowship. If they come at seven-thirty, they should return at eleven for the great oblation and to hear the Bishop's message to us as a parish.

This great event calls for special preparation—and, being a corporate act, it should have a corporate preparation. Therefore, I have arranged for a service of preparation on the evening of All Saints Day, Thursday, Nov. 1st, at 8 o'clock. I appeal to all Communicants of the parish to reserve that evening. Let us be with one acord in one place.

The preacher at Evensong, on Festival Sunday will be the Rev. Dr. Phillips who will help us all to make the Festival a time of personal dedication to Christ and His Church. At the close of that service we shall sing the Te Deum as an act of praise and thanksgiving for God's rich blessings to us and to all whose privilege it has been to worship in this beautiful sacred edifice since it was dedicated thirty-four years ago.

Faithfully yours,

THOMAS S. CLINE.

Men's Service League

Taking as a foundation for his theme the word "Service" Dr. Alonzo Ray Petty of the Judson Memorial, Washington Square, New York, spoke to a gathering of 95 men, assembled in Grace Church Parish House on October 22d, at a dinner of the Men's Service League.

Developing this theme through "Optimism," "Enthusiasm," "Appreciation," "Sympathy' and finally "Religion" he illustrated each point with forceful statements largely from his own experience and lightened by well chosen stories right to the point. He said that the kind of men needed at the present time were those who had the right kind of optimism—those who were able to examine conditions and see the wrong in them but who could honestly face the facts and have the faith and enthusiasm to work for their betterment.

He said further that with this facing of the facts came appreciation of others and of their work and then as a natural development, sympathy and finally it could be summed up in one word—Religion—love of God and love of fellow man. He touched on national and international problems as well as on social problems within our country, and the long sustained spontaneous applause at the conclusion of his talk gave full evidence of the grip in which he had held his audience for over an hour.

The room had been beautifully decortaed with flowers and autumn leaves by Mrs. MacDonald, Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. Sheble, Mrs. Watts, Mrs. Burk, Miss Burk, Mrs. Rice and Mrs. Fell, and the tables presented a most attractive appearance as the men filed in to dinner.

The music was under the leadership of the same gentlemen who had so successfully handled the music at the May dinner.

Among the specialties was the hastily improvised Junior Quartette consisting of Messrs. W. F. Wagner, Jr., Alan Crouter, Philip Cline and W. W. Sibson, Jr., who sang several numbers from the song sheet amidst an avalanche of applause and flowers. At the conclusion of their singing a call was made for the fathers of these young men to sing the same song and to their credit let it be said that they rose to their feet and responded nobly.

Previous to Dr. Petty's address Mr. Rice reviewed in a five minute talk the work of the Men's Service League, taking as his subject "The Men's Service League and What It Does." He outlined the work of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, the Welcome and Visiting Committee, the Social Service Committee and others, and cited as specific instances the new lamps in the church, the vacation to the choir boys in appreciation of their work during the year, the placing and keeping of an aged parishioner in a suitable home. He also stated that one of the objectives of these dinners was to become acquainted with each other so that when men entered the church it would not be as strangers to each other but that here and there a face would be recognized and a smile or a handshake given.

The benediction was pronounced at 9:30 and the men filed into the church for an inspection of the new lamps.

The Woman's Auxiliary and Guild

On Friday, December 7, a Japanese Bazaar, supper and a musical program in the evening, followed by dancing, for the young people will be given in the Parish House, for the benefit of the Emergency Relief Fund for the Church in Japan, and by this time every woman has received her invitation to help. We have discussed the question many times, whether we should have entertainments or whether we should give right from our hearts and from our pockets, and we have reached the conclusion that we must do both. We need the monthly envelope subscriptions to know just what we can depend upon for our regular work.

We need the other kind of giving to bring our people together, especially our young people. Sometimes we seem to forget that before long these young people must take our places in the Church work. Are we training them to do it? Looking over the annals of the Woman's Auxiliary and Guild, we read how the good women of Grace Church worked together in every way possible to help bring our Church to the state which we enjoy today and we read between the lines, what loving service it was, too.

With Mrs. Thos. H. Ball in charge of this entertainment in December, we know it is going to be a success—but not without your help and mine. At an earlier date, (which cannot be decided upon now, on account of illness) we hope to have a beautiful illustrated lecture on Japan, given in Grace Church Parish House by Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Pancoast, and we must show our appreciation when two such busy people will do this for us.

Please keep in mind the other dates sent you—also the fact that our allotment from the Supply Bureau will reach us about November 1st. There will be fifty house-dresses and fifty operating-gowns to be made, beside the regular hand work which is always ready to be done at the Parish House or at home.

FLORENCE DE G. JENKINS.

Church School Notes

The Winter Term of our Church School—began on Sunday, Oct. 7th. How wonderful it seemed to rally once more in our beautiful Church with our own Rector to lead us. The happy faces of the children together with the welcoming interest shown by Officers and Teachers—made the day a memorable one.

Much credit must be attributed to our new young teachers who have shown such interest in their courses and real eagerness to teach with the best possible methods. It is an encouragement to have them with us.

The Church School Service League resumes its activity on Saturday, Nov. 3rd, at 10:30 A. M.—for one hour.

Will mothers please remind their girls and boys that that hour is consecrated to God. By their presence the children show that they are willing to pray and work for Him in His vineyard. It is their Christian Service.

Service League Prayer

O God, Our Heavenly Father, we thank Thee for the gift of Thy dear Son. Grant that we who have received Him in our hearts may joyfully go forth with Him on many errands. Bless those who toil for Thee in far off places; comfort them in their loneliness; and unite our work to theirs. Accept our gifts, receive our prayers; and use us for the sake of Thy Son Jesus Christ, our Lord. Amen.

The Church School Associaton

A meeting of parents was held in the parish house on Wednesday evening, Oct. 17th, under the auspices of the Church School.

The Rector stated reasons why the success of the religious training of the boys and girls required closer co-operation between the Church School and the home. He outlined a proper organization aiming to accomplish this result and to be known as "The Church School Association."

Mrs. John Loman gave a clear and comprehensive description of the Christian Nurture Series of lessons now in use in Grace Church School. The thoroughness of the training now being offered the children of the Church was very forcefully brought out.

The new organization was effected and all present registered as members. It is hoped this Association will grow until it includes all parents of the parish. Members of the Association are asked.

1. To attend three meeting of the Association each year.

2. To attend the Church School Commencement.

3. To visit the School at least once during the year.

4. To show an interest in the home work of the scholars and where possible to co-operate.

5. To pay annual dues of 50 cents per family, in return for which they will be furnished with a Church Calendar and Manual of Prayers and Daily Bible Readings.

6. To further the aims of the school, so far as possible, by setting the example of Church attendance and Christion living before the younger generation.

The Church in Japan Needs Our Help

At first we were all deeply moved by the news of the Earthquake disaster in Japan. But we soon forget. Our lives are so full of many things. Such was the magnitude of that calamity that we must remember it and respond again and again to the calls for aid from Tokyo.

The pressing needs of the stricken Church in Japan were the chief concern at the October meeting of the National Council of the Church.

Dr. Reifsnider hurried from Japan to represent Bishop McKim at that meeting. He brought fresh and reliable information for the guidance of the Church in America.

He gave a graphic idea of the extent and intensity of the disaster. He presented to the Council, and through them to us of the Church, an unprecedented opportunity.

The need for the Emeregency Fund of a half million dollars is most urgent. Of this some $153,000 has already been contributed. Our own diocese has sent $40,000 I believe.

Grace Church is asked for something over $900—of which about half has been given. The Church School donated over $18 last Sunday.

The Woman's Auxiliary is planning for a Bazaar to raise additional funds for this purpose. Meanwhile I urge every member of the Congregation to give generously to this urgent fund.

The Council has authorized Bishop Gailor and Dr. Wood to proceed at once to Japan to confer with Bishop McKim about reconstruction.

Dr. Reifsnider says:

"The loss to the American Mission alone is estimated at $1,250,000. The English Church Missionary Societies have each suffered loss to the extent of $225,000. Our Church in Japan has suffered more severely than any other communion. The Japanese Church, however is not disheartened and is rallying around Bishop McKim, and expects to still be able to support their own Japanese Bishop and develop the independent diocese of Tokyo created at the last Convention of the Japanese Church. They turn to the American Church, however, for nuclei in the burnt districts, and it is proposed that five Christian centers be immediately erected in five strategical points in the city about which the native Christians may rally and from which their expression of Christian service to the destitute non-Christians in that district may be evidenced.

They have lost everything except their faith and courage, and they look to the sister Church in America to aid them in their distress and to help them realize this great opportunity to make known to the refugee and destitute population of Tokyo the real meaning of Christian love and service.

St. Luke's is already under way in conjunction with the American Red Cross in the work of help to the destitute and wounded. St. Paul's University is at present the home of a thousand refugees. From the 15th of October, by which time these refugees will have been moved to other places, St. Paul's Middle School and University intend to open to care for those who look to them for help and assistance at this time of dearth of educational facilities. We are going ahead with our plans, which involve a certain amount of money, in the faith that these extraordinary expenses will be met by the generosity of the Church in the United States.

This is a wonderful opportunity for service and a manifestation of Christianity in this time of national distress."

It is the duty of Churchmen to learn as much as possible about the plight of their fellow Churchmen of Japan and after the manner of early Christians to send relief unto their brethren in distress.

Dr. Upjohn Resigns

We read in the current number of The Evangelist of the resignation of the Rev. Dr. Upjohn as Rector of St. Luke's Church, Germantown.

What a splendid pastorate of two score years! Under Dr. Upjohn's able and devoted leadership, St. Luke's Church has accomplished a great work. Both by his life and doctrine Dr. Upjohn has faithfully set forth God's true and lively Word and has rightly and duly administered His holy Sacraments. He has been a faithful and true Pastor as multitudes of his loyal parishioners bear grateful witness.

Dr. Upjohn has the affection and admiration not only of his parishioners but of his brethren in the Ministry.

His letter of resignation follows:

In their reply to Dr. Upjohn's letter of resignation, the Wardens and Vestrymen of St. Luke's paid him the following tribute:

"Firm in the 'Faith once delivered to the saints' you have stood forth boldly as a champion of 'the Church of the Living God, the pillar and ground of the truth.' No attack upon her doctrine or order but has found you fighting valiantly in her defence as a faithful soldier and servant of Jesus Christ.

"You have given us the best part of your life; your one interest has been the welfare of the Parish; you have taught us what the spiritual life is and you have opened to all who have followed your leadership a way that 'leads us daily nearer God.'"

Parish Endowment Fund and Bishop's Fund

It is our custom to devote the offering on our annual Dedication Festival Sunday to the Parish Endowment Fund.

This year the offering for the Endowment Fund will be taken the Sunday following, November 11th.

This change of date is made out of deference to the Bishop who requests that the offering on the occasion of his visitations be devoted to the Bishop's Fund.

The Standing Resolutions of the Diocese speak of the Bishop's Discretionary Fund as follows:

"That this Convention earnestly commends this subject to the Rectors of the Diocese, with the hope that each one will take measures every year to put into the hands of the Bishop, for use at his discretion, such a sum as his presentation of the case may secure from his congregation for this purpose."

The members of the Congregation will please bear in mind these two special offerings the first two Sundays in November. The Parish Endowment Fund stands at $2773.85. The interest will not become available until the sum has reached $10,000. This Fund should be steadily increased.

Evensong

Evening Prayer which has been held at 5.30 o'clock during the summer will be changed—beginning the first Sunday in November, to 4.30 o'clock.

The service will be preceeded by an organ recital—beginning at four o'clock.

This beautiful vesper service should prove a spiritual blessing to many. Grace Church is never so lovely as in the late afternoon. The tones of the choir are at their best. There is a peacefulness about Evensong. Attendance upon this service makes the observance of the Lord's Day more complete and satisfactory.

During the winter months Evensong has been at eight o'clock in recent years.

The change to the afternoon is partly out of consideration for the young boys of the choir and partly in response to the suggestion of those who think Sunday evening a pleasant time for the families of the parish to enjoy their own firesides.

During the Lenten season there will be a series of Sunday Night Services as heretofore.

World Court Week

Armistice Week, November 5-11 will be widely observed in this country as World Court Week.

This movement deserves the loyal backing of Christian people. All possible pressure of public sentiment should be brought to bear upon the President of the United States to act at once upon the recommendations of our late President Warren Gamaliel Harding in his message to the Senate, Feb., 1923 that the United States enter the World Court. Synopsis of Sermons for November
General Theme: The Church as a Spirtual Power.

Sermon V., November 4
The Council of Nicaea I

In the new Fellowship which emerged at Pentecost and created the Mother Church in Jerusalem we have seen the unmistakable signs of spiritual power.

Again in the rapid spread of the Church among Gentiles as well as Jews we have seen fresh evidence of its irrepressible vigour.

Still a greater revelation of the spiritual resources of the Church was brought out by the centuries of persecution by Pagan Rome. Today we shall see the Church facing entirely new conditions and exerting her strength in new fields of endeavour.

In a comparatively short time the Church was transformed from a proscribed and persecuted secret society, to the recognized and established Church of the Empire.

Christianity had not only survived and thrived under persecution, it had actually triumphed over Paganism and conquered the Empire.

The Emperor himself, who held the title of Pontifex Maximus, the head of the ancient pagan religion of Rome was converted and became the chief patron of the Church. When the great council of Nicaea was summoned early in the Fourth Century, it was the Emporer who called it and personally presided over its sessions. The bishops there assembled acknowledged in Constantine their great benefactor. He had published the edict of complete toleration to Christians and of restoration of all property to the Church. He had given Christianity its great Charter of liberties.

So it came about, in the providence of God, that the Church found herself in a new situation, one which challenged her to demonstrate to the world her power to mould human society on a large scale.

The embrace of the Empire threatened to stifle the life of the Church. Riches and power confronted Christians with new temptations. It was a severe test but evidently it was "Our Lord's intention that His Kingdom should spread till it became coextensive with human society and that Kings should be its nursing fathers."

By the spiritual power of the Church we do not mean merely a private ecstasy nor a purifying, enlightening influence in individual lives nor yet a spirit of fellowship confined to select groups more or less withdrawn from society. We mean rather that power which unites men in effective effort to change the world and to make the kingdoms of this world the Kingdom of God and His Christ.

Sermon VI., November 11
The Council of Nicaea II

The great event in the history of the Church which now holds our attention is the Council held at Nicaea early in the fourth century.

Over three hundred bishops' representing all parts of Chistendom had responded to the call of the Emperor. The purpose of the Council was to set forth authoritatively the Faith of the Church. A great controversy had arisen as to the nature of Jesus Christ. The Emperor wanted to unite the Church that through the Church he might unite the Empire.

He wrote to the leaders of the contending parties, Alexander and Arius, urging them to be reconciled and to keep the peace. "Believe in God," he said to them "and do not disturb yourselves concerning questions which no man can answer."

Again in his opening address to the Council, Constantine urged the bishops to undertake their work in a friendly spirit. Little did he dream the momentous significance of the decisions of that Council. Even today we are tempted to ask with our modern western spirit of impatience, "Was the matter worth all the effort and strife?" Was not Gibbon justified when he sneered at "all this contention and bloodshed over the difference of a diphthong?"

But it was not merely a subtle disputation as to the nature of the Deity. It was the most practical question in the world that was at issue—"who was Jesus Christ?" Upon the answer to this question the very Faith and Life of the Church depended.

Every assembly has its master minds nor are they always those highest in authority. The first to cast the spell of his eloquence over the Council was Arius the popular preacher of Alexandria. He taught that, however exalted and godlike Jesus Christ may be, He was created by the Father and is inferior to the Father and therefore not very God but a creature.

There was a flood of testimony from many bishops from all parts of the world that such was contrary to the Faith which had always been received and taught in their Churches.

Finally there arose a young champion of the Catholic Faith in the person of a deacon named Athanasius. He showed that if Arius were right it would be idolatry to worship Jesus as Lord. The whole nature of Christianity would be changed. The spiritual power of the Church would be dissipated. Athanasius was victorius. The Nicene Creed was adopted. The Faith was authoritatively set forth for future ages.

Later generations of Christians have vindicated the decisions of the Council. We say the Nicene Creed today with full conviction of faith. This is because the same Holy Spirit who guided the bishops at Nicaea dwells in our hearts today.

Sermon VII., November 18
The Eastern Church

We present today S. Chrysostom, Patriarch of Constantinople, the last of the great lights of the galaxy of the Eastern Church. One reason why he has been chosen is to bring before us the significance of the Eastern Church.

The first great schism of the Church was between the East and the West. When the Empire divided the Church also split in twain. The Church in the Eastern Empire developed into the Greek or Orthodox Church with its chief see at Constantinople. The Church in the Western Empire looked to the Bishop of Rome for leadership.

Two things draw our attention to the Eastern Church at present, first the movement toward reunion between the Anglican and the Eastern Orthodox Communions and secondly the persecution of the Orthodox Church, specially in Russia.

The Eastern or Greek Church was the fountain head of doctrines and customs of Catholic Chistendom. The whole setting of early Christianity was Greek. The discussions at Nicaea were carried on in Greek. The resulting Creed was in Greek.

Today the Eastern Church, occupying more territory than the Roman Church including within its fold an hundred million of our fellow Christians is a force to be reckoned with. Undoubtedly it is destined to play a leading part in the reunion of Christendom.

We have chosen S. Chrysostom not merely because he represents the Eastern Church but chiefly because he personifies to a remarkable degree the spiritual power of the Church; protesting to the bitter end against the encroachments of the world.

The conversion of Constantine had given the Christian religion popularity. Many entered the Church because it was in favour with the Court. Even bishops were behaving like Courtiers rather than like Shepherds of the people.

Chrysostom, a man of monastic simplicity and personal holiness, could not be dazzled by imperial splendour or spoiled by flattery and riches. He found himself patriarch in the capital of the East. He could have been the companion of emperors and have made the Church a great secular power. He could have lived in splendour in a grand palace as his predecessor had done. But he sold the costly furniture and gave the money to the relief of poverty. He became poor like his Master and like Him refused to bow to Satan in order to receive the homage of the world.

Chrysostom became a reformer of the morals both of the clergy and the people. Naturally he encountered fierce opposition. Theophilus, Bishop of Alexandria among the prelates and Empress Eudoxia among the royalty, became his enemies. They united forces against him. He was condemned by a synod and exiled from the city.

Finally the good prophet was ordered to the North shore of the Black Sea and during the cruel hardships of the journey died a martyr crying "glory to God for all things."

Why did S. Chrysostom encounter such suffering? Because he was intent upon making the Church a spiritual power—not a temporal power.

For his insistence upon moral purity and Christian ethical standards he incurred the wrath of royalty and provoked the pleasure-loving populace. He exemplified in his own character and achievements the spirituality of the Church and he died a martyr to his ideal of the Church as a Spiritual Power.

Sermon VIII., November 25
The Western Church

Last Sunday our attention centered upon the Eastern Church as represented by S. Chrysostom—Patriarch of Constantinople and the last of the great Fathers of the East.

We said that the torch of progress was from Chrysostom's time to be taken up by the Western Church. One reason for this was because the Western Church, led by the Bishop of Rome freed itself from the domination of the temporal power of the Emperor.

Another reason was because the western world, led by S. Augustine, Bishop of Hippo, freed itself from the intellectual despotism of the East.

Augustine was not only a saint, but a great thinker and teacher. Not only was he the ruling intellectual force in the Church of his own generation but his theological writings served as guides to Christian thought for many centuries. Men turned to them as to a treasure house throughout the middle ages. And even after the Reformation both Catholics and Protestants found in his profound and comprehensive writings the sources of their inspiration.

The story of Augustine's conversion is one of the classics of Christian literature.

The dawn of heavenly light upon his soul was an event of great importance in the history of the Church, His influence upon Christian thought can be compared only with that of the great Apostle S. Paul.

Augustine championed the Faith against the heresy of Pelagius who made salvation depend upon the exertion of the human will. Augustine's two great characteristic doctrines were:

1. Salvation comes by Grace.
   Grace is help from God.
   The Sacrifice of Christ upon the Cross makes grace available.
2. Grace comes by the Church.
   It is imparted by the Sacraments.
   The Church is the Ark of Safety in this world.

No doctor of the Church ever taught more forcefully that the Church is a Spiritual Power. He laid great stress upon the work of the Holy Spirit in the Church. He said, "What the soul is to the human body, such is the Holy Spirit to the Body of Christ."

While S. Augustine was masterfully contending for the Faith, a great change was taking place in the civilized world. Gradually step by step the barbarians had passed over the boundaries of the Danube and the Rhine into the Empire. Alaric the Goth besieged Rome and took it. The eternal city, the immemorial metropolis of the world, the invincible and inviolable fortress of civilization, fell. It was at such a time that Augustine wrote his greatest work, the City of God. His purpose was to show that though the City of this world may fall—yet the City of God will stand fast forever.

Troop 67--Boy Scouts of America

Scouting what is it?—First, let us look at the Scout oath—

"O my honor I will do my best:

1. To do my duty to God and my Country, and to obey the Scout Law.

2. To help other people at all times.

3. To keep myself physically strong, mentally awake, and morally straight."

Only forty words, but it sums up about all that is essential to good citizenship.

And now as to the Scout Law: It is divided under twelve headings: A scout is:

1. Trustworthy
2. Loyal
3. Helpful
4. Friendly
5. Courteous
6. Kind
7. Obedient
8. Cheerful
9. Thrifty
10. Brave
11. Clean
12. Reverent

Are not these the teachings of "The Church of God?"

And then the Motto: BE PREPARED.

What more could we ask of anyone than to be prepared for any emergency that should arise, in the home, in the class-room, at play, in business, or on the street. And if we are prepared, are we not better fitted to keep the pledge to "DO A GOOD TURN DAILY"?

We, the boys of Troop 67 are prepared to welcome any boy of twelve years old or over, who is willing to take and keep the oath, to join us. We meet every Wednesday evening at 7.30 P. M. in Grace Church Parish House.

Ask us about it after Church, after school, or at any time or place you may see us—

The Flag Follows the Cross

I have had twenty-one years experience amongst natives. I have seen the semi-civilized and the uncivilized; I have lived with the Christian native and I have lived, dined and slept with the cannibal...But I have never yet met a single man or woman, or a single people that your civilization, without Christianity, has civilized...Gospel and commerce, but it must be the Gospel first. Wherever you find in the island of New Guinea a friendly people that will welcome you, there the misionaries of the Cross have been preaching Christ. Civilization! The rampart can only be stormed by those who carry the Cross.—James Chalmers, Missionary and Martyr.

Thanksgiving Day

The National Thanksgiving Day is always observed by special services in Grace Church.

Morning Prayer with its glorious Te Deum is said at 9.30 o'clock.

Holy Communion—our noblest offering of praise and Thanksgiving to God, will begin at 10.

The choir will be in attendance.

The Rector will preach. The offering will be devoted to the Episcopal Hospital.

There will be a distribution of provisions among the poor of the community. Articles may be left at the Parish House where the Social Service Committee will take charge of them. Contributions of money may be sent to Mrs. Sheble (Chairman) Roumfort Road.

The Vestryman to the Rescue

I have a parish in mind in which there was a vestry and on that vestry a vestryman who went to Church on Sunday morning, put something in the plate and that was about all. He came in to see me one day and said that he would like to widen his horizon of service. I said, "Begin right back there in your own parish by going to Church every Sunday, starting in at 7:30 in the morning and doing everything that lies in your power." There is scarcely a single aspect of that parish the influence of which was not multiplied two-fold, three-fold, four-fold, because one single vestryman got down to life of concrete, practical service.—The Bishop of Chicago.

THE ANNUAL PARISH CANVASS

"Seek ye first the Kingdom of God."

It has become the approved method in all loyal and up-to-date parishes of the Church to make each year an Every Member Canvass, thus affording all members of the congregation an opportunity to pledge according to their ability toward the building up of the Kingdom of God—in their own community and throughout the world.

Such a canvass will be made in this parish Sunday, December 9, between 2 and 6 P. M. Meanwhile, members of the congregation will receive letters furnishing them with information regarding our parish budget and our Missionary quota for 1924.

All are earnestly requested to fill out the pledge card and have it ready for the visitors, Sunday, December 9.

We have set before us as a worthy and attainable goal the raising of our full Missionary quota of $8000, and our entire parish budget of $16,000 for next year.

This will mean increased pledges from old subscribers and the addition of many new subscribers.

Grace Church has a good record in past years, showing steady growth up to the present. Let us all unite to advance her standard.

Stand up, stand up for Jesus,
Ye soldiers of the Cross!
Lift high His royal banner!
It must not suffer loss.

Prayer

Lord of all power and might, who rulest in heaven and in earth, and canst turn the hearts of men after the counsel of Thine own will; we humbly pray Thee to awaken in all the members of our Parish a deep desire to maintain and set forward the work of Thy Kingdom throughout the world, that Thy Holy Name may be glorified and that all men everywhere may come to know Thee as their Father, through Jesus Christ, our only Saviour and Redeemer.

Amen.

The Rector's Letter

My Dear Parishioners and Friends:

As Christmas season approaches we are reminded afresh that "at the heart of the universe there is the spirit of eternal child-likeness." We are coming slowly to appreciate the signifigance of our Lord's act when, by a living parable, He set a child in the midst of His disciples.

No more important subject claims our attention than that of the religious education of our boys and girls. Our first duty is to put the child in the centre, and recognize in our church life the law of growth.

We are doing this in so far as we are applying the principles of Christian Nurture in our Church School.

The purpose of these courses is not merely to impart information but to give the child a definite training in the Christian life. to foster Church loyalty, to build up devotional habits and to lead him into active Christian service.

A great forward step was taken when the Christian Nurture series was introduced in Grace Church School ten years ago. For the first few years we had many difficulties to face. The courses require more thorough preparation on the part of the teacher than other courses. The advanced courses presuppose the foundations have been laid in the elementary grades.

Ten years ago the Christian Nurture courses were in the experimental stage. By patient, pains-taking work the Church, under the direction of the Department of Religious Education, has been perfecting them.

Today experts in religious education say emphatically that, making full acknowledgment of the real excellence of other lesson material, these books furnish the teacher and pupil alike with the best equipment.

We have proved their worth in Grace Church. We are just beginning to reap the harvest of ten years of planting. The young men and women who have been trained for a series of years in Christian Nurture are ready today to serve as loyal churchmen and churchwomen. Six of these young people have recently been added to the teaching staff of our Church School. Many others are taking an active part in the Young People's Society, and the Altar Servers' Guild. They are rendering willing service under the direction of the Men's Service League and Woman's Auxiliary whenever called upon.

We see them attending the Church worship and coming regularly to make their communions.

We have every reason to believe that their religion is very real. They will not be swept from their moorings by the swift currents of worldliness. They are not living for this world only.

It is not enough that the Church School should stand for these great Christian Nurture principles. They must be understood and appreciated by the whole membership of the parish, and particularly by the parents.

The rector and the teachers have been carrying on this important work very much alone. The Church School has been regarded too long as a side-issue.

The time has come for the parents of the parish to face their responsibility. The best results of the Church School work waits upon their interest and active backing.

With this purpose in view the Church School Association is slowly taking form. I hope all parents in the parish will promptly enroll as members and thus affiliate themselves definitely with the Church School.

There are one hundred and twenty-five families represented by our present Church School membership. Nor should the Church School Association be confined to parents. All adult members of the parish should recognize in this movement something of vital concern to them.

Mrs. William H. Betz, of 17 Vernon road (phone Ger. 7129), has accepted the position of Field Secretary for this new organization. I bespeak for her your hearty co-operation.

Let us make the next meeting of the association on Wednesday evening, January ninth, a memorable rally of Grace Church people representing at least one hundred homes.

With the Christmas lesson fresh in our minds and the Christmas spirit in our hearts let us again set the child in the centre of our parish life.

Faithfully yours,
THOMAS S. CLINE.

$3000 Fund Growing

It is with pleasure that the following statement of funds collected for the tuition of Leonard Lynam at the Church Farm School, is reported:

In response to printed appeals in the parish papers of Grace and St. Paul's Churches $142.00
Proceeds of card party given November 1 ..... 311.00

Total $453.00

The Woman's Auxiliary and Guild

As someone said the other day, "When the call comes in an emergency the women of Grace Church are always ready." And so it seems, for after the appeal for workers in the Japanese Bazaar, which is to be held on Friday, December 7, the response was most generous and we have a splendid force of women ready to serve you on that date.

The food table promises not only good home-made cakes, but more substantial food as well. Among the useful and fancy articles will be found Christmas cards, our Church calendars and many things suitable for gifts, also aprons and hemmed towels which have been made in the Guild Room.

There will be candy and ice cream cones a-plenty and a grab bag for the kiddies. Dolls too are being dressed for the occasion.

Afternoon tea will be served for those who care to indulge, and there will be one particular table that will be of interest to all—"The White Elephant" table. We all have something at home that has been waiting for just this chance to change its residence—something too good to throw away, but perhaps we are tired of it and would be willing to put it to such use as this. Send it or bring it, please, to the White Elephant table to be turned into money for Japan.

You who need sweaters will do well to wait for the Bazaar to buy them, for Mrs. Ball has procured a splendid assortment of attractive and beautiful sweaters, scarfs, sweater coats and silk and wool stockings. They are all at reasonable prices and much below what is asked in the stores. They are for men, women and children, so you can outfit the whole family and find gifts for your friends. Do your Christmas shopping at the Bazaar!!

We all remember with pleasure Mrs. Wilde's beautiful concert for the Organ Fund, so we will be glad to hear that Mrs. Wilde is arranging a concert for the evening of the Bazaar, at which time also a Japanese dance will be given by a friend of our chairman, Mrs. Ball. For the evening entertainment we are asked to drop a bit of silver in a basket at the top of the stairs. After the concert the room will be given over to the young people for dancing.

Supper tickets have been mailed so that the committee may know how many to expect and may provide accordingly.

December 7 promises to be enjoyable in many ways. Let us EACH do a share toward the amount that the Church people of our country are giving with boundless compassion and good will to the stricken Japanese, which, after all, we are told, "is only half the cost of a modern battleship, and the gifts so far have accomplished more than decades of tedious and circuitous diplomacy could bring about."

While plans are going on for the bazaar the sewing machines are humming on Wednesday mornings, and our long table is surrounded by women working diligently on the surgical dressings that are always greatly needed. Following is a letter in this connection from Diocesan headquarters:

November 17, 1923.

My dear Mrs. Burrell:

Miss Lillie has just told me of your telephone message stating that the Auxiliary of Grace Church, Mount Airy, will make the 1000 laparotomy pads six inches square. This is wonderful news for the Supply Department; you have no idea how difficult it is to get the Auxiliaries to take this certain kind of surgical dressing. Again and again we are grateful to you and your Auxiliary.

Very truly yours,
ELIZABETH C. LUCAS,
(MRS. ALBERT LUCAS),

Chairman, Supply Department.

Starting with the celebration of the Holy Communion at 9 o'clock with sewing about a half-hour later, and reports from our various delegates at 11.30, we have a mid-week day to which we all look forward. Are there not more women who would enjoy being with us on Wednesdays? They will be most welcome.

May the light of the Christmas star fill all your hearts with happiness and peace.

FLORENCE de G. JENKINS.

Christmastide

At this season of the year we are looking forward eagerly to the celebration of our Saviour's birth. Christmas day will come on Tuesday this year. According to our custom the Church School will hold its festival service on Christmas eve, Monday, at 4 o'clock. Few services during the year are so loved as this Christmas eve service. It has made a unique place for itself in the community.

On Christmas day there will be three celebrations of the Holy Communion at 6, 7.30 and 11 o'clock.

Morning prayer at 10.30.

There will be special music at the 11 o'clock service.

Families are requested to attend that service and sit together. It is hoped communicants will make their Christmas communions at one of the early services and return for the midday service. Children will be specially welcome.

LETTERS OF TRANSFER

It is important that all communicants who regard Grace Church as their spiritual home be regularly enrolled as communicants of the parish.

Those who have not yet procured letters of transfer from their former parishes are requested to do so. A special effort is being made to clear up our communicant list before the end of the year.

If, for any reason, such a certificate cannot be procured through no fault of the communicant, the rector can enroll such communicant upon receiving sufficient evidence.

There are at present on our parish list 73 names of persons who have not procured their letters of transfer, and so are deprived of regular enrollment and standing as full communicants of Grace Church.

All that is necessary is a letter to the rector of your former parish.

Why not clear this matter up promptly?

The Election of a Bishop

Bishop Rhinelander's resignation as Bishop of Pennsylvania has been accepted by the House of Bishops.

A special convention to elect his successor has been called for Tuesday, January 22, at 9.30 A. M., in Holy Trinity Church.

The faithful prayers of the congregation are asked for the guidance of the Holy Spirit in this important choice.

The following prayer has been set forth for public and private use by the Bishop Suffragan.

It is commended for daily use by the members of Grace Church:

"Almighty and everlasting God, who by Thy Holy Spirit didst preside in the Council of the blessed Apostles, and hast promised through Thy Son, Jesus Christ, to be with Thy Church to the end of the world; We beseech Thee to be with the Council of Thy Church soon to assemble in Thy name and presence.

"Put far from us all worldly thoughts and aims, and enable us to act as in Thy sight, and for Thy glory.

"Give us Thy grace, that we may follow after the things which make for peace, and that all things may be said and done with charity, the very bond of peace and of all virtues.

"Send to us, as Bishop of this diocese, a man full of grace and wisdom approved by Thee, who shall be to the flock of Christ a true shepherd; who shall feed Thy sheep and Thy lambs; who shall hold up the weak, heal the sick, bind up the broken, seek the lost; who shall be so merciful that he be not too remiss; so minister discipline that he forget not mercy; that when the Chief Shepherd shall appear, he and we may receive the never fading crown of glory, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen."

Miss Helen Rebmann has accepted the position of Secretary of the Cathedral League for the parish to succeed Mrs. Matlack.

Armistice Day

At the opening of the service on Sunday, November 11, there was a special patriotic observance.

The choir—bearing the Cross and the national flag—approached the chancel by the centre aisle. Upon their arrival in the chancel, the rector spoke as follows:

"Armistice day is a great and solemn day in our nation's history.

"It is a day of joyous remembrance of the victory we hailed five years ago. It is a day of sublime sorrow for the brave men who died for home and country. It is also the anniversary of the great disarmament conference, and has become a day dedicated to the establishment of permanent peace among the nations.

"Fully conscious of the significance of the moment, let us in the spirit of reverence remember before God, and with high honor, those who gave their lives in the cause of Liberty and Justice, and ask His blessing upon our country and upon all nations that peace and justice may rule among us."

For which silence shall be kept for the space of two minutes.

After a period of silence the National Anthem was sung and special prayers were offered both as memorials of patriots and as petitions for permanent peace.

The service then proceeded as usual.

The Font Roll

From the moment of their baptism children are members of the Church and they have a recognized place in the Church's system.

The Church School has its Font Roll in which the newly-baptized infant is entered.

The Font Roll superintendent keeps in touch with these little ones and remembers their birthdays.

When they are old enough they are entered in the Primary Department of the Church School.

The new superintendent of the Font Roll Department is Mrs. S. Mendelson Meehan, No. 380 Vernon road (Phone—Gtn. 3242).

Her assistant is Mrs. Frederick Burness, No. 116 East Gorgas lane (Phone—Gtn. 1739).

These ladies are interested in bringing all unbaptized children in the parish to Holy Baptism. The rector is glad to arrange for baptisms any Sunday. The usual hour is 12.30 P. M.—following the morning service.

A boy should have two godfathers and one godmother. A girl should have two godmothers and one godfather.

Where possible the sponsors should be communicants of the Church.

A Memorable Day

Sunday, November 4, was a great day in the history of Grace Church. It was our dedication festival Sunday. The communicants gave devout expression to their spiritual unity by the Corporate Communion.

A congregation of more than 400 were present at the 11 o'clock service.

The rector presented 16 persons to the Bishop for confirmation.

Bishop Rhinelander preached a searching sermon on self-dedication, taking as his text the words of our Lord, "For their sakes, I consecrate myself."

The six lanterns recently hung in the nave of the Church were dedicated. The Bishop read the names of the parents in whose memory they were presented as follows:

Walter Edward Brand, Louisa Geary Brand, Maria Grey Fortescue, Joshua Greaves, Amanda Shannon Greaves, Emma S. Johnston, James N. Johnston, William Thomas Knight, Albert Gallatin La Rue, Annie Jackson La Rue, Isabelle Knowles Lever, Gilbert Stuart Moore, Lucy Murray Rice, Eliza Hunter Snyder, Kate Clementine Taylor, Livinia Conover Thompson, Louise Jackson Walton, Robert Wallace Wilkinson, Lemuel Zell, Rachel Pastorius Zell.

A pair of seven-branched candlesticks for the altar were dedicated in memory of Warren Westmoreland Rommel.

At Evesong the preacher was Rev. Dr. Phillips, rector of the Church of the Saviour, West Philadelphia. Dr. Phillips brought a stirring message appropriate to the Dedication Festival.

Mr. Robinson played an organ recital in the afternoon. The music by the choir throughout the day was beautiful.

First Communion

The persons who were confirmed on the first Sunday in November have continued under pastoral instruction throughout the month in preparation for their First Communion, which will be at the early service on Advent Sunday, December 2.

The Communicants' Guild—composed of those who have been confirmed during the past three years will make its corporate communion at that time.

Following the service a simple breakfast will be served in the parish house.

The Spirit of the Home

Too much is assumed, frequently, when we classify as such, Christian homes. Most of us find it a bit easier to go to church for public worship, to speak to a total stranger about coming to church, and to exercise an agreeable Christian spirit towards casual friends, than to do all this or anything akin to it in our own homes and among our intimates.

Surely the Brotherhood touched a fundamental need when it began the advocacy of a richer development of the spiritual life in church homes.

Too many are frightened by the apparent vigorous requirements of Family Prayer, not realizing that the direct opposite of formality—simplicity—is the natural and easy way to develop religion in the home. Grace at meals and the addition of a few prayers concerning family life can be had by every household. This can be enlarged on by devotions at a separate time on stated days and occasions, if not daily. As the thought is developed in practice, the way may be found to have family prayers and Bible readings every day.

Why should not every household work toward an ideal at least. Some beginning must be made. Have at hand the facilities for doing it. The Brotherhood of St. Andrew publishes a Manual of Prayers and Church Calendar for use in family devotions. They include the series of daily Bible readings recommended by the National Council of the Church, and the Brotherhood's publication has the approval of the Department of Religious Education.

The Manual and Calendar for 1924 are now ready for distribution. Both have been revised and improved. They date from the beginning of the year. Why not resolve to begin their use with this new year? The cost is 50 cents; but the purchase of two sets for $1 is urged, that the extra copies may be used in the St. Andrew way, to start some other family to using them.

Secure copies from the National Office in the Church House.

Synopsis of Sermons for December
General Theme: The Church as a Spiritual Power.

Sermon IX, December 2
Monasticism

The Spiritual Power of the Church as exemplified in monasticism.

The Essence of Monasticism

The basic idea which underlies all the varied forms of Monasticism is that of forsaking the world in order to specialize in the spiritual life.

The monks were specialists and their speciality was religion. They renounced the world because they found the affairs of the world interfered with their spiritual life.

The legitimate place of monasticism in the Christian regime.

There are those who trace monasticism to pagan sources and regard it as an intrusion into Christianity.

But asceticism was not foreign to Apostolic Christianity. The golden text of monasticism is a saying from the lips of our Lord Himself, "If thou wilt be perfect, go and sell that thou hast and give to the poor and thou shalt find treasure in heaven and come and follow me." S. Matt 19:21. We find the note of renunciation at the very centre of the Christian Gospel.

Monasticism must be studied therefore as a natural and legitimate development of Christianity.

Accomplishments of Monasticism.

1. Monasticism has trained multitudes of saints. As we review the history of the Church from S. Anthony the pioneer of monasticism to the great reformer Luther, himself a monk, it seems that almost every conspicuous leader was either himself a monk or a warm supporter of monasticism.

2. Monasticism liberated men from the world.

In ages of tumult and violence the monastery offered the only refuge open to peace-loving and religious-minded people. There they sought escape from the misery and evil of the world.

3. Monasticism held ever before the world the spiritual ideal.

These men who fled from the world arrested the attention of the world. Men followed them into their fastnesses. They were consulted as oracles of God. Colonies formed around them. They moulded public thought. Their whole life and method was an assertion of the value of spiritual things, as against material things, of eternal interests as against temporal interests.

4. Monasticism gave great impetus to missionary work.

At first it might seem to make in the opposite direction. Men tried to escape from the world to commune with God. But God sent them back into the dark places of the earth to convert the world.

5. Monasticism was a mighty force in building up civilization.

Monasteries were the outposts of civilization. The industrious monks taught the people methods of agriculture and the arts of life.

If it had rendered no other service its work of stimulating intellectual progress would fully justify this great movement.

6. From monasticism orginated the great impulse of reform.

Even in its period of corruption and degradation there lived in monasticism a spiritual power, which was to prove itself "stronger both to deliver and to reform the world than all the culture of all the great discoveries of the age."

Sermon X, December 9
The Conversion of the Barbarians

Today we recount another marvelous demonstration of the Spiritual Power of the Church—the conversion of the barbarians.

The Barbarian Invasion.

Upon the death of Emperor Theodosius came the permanent division between the East and the West, and soon began the disruption of the empire.

But though the barbarians finally conquered and plundered Rome, the "mistress of the world," they were unable to conquer or stamp out the church.

Barbarians yield to Christian Influence.

Christianity cast its spell even over the fierce leaders of these savage hordes. When Alaric sacked Rome he ordered that the churches and their contents be inviolate. When the terrible Attila, who termed himself the "Scourge of God," led his hordes against Rome he yielded to the intercession of Leo, Bishop of Rome. We can account better for this attitude of pagan savages toward Christianity when we learn that missionaries had already been at work among them.

The Frankish Church

Ulfilas and the other missionaries who first prepared the barbarians for Christianity were Arians. But one nation received Christianity in its Catholic form—the Franks.

The Frankish Church made the Catholic Faith dominant in Gaul and Italy. The Saxons remained heathens for two centuries longer but were finally won for the Church.

In the vast forests beyond the Rhine the German tribes remained in the barbarism and paganism of their ancestors.

Among the courageous messengers of the Cross who penetrated these difficult fields was Boniface.

The Apostle of Germany

The mighty missionary achievements of Boniface remind us of those of the great Apostle to the Gentiles.

As he journeyed through Frisia, Thuringia and Hessia multitudes of pagans renounced their gods and sought Baptism. He founded churches and monasteries. He organized dioceses. He received high honors at Rome, and was hailed as the missionary who had baptized 100,000 converts.

It has been said "perhaps no one has added regions greater or more valuable to the dominion of Christ and few have exerted greater influence upon the progress of the human race than Archbishop Boniface."

The appearance of Boniface, saint, missionary and reformer, was the sign of approaching regeneration of the Church.

He reorganized the Frankish Church, replaced the Celtic form of Christianity by the Roman and unified the Church in Gaul and Germany under the Pope.

The papacy served a spiritual end at that time to unite and guide the Church.

The achievements of Boniface illustrate the power of the Holy Spirit at work in the life of a leader of the Church.

We believe the Holy Spirit prompted his mission—his policy—gave him wisdom, faith and endurance, taught him to value the German savages, opened his eyes to the opportunities for the Christianizing of virgin soil, gave him prophetic vision into the future, inspired him with a great and noble ideal for the Church, and sustained him in his hours of trial—to the last tragedy when he received the martyr's crown.

Sermon XI, December 16
"The Papacy"

(1) Hildebrand, the Reformer. A monk of Cluny, Hildebrand the Reformer, one day stopped a magnificant procession. It was a new pope—whom the emperor had duly appointed—on his way to Rome, attended by his splendid retinue and clad in his robes of office. The monk said, "Father, you are not the pope of Rome. You have been appointed by the emperor, but the pope must be elected by the people." Though he was the cousin of the emperor, the new pope laid aside his pontifical robes, adopted the coarse frock of a pilgrim, and entered Rome bare-footed. He received enthusiastic welcome and was duly elected pope according to the ancient custom. Hildebrand became his chief adviser. He had already served as chaplain to a former pope, and knew the need of reform. With his aid the pope, Leo IX, carried through a great work of reform, and when he died he solemnly committed the Church to the care of his adviser, Hildebrand. The people, too, desired that the reformer be made pope, but Hildebrand preferred to be "the power behind the throne." For twenty-three years, during the reigns of four popes, the monk of Cluny was the leading spirit in far-reaching reforms.

(2) The Pope Supreme. Finally, upon the death of Pope Alexander, the clergy and people demanded Hildebrand for pope. He took the name of Gregory VII, and assumed authority as Universal Bishop.

Trouble arose between the pope and the emperor. Henry IV, emperor of Germany and successor of the old emperor of Rome, refused to yield to the pope. Pope Gregory excommunicated him. Excommunication was a terrible weapon in those days. The emperor found himself deserted by princes, prelates and people. The only way he could be restored to power was by receiving the pope's absolution. Accompanied by his wife and child, he crossed the Alps in the dead of winter. In the outer court of the castle at Canossa, clad in the coarse robe of a penitent, fasting and alone, bare-foot and exposed to cold, the emperor waited for three days before the pope gave him an audience.

Then the greatest sovereign in Europe prostrated himself before the former monk of Cluny, and received absolution. It is a strange episode. The Church which dared to renounce the world had come to rule the world. The monks who had fled from the world found the world at their feet.

(3) Spiritual Power Revealed. Hildebrand was a conspicuous example of the guidance of the Holy Spirit. His asceticism prepared him to renounce the world and to concentrate upon spiritual aims. His devotion enabled him to measure all things by spiritual rule, even the actions of popes and emperors. We believe that the Holy Spirit taught him fearlessness, inspired him with a vision of the purified Church, and made him sensitive to the evils of the times. We believe that the Holy Spirit gave power and effectiveness to his warnings to Pope Bruno. How can we account for his self abnegation except by the influence of the Holy Spirit? Whereas others sought the honors and emoluments of ecclesiastical office especially that of the Papacy, he repeatedly declined such preferment and deliberately put himself in the background. We are deeply impressed by his wisdom in the selection of men to occupy the papal throne, and by his influence over a succession of popes, always exerted for the good of the Church. His very ambition for the supremacy of the papacy over all temporal rulers was due to a pure motive. He sought to make the Church a spiritual power and to check the evil ambitions of kings.

We believe that the Holy Spirit was at work in and through the papacy during that period; that the unification and the reformation of the Church needed strong central authority. We do not mean to imply that Gregory VII was infallible or that he made no serious mistakes; guidance of the Holy Spirit does not insure inerrancy, nor does it give automatic control. We feel that Gregory VII departed widely from the idea of the Church as set forth in the New Testament; that he failed to understand fully the meaning of our Lord's words when He said "My Kingdom is not of this World." We do not imply that the papacy was divinely ordained as the permanent form of church government; only so far as was conducive to the advancement of the spiritual power of the Church did it serve the Holy Spirit's purpose.

The Holy Spirit works only good. Whenever, therefore, we find evil, we must attribute it to another spirit antagonistic to the Holy Spirit. The spirit of worldliness, selfishness, or avarice has always been at work seeking to thwart the work of the Holy Spirit both from without and from within the Church. The great thing that our study of the Church reveals is the continuous victory of the light over the darkness.

Sermon XII, December 23

"The Crusades"

(1) The Religious Motive. At first the Crusades might seem a poor selection as an illustration of the spiritual power of the Church. They might serve better to show the military power—for the Crusades were "wars undertaken for the sake of the Cross." It is no doubt true that they stirred the love of adventure and that many who enlisted were prompted by selfish and sordid aims. Any great movement which sweeps whole nations into its mighty current is bound to carry along the baser elements of society.

But the chief appeal of the Crusades was religious and the response was noble, heoric, glorious. Men, women and even children were fired with a great devotion to Jesus Christ. They hoped to come near to Him by seeking again the sacred shrines which had been hallowed by His presence and ministry. They felt that they must defend his honor by freeing from infidel control His Holy Sepulchre.

(2) The Sacred Shrines in Infidel Hands. The capture of Jerusalem in 637 by Mohammedans placed the sacred sites in Moslem control. This was bad enough, but when Palestine was conquered by the Turks, the situation became unbearable. They were converts to Mohammedanism and were so fanatical in their zeal that they destroyed Christian Churches, oppressed native Christians and rendered pilgrimages almost impossible. It was generally regarded as a disgrace to Christendom to allow the Turks to defile the holy shrines of the faith.

The Eastern Empire was powerless to drive out the Turks alone. The Western Empire must come to the rescue. It was a chivalrous undertaking—hazardous and arduous in the extreme. No motive short of religious enthusiasm would ever prompt such an undertaking.

(3) God Wills It. A great council was held at Clermont where the leading prelates and clergy of the Church were present, together with princes and people from far and near. The town was like a huge camp. There the pope made his memorable appeal to the people in the market place. He pictured the insults offered to the Christians and sacred places of the Holy Land, he called on Western Christendom to cleanse the holy sites from such unbelievers, and promised divine blessing on the undertaking.

Enthusiasm swept the great throng. "God Wills it" they cried. Thousands took the vow and attached the Cross to their shoulders. The pope's message was carried by preachers, like the famous Peter the Hermit, throughout France and the Rhineland. All over Europe everything was set into motion.

(4) The Call to Service. The call to service in the great war of recent memory helps us to appreciate what this meant. It called for courage and sacrifice, the merging of all personal and local interests in the great common cause. It lifted men out of their pettiness on to the heights of religious consecration and patriotism. As they assumed the Cross, they dedicated themselves and their fortunes to the holy cause. The general response to this chivalrous and valorous appeal throughout Europe was magnificent; it was a manifestation of the spiritual power of the Church to rouse men of all ranks to noble sacrifice and brave achievements.

(5) "Godfrey." The real task of the Crusade was to be accomplished under the lead of the feudal nobility of the age. Conspicuous among them was the noble Knight Godfrey of Bouillon. He not only gave his wealth but he shared the hardships and dangers of the expedition. He lavished his fine skill and intelligence. He stood out as most conspicuous of all the noble leaders of the Crusade. He guided his army on their long and arduous march to Constantinople. He dealt wisely and firmly with Alexius the Emperor of the East who sought trouble. He led his troops successfully against Nicaea, Dorylaeum and Antioch. When other leaders quarreled as to whose the captured Antioch should be, Godfrey urged advance to Jerusalem. There he was among the first to effect a lodgement of the wall. Soon Jerusalem, the goal of their Crusade, was in their power.

They were frenzied with joy. After untold suffering and terrific loss of life their goal was won. The Holy Sepulchre was once more delivered from Moslem control. It remained now to provide the government and defense of the Holy Land.

Immediately they unanimously chose Godfrey as head of the new state. He modestly refused the title of king saying "he dared not wear the crown of gold when the King of Kings had been crowned with thorns." He took the title of "Protector of the Holy Sepulchre."

(6) Spiritual Power Revealed. Do we not feel as we recall those stirring scenes and heroic characters that there was in that great Crusade a manifestation of the Spiritual Power of the Church? All Christendom was aroused, by the man who was its recognized spiritual head, to lay aside its worldly interests and at all costs strive to rescue the holy places. The Crusade was undertaken for the honor of Jesus Christ and with the desire to draw nearer to Him. Such were the motives that inspired men like Godfrey to suffer and to dare.

Our idea of Christianity may differ from that of the Middle Ages, but we cannot fail to appreciate the spirit of devotion which prompted them.

Give a Man a Man's Work

He was used to doing things of telescopic proportions in his business, and things of microscopic proportion in his church. The pastor watched him swing, with a masterful hand, the affairs of his company. He saw him take over another corporation that had failed and turn failure into success when he got under the load.

"What wonders he could accomplish in the church if he could only see that his church calls for the same quality of ability!" thought the pastor.

One day he called on him.

"Mr. B., I want you to get under a big business proposition. Our congregation has been offered a wonderful opportunity of taking up an entire mission station in India. There are 300,000 people between it and the next station. Ten thousand dollars is all that is asked for it this year. I'm sure the man who put the——corporation over can do this too."

There were various arguments and protests.

"I'm going to leave this thing on your shoulders," insisted the pastor. "It seems rather hard to me to come in and unload on you 300,000 souls, but I know you can carry it if you'll get under it fairly."

The result? The man who had been content to ease his conscience by dropping a few small coins in the offering squarely faced his responsibility. He called together half a dozen men of large affairs he knew in the church. "If we get together with a thousand a piece that will start it off, so we can get the balance in smaller amounts," he told them. He prepared splendid publicity about "Our Parish in India." As he talked to others, his own conviction increased. He became intensely interested and active. The load transformed the layman. —Australian Board of Missions Review.

The Rector's Letter

MY DEAR FRIENDS:

As the active season of parish life draws to a close and we hear the annual reports of the various departments, we are impressed anew by the excellent work which has been accomplished and with the fine spirit which has characterized it all. We hear much, nowadays, about the demoralization of the Church, but, as a matter of fact, we do not find evidence of it in our own parish. We have reached, this past year, the high-water mark. A spirit of earnestness, faithfulness, and harmony has pervaded the worship and work of Grace Church.

May I venture, in the limited space at my disposal, to mention some notable features of the year's work and a few of the persons whose leadership has made them possible?

The Men's Service League has justified its title. It has rendered valuable service in beautifying the church, providing recreation for the boys, aiding in charitable work, and promoting interest and fellowship among the men of the community. Every meeting which has been held during the régime of Mr. Rice has been a marked success. Mr. Whedon takes up the leadership under most favorable auspices. Mr. Allsop and his Welcome Committee have made the cordiality of Grace Church felt among all newcomers. The district leaders have tried to extend the neighborly spirit into every corner of the community.

Grace Chapter of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew has just completed its twenty-fifth year under the continuous direction of Mr. Meehan. It would be hard to parallel that quarter of a century of tireless, self-effacing, Christian service. Mr. Meehan's mantle now falls upon Mr. Irwin. The Junior Chapter of the Brotherhood has been revived during the year and is affording splendid training to a group of younger men.

One need but glance at the report of the year's work of the various departments of the Woman's Auxiliary and Guild to see that the women have not only been true to their noble traditions, but have established a new record of achievement. Under the aggressive and whole-hearted leadership of Mrs. Jenkins there has been hearty co-operation in every branch of the Auxiliary. It is evident that the women thoroughly enjoy working together. The results are inspiring. While it is impossible even to mention all branches of this comprehensive organization, I cannot omit reference to the beautiful Christian work of the Social Service Committee in charge of Mrs. Sheble, nor that of the Box Work Committee under the vigorous management of Mrs. Burrell. Mrs. Hayes has eclipsed all former seasons in the mission study classes, and Mrs. Wellington has enlarged the scope of the work for lepers in Japan. Miss Bayard has extended the work of the Church Periodical Club, and Mrs. Weaver that of the Cathedral League.

The leadership of Mrs. Crouter, who has served for the past ten years with remarkable efficiency as principal of the Church School, has been greatly missed this season, but the impetus of her past labors has carried the school forward. The superintendent has been ably assisted by the department heads, Mrs. Thompson, Mrs. Horton, and Mrs. Hall. They, in turn, have been backed up by an unusually fine corps of young teachers. The average attendance of these teachers this year has been the highest our school has ever attained. As might be expected, the result has been a very satisfactory year's work. The school has been fortunate in having a skilled and painstaking secretary in Mr. Brown, who has been faithfully aided by Miss LaRue. Even the little tots, too young for admission to the Church School, have been carefully looked after by Mrs. Meehan and Mrs. Burness, who are in charge of the Font Roll. The Church School Association, under the presidency of Mr. White, has made a place for itself during its first year and by means of a series of interesting and delightful meetings has aroused among the parents of the parish greater interest in the work of the Church School.

We cannot commend too highly the work of the choir under the stimulating direction of Mr. Robinson. I am sure it is the universal opinion that we have never had better music in Grace Church; nor have we ever had better discipline among the boys. In attaining this standard, great credit is due to the devoted services of the Choir Mother, Mrs. Horton, and her assistant, Mrs. Rust.

No one realizes so well as the rector the fine work which has been carried on so unobtrusively and reverently by the members of the Altar Guild under the supervision of Mrs. Lowber, nor can any one appreciate more the willing and loyal service of the young men who compose the Servers' Guild, now under the direction of Mr. Fox.

One of the promising features of our parish life is the Young People's Society, which has just completed its third season. Under the presidency of Miss White and the captaincy of Mr. Hall and Miss Coale, the interest in the Sunday night services has been unflagging.

Mr. Rodd deserves great credit for his patient and persistent work in building up Troop 67, Boy Scouts, which has rounded out its tenth year with success.

Mr. Algeo has performed conscientiously his duties as sexton and shown his pride in our beautiful Church.

The work of editing and publishing the PARISH NEWS has been done chiefly by Mr. Pease, Mr. Ball and Mr. J. H. Fell.

The Rector is greatly indebted to Miss George for her valuable aid as volunteer secretary.

It would be hard to explain the efficiency of our various parish organizations unless we should take into account the work of the Executive Council. This small group, composed of leaders in all departments, forms the rector's cabinet. Throughout the year they have been planning to co-ordinate and set forward all branches of the work. The rector has consulted them with regard to all parish plans and policies. Mrs. Burk, the efficient Secretary of the Auxiliary, has served also as Secretary of the Council.

I cannot close this brief résumé without reference to the pillars which sustain the whole structure, the wardens and vestrymen. Both by his noble example and by his wise counsel, Dr. Crouter, the rector's warden, has been indeed a tower of strength. Mr. Bayard, the accounting warden, has added one more year of valuable service in his exact and painstaking care of the financial interests of the parish. Mr. Fortescue, the secretary of the Vestry, has lent the full strength of his influence to further every good work for the advancement of the Church. The financial statement which appears in this issue reveals the splendid condition of the parish, with the year's budget guaranteed and with every assurance that we shall reach our missionary quota.

While speaking of these achievements, I am conscious of the fact that they deal with comparatively superficial aspects of the Church's life. The crucial question, after all, is one which concerns spiritual progress. One sign of earnestness is the growing desire for a parochial mission, preparation for which has already begun. The hunger and thirst for righteousness increases. Let us continue our prayers for a spiritual awakening. Paul may plant, Apollos may water, but God must give the increase.

Faithfully yours

The Rector Faces Important Decision

On Tuesday, May 27th, the Rev. Thomas S. Cline was elected Professor of Pastoral Theology in the General Theological Seminary in New York, to succeed the Rev. Herbert M. Denslow, D.D., now Professor Emeritus.

Later Mr. Cline was elected Rector of St. Peter's Church, New York, to succeed the Rev. Olin S. Roche, D.D., now Rector Emeritus.

This was not a coincidence. By the combination of these two positions it is proposed to make a new and important experiment in theological education.

The students of the Seminary will assist in the work of the parish, thus getting the practical training in pastoral care which is so necessary.

Mr. Cline has the whole problem under careful consideration and requests the prayers of the congregation that, by the guidance of the Holy Spirit, he may make a wise decision.

Notes

The Campaign for the Philadelphia Divinity School met with success, the total amount raised being well over the million dollar mark. The Rector of Grace Church and Mr. Horace Fortescue both served as team captains. Eleven members of the parish were among the canvassers. This marks a worthy achievement for the diocese and sets forward the work of theological education.

A noble monument in the grove in front of the Lovett Memorial Library was dedicated Sunday, May 25th, to the memory of the Mt. Airy boys who died in the Great War. Among the speakers were the Rev. Robert A. Edwards, D.D., former Rector of Grace Church, who dedicated the memorial trees, and the present Rector, who appeared in uniform.

"Our Heroic Dead" was the theme of an address given by Mr. Cline in a Broadcasting Program on Memorial Day Evening through Lit Brothers' Station.

The program was under the auspices of The Ingersoll-Walthour Post, No. 282, of the American Legion.

A series of parish meetings were held on four successive Wednesday nights previous to Whitsunday.

Among the speakers were three visiting clergymen—the Rev. Henry Bedinger, the Rev. W. N. Parker, and the Rev. Samuel B. Booth.

Two laymen from the National staff of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew made addresses—Mr. G. Frank Shelby and Mr. Francis A. Williams.

The theme at these meetings was the urgent need of a parochial mission in Grace Church.

The Summer Schedule of services goes into effect the First Sunday after Trinity, June 22d. The hours of services are definitely announced on the second page of this issue.

The ladies of the Leamy Home, under the leadership of Miss Anne M. Miller, have been sending valuable gifts to the Rev. Geo. I. Baldwin, of St. Phillip's Mission, Dupree, South Dakota. They are now gathering books to furnish him with a library, and will appreciate any contributions of wholesome novels, or volumes of biography, history, or poetry.

The Rev. Wm. T. Metz, priest-in-charge of St. Gabriel's Mission on the Roosevelt Boulevard, officiated and preached in Grace Church May 25th, in exchange with the Rector.

Camp Cline will assemble for its third season at Camp Absegami, near Longport, N. J., on August 4th, to spend a happy week. Mr. Newell Robinson, Organist and Choirmaster, will be Camp Director this year. The Camp is intended primarily for the choir boys, but is open to all boys of proper age in the parish. Any boys wishing to go should notify Mr. Robinson. As before, the Men's Service League is back of the Camp financially.

Berkeley Divinity School conferred the degree of Doctor of Divinity upon Mr. Cline at the Commencement Wednesday, June 4th.

Mr. Cline was graduated from Berkeley with the degree of Bachelor of Divinity in 1905.

The Young People's Society held its final meeting for the season on Whitsunday evening with an attendance of thirty. Dr. Crouter made an address on the study of the Bible. Music was furnished by Miss Elizabeth Coale, Miss Evelyn Schwarz, and Mr. Charles Wener. Refreshments were served. The following officers for the ensuing year were elected: President, Edwin K. Ward; Vice-President, John Conarroe; Secretary, Elizabeth Coale; Treasurer, June Crouter; Captains, Ann Burton and Lewis Conarroe.

The Quiet Day, under the guidance of the Rev. Samuel B. Booth, on Wednesday, June 4th, proved an occasion of spiritual refreshment to those who were privileged to attend.

The Woman's Auxiliary and Guild

Reports at the annual meeting of the Auxiliary showed splendid achievement in all lines of work. The United Thank Offering is growing steadily toward the end of the triennium next year; the box work was finished so promptly that there was time for sewing for the bazaar, Labrador, and the Needlework Guild; and Mrs. Pease's knitters made forty garments for the Supply Bureau. The work for lepers of Japan will, in future, be divided between Miss Riddell's hospital and that of the American Church, under Miss Cornwall-Leigh.

Good reports came from the Altar Guild, the Church Periodical Club, the Hospitality Committee, and the Cathedral League, all showing live interest and accomplishment.

A very interesting report of the Church School Service League was given by Miss Adelaide Sheble, which showed disbursements of $87.67 for various missions, for the purchase of candles for the altar, and for a number of other purposes, while the treasury still has a balance of over $111—a splendid showing for these young people and very encouraging.

The Mission Study Director reported this year as the most inspiring in Mission Study that the parish has ever had. Three live classes, with a combined membership of 44, were carried on, 25 of these being new members. The combined voluntary offerings amounted to $87 for work in Japan, besides special subscriptions for Miss Cornwall-Leigh. One class has made a resolution to attend a corporate communion one Sunday each month and will make the subscription to the leper work an annual one.

Too much credit cannot be given to one district head who, by his own efforts, gathered together one of these classes, paid for all books and assignments and the traveling expenses of the leader, besides using his car to take the members to or from the class. Mr. Meehan's work was splendid and untiring and the class was most enthusiastic about the lessons and their leader.

Why not have Mission Study Classes in other districts next year?

In order that the fiscal year of the Auxiliary shall coincide with that of the diocese a motion was made that the annual meeting be held the second Tuesday of January instead of May. Action on this will be taken at the October stated meeting.

Sewing meetings next year will be held on Thursdays.

The former officers of the organization were all re-elected.

Financial Statement of the Woman's Auxiliary and Guild for the Year 1923–4

Parish Expenses	$775.88
Diocesan Missions	124.75
Domestic Missions	83.00
Colored Missions	100.00
Indian Missions	67.00
Foreign Missions	432.84
Value of Box Work	725.95
United Thank Offering	764.52
Total	$3,073.94

The Altar Guild reports that the choir is in pressing need of several new cassocks, many of the old ones being beyond further repair.

The Treasurer of the Auxiliary has received a contribution of $5.00 for this purpose and hopes that there may be others who will contribute to the fund.

The Altar Guild is always glad to arrange for flowers to be placed on the altar as memorials. Mrs. Lowber, the Chairman, should be notified.

The Social Service Committee has, under Mrs. Sheble's direction, done much to bring cheer and comfort where the need was most urgent.

A total of $641.35 was contributed to this work during the year. Nearly half this amount goes to pay the board of an elderly parishioner in a comfortable home.

The balance has really not been adequate to enable the committee to help some people as they should have done.

It is hoped that all last year's contributors will renew and that many new donors will be added to the list. Parishioners should feel great satisfaction in helping in this beautiful neighborly work.

The Church School Commencement will be held Trinity Sunday, June 15th, at 3 o'clock, on the Church lawn. There will be demonstrations of work which will interest parents.

The following persons will receive diplomas of graduation: Ann Burton, Katharine Cline, Jean Murphy, Richard Newnham, Audrey Rust, Stephanie Sheble, and Anne Levering White.

The annual report of the Secretary shows that the average attendance of the teachers has been 85 per cent.

The average attendance of the scholars in all departments has been 70 per cent—very high as Church Schools go. This brings the average attendance for the whole school up to 71 per cent.

The enrollment of the school at present is as follows:

Girls	106
Boys	96
Scholars	202
Teachers	24
Officers	15
Total	241

The teachers and officers deserve to be highly commended for a fine year's work.

The Excellent Quality of the work of the Woman's Auxiliary and Guild of Grace Church has been a matter of great pride to every parishioner. In asking for the assignment of work from the diocese, Grace Church requests the most difficult type of garments, pajamas, operation gowns, and dresses. The following letter speaks for itself:

My dear Mrs. Burrell:

We cannot usually, for lack of time, acknowledge the returned garments except by postal card, but the work which Grace Church, Mt. Airy, has done for the Mission Fields is so generous and so beautifully done that just to please myself I want to send a word of warm appreciation.

Could you know the difficulty we have in getting women's dresses made, you would understand, better than I can tell you, the special value of your work.

You will be interested to know we are shipping some of the dresses to Elizabeth House Social Center, White Bluff, Tennessee; and some of the pajamas to St. Luke's in the Desert, Tucson, Arizona. This last is a hospital for tuberculosis, and I know how glad you will all be that you have been able to help. We are packing our boxes for the Church General Hospital, Wuchang, China. Your splendid contribution of surgical dressings is of greater benefit than I can express. The dressings are so in demand and it is so difficult to get them made.

Very sincerely yours,
Elizabeth C. Lucas,
Chairman, Supply Department

How Do We Stand Financially?

I. As to Parish Expenses

On October 1, 1923, there was a deficit in our current expense account of $765.44.

This increased to December 1, 1923, when it was $1,216.73.

By a special effort this was all paid off in December, leaving a balance on hand, December 31, 1923, when the books were closed for the year, amounting to $4.32.

With this balance to start with, the amounts received to May 1, 1924, for parish expenses aggregate $6,072.49, besides $78.78 for Communion Alms.

All bills to that date were paid and we then had a balance on hand of $840.34.

When the returns from the parish canvass, made in December, 1923, were analyzed, it was found that the total amount we could reasonably expect to receive from all regular sources for parish expenses was about $1,800 less than our budget estimate of those expenses. An appeal then made to a number of gentlemen of the parish resulted in the underwriting of the entire amount. The underwriters are not bound to pay anything but their pro rata amount of what deficit may exist in December, 1924; but some have already paid their full guarantee.

Unless some unexpected expense is put upon the parish during the rest of the year, there is every reason to believe we will close this side of our account with a small balance.

II. As to Missionary Offerings

The Diocesan authorities have allotted to this parish as its share of the amount necessary to be raised for the maintenance of existing Church Missionary Work during the year 1924, $8,000.

During the entire year 1923 we raised for such work from all sources shown on the Accounting Warden's books, $7,588.99.

Of this sum $2,332.31 was raised after October 1, 1923. Other amounts doubtless were paid over for these purposes directly. The total amount credited on our allotment during 1923 was $7,139.25.

The Church has received for like purposes during the first four months of 1924 the sum of $3,741.94 (including the Easter offering of $960.77 for the Episcopal Hospital), of which all but $5 is applicable to our allotment.

In addition to this is the Lenten Offering of the Church School amounting to $254.56, one of the largest we have given, which was not all collected and paid over until May.

It thus appears that in the first four months of the year we have paid almost half of our missionary allotment. Of course the lean summer months will soon be on us; but the Vestry believe that the parish can easily raise the entire amount asked for.

In this belief they have advised the Diocesan authorities that this parish can be counted on for the full $8,000 allotted to it for 1924; and they are confident that in so doing they were only expressing the will of the parish.

Men's Service League

The final meeting and dinner of the season was held May 28th, with the President, Mr. Rice, presiding. The tables had been beautifully decorated by the wives of the members, the orchestra was exceptionally good—as was the dinner—and the long-continued applause which followed the singing of several songs by Mr. Marshall, with Mr. Robinson at the piano, testified to the appreciation of the men. The speaker of the evening was Rev. A. G. Sinclair, of Bloomfield, N. J., who gave a wonderful description of life in Alaska following the discovery of gold on the Yukon.

Mr. Rice in his address spoke of the work which the League had accomplished during the past year, mentioning the Social Service Work, which is largely financed by the League, the Choir Boys' Camp, the Welcome and Visiting Committee, the lights in the Church, the wider acquaintance and closer intercourse following the dinners, and ended with this quotation from Leigh Hunt:

"And is my name there?"

"Nay, not so," replied the angel.

"Then write me down," he was told, "as one who loves his fellow-men."

The angel came again to show his list of those who loved the Lord—

And lo! the name of him who loved his fellow-men led all the rest.

The following officers were elected for the next year: James C. Whedon, President; W. F. Wagner and Holman White, Vice-Presidents; J. Howard Fell, Secretary; Wm. B. Walton, Asst. Secy.; and Robert MacDonald, Jr., Treasurer.

Two Things

Question not but live and labor;
Till your goal be won;
Helping every feeble neighbor,
Seeking help from none.
Life is mostly froth and bubble,
Two things stand like stone,
Kindness in another's trouble,
Courage in your own.

This is the first issue of the Parish News since the passing into Paradise of our beloved Rector's Warden, Dr. A. L. E. Crouter.

He was so full of life, so young in spirit, so faithful, so constant, so splendid, that many of us cannot realize that we shall see him no more until we meet again in the world beyond. We glance at his place in Church and wonder why he is not there; we cannot get used to his absence; we shall continue to miss him for many years to come. It is hard to spare a man of his kind.

Such a life in itself is one of the strongest arguments for personal immortality. In a world where no ounce of energy and no particle of matter can be destroyed, and where every atom and every bit of force persists on interminably, surely such a fine character, the fruition of years of experience and study and self-denial, must find its place in another scheme of things. Our sense of the fitness of things demands another life in which such a rich personality can exercise its ability in even greater measure.

The rites preceding the interment were very simple and beautiful. It was early in the afternoon of a sunny day in June that the procession formed at the little white house on Germantown Ave. where Dr. Crouter had resided for so many years. First, in double rank, walked the men who had been associated with him in the management of the Institute for the Deaf; then followed the Vestrymen of your Church; then, side by side, walked two clergymen of our Church who were graduates of P. I. D. under Dr. Crouter's superintendency; they, in turn, were followed by Dr. Cline and your Rector. After them came the hearse, all slowly moving across the campus to Wissinoming Hall, where a crowd of his disciples and friends waited to take part in the plain, touching service of the Prayer Book. The Office was read by Dr. Crouter's former and present Rector and interpreted in the sign language by the two other priests to the deaf friends. It was a beautiful good-by to a beautiful child of God!

His body lies in the family plot on a little hillside overlooking Lake Champlain, at Burlington, Vermont. May God give him a merciful judgment and may we be joined hereafter with him in glory everlasting.

A. L. E. Crouter

The following minute was adopted by the Rector and Vestry of Grace Church, Mt. Airy, at a special meeting held July 12, 1925:

"Dr. A. L. Edgerton Crouter, Rector's Warden of Grace Church, Mt. Airy, and Superintendent of the Pennsylvania Institution for the Deaf, entered into life eternal on Friday, June 26, 1925.

"This is not the place, nor is this Vestry the body, to attempt to recount or to appraise the value of his unremitting service to the education of the deaf to which his life was devoted. To the greatness of that service those who served with him will doubtless be eager to bear witness. We desire to offer our tribute of personal esteem and affection and of appreciation of his worth to this parish.

"Shortly after the Institution, of which he was already the executive head, removed to its present location in Mt. Airy, in 1892, Dr. Crouter became a member of this parish. In July 5, 1898, he was elected a member of this Vestry, and on April 17, 1901, appointed Rector's Warden. To that position he has been annually reappointed ever since. There was no thought, so long as he was willing to serve, of the appointment of anyone else. His kindly and generous disposition, his sound and balanced judgment, his candor, and clarity of thought and expression, his willingness to spend and be spent in the service of the Church brought to him not only our respect but our very deep affection. To every one of us his passing away is a personal loss which we shall long feel.

"To the three rectors under whom successfully he served, he was ever a tower of strength and a faithful and helpful counsellor, advancing their interests and forwarding the growth of the parish in every way within his power.

"He enters into his rest full of years and of honors well deserved and abundantly earned by a life of faithful and able service in his profession and of sincere and profound reverence and love for the Master in whose footsteps he ever sought to tread. Would that all of us could, when the time comes for us to pass beyond the veil, be as well assured as he of the Master's greeting, 'Well done, good and faithful servant, enter thou into the joy of thy Lord.'

"To his wife and family and to those associated with him in his life work, the keenness of whose sorrow and sense of loss we can well appreciate, we extend our sincere sympathy; looking forward with them to the blessed time of reunion beyond the grave and gate of death, when we with him may meet our blessed Lord and Master face to face and rejoice forever in the light of His countenance."

On Tuesday, Oct. 20th, at 3 P. M., there will be a Tea in the Green Room of the Parish House for the ladies of the Parish, at which time arrangements will be made for the Christmas Bazaar. Please come!

On Monday Evening, at 8 P. M., the first meeting for this term (Teachers) of the Church School will be held in the Parish House. Every Teacher should be present.

We need more boys for the choir. We prefer boys from our own Church families and from this vicinity. Have you a boy in your home who would appreciate this opportunity? If so, bring him soon to Mr. Robinson.

The Men's Service League will have a worthwhile meeting next Thursday at 8 P. M. in the Parish House. Professor Holmes, of the Psychology Department, University of Pennsylvania, will speak. Now—every man come!

The boys of the choir spent a pleasant week in August at Camp Wilson on the Delaware River, under the leadership of Richard Newnham. The Men's Service League desires to express appreciation to those who made this possible by their contributions.

Next Sunday will be All Saints Day—one of the most popular and most touching days of the Christian year.

Last week at New Orleans, General Convention refused to add to our list of Saints' Days, the Black Letter days kept in the Church of England. These days are minor holy days observed in the English Church, and are called "Black Letter days" because they were printed in the old calendar in letters of black. These minor holy days are sixty in number, and include such well-known names as that of The Venerable Bede, S. Martin of Tours, S. Columba, S. Swithun, and S. George of England. Some of us feel that General Convention acted unwisely, but, of course, we bow to its decision. However, on All Saints Day the Church gathers together in one festival the memories of those saints of God, including our own Blessed Departed, not mentioned specifically on other holy days, and gives us an opportunity of commemorating them at the Altar. Because the day thus touches us so intimately it is one of the most loved days of the whole year.

This year we are particularly fortunate in that All Saints Day falls on Sunday. This gives every one a chance to enjoy its blessings in the House of God. I ask you to be present at one of the Holy Communion services, and to thank God with me for all His servants departed this life in His faith and fear—especially our own dear friends in Paradise.

The Women's Guild and Auxiliary will hold a Rummage Sale at 5029 Germantown Avenue, on October 29 and 30. Mrs. Dixon, 7108 Cresheim Road, is in charge, and requests that all who will donate goods for the sale do so by sending their gifts to the Parish House some time tomorrow—Monday.

The Confirmation Class is meeting every Sunday evening at 7 o'clock in the Green Room. All are welcome, whether desirous of being confirmed or not. Many communicants are attending to refresh their memories, and, inasmuch as the instructions are informal, ample opportunity is given for questions and problems to be asked and answered.

The Young People's Fellowship is having larger numbers in attendance at its 8 o'clock Sunday evening meetings than ever before. Some of the members are bringing friends of their communions to meet with us. All, of course, are welcome. Miss Lila Olten has been elected President; William Wagner, Vice-President; Miss Jeanette Meehan, Treasurer; and George Magee, Secretary. Some recent discussions were: "Should the Bible be Taught as Part of the Regular Curriculum of the Public Schools?" and "What answer has a Churchman to make to the man who says he does not attend Church because (1) he has doubts, (2) he gets enough religion in his lodge, (3) his mother made him go much when he was young, he now has his fill, and (4) because there are so many hypocrites in Church?" There will be a Hallowee'n dance and party this week. On November 10 the group will go to Swarthmore to study the planet Jupiter through the great telescope in the Sproule Observatory. Tonight, for a change, an outside speaker will be chief on the program.

A cheery box for Christmas has already been sent by the boys and girls of the Church School to Trinity Church School, Wuchang, China; Miss Mabel Sibson, Missionary.

A meeting of the Church School Association of Grace Church was held in the Parish House on Tuesday evening, October 13, at 8 o'clock. There were nine members present.

It was unanimously decided that the Association be changed, and that all efforts to draw parents into greater interest in the school be made through the children. They, naturally, make a much stronger appeal to their parents, and possibly some sort of a demonstration of the runnings and teachings of the school could be held. It was also felt that the teachers could create greater interest in the school and the Church by calling upon the parents of their individual pupils.

It was suggested that a council of the pupils themselves might be formed, to confer from time to time with the rector, the council to be made up of delegates from the various classes. It was the general feeling, however, that we should avoid any more "machinery" than is absolutely necessary, although such meetings of delegates from the classes with the rector at various times might be beneficial and opportune, each meeting being attended by different delegates, thus creating wider interest among the pupils. No set organization, however, would be necessary.

It was felt that the pupils of the school should have the right to decide by vote where their missionary money is to go.

A traffic squad of older boys was suggested as a means of safeguarding the younger children when leaving the school. Gowen Avenue is becoming more and more of a thoroughfare, and the children are apt to dash out into the street unheedingly.

Upon motion, the meeting was adjourned.

Today is the day on which we annually celebrate the dedication of our Parish. Usually, we keep the festival over a period of a week; this year, we think it wise to concentrate on one service—the service at eight o'clock this evening. The special speaker will be our friend and neighbor, the Reverend Gilbert Edward Pember, Rector of St. Michael's Church, Germantown, who will tell us some of the impressions he received at the General Convention in New Orleans which he attended in an unofficial capacity. We are postponing the Corporate Communion of the Parish until November 29th, the First Sunday in Advent. There will be no service in Church this afternoon and no meeting of the Young People's Fellowship this evening. It is not often that we have an opportunity of worshipping together after sundown. Do come out tonight at eight o'clock! The offering will be for the Parish Endowment Fund.

On the postcards sent out some time ago to the ladies of the Woman's Auxiliary and Guild it was announced that the meeting of the Mt. Airy Branch of the Needlework Guild of America would be held in Grace Church Parish House on Thursday, November 11th, at 2.30 P. M. This was a mistake—please note: the meeting will be held on Wednesday, November 11th—Wednesday of this week.

The Confirmation Class is meeting regularly on Sunday Evenings at 7 o'clock in the Green Room. The subjects so far have been: (1) Confirmation—what it is and what it is not; (2) God—belief in Him; (3) The Church—in the creed; in history; in appearance; some sects and their meaning.

Tonight we will take up The Book of Common Prayer; later we will study the Nicene Creed, article by article; on other evenings we will consider the Church's teaching with regard to the Sacrament of Holy Communion; and finally we will consider some practical counsels for the personal life of a Christian.

Feel free to come whether you have been confirmed or not—the attendance is good, and the meetings are informal and mutually helpful. Remember, every Sunday evening at 7 o'clock in the Parish House.

In the list of Parish Organizations published in last week's Parish News the wrong name was given for the one who is in charge of the Intermediate Department of the Church School: Miss Adelaide Sheble has been and now is the efficient leader of the Intermediate Department.

Also, Mrs. Thomas Gillingham has succeeded Miss Audrey Rust as Teacher of one of the classes in that department.

The Diocesan will come to us at 8 P. M. on the evening of November 29th—the First Sunday in Advent—to make his pastoral visitation and to administer the Apostolic rite of Confirmation. It is your privilege and duty as a loyal communicant of the Church to be present at that service. We want you to know and welcome the newly confirmed, and also by your presence to hearten and welcome your Bishop. Put the day and hour down on your calendar now, and allow nothing but serious illness to prevent your presence. Those who are now preparing for Confirmation are an earnest, promising group who give every indication of becoming strong towers and bulwarks of the Parish. They are having a long, careful preparation and meet in the Green Room every Sunday evening at 7 o'clock.

Every year directly after Confirmation has passed the Rector meets several individuals who tell him that they are sorry that they were not in the group. For those who are debating the matter: the Rector is willing, even at this late date, to accept you as a candidate and to make up privately with you the instructions that you have missed. Attendance at the Sunday evening classes does not obligate anyone to come to Confirmation.

Come out tonight and study with us. If you have cheated the Lord out of many years of being enrolled as a full-fledged member of His Church, there is all the more reason why you should remedy your fault now. Passive disobedience is a very popular sin: are you guilty of it in this particular?

Donation Day at the House of Rest will be held on Monday, November 16th. Donations of money, groceries, fruits, vegetables, preserves and household supplies will be gratefully received. Also, a sale of cakes, candy, aprons and fancy articles will be held by the Auxiliary of the Home on Donation Day. This is a worthy object of your benevolence, for seventeen old ladies, aged and dependent communicants of the Anglican Communion, are finding a comfortable home at the House of Rest, several of them being Communicants of our own Parish. The institution is our only Diocesan home for old ladies and is not in the Welfare Federation, because it is for members of our own Communion exclusively. The Home is situated at 5919 Wayne Ave., Germantown.

Very soon we hope to have an official copy of the changes made by General Convention in the Book of Common Prayer. When it arrives, your Rector will read the changes to you and explain their significance. There will be no changed Prayer Books published at least until 1928—perhaps not then. All of the changes so far made seem helpful and good. They indicate that Mother Church is intent on helping her children draw near God.

Words of Morning Anthem:

"Jesu, gentlest Saviour, Thou art in us now,
Fill us with Thy goodness, Till our hearts o'erflow.
Gentlest Saviour, gentlest Saviour, Thou art in us now,
Make our hearts Thy home, make our hearts Thy home.
We must wait for heaven,
Ah, when wilt Thou always make our hearts Thy home?
O gentlest Saviour, fill us with Thy goodness. Amen."

By C. Saint-Saëns.

Words of Evening Anthem:

"Through the cool and darkling air, Father hear our evening prayer.
Keep us till morn's rosy gleam, Wakens us from happy dream;
Give us daily strength and peace, Till life's days and nights shall cease.
Then Thy final rest to share, Father hear our evening prayer. Amen."

By Frank E. Ward.

The Bible lessons for this morning are:

The Bible lessons for this evening are:

We expect this year to keep up the good custom of sending out baskets of food at Thanksgiving Time. If you desire to have a share in this good work, send your contribution to Mrs. Sheble, 311 Roumfort Road on Monday, November 23d. Foodstuffs of all kinds are acceptable; money will be very useful.

The various classes of the Church School are each sending a Thanksgiving basket to some patient at the Home for Consumptives, Chestnut Hill. The Intermediate Department is sending a large basket of fruit to the House of Rest, our Diocesan Home for the aged.

The services on Thanksgiving Day are so arranged as to give you ample time to fill other engagements. Morning Prayer is said at 9.30 and the Holy Communion is celebrated at 10 o'clock. Thanksgiving Day is meant for giving thanks. President Coolidge and Governor Pinchot alike have asked you to go to Church and praise God for His goodness.

Let me remind you again that on next Sunday we would like to have every Communicant of Grace Church make his communion. The day is the First Sunday in Advent—the Church's New Year's Day. The Brotherhood of St. Andrew for some years has been working hard to get the men and boys of the Church to make corporate communions on that day; this Parish has postponed its annual corporate communion from Dedication Day until next Sunday. The Confirmation Class will make its first communion at 7.30 A. M.; won't you all come out, then, at that early morning hour and receive with us? Start the new year right.

Bishop Garland will be with us next Sunday evening. He will preach and administer Holy Confirmation. There will be more than twenty candidates presented to him. The rite will be substantially the same rite mentioned so frequently in the New Testament and practised the world over today. We want a Church full of loyal communicants to greet their Bishop and to welcome our new members. The service will begin promptly at 8 o'clock. Make this an engagement which you will not break.

The Church is open every day from 8 A. M. until 5 P. M. for you to come in and pray and meditate. The Rector is tempted to preach here a sermon on the little use that is made of this opportunity. However, he will give it briefly in these words: "The Church is open every day from 8 A. M. until 5 P. M. for you to come in and pray and meditate."

The Young People's Fellowship went in a body to the Annual Conference at St. Paul's Memorial Church, South Philadelphia, last Monday evening. They are planning a dance to be given during the holidays and also a play and dance to be given just before Lent.

At this time they desire to express their thanks for the music that was provided for by some of their generous older friends at the Hallowe'en Party. Tonight at 8 P. M. a special speaker from outside the Fellowship will address the group. The attendance now averages more than thirty at a meeting and frequently rises as high as thirty-eight.

Mrs. S. M. Meehan is our Director of the Font Roll of the Church School. If you know of any new babies not yet enrolled, please telephone her at Germantown 3242.

You are asked to remember in your prayers this week: (1) The Candidates for Confirmation; (2) Several sick in the Parish; (3) Our shut-in members; (4) Some of our former members who have become inactive; and (5) Those who were baptized this morning.

It is not too early to call your attention to the fact that most people choose Christmas greeting cards without care or forethought. As a consequence, many of the cards that cumber the mail during the holiday season are inane and un-Christian. They remind one of the illustrated songs that one used to endure before the days of modern motion pictures: the singer sang a sentimental ballad, and while he was singing, a lantern projected upon the screen a series of ill-assorted scenes that often had so little to do with the theme of the song that they were laughable. One used to believe that the singer went to the lantern-slide supply house and told them that he wanted a series of scenes with a girl and a boy in them, some roses, a bridge, an old mill-wheel—"and anything else you have in stock that will do." Well, we no longer have the saccharine illustrated song, but we have the same tendency displaying itself in other realms—the tendency to get away from real meaning and to substitute anything that lies near at hand. Thus, Easter Day for many has come to mean a silly fashion display at the seashore, instead of a day for solemn rejoicing that "Now is Christ risen from the dead and become the first fruits of them that are asleep." In like manner Memorial Day, Independence Day, and other special days have been torn down from their high position and debased into something they were never intended to stand for. This very week, on Thanksgiving Day, multitudes will turn aside from the purpose of the holiday, which is to thank Gracious God for the harvests of the world, and instead will use up the day in watching football games and eating a hearty dinner, not having first returned any thanks to any one. So Christmas Day by the same perverse spirit of substitution has become a mere memorial of the old Roman Saturnalia, and its symbol is a stout little Santa Claus and his team of reindeer.

Brethren, these things ought not so to be. We must not allow the holy feasts of Mother Church to be perverted into pagan rites.

This year when you buy greeting cards for Christmas, please turn away from meaningless snow scenes, candle themes and Santa Claus motifs and carefully choose cards that have some reference to Him whose birthday we celebrate. Christmas means one thing: it means that on the first Christmas Day nineteen hundred years ago the eternal Son of God became Incarnate by the Holy Ghost of the Virgin Mary for us and for our salvation—and was made man. Let us keep the truth of the wondrous birth first. Let us have a Christian Christmas.

Your Rector has had considerable correspondence with the publishers of Christmas cards with regard to this matter and they have with one voice said that they publish pictures of Christmas trees, and Bayberry candles and tinsel and wreaths and snow scenes because that is what the public wants—"it will buy nothing else." A sufficient answer to these domestic manufacturers is the fact that every year an increasingly large number of real Christmas cards are being imported because there is an ever-larger demand for them and because our own publishers are too blind to recognize and provide for this need.

A Christmas card should be a gift of thought; it is an acceptable present, although a letter with personal news and messages of love would count for more. We cannot write newsy, loving messages to all the people we care to remember, but we can—each of us—choose real Christmas cards.

If you have any difficulty in finding such cards, your Rector will direct you. There are many places where such cards are sold and they cost no more than cheap, meaningless cards. Do take this to heart.

It is also a humane Christian custom to do one's Christmas shopping early if you are able. One sometimes wonders what kind of Christmas the men and women who work in our department stores can have—when they are so tired and worn out from the final frenzied Christmas shopping that they can hardly stand on their tired feet. To say "Merry Christmas" to them in that condition must sound like satire. Christian men and women should do all they can to make other people's Christmas merry. If you have time and money, do shop early.

Words of Morning Anthem:

"Shepherd, with Thy tend'rest love, Guide me to Thy fold above;
Let me hear Thy gentle voice, More and more in Thee rejoice;
From Thy fullness grace receive, Ever in Thy Spirit live.
Filled by Thee my cup o'erflows, For Thy love no limit knows;
Guardian angels ever nigh, Lead and draw my soul on high;
Constant to my latest end, Thou my footsteps wilt attend.
Jesus with Thy presence blest, Death is life, and labor rest;
Guide me while I draw my breath, Guard me through the gate of death;
And at last, oh, let me stand, With the sheep at Thy right hand. Amen."

The words of the Evening anthem are the words of Hymn 22.

The rite of Confirmation which we are to take part in this evening is one of the oldest and best attested rites of the Christian Church. While we have no direct recorded command of our Lord to practise and administer Confirmation, nevertheless the New Testament abounds with illustrations of the fact that the Apostles did confirm and that this service was the customary mode of placing and accepting full responsibility in the early Christian Church.

The rite from the very first appears to have been administered exclusively by an Apostle or Bishop laying his hands on the head of the baptized person and praying for the gift of God's Holy Spirit to descend on the candidate, as, for instance, when the Apostles St. John and St. Peter went down to Samaria to lay their hands on the heads of those who had been baptized by the Deacon, Philip (Acts 8:14–17)—"and they received the Holy Ghost." In the same manner St. Paul went down to Ephesus and laid his hands on the Ephesian converts of John the Baptist as soon as they had been "baptized in the name of the Lord Jesus." (Acts 19:5.)

In the New Testament there are several names given to the service; the most obvious is that derived from the particular ceremony which is used in administering the rite—as when in the Epistle to the Hebrews it speaks of "the doctrine of baptisms, and laying on of hands." (Hebrews 6:1 and 2.) Another title given to the office is that of "sealing," or "The Sealing," as when St. Paul writes to the Ephesians, "After that ye believed in Christ, ye were sealed with the Holy Spirit of promise, which is the earnest of our inheritance." (Ephesians 1:13–14.)

So, down through the ages we find everywhere in the annals of the Christian Church the record of this ceremony, as in the famous Seventieth Epistle of Cyprian in which he expounds Acts 8, where St. John and St. Peter complete the confirmation of the Samarians—"Which now is done among us; those baptized in the Church being brought to the Bishops of the Church, and by our prayers and the Laying on of Hands they receive the Holy Ghost and are perfected with the seal of the Lord." (Epistle LXX, 3.) Thus the rite has been administered continuously throughout the ages in every branch of the Catholic Church.

Roughly speaking, there are two distinct parts to the service as we use it: (1) The baptized one having now grown up, ratifies and confirms the vows that were made in his name at baptism by his sponsors. This part of the service ends when, in answer to the Bishop's question, "Do ye here . . . acknowledge yourselves bound to believe and do all that your sponsors undertook for you?" the candidates reply, "I do." (2) The Bishop then prays God to bestow the seven-fold gift of the Holy Spirit on the candidates which will give them strength to meet every need. The Bishop mentions each of the gifts of the Spirit by name and they may be understood in this manner:

Wisdom teaches us what life is for and how to live as God would have us.

Understanding helps us to comprehend the truths of our religion and their meaning.

Counsel guides us to choose the right way when we are in doubt and helps us to guide others.

Knowledge gives us a true conception of God and our duty to Him.

Ghostly Strength enables us to do what we know to be God's will.

True Godliness shows us how to be genuine and sincere and to avoid hypocrisy.

Holy Fear keeps us reverent toward God and holy things, and makes us fear to offend God by sin because we love Him.

Then the Bishop after he has prayed for the gifts of the Holy Spirit lays his hands on the heads of those being confirmed and they receive the Holy Spirit. The rest of the service consists of thanks for the gift and the blessing of the Bishop.

You will find the Confirmation service on page 273 of the Prayer Book.

The loose offering this evening will be given to Bishop Garland to be used at his discretion. The demands on this fund are very heavy and you are asked to give generously. It is to the Bishop in a Diocese as a discretionary fund is to a Rector in a Parish.

The offering of Thanksgiving Day will be sent to our Episcopal Hospital. You will find special envelopes marked for that purpose in the set you have been provided with; if you have not yet used the special envelope, or if you desire to increase your original gift—it is not too late even now to do so. Special gifts should be put in an envelope marked "Episcopal Hospital" and placed on the alms-basins at any service. The amount given is credited on our parish quota.

Let me call your attention to the Christmas Bazaar and Supper to be held in our Parish House on Thursday of this week, afternoon and evening. Our Bazaars have an established reputation—there is no need to speak at length of their worth, except to remind you that much of your Christmas shopping can be done reasonably and with comfort at this affair and that you will be pleased with the gift suggestions and the reasonable prices. As for the supper: Those who attended last year will remember what a delicious meal was served. Just as good, if not better, is promised for next Thursday and preparations are being made to serve two hundred: one service at six, another at six-thirty, and still another at seven P. M.

No tickets are being issued, but each one will be served in the order of his arrival. The tickets are $1.00 and you must be sure to save twenty-five cents to purchase The Surprise. Thursday, December 3.

Words of Evening Anthem

"My sheep wandered through all the mountains, and far out on every high hill,
Yea, my flock was scattered upon all the face of the earth, and no one did search after them.
As a shepherd seeketh his flock, so will I seek out my sheep, and gather them out of all places
Where they were lost in the cloudy and dark day. I will feed them in a good pasture
And upon the high mountains of Israel shall their fold be, And I will cause the shower to come down in his season. There shall be showers of blessing and I will make with them a covenant of peace. And they shall dwell safely in the wilderness and sleep in the woods.
Happy art thou, O Israel, the Eternal God is thy refuge and underneath are the Everlasting Arms."

Close your minds to all else and for a few moments think with me of the Holy Communion Service which is held every Sunday morning in the Church at 7.30. Those of you who attended the Corporate Communion at that hour last Sunday will recall how inspiring and helpful that service was. So it is always. In the early morning hours, before our minds are cluttered up with the problems and the unimportant matters of the day; before one has tasted any other food and the Bread of Life is the first food to enter our bodies; in the quiet and stillness of the early morning hours, God becomes very real to those who come with lifted-up hearts. No hour is more sacred than any other hour; the sacredness of the hour depends on what we put into it: therefore, there is no reason why all should not come weekly at 7.30 and by their presence make the Early Service in fact what it is in ideal—the chief service of the week.

Of course, your Rector does not want you to come to the Early Service with the idea of going to church and getting it over for the day—such an idea is shocking. But picture to yourself how inspiring and pleasing to God it would be if many, as many as were present last Sunday at 7.30, would come every Sunday at that hour! Then at 11 o'clock all would assemble again to take part in Corporate Thanksgiving—whether it would be a second celebration of the Holy Communion or a service of Morning Prayer with elaborate and beautiful music and a sermon. Thus the early celebration would be the chief service of the day and we would be following the Saviour's will, for the Holy Communion is our Lord's own Service, the only Service instituted by Him. There is no valid reason for not coming early; those of you who come only once in a great while to the early service have no idea how easy it is to rise early even on Sunday morning, once you have formed the habit. And only those who have come regularly can appreciate how beautiful is the service in the quiet of early morning.

Please take this leaflet home for careful reading and reference

A new year began for the Church last week with the First Sunday in Advent. Why not now make a New Year resolution to keep the new year well by acquiring the 7.30 and 11 A. M. habit? Such a resolution, carried out, would bring rich rewards both for you and for Grace Church. What about it?

The attendance at the Corporate Communion and at the Confirmation Service last Sunday was splendid. No one was more pleased than your Rector. "It was just fine."

Perhaps you would like to know who were confirmed. There were twenty—twenty well-instructed and eager candidates who had given a great deal of time and attention to the rite and its meaning. The Rector never had a more interesting class nor one that drew from him, by their interest and attention, so much more than he had intended to bring out. He closes the class with regret. We bespeak for the new members of our Church family a cordial welcome from all. Their names are:

Jeannette Meehan
Virginia Fisher
Elizabeth C. Van Dusen
Anna R. G. Van Dusen
Virginia G. White
Mabel P. Leonard
Elizabeth P. Leonard
Kenneth A. Davis
A. Harris Insinger
Willard C. Jones
Walton Brand
Sedgwick D. Tourison
Edward C. Wagner
Norman H. Fisler
Henry L. Schimpf
Frederick A. Burness
Ashton L. Worrall
Frank H. Olton
A. Lincoln Atkiss, Jr.
Daniel B. Kaufman

Recently there have been many receiving Holy Baptism in the Parish Church. Their names are as follows:

Norman Percy Reeves
Marie de Zouche Landenberger
Ashton Locke Worrall (adult)
Margaret Jeanne Worrall
Mary Elizabeth Worrall
Emily Jane Worrall
Ashton Locke Worrall, Jr.
A. Lincoln Atkiss, Jr. (adult)
Stanley S. Atkiss
Donald D. Atkiss
Leona Watson Chalmers

Also, Mrs. Norman H. Fisler has been transferred to us from the Chapel of the Mediator, Philadelphia, and Mr. George M. Austin, from St. John's, Salina, Kansas.

Your Rector never attempts to persuade anyone to bring a letter of transfer from another Parish to Grace Church. He is not attempting to do so now. All he desires to do here is to point out that if you attend Grace Church regularly and never attend your home parish, you are not counted as an active member of either group—thus the whole body suffers.

Words of Morning Anthem

"The night is far spent, the day is at hand, Now it is high time to awake out of sleep,
Let us cast off the works of darkness and let us put on the armour of light,
Let your requests be made known to God, And the peace of God which passeth all understanding, shall keep your hearts and minds through Jesus Christ.
O come Redeemer, come and free, Thine own from guilt and misery, The gates of heaven again unfold
Which Adam's sin had closed of old. All praise Eternal Son to Thee, Whose Advent sets Thy people free, Whom with the Father we adore, And Holy Ghost for evermore.
Hosanna in the Highest. Amen."

Words of Evening Anthem

"Rejoice greatly, O daughter of Zion. Shout, O daughter of Jerusalem, shout.
Behold Thy King cometh unto thee.
He is the righteous Saviour and He shall speak peace unto the heathen.
Rejoice greatly, O daughter of Zion. Shout, O daughter of Jerusalem,
Behold Thy King cometh unto thee."

Wednesday, Friday, and Saturday of this week are the Ember Days of the Advent Season. Ember days are days on which we are asked to pray God to help the Bishops and Pastors of His flock to choose suitable men to serve in the sacred ministry of the Church. Also on Ember Days we ask God's blessing upon the men about to be ordained to Holy Orders. Let us not neglect our Ember Day prayers. No one needs your prayers more than the Clergy of the Church. With God's help, a clergyman can do an untold amount of good in winning men to the Christ; without God's help, the labor of the most gifted man is but vain. No one knows this better than a clergyman. Do pray for your Bishops and Pastors this week; remember the newly ordained; and don't forget to pray for your own Rector. The Ember Day prayers are on page 40 of the Book of Common Prayer.

In your name we welcome to Grace Church Mrs. Edward J. Webb, Jr., who has just been transferred to us from St. Mark's Church, Washington, D. C.

Grace Church, it is estimated, is within $700 of meeting in full the amount it has been asked to give "for others" for the year ending December 31, 1925. When you consider that the whole amount we were asked to give is $8,200, you will realize that the amount still to be raised is relatively small. Perhaps you do not know what is included under the term "for others." Let me explain: Our envelopes are divided into two compartments—"for ourselves," and "for others." We use the money from the "for ourselves" pocket to pay salaries, coal, heat, light, repairs, upkeep, etc. The amount that comes in "for others" is sent to our Diocesan Treasurer. He in turn divides the amount into two accounts, a little over 40% being kept for use in the Diocese, the larger amount being sent to the Treasurer of the National Council to be used to pay for the items on the budget of the whole Church. Thus the money we give goes to China, to Japan, to Alaska, to work among American Indians, the foreign-born, the Southern Mountaineers, the Negroes, the deaf and the friendless and the sick in Philadelphia, and to financially poor churches nearby that have to provide facilities for large increases of population which they of themselves are unable to finance. If you could follow up and see your money going out from the altar of Grace Church to heal tuberculosis, bind up wounded bodies and mend fractured souls, you would thank God for the opportunity of having a share in such a glorious work. Recently a Priest on the staff of your City Mission supported by your contributions presented twenty-four earnest men, prisoners in the Eastern Penitentiary, to Bishop Garland for Confirmation. Day by day, and year by year, your Chaplain goes from bed to bed in the Home for Consumptives on Stenton Avenue, ministering to the patients, giving them friendship, and hope and peace and feeding them with the Bread of Life. So in the Convalescent Home at Oakbourne; so among the deaf at All Souls' Church, so in the Episcopal Hospital, so in orphanages and asylums, so in small mission stations everywhere—in Philadelphia, in Montana and in the islands of the sea—your money changed back into time and into loving service in the name of the Christ is hard at work. That is what happens to the money we give in this Parish "for others."

Please take this leaflet home for careful reading and reference

The amount of money still needed "for others" is, as I have said, relatively small. You are to be given the opportunity today of contributing to this $700 deficit. Add your amount to the amount you normally give on the right-hand side of your envelope—or else place it separately on the alms basin to be offered up to God at the altar, and if all do their bit, we'll exceed the amount required. Remember: "Many a mickle makes a muckle."

Your Rector desires at this time to congratulate the good women of Grace Church who braved the damp, inclement weather and made our annual Rummage Sale so marked a success. The sum of $266.60 was cleared by the sale and many incidents informed us that not only did we raise a good sum of money for a good purpose, but also we were able to help poor people to purchase warm winter clothes which they would otherwise have been unable to afford. There are many worthy people who are too self-respecting to accept charity but who feel no hesitancy in purchasing second-hand clothes at reasonable prices. To them the Rummage Sale was a boon.

While we are speaking of "Sales," let us recall the annual Bazaar and Supper. Outside, the weather was as miserable as Philadelphia weather could be, but inside all was cheery and cozy and busy. Santa Claus was there selling toys and allowing no one to get away without buying; all the candies and cakes and toys were sold with the aid of our genial auctioneer—who actually sold a cake after praising it by calling attention to the fact that it surely weighed "at least three pounds"; the supper was good and tasted all the better because it was served promptly and by charming waitresses; and altogether "a good time was had by all."

Mr. Pease, when reminded that some things were not all sold, replied that the weather prevented strangers from coming and buying—reminded him "of two families cast away on a desert island who made their living by taking in washing, each from the other." The profit so far is over $505.

Mrs. Pratt Thompson recently gave a Tea at her home and raised ten dollars which she sent to the Rev. Charles Baker at Farmington, New Mexico, for his hospital and work among the Navajo Indians.

Christmas Day lingers but for a moment and then is gone. When one compares the long weeks of anticipation of the Holy Day, and recalls that even outside Christian circles the interest and the zeal attendant upon making Christmas merry have a preparation that consumes several weeks at least; when one compares this long looking forward with the rapid arrival and fleeting hours of the day itself—then our way of keeping Christmas seems like an anti-climax. It resembles a Japanese poem, fifty words introduction, and five words poem.

In Latin countries they do better, for they celebrate Christmas for a whole week, i. e., they keep the octave.

Our Prayer Book suggests a week of Christmas—carrying the idea on until Epiphany, with which it is often confused. On the other hand, a number of minor holy days cluster about the great feast, as the little peasant homes used to snuggle against the great castle. And while each surrounding holy day shines by reflected glory, yet the great day loses a little by the distraction of their presence, and they, too, lose something by their relative insignificance.

Please take this leaflet home for careful reading and reference

Today is a case in point. There is no more beautiful character in Holy Writ than that of St. John, the beloved disciple. Self-effacing, gracious, true, rejoicing only in the glory shining upon his Master, courageous, able, profound—no good qualities are found lacking in the character of the writer of the Fourth Gospel. Yet, because the one day in the year dedicated to him comes so near Christmas Day, he is entirely overshadowed in the arrangement. Perhaps this is rightly so; I am sure that it is as he would have it. There is something fitting in the arrangement that brings it to pass that the man who was the dearest earthly friend of Jesus should have his day of commemoration so near to the day of commemoration of the Master he loved and served. And I am sure that he of all men would have Christmas brighter, even at his own expense.

May I again call your attention to the Organ Recital on January 2d? Neither you nor I are at all satisfied with the poor attendance at the Recitals given so freely in our home Church. You and I know that neither the choice of music, nor the interpretation, nor the instrument is at fault. You and I will agree that not enough publicity has been given these concerts. But, granting that the publicity has been badly managed, still we must admit that more people should have been present at the various offerings. Now on January 2d, at 4 P. M., we begin the new series of recitals. Talk it up; bring your friends; come yourself.

This week we receive officially into our family group, Mr. and Mrs. E. K. Ward and Mr. E. K. Ward, Jr., who have just been transferred to us from the Chapel of the Mediator, West Philadelphia. In your name, welcome!

"Little Jesus, wast Thou shy
Once, and just as small as I?
And what did it feel like to be
Out of heaven and just like me?
Didst Thou sometimes think of there
And ask where all the angels were?
I should think that I would cry
For my house all made of sky;
I would look about the air
And wonder where my angels were;
And at waking 'twould distress me—
Not an angel there to dress me!"

—Francis Thompson.

A reading circle is being organized among the men. A well-chosen list of twelve books and publications on subjects of religious interest will constitute the course. Should the group so decide, monthly meetings may be held to discuss the more important issues.

Any man will be welcome, though the number of this circle will be limited to twelve, that the reading may allow for a month's time to each.

The cost to each man will be just the price of one book.

If you wish to join the circle for 1926, write your name on a slip of paper and hand it to one of the ushers.

This will be a splendid opportunity to develop an intimacy with matters of religious life that do not frequently come into our thoughts.

The Collect, Epistle, and Gospel for today are not found, as is usual, under the heading for the day, but are the same as those used on the day of "The Circumcision of Christ," on page 68 of the Prayer Book.

Next Wednesday will be the Feast of the Epiphany, "Epiphany" being a Greek word made up of two parts: epi, meaning "unto," and phany, meaning "appearing." The combined word, then, means "appearing unto"; "making known"; "manifestation." Epiphany commemorates the appearing of Jesus to non-Jews, i. e., Gentiles. To us it may not at first seem a remarkable fact that the Messiah should have been made known to people other than Jews, but when Jesus was made known to the Gentiles, it was a revolutionary innovation indicating that Christianity was destined to transcend all national and racial bounds. The Gentiles to whom Jesus was shown were the "Three Wise Men," traditionally known as kings of the East, and by tradition given the names of Gaspard, Melchior, and Belthazar. They are usually wrongly confused with the Nativity scene, as in our West window. The fact that Herod slaughtered the babies "two years old and under," and the fact that the Wise Men came "to the house where the young child was," would indicate that a long time had elapsed between the seeing of the star announcing His birth and the arrival of the men at their destination.

The Epiphany message is essentially a missionary message, even the artists traditionally picturing one of the Wise Men as of the colored race. It must be that the star which appeared to the "Magi" (another appellation for the Wise Men, indicating that they were of the Mithra religion) was seen by many, but it is certain that the following of the star was confined to only these three.

How many silent calls has He not made us feel in our hearts, inviting us to search after Jesus? And how have we responded? It would have been an irretrievable misfortune for the Magi had they denied the call of the star and the inspiration of God; no less a loss would it be for us if we heeded not the guiding of God's Spirit.

Epiphany falls on the twelfth day after Christmas, whence comes the old English name for it, "Twelfth Night," which gave the title to one of Shakespeare's plays.

A most important meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary and Guild will be held in the Green Room of the Parish House on Tuesday, January 12, at 10.45 A. M. The purpose of the meeting is to conduct such business as should rightly come up at this Annual Meeting and to elect officers. Notice is being given this far in advance in order to make it possible for every member to keep the date open and to see to it that nothing will prevent her being present—Tuesday, January 12th! Everyone out!!

The Rector desires to call your attention again to the reading circle that is being organized among the men of the Parish. Surely during the coming twelve months many of our men will be able to find time to read twelve books having to do with religion! these books may be read in homeopathic doses on the train, the street car, or in odd moments at home. Talk to your Rector about it if you are interested, or better still, write your name on a slip of paper and hand it to one of the ushers, saying you desire to enroll.

As an experiment, the hour of seven-thirty is to be tried tonight as the hour for convening the Young People's Fellowship. There is much uncertainty in the group as to what time to meet and tonight's time is a compromise between those who want to begin at 7 and those who prefer 8 o'clock. Last Sunday evening Miss Nancy White spoke on religious conditions at Mt. Holyoke College, and Mr. Louis Conarroe described the religious atmosphere at Lafayette University; both felt that their respective institutions cared a great deal for the spiritual welfare of the undergraduates. Norton Walton made a report on the Radio given to the Leamy by Mr. Brand, with accessories furnished by the Fellowship, and installed by Norton Walton, Sedgwick Tourison, and Walton Brand. Miss Lila Olton made a report on the food presented by the group to a very needy family in Germantown on Christmas Eve. A hearty vote of thanks was given to Mr. Robert MacDonald for his patience and kindness and refreshments furnished on Christmas Eve at the Carol singing. Tonight's discussion will be on the topic, "What is Real Religion?" to be opened by Mr. Cassel and further discussed by Miss Dixie and Miss Leonard.

On next Tuesday there will be held the Annual Meeting and Election of Officers of the Woman's Auxiliary and Guild. It is by far the most important meeting of the year. Apart from the importance of the business to be transacted, there is also the inspiration that comes from fresh appreciation of our numbers and the fellowship inculcated by lunching together. No member of the organization has the right to be absent from this meeting unless she is prevented by sickness. The program is as follows:

10.45 A. M., Annual Meeting
12 NOON, Intercessions
12.15 P. M., Lunch
1 P. M., New business and election of officers.

Remember: Tuesday, the day after tomorrow, hours as scheduled above!

From week to week this little paper has been telling you the names of communicants of the Church who have been transferred to us from other parishes during the preceding week. The intention in printing these names is to give you an opportunity to welcome these newcomers to our family. In a true sense Grace Church is God's house and in God's house all of His children are welcome, we have nothing to say in the matter; but in another sense we are a little corner of the Kingdom of God, a branch of God's family, and it is both fitting and gracious for us to say, "We are glad to greet you," to those who care enough about our family to desire to be a part of it. Therefore, I ask you individually to greet our new members promptly and cordially. This week we have received Mrs. Clara M. Warner from St. Paul's Church, Chestnut Hill, and Mrs. Browning and her daughter, Miss Dorothy, from St. Nathaniel's Church, Kensington.

Your Rector has been having a number of private Communion Services in the homes of the sick and among those who were unable to come to Church during the Christmas season. He is anxious to reach all. If you know of any communicant now or at any time who desires a service of this kind, please tell him. He is anxious to minister to all.

In last week's Parish News it was stated that the Collect, Epistle, and Gospel for the Second Sunday after Christmas are the same as appointed for the Commemoration of the Day of the Circumcision of Christ. This was only true in part. The General Convention at New Orleans last October set aside a separate Collect, Epistle, and Gospel to be used on the Second Sunday after Christmas, but inasmuch as your Rector has not as yet received the official notification and list of changes in the services, he thought it well to conform to the old arrangement. He was glad to do this because it gave the congregation an opportunity to consider in its Epistle, Gospel, hymns, and sermon, the import and significance of the "Name which is above every name."

The Appointed Lessons for Today

Morning:	Evening:
1. II Kings 5.	1. II Chronicles 19.
2. St. Luke 4: 1–32.	2. St. Mark 1: 1–28.

The Young People's Fellowship is going to meet from now on at 8 o'clock every Sunday Evening in the Green Room, the 7.30 o'clock experiment having proved unwise. Last Sunday evening's meeting was unusually interesting, the discussion "What is real religion?" proving a thought-provoking subject and bringing out a heated discussion in which almost every member took part. The book, "Beasts, Men, and Gods," by Ossendowski, was quoted to drive home the idea that, apart from Christianity, mysticism plays a great part in religion and that the world of the spirit is a reality among many who have never so much as heard the name of Christ. It was also brought out that while Christianity is the final religion, nevertheless its followers have much to learn from the Oriental, to whom the other world is more real than this; indeed, one of the worthwhile by-products of Christian missionary effort is a fresh interpretation of many of the dark sayings of the Old and New Testaments. Some quoted the Epistle of St. James in which real religion is almost made synonymous with social service; others quoted the Prophet Micah for a like definition; still others used St. Paul's arguments to indicate that we are approved in God's sight primarily for our Faith. All, finally, agreed that in Jesus' summary of the law we have an unsurpassable definition of real religion.

The Entertainment Committee is planning a play and dance to be given on Lincoln's Birthday, possibly at the Woman's Club of Germantown.

The Program Committee, Mr. John MacInness, Chairman, reported that tonight an outside speaker would address the Fellowship.

Miss Lila Olton and Walton Brand led the devotional services.

We have succeeded. The goal has been reached. Our Parish (for the first time in many years) has given its full share toward the missionary work of the Church, and we are glad. This fine giving has been due (1) to a steadily increasing amount raised through the regular giving of our people from Sunday to Sunday; (2) then, to a far-sighted interest and policy on the part of the members of the Woman's Guild and Auxiliary, and (3) by a few special contributions. The total amount given was $8,225, twenty-five dollars more than our quota. Our record for the last few years follows:

In 1920 we gave	$5,376.00	In 1923 we gave	$7,139.00
" 1921 " "	7,925.00	" 1924 " "	7,033.00

Membership in the Church School is a little larger than ever before in the history of Grace Church. This spells true progress. Not only is the number of members large, but also the teaching is good—very good. And there are practically no cases of bad discipline. There is one discordant note, however, that has arisen, and that is the tendency, just beginning to make itself felt, of quitting the Church School "to go to Church instead." This is bad –very bad. Church worship and Church School attendance are by no means substitutes the one for the other. In Church School one learns about God; in Church one comes into communion with Him. Both are needed. Of course, if one had to choose between going to Church School and going to Church, Church worship would rightly come first. But the point is, one does not have to choose between them. There is no reason in the world why Christian children should not attend both Church School and Church Service. Unless we make the Christians of the new generation more intelligent and more learned in Church matters than the adult Christian of today is, the Church will be in a bad way. We need intelligent Christians, worshipping intelligently. You don't ask your children whether they intend to go to week-day school: you see to it that they go. Why not use as much common sense in regard to their training in spiritual matters? If but one father and mother become thoughtless and lax in this matter, others will quickly catch the contagion and before long many will be hurt by the bad example of the one. Let us stop this carelessness right now.

At the election of officers of the Woman's Auxiliary and Guild held in the Green Room on January 12th, the following officers were elected:

President, Mrs. Albert C. Brand.
Vice-President, Mrs. Frank Sheble.
Secretary, Miss Martyn George.
Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. Ramsey McKinney, Jr.
Treasurer, Mrs. Wm. H. George.
Educational Secretary, Mrs. Samuel D. Matlack.
Treasurer, United Thank Offering, Mrs. Ralph H. North.

Dear People of Grace Church: With this issue I am beginning to call your attention to a subject that I hope will stir you up for some years to come. As I talk to you individually, as I meet with you in groups, as I visit your homes and you open up your spiritual lives for diagnosis and help, I become more and more convinced that what this Parish needs more than anything else is education in matters that concern religion. We need knowledge—knowledge of the Faith once delivered to the Saints; knowledge of theology; knowledge of what the Anglican Communion stands for; knowledge of what her program is for winning the world to Christ; and knowledge of how our own Parish fits into this program. During the years that have passed you have given generously of your money for the maintenance of Christian Missions; you have been enough in earnest to inspire one of your communicants to give herself to the work in Alaska; you have adopted a beautiful type of service for your corporate worship of the Almighty, but you have failed to glean the joy and inspiration that would have been yours had you been better informed with regard to the inner truths of what you were doing. Do you think that I am too hard on you? I would that in this regard I were.

Mind you, ignorance in Church matters is not peculiar to our own Parish—by no means; it is a condition that confronts every rector to whom I have spoken of the matter. The more you know concerning the Anglican Communion, the more proud and inspired you become; much of the prejudice and misunderstanding that exists against our Church is due to crass ignorance. But how can the world be enlightened if the people who live Anglicanism do not know what they stand for? We don't even seem interested!

As an index of our interest in our Church's work, let me quote from a recent editorial in "The Living Church": "In the Methodist Episcopal Communion one member in every fourteen subscribes to a denominational paper. In the Southern Methodist fellowship the ratio is one point better—one in thirteen. Presbyterians are either poor readers or else they don't like religious weeklies, for the proportion among them (taking North and South together) is one in seventeen. The Lutherans are on the same basis exactly. But the most creditable record does not lie even with the Methodists: it belongs to the Disciples, among whom one in every nine members pays money for a Church paper, and (best of all) to the Evangelical people, where the total Church membership is less than six times the combined subscription lists of Church journals. The worst off are the papers representing Episcopalianism, which command the patronage of only one in forty-four among the members of their Churches."

I could go on—not scolding but calling attention to facts—for a long time, but I believe that when you look within, in response to what I have said, I shall have established my case. I have said enough on the dark side.

Now what are we going to do about it?

Well, your Rector is going to give you every opportunity to become well-informed Churchmen. Means are going to be found to canvass the congregation with a view to establishing Family Prayers and Daily Bible Reading: From the pulpit you are going to hear the faith of our Church; we are going to try to get a weekly Church paper into every home; a book shop is to be opened in the Parish House; the two men who responded in the affirmative to the Rector's appeal for the reading of a religious book every month are going to have ten more added to their numbers (you'll promise if I ask you individually, why not save me the time?); we are going to get more deeply involved in Diocesan activities; several of your sons are going to feel the call of the Master to Holy Orders; during Lent you, more of you than ever before, are going to join one of the mission study classes (evening classes for men primarily; an afternoon class for women, with a class for younger people at some convenient hour); and more attention and interest is going to be given to the Church School. I have a good many more plans ready to launch, but the above program will do for a start.

Will you respond?

Mrs. North, Treasurer of the United Thank Offering, reports that she has sent in cash to our Diocesan U. T. O. Treasurer:

1924— " 98 "	783.17
1925— " 269 "	1,468.96
Total	$3,001.20

To praise such a report would be like painting the lily.

On Thursday, February 11th, the Young People's Fellowship will give a play and dance at the Woman's Club in Germantown. The tickets are a dollar a piece; the play is a good one; the orchestra will be of the best. May we bespeak your coöperation?

Mr. Albert Brand, of our own congregation, spoke to the Young People's Fellowship last Sunday evening on "Responsibility." The talk was much enjoyed and the Rector especially appreciated it, not only because the message was timely but also because Mr. Brand came in spite of his not feeling well. Tonight the group will have a discussion on the part that religion should play in "Athletics," leaders, Messrs. Cassel, West, and Miss Meehan.

Words of Morning Anthem

"Praise the Lord, all ye nations: Praise Him all ye people
The ransomed of the Lord shall return and come to Zion with songs and everlasting joy upon their heads.
They shall obtain joy and gladness and sorrow and sighing shall flee away.
Trust in the Lord forever, for in the Lord Jehovah is everlasting strength.
Praise the Lord all ye nations; praise the Lord all ye people; praise the Lord."

Words of Evening Anthem

The twilight shadows fall, but do not fear
At evening comes the call, "Be of good cheer."
Though dark the clouds above, Trusting our Father's love,
The sun sets clear.

The twilight shadows fall, we kneel in peace
With thee, the world and all,
Our Faith increase!
Truth, hope and love abide
Lord, Thou hast satisfied.
Vain troubling cease!

The twilight shadows fall, Life's goal is nigh,
We soon may hear Thee call, "Come up on high."
Then fades the night away, Greet we the perfect day,
God's cloudless sky.

Please do not sit during prayers—kneel. Please do not talk during service unless you find it necessary to ask for something; by talking you annoy others, particularly the Rector. Please do not rise from your knees until the candles are extinguished. In God's House even more than in other places let us practise good manners—please!

Several have asked the Rector what Church papers he recommends. It is a difficult question to answer because for the most part the periodicals do not overlap but occupy different fields. So much also depends on how much you have to spend and on how much you know. For the average family of Grace Parish the Rector would recommend the following:

1. "The Spirit of Missions," cost, $1.00 per year: the best missionary magazine published, full of Christian inspiration. Every member of the family will enjoy it. Subscribe through one of the Church School pupils during Lent.
2. "The Living Church," a weekly costing $4.00 per year, published at 1801 Fond du Lac Ave., Milwaukee, Wis. This paper is partisan but fair. Because it stands for a definite ideal, it is virile.
3. "The Witness," a general Church paper to be sold weekly in the Parish during Lent. You will have a copy to review it for yourself, $2.00 per year.
4. "Church News of the Diocese of Pennsylvania," a monthly, $1.00 per year: containing a special article by Bishop Garland, articles by leading clergymen and laymen of our Diocese and items of interest as to what is going on in our sister churches in Philadelphia and vicinity.

There are other magazines and papers for the initiated, but for the average family the above list will suffice.

This week we welcome to our Church Mrs. Horace A. Willits, transferred to our Pastoral care from the Church of the Epiphany, Germantown.

On Thursday morning of this week the members of the Woman's Auxiliary and Guild are asked to attend the Holy Communion Service in a body and make a Corporate Communion, at which they will re-dedicate themselves to the service of the Christ. We are just beginning a new year under new officers: let us pledge ourselves afresh to this work of the Church and let us ask Divine help to sustain us. We want every member present.

Teachers and Officers of Grace Church School: We shall have supper together on Thursday evening of this week at 6.30 o'clock in the Green Room, Parish House. After supper we shall have a Church School Teachers' Meeting. Be sure to come—if only for part of the evening.

Coming Events: Thursday, February 11th, Woman's Club Hall, Germantown, a play, "The Jonah," and dance by our Young People's Fellowship.

Friday, February 12th, Parish House, a Dinner and Motion Pictures by Dr. Travis: "Game Hunting with a Motion Picture Machine in the Canadian Rockies." The evening is under the auspices of the Men's Service League, and ladies are invited.

Words of Morning Anthem

"Wherewithal shall a young man cleanse his way; even by ruling himself after Thy word.
With my whole heart have I sought Thee; O let me not go wrong out of Thy commandments.—Amen."

Words of Evening Anthem

"The Lord is my light; whom then shall I fear? The Lord is my strength; of whom shall I be afraid?
O wait thou still upon the Lord, and He shall comfort thine heart.
For in the time of my trouble He shall hide me in His secret place, and set me up upon a rock of stone.
Therefore will I offer in His dwelling an oblation: yea, I will sing and speak praises to the Lord."

Proper Lessons for the Sunday Called Sexagesima

Morning:
1. II Kings 17:24
2. St. Luke 12:1–34

Evening:
1. II Kings 23:28–24:17
2. St. Mark 7:1–23

Septuagesima and Sexagesima remind us that we are at the threshold of Lent. In only ten days we shall enter the Holy Season. What of it? What do you feel when you think of Lent? How does it effect you when you realize that we are going to enter the great season of penitence so soon? Are you sorry or are you glad?

If you are sorry and you try to analyze your distaste at the thought of entering the forty days, you may conclude that your attitude is due to the fact that you "cannot figure out how any good can come out of a season that smacks of mediævalism," that "fastings, austerities, and giving up of innocent amusements have no place in the twentieth century"; that you "cannot understand what difference it makes whether you give up card playing, dancing, theatres, candy, or not," etc., etc. Dear people—let us be honest with ourselves. Is it your reason that suggests these objections or your desires? Do you honestly put forward these arguments, or do you think such thoughts because you want to think them? To most of you who feel such repugnance to "Keeping Lent," I would respectfully suggest a careful self-examination of yourself based on the text: "He desiring to justify himself, said." The likelihood is that your petted, pampered, spoiled, luxury-loving body is stirring in rebellion at the thought that its dominion over the Soul and Spirit is in danger of being upset; the chances are that the objections that you have so glibly brought forth are nothing more than the words in which your body is serving you warning that it will not yield its overlordship without putting up a bitter struggle. Your reluctance is not of the mind, but of the body.

But if in pursuance of this request you have analyzed your reluctance to observe Lent and you still feel that your objections are based on reason rather than desire, then I would suggest further that you try your conclusions by experience; put Lent to the test; for once really do all that your Church requests you to do; this year put your whole self into following the program laid down by Mother Church—whether you can understand the rationale of it or not—and then you will be in a position to speak with authority on the matter. By its fruits you shall judge it. Will you?

To those who are glad that Lent is coming, I have little to say. You have tried it and found it well worth while. I rejoice in your gladness.

In these ten days intervening between Sexagesima and Ash Wednesday let us lay our plans and build up a program. A well-prepared program is half the battle. Do your planning now. Plot out your Lenten life.

With this issue we add a new feature to our weekly paper: we are suggesting topics for your private devotions; this needs no apology, corporate intercessions—a whole congregation praying on the same topics—are very helpful. The schedule for this week is as follows:

The Parish Prayer Calendar

Feb. 7—Sexagesima: Use today's Collect every day this week. Read thoughtfully, with prayer, the Gospel for today. Thank God for some great blessing. Pray for a good Lent in this Parish—in all the Church.

Feb. 8—Monday: Read Romans 6:3–15. Pray for all candidates for Baptism. For your godchildren. For some one unbaptized soul you know.

Feb. 9—Tuesday: Read St. John 20:21–23. Pray for your Bishop; your Parish Priest—bodily strength, the guidance of the Holy Spirit. For your Parish—the faithful ones, the careless, the lapsed, the sick.

Feb. 10—Wednesday: Read St. Luke 24:46, 47, 48. Give thanks for the Catholic Faith. Pray that all nations may soon know its blessings. Use the Collect for Missions, page 38 of the Prayer Book. For all missionaries, especially those in Latin America. Pray for one by name. For the United Thank Offering.

Feb. 11—Thursday: Romans 12:1. Pray for the work of the Woman's Auxiliary and for its new officers, both in this Parish and in the Diocese. Make an Act of Thanksgiving for the faithful work of past officers. Pray for all lately bereaved in this Parish. Say Psalm 130 and read 1 St. Peter 12 and 13.

Feb. 12—Friday: Read First Epistle St. John 1:8, 9. At the noon hour pray, "Blessed Savior, etc." Resolve to discover your sins and make a true repentance this Lent. Say the Collect for Ash Wednesday (Feb. 17).

Resolve to go to Church on Ash Wednesday and on as many other days as possible; and that you will read one religious book this Lent. Your Rector will advise you. See St. Jude 1:20.

Feb. 13—Saturday: Read Galatians 5:22 to the end. Pray for all children, especially your own—humility, obedience, purity, the spirit of love. For the Church School, especially for your children's teachers—patience, wisdom. For those same virtues in yourself. For their day school teachers. For all babies born today. For those who mourn their children. Prepare on your knees for your Communion.

Prayer for Noon Day

Blessed Savior, Who didst hang upon the Cross at this noon hour, stretching forth Thy loving arms, grant that all mankind may look unto Thee and be saved; Through Thy merits and mercies, Who livest and reignest with the Father and the Holy Ghost, ever, One God, world without end. Amen.

Between now and Lent, during this week, in fact, two important social events are scheduled for our Parish: (1) On Thursday evening, at the Woman's Club, Germantown, our young people are giving a three-act play, "The Jonah," and a dance. Tickets cost one dollar. We bespeak your co-operation. Come! (2) On Friday, in the Parish House, the Men's Service League will give a dinner and a motion-picture lecture by Dr. Travis, entitled, "The Wilderness Dwellers." Tickets cost two dollars. Both men and women are invited. You will not only enjoy the good food and the beautiful scenery in the pictures, but you will also meet many of your fellow-worshippers. Come!

This week we record the transfer to us from Zion Church, Phila., of Mrs. J. Howard Sheeler and Miss Florence Sheeler.

Words of Morning Anthem

"The Lord is my light; whom then shall I fear? The Lord is my strength; of whom shall I be afraid?

O wait thou still upon the Lord, and He shall comfort thine heart.

For in the time of my trouble He shall hide me in His secret place, and set me up upon a rock of stone.

Therefore will I offer in His dwelling an oblation: yea, I will sing and speak praises to the Lord."

Words of Evening Anthem

"Angel bands, in strains sweet sounding, Anthems to the Savior raise Host of Heaven, His throne surrounding, Hymn the great Creator's praise.
Radiant orb of day, adore Him; Praise Him Thou who rul'st over night;
Heaven of heavens, O bow before Him, laud Him all ye worlds of light.
—Amen."

The following is the Annual Report of the Woman's Auxiliary and Guild: The most important and outstanding feature of the work this year was the very radical revision of the Constitution and By-laws, having to do with the length of term of office of the various leaders of the group. Also, among the chief tasks was the erection of a garage for the Rector's automobile, and the provision for paying the running expenses of the car for the first year. Inasmuch as during the year a new Rector took charge, there was considerable repairing done upon the Rectory, and we held a "dollar shower" to help the Vestry pay the bills.

During Lent we gave an opportunity to representatives of the five missionary departments of the Diocese to tell of the work in the particular field in which they were interested; much interest was aroused; the luncheons were a success and the attendance was good.

There has been a concerted effort made to impress upon the members the appropriateness of giving altar flowers at some time during the year as a beautiful and inexpensive memorial to dear ones who have passed on.

The head of the Box Committee is Mrs. Newnham; she tells us that our assignment of work for 1926 consists of 25 children's dresses; 25 pairs of pajamas; 25 operating gowns; 25 pairs of rompers; and she also asks us to respond to an appeal from St. Andrew's Hospital, Wusih, China, for surgical dressings. Considerable progress has already been made in filling this large order of work, but there is still a great deal to do. We know that the "regulars" will continue to do their share; what we need is more "occasionals" to become "regulars." It is to be noted that a box of knitted garments and articles from the bazaar were sent to Mrs. Walton at Dubois, Wyoming. They were valued at $25.00. Mrs. Wellington, interest in work among lepers, raised $50 for Miss Riddell's work and $50 also for Miss Leigh's work.

Mrs. Wilkinson reports for the House Committee that they are in urgent need of more equipment, such as linen, china, and silver. She suggests that if there are women in the Parish who care to donate long table-cloths they should get in touch with her at her home at 7437 Germantown Avenue.

Mrs. Matlack reports for the Library Committee that the shelves contain excellent books along various religious lines. She reminds us that each season of the year has its peculiar treasures and that she will be very glad to help any one make selections. She also calls to our attention the excellent work done by Mrs. Hayes, in the line of Mission Study in our Parish. This year's course in Mission Study is about South America, and the watchword of the course is "Life." The classes will meet during Lent.

Miss M. Bayard is the Librarian for the Church Periodical Club for Grace Parish. Under her leadership, during the year, 47 magazines and periodicals were sent out regularly; 100 books and 800 magazines and papers were sent to the City Mission; the Seamen's Church Institute; Byberry; The Home for Consumptives; the Episcopal Hospital, and to other institutions outside the Diocese. The Committee expended $7.00 in postage.

For the Entertainment Committee Mrs. Harry Brown reports that during the year her committee has taken charge of all luncheons and teas. She was given a rising vote of thanks for this at the annual meeting.

For the Social Service Committee Mrs. Sheble reports that along through the year her committee has helped the needy and sick of the Parish with money and clothes and personal cheer. Under her committee a well-attended meeting was held in the Parish House, at which Dr. Pfahler spoke on "Cancer and its Cure." She also reports co-operation with the Church Mission of Help. One of our worthy parishioners who was placed in a home for the aged has had her expenses paid for the last nine months by the Men's Service League. The money has gone through the hands of the Social Service Committee, and the Committee has added thereto small gifts and attentions from time to time.

For the Font Roll Mrs. Meehan reports that there are now 18 babies listed and she requests that she be given the names of new babies whose parents are connected with the Parish.

The Guild desires to express its appreciation of the excellent and faithful work done by Mrs. Crouter, its retiring Treasurer, and Mrs. North, the Treasurer of the United Thank Offering. The retiring president also desires to commend the work done by the Nominating Committee, consisting of Mrs. Sheard, Chairman, Mrs. Walton, and Mrs. J. H. Fell.

The annual elections resulted in the election of the following officers: President, Mrs. A. C. Brand; Vice-President, Mrs. F. J. Sheble; Recording Secretary, Miss Adelaide Sheble; Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. R. McKinney; Treasurer, Mrs. W. H. George; Educational Secretary, Mrs. S. D. Matlack.

The retiring officers are commended for their faithful work. Especially does the Rector appreciate the action of the Executive Committee, which in December voted $500 to General Missions, thus making it possible for the Parish to meet its quota for 1925.

At the end of this report your Rector desires to put on record his own appreciation, added to that expressed by the women at the Annual Meeting, of the splendid, untiring, and efficient work of the retiring President, Mrs. E. Wheeler Jenkins. She is incomparable

It has been our custom other years to publish a little folder containing a schedule of services for Lent. We are not doing so this year. Instead we are publishing the schedule from week to week in the Parish News. Every week you will find the list of Lenten Services under the caption, "Services During the Week," on the front page of this paper. Keep in mind the following general scheme: Every day, Evening Prayer will be said at 5 P. M.; on Fridays at that service the Junior Choir will lead the singing and the Rector will read from some good book or lead a meditation; every Thursday the Holy Communion will be celebrated at 9.30; on the same day Intercessions will be made at 12 o'clock noon, and a missionary will report on his work to the Auxiliary later on in the same day; Wednesday evenings have been set aside for our Mission Study Class for men (and women); and we shall have Sunday Evening Church Services at 8 P. M. That is the general plan for Lent. During Holy Week we shall have added services.

Do not overlook the special plan for next Sunday evening, i. e., Service in Church at 8 P. M., and a showing of motion pictures in the Parish House at 8.30, at which time I hope that many of you will be present. The giving of this illustrated panorama of what our Diocese is doing is a part of our general scheme in the better religious education of the people of Grace Church. The films shown are those that were shown at New Orleans and throughout the Diocese. They are entitled, "The Diocese at Work." Come!

Remember, please, the special service next Sunday afternoon to which, of course, everyone is invited, but especially the parents and godparents of the Church School pupils. Miss Lily Cheston will tell us vividly of the ideals of the Church School Service League, and the Rector will speak briefly on what the Church expects of the parents of her children. We are very anxious to have a good attendance. Do come!

Mr. George M. Austin and Mr. Thomas Meryweather have been appointed Assistant Superintendents in the Church School. Both are real "finds." We are trying to have every well teacher and pupil present every Sunday, with good teaching, good singing, and good spirit. We are also trying to better our Easter offering of thanks—over what it was last year, $331. Won't you help us in our goals?

There has just come in a very urgent appeal from the Blue Ridge Industrial School of Virginia for warm, second-hand clothing. The Woman's Guild and Auxiliary

Owing to the necessary absence of Miss Lily Cheston, who was to be the chief speaker at the special service for the parents of Church School pupils that we had arranged for this afternoon, we have had to postpone that service for several weeks. Due notice of it will be given in this paper.

Today we begin to use the revisions of the Prayer Book that were approved by General Convention last October. I want to call your attention especially to the changes made in the Order for the Administration of the Holy Communion. They need not confuse you; keep in mind the following revisions and you will not be perplexed: (1) After the Gospel has been read, the Minister and Congregation together may say "Praise be to thee, O Christ"; (2) After the "Holy, Holy, Holy" (Sanctus) on page 232 of the Prayer Book the Priest passes directly to the Consecration Prayer ("All Glory be to Thee," etc.) on page 235. He continues until he reaches the end of the Prayers of Consecration on page 236, and then he says to the congregation, "And now, as our Saviour Christ hath taught us, let us say"—then Priest and people together say the Lord's Prayer. This is followed by the Priest saying the prayer of Humble Access ("We do not presume," etc.), and then the people make their Communions. After the people have communed the Lord's Prayer is omitted, the Priest passing directly to the prayer, "Almighty and Everliving God." After this prayer has been said the Gloria in Excelsis is said as heretofore, except that the phrase that is repeated ("Thou that takest away the sins of the world, have mercy upon us") is now omitted. There are minor changes other than those that we have noted, but they need not concern you insomuch as they apply mainly to the Celebrant. From now on we shall use the revised version of the Prayer Book.

The Proper Lessons for Today are: Morning: (1) Daniel 3; (2) St. Matt. 19 : 16–20 : 16. Evening: (1) Baruch 2 : 6 and (2) St. Mark 9 : 2–32.

The Missionary who will speak to the Woman's Auxiliary on next Thursday, March 4th, is Miss Blacknall, of Alaska.

On March first, at St. Peter's Parish House, Wayne Avenue and Harvey Street, at 3.10 in the afternoon, Mrs. Lee, Missionary at Anking, China, will tell of the industrial work carried on under her direction. There will be a display of the work made by native women of Anking. Some of it will be for sale. Tea will be served and all are invited.

Mission study classes are being held on Wednesday evenings at 8 and on Friday afternoons at 3. You will be welcomed.

The Appointed Lessons for Today are: Morning: (1) Daniel 4; (2) St. Matt. 21:12–32; Evening: (1) Baruch 3:1–14 and (2) St. Mark 9: 33. The Psalms for today, suggested in the revision of the Prayer Book, are 56, 86, and 119:73–104.

As you know, we have been holding all-day meetings of the Woman's Auxiliary every Thursday during Lent. On next Thursday in Germantown the Needlework Guild will give a luncheon that many of our members desire to attend. This makes an apparent conflict. Here is our plan to obviate the difficulty: On Thursday we shall hold our work-meeting as usual, except that we shall not have a speaker. Those who expect to attend the Needlework Guild luncheon are asked to come and work until it is time to leave for the Needlework Guild meeting. Others who care to remain and work on into the afternoon will bring their own lunch and the Auxiliary will supplement it by providing coffee and tea.

The Young People's Fellowship during Lent meets every Sunday night at 7 o'clock. Last Sunday the feature of the hour was a discussion of the question, "Would it not be better to evangelize our own land than to continue missionary work in South America?" Tonight the subject will be, "How can we make our meetings more helpful?" The play committee reports that approximately $125 was cleared on the recent play and dance. Attendance is good.

Next Sunday will be Family Sunday in Grace Church. That means that we expect you to come with all of the members of your family to the 11 o'clock service. If you can help it, don't come alone. Bring your children; we won't mind if they become restive. Bring your neighbor: perhaps he has been waiting for a long time to have you ask him to come with you. Bring your wife: the shortest distance between two souls is via God. Let everyone who reads this bring someone to Church.

And when you shall have come, let us make it Family Sunday indeed, in the sense that we shall look upon ourselves and our fellow-worshippers as God's family, worshipping together as brothers and sisters in our Father's house. Let everyone enter heartily into the service, singing the hymns fervently and meaning their words; praying the prayers heartily and making concrete their meanings; reading the Psalter thoughtfully and praising God that they have been completed in a newer and higher revelation. In short, let us throw our whole souls into this service, and make it a real family reunion between ourselves and our heavenly Father.

Mission Study Classes.—Men and women. Wednesday nights at 5 minutes of 8. Every one welcome whether they have come before or not. Come and listen.

Friday at 5 minutes of 3: Women and girls. The Church in Latin America. Bible Study on Life. "I am come that ye might have life and that more abundantly." Let us study and meditate together.

Prayer Calendar

March 7 (Sunday).—III. Lent. Collect. Gospel for meditation. Give thanks for some recent blessing. Offer to God any trial or sorrow you may have had, to be used to form your character to His plans for you and for the world. Say the Magnificat in thanksgiving for your Communion today.

March 8 (Monday).—Collect. Epistle for meditation. Pray for purity for all. For the Church Mission of Help; for girls who have gone astray; for patience, wisdom, love for those who are giving their lives to aid them. Pray for a single standard of morality for men and women. For all in temptation today. Pray for the Church's work in Brazil; for Bishop Thomas, the new Suffragan. For a suitable head-master for the Southern Cross School for boys at Porto Allegre. Read 1 Epistle St. John 3:11.

March 9 (Tuesday).—Collect and "Our Father." Pray for the sick in the Parish. For all sick everywhere. For all undergoing operations. For all babies born today. Read St. James 5:14, 15, 16 with thought. Do the sick in your family have spiritual as well as physical care? Pray for the Parish Mission Study Classes. For the leader.

March 10 (Wednesday).—Collect. Meditate upon St. Luke 2:51 and 52. Pray for all parents—wisdom, patience, sympathy, love, and a high standard of ideals. For more home life; for gracious manners in the home. For family prayers; grace at meals. For more reading of Holy Scripture. Pray for the deaf; the blind; the aged.

March 11 (Thursday).—Collect. Gospel. Give thanks for your spiritual privileges. Ask to realize that they are responsibilities. Meditate on the Gospel. Ask yourself whether you are divided in your aim in life. "Am I seeking first the Kingdom of God and His righteousness?" "How much time do I give to the study of God's word, to learning His will for me, to prayer and good works?" Do I take my life seriously, or am I merely seeking all the ease and pleasure and profit I can get? Read carefully I Timothy 6:17, 18, 19.

March 12 (Friday).—Fast. Collect. Pray for Mexico—a true democracy. For Bishop Creighton and all foreign missionaries there—protection, patience, a right judgment. Read II Timothy 2:24 to end. At the Noon Hour—say "Blessed Saviour, who didst hang upon the Cross at the noon hour, stretching forth Thy loving arms, grant that all mankind may look unto Thee and be saved: Through Thy merits and mercies Who livest and reignest with the Father and the Holy Ghost, ever one God, world without end. Amen."

March 13 (Saturday).—Collect for the week and for 5th Trinity. Pray for the Presiding Bishop and Council. Give thanks for Bishop Murray's recovery from pneumonia. For your Bishop; your Rector. Your Parish, especially for its prayer life. Prepare on your knees for your Communion. St. John 14:23.

This Week's Mission Study Classes.—Subject, Haiti. Meditation, "The Way of Life." Hours: Wednesday evening at 8, for men and women, all welcome, especially newcomers; Friday at 3, for women and girls.

Church School Notes: We are half-way through the Lenten Season and our boys and girls are very busy earning money for their mite boxes, some running errands, some taking care of little sisters and brothers, some selling the "Spirit of Missions," and doing other acts of loving service.

Last Sunday many braved the rain and were rewarded by hearing Miss Blacknall tell of the work that she and others are doing with Indian children at St. Mark's School, Nenana, Alaska. Her talk was intensely interesting. One point she brought out was that those little codgers actually earned $121 for their mite boxes last year—think of it, thirty poor Indian boys and girls raised $121! After she had told of the work being done, there was a general feeling of satisfaction that our Church School had already decided to give $100 toward a scholarship at Nenana.

The special speaker at the Women's Auxiliary on Thursday afternoon of this week will be the Rt. Rev. Arthur W. Moulton, D.D., Bishop of the Missionary District of Utah.

The Appointed Lessons for Today are: Morning: (1) Daniel 6; (2) St. Matt. 22:23. Evening: (1) Baruch 4:21–5 to end; (2) St. Mark 10:32–45. The Psalms for today are: 42, 43, and 119:145–176.

There were 361 present at the late service last Sunday morning, ten more than were present last year on Family Sunday. And what a splendid service it was! The hearty singing, reverently—slow reading of the Psalms, and sustained interest and attention throughout the service did one's heart good. Even the children entered into the spirit of the service, for one little six-year-old told his mother the gist of the Old Testament lesson and parts of the sermon. Of course, we were pleased. The Rector was reminded of a sign he once saw in a fish-market which read, "Seven Fridays every week"; so he would like to have exhorted, "Let's have fifty-two Family Sundays every year," but he refrained, hoping that the congregation would see it for itself. And it did: ever so many people came to the Rector and remarked, "Wouldn't it be a good idea to have Family Sunday often?" And that, after all, was better than if the Rector had said it for you.

It may interest you to know that your Young People's Fellowship is going to take part in playing host to the Fellowships of twelve other dioceses while the Convention of Fellowships of the Province of Washington is in session from April 23d to April 25th in Philadelphia.

There is always something doing at our Sunday evening meetings: sometimes a speaker, sometimes a discussion, and sometimes a business meeting in preparation for some kind of social work. At this evening's meeting there will be a discussion, "What part should money play in a man's life?"

G. M.

At the meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary on Thursday of this week the speaker will be the Rev. Elliot White, Archdeacon of work among the foreign-born, Diocese of Pennsylvania.

The Mission Study Classes will meet as usual on Wednesday evening at 8, and on Friday afternoon at 3. Come!

Parish Prayer Calendar

March 21 (Passion Sunday). Collect. Gospel for meditation. Pray that those who are neglecting the spiritual opportunities of Lent may repent and devote the remaining two weeks to following Our Lord along His Way of Sorrows. Pray that you and others may see Jesus in His beauty and power and may strive to realize that the Christian religion is not an easy way but the hard Way of the Cross.

March 22 (Monday). Collect. Epistle for meditation. Praise God for the Precious Blood of His dear Son, shed for you; and for the promise of eternal life. Pray that this Parish may learn the meaning of "a life hid with Christ in God." Colossians 3:1–4.

March 23 (Tuesday). Collect. Read Philippians 1:29 and Galatians 5:22 to end. Pray for your Bishop and Rector; for the Church School; for all Seminarians, especially Dimmick—the Sevenfold Gifts of the Holy Spirit. Pray for Missions, using Collect on p. 46 of the Prayer Book.

March 24 (Wednesday). Collect for Unity, Page 45 of the Prayer Book, and also Collect for St. Simon and St. Jude. Read carefully Our Lord's prayer for unity which is the whole 17th chapter of St. John. Pray to realize that the unity of His Church was His last wish, His last prayer before Gethsemane and Calvary, and that it must be our wish and aim. Meditate on this. Hymn 337.

March 25 (Thursday). Annunciation of the Blessed Virgin Mary. Go to Church. Make your Communion for all women, that they may be more like her whom God called "blessed among women," and found to be worthy to be the Mother of His Son. Pray for humility, patience, purity, meekness, long-suffering, faith and joy. Use the Collect for the Feast of the Annunciation and meditate upon the Epistle and Gospel.

March 26 (Friday). Fast. Use yesterday's Collect and Gospel again. Meditate on Our Lord's Cross and Passion, especially at the Noon Hour, and say, "O Saviour of the World, Who by Thy Cross and Precious Blood hath redeemed us: Save us and help us, we humbly beseech Thee, O Lord."

March 27 (Saturday). Use the Collect and Gospel for tomorrow. Meditate upon the many who were ready to shout Hosanna! on Sunday (thinking Jesus was riding into Jerusalem as an earthly Messiah and King), who cried Crucify Him! on Friday, when He showed them that His Kingdom was not of this world and that the true Way of Life was one of suffering, love, and not of force. Make an Act of Surrender of your will, your whole life, to Him and make this the intention of your Communion tomorrow.

Palm Sunday: the first day of Holy Week—What of it? What difference does it make? In what way does it affect me more than if it were, say, the first Sunday in Advent? Does it mean anything especially to me? If so, what does it mean?—the end of the period for which I have given up something which I shall soon be at liberty to take up again? The assurance that springtime will soon be really here after a winter that has seemed to drag out its weary course longer than any winter that one can remember? Does it merely mean new clothes? or a trip to the seashore next Sunday to take part in a silly fashion parade? Holy Week may mean any of a thousand irrelevant things to a thoughtless person, but to us it should mean at least two meanings, or rather two attitudes in our religious lives: sympathy and comradeship. If we care to prove to ourselves that we would not have been of the mob that crucified Him and that crucifies Him afresh today, we must evince a sympathy with Him in His travail, and a comradeship that journeys with Him over the Way of Sorrows during this solemn week. By sharing His sorrows we shall mitigate His sufferings.

The Church doors will be unlocked as usual from morning until night for you to come in and be with Him in the silence; there will be services at various hours designed to fit your time and your needs; everything is now ready for you to make this the best Holy Week that you have ever spent. Resolve now to use your opportunities!

If your Rector were without a parish and free to choose where he would attend the Three-hour Service on Good Friday, he would undoubtedly choose to attend where Dr. Foley was conducting the devotions. Imagine your Rector's pleasure, then, in being able to announce that he has secured Dr. Foley to lead us on Good Friday! We are indeed fortunate. Do come out! Stay for part of the services or for all.

The hour of Church School on Easter Day is changed from 9.30 A. M. to 4 P. M. The mite-boxes will be presented at the 4 o'clock festival. There will also be a little play given.

Don't forget the Oratorio, "The Seven Last Words," by Dubois, that will be sung at the 8 o'clock service this evening.

The Easter Day offering will be given to the Home for Consumptives, Chestnut Hill. Incidentally, the amount given counts on our apportionment "for others." Last year we raised $694.87 on Easter Day.

All who desire to share in furnishing the Altar with flowers for Easter Day may do so by sending the money to Mrs. Henry S. Lowber no later than Wednesday.

The Mite-box Offering of the Church School which is presented on Easter Day, and which is given to altruistic purposes, amounted in 1922 to $182; in 1923 to $223; in 1924, to $244.56; in 1925 to $331. What will it amount to this year? Every cent given helps on our budget.

The meeting of the Evening Study Class in Missions will be held on this Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock. You are cordially invited to attend whether you have attended any previous meeting or not. The afternoon class will be on Thursday at 3.

In October the Woman's Auxiliary and Guild will hold a Rummage Sale. Notice is being given now in order that during spring housecleaning, when you discard winter clothing, you may reserve it for the sale. We will be glad to call for donations, and will store them in camphor until needed. Phone Mrs. Dixon, C. H. 2342.

The Appointed Lessons for today are: Morning: (1) Daniel 9; (2) St. Matt. 20:20–21:11. Evening: (1) II Kings 25:22; (2) St. Mark 10:46–11:11.

Parish Prayer Calendar for Holy Week

March 28 (Palm Sunday). Collect, Epistle and Gospel. Read St. Matt. 21:1–12. Meditate on Christ Our King and offer Him the kingdom of your will. Resolve to give this entire week to following Our Lord along His Way of the Cross. Pray for a holy week for this Parish and in all the world.

March 29 (Monday in Holy Week). Collect for the week. Epistle and Gospel for today. Meditate upon the denials of Peter. Make your Communion as an act of sorrow for your sins, especially your denials of Christ's right to first place in your thoughts and acts and love.

March 30 (Tuesday in Holy Week). Collect for the week. Epistle and Gospel for this day. Meditate upon the betrayal of Jesus and on the love of money that led Judas to become the world's blackest traitor. "Lord is it I?"

March 31 (Wednesday in Holy Week). Collect for the week. Epistle and Gospel for today. Meditate on the Agony in the Garden of Gethsemane, using the Gospel. Enter truly into Our Lord's grief. Look on the misery, injustice, pain, cruelty, greed and hate in the world today. and sorrow for them.

April 1 (Maundy Thursday). Collect. Today's Epistle and Gospel. Meditate on the Epistle, thinking of the Holy Communion as a repleading of the Passion of Our Lord before the Throne of God; as the only offering perfect in God's eyes.

April 2 (Good Friday).—Strict Fast. Do not talk unnecessarily today. Collect. Epistles and Gospel. Go to the morning service and to the Three Hours' Devotion (12 to 3 P. M.). Let every thought of the whole day cling around that Figure on the Cross, dying for you. Meditate on the Suffering Love that conquered even death, and on the hope it brings to us. "By Thy Cross and Passion, Good Lord, deliver us!"

April 3 (Saturday, Easter Even). Collect. Epistle, Gospel. Keep this day in due solemnity. Go to church. Meditate on baptism, reading over your baptismal vows, as a death to sin and a resurrection to a new and eternal life as a child of God. Pray that you may walk worthy of such a calling.

Parish Prayer Calendar

April 4 (Easter Day). Collect. Epistle, Gospel. Meditate upon the Power of Perfect Love which was able to survive death. Make your Communion as an Act of Love for Our Risen Lord. [Say daily this week: Blessed, praised, hallowed and adored be Our Lord, Jesus Christ, on His Throne of Glory and in the Holy Sacrament of the Altar.]

April 5 (Monday in Easter Week). This day has its own Epistle and Gospel. Meditate on the Gospel, especially the last sentence. [Ask God, the Holy Ghost, to make Jesus known to you "in the breaking of bread." Make your Communion today with this intention. Pray for daily bread for the world: bread for the body and bread for the soul.]

April 6 (Tuesday in Easter Week). This day also has its special Epistle and Gospel. Read them carefully. Meditate on the Gospel. [Pray that your "understanding may be opened, that you may understand the Scriptures."] Pray for more love of Bible study in this Parish.

April 7 (Wednesday). Collect. Meditate again on yesterday's Gospel, especially the last part [and pray that you may help that "preaching of repentance and remission of sins in His Name among all nations," by your gifts, prayers and intelligent interest. Pray for Latin America].

April 8 (Thursday). Meditate upon the Easter Collect. Thank God for the assurance of resurrection from the dead; for the looking forward to seeing again our beloved dead. [Pray for them: "May they rest in peace and may light perpetual shine upon them."]

April 9 (Friday). Collect. Meditate upon the Easter Day Epistle. Pray that this Parish may seek those things that are above. [At the Noon Hour say, "We adore Thee, O Christ, and we bless Thee, because by Thy Cross and Precious Blood Thou hast redeemed the world."]

April 10 (Saturday). Use both Collects for Easter Day. Meditate upon Christ our Passover, using the alternate Epistle and Gospel for Easter Day. [Praise God for the Risen Christ, saying the Te Deum.]

Just a word with regard to the post-Lenten season. When Lent is over, don't go to the other extreme and throw away the spiritual treasures that you have gained during the Holy Season. It is true that the fast will be over and the constant church-going will give place to other duties and other thoughts. But, just as the disciples felt the somberness of Good Friday every year on the anniversary of that day, so let us remember the hill of Calvary even amidst the fragrance and color of the garden of Joseph. Conserve your Lenten gains. Keep up your interest in things religious, carry on your meditation and continue your regular attendance at Church services. So your Lent will have been a fruitful one.

And if, during the forty days, you have gotten the better of that sin that formerly got around you so easily, whether it be of the flesh, like gluttony or pampering; or of the spirit, like meanness, envy, or pride—be careful that you do not gain a worse sin in its place. Beware lest, having swept your house clean of the evil spirit, you do not leave it garnished and invitingly open to other spirits more evil than the one that you have driven out. In other words, take on some spiritual task to keep out your ghostly enemy. Substitute some virtue for the ejected vice.

THE stone has been rolled away. No longer need men linger day by day over the graves of those whom they have loved, shedding tears on the white grave-stone, without a hope in their breasts that it ever could be rolled away. That time has passed. The stone has been rolled away! Your dear one is not here: he is risen! Out of a tomb, sealed up like yours, One came forth on Easter morning —the first fruits of them that were asleep. Because He said so, we know that all other men also will come forth from their tombs. The Christian religion rests upon this. Tombs cannot hold you; stones cannot press down your spirit; you must live and live forever. The stone has been rolled away.

On Wednesday in Easter Week, at 8 P. M., in the Parish House, will be held the reorganization meeting of the Vestry.

The Priest assisting the Rector today is the Reverend James Alan Montgomery, Professor of Old Testament Literature and Language at the Philadelphia Divinity School.

Notice

MONDAY, APRIL 12, AT 8 P. M.—Last meeting of all Diocesan Mission Study Classes. Holy Trinity Parish House, 20th below Walnut. Good speakers. Presentation of Diocesan Mission Study Class Offerings to go to Bishop Carson of Haiti. It is hoped $1,000 will be raised. Give your contribution to the Rector or to Mrs. Matlack, even if you haven't attended a class.

DEAR PEOPLE:

This editorial is a pastoral to recall to your minds the inner meaning of Easter and to bid you come to your Easter Communion.

The inner meaning of Easter is made plain at this time of year by every flower that unfolds its chalice and by every tree that springs afresh into luxuriant life—an acted-out parable of Immortality. Just as during the long winter months the flowers seemed gone from us forever and the trees remained in their gaunt nakedness as dismal reminders of a beauty that was fled, but both now are suddenly blossoming forth into new and more abundant life and glory—even so at Easter time we are reminded that now is Christ risen from the dead and become the first fruits of them that are asleep. One has come back to tell us that all life is of a piece and that the horizon which men call "death" is but an imaginary line, man made, and having no existence in fact. For this wonderful assurance, thanks be to God Who giveth us the victory through our Lord, Jesus Christ.

On Easter Day we shall celebrate the Holy Communion at six o'clock; again at half-past seven o'clock; and again at eleven o'clock. If possible, commune at one of the two earlier services, and in addition let everyone come out to the great Service of Praise at eleven o'clock. And forasmuch as giving is a part of all true worship, make your Easter offering of money as generous as possible. We are not selfish in this request; all undesignated money that is received on Easter Day will be forwarded for work at the Home for Consumptives, Chestnut Hill. There could be no recipient more worthy than the work that your Church is doing up there among peoples of all classes and all communions. Last year our Easter offering amounted to $694.87. Do give generously, but remember, we seek not yours but you!

May God bless you all and make your Easter one long to be remembered!

Your Friend and Rector,

Charles Edward Eder.

Holy Week, 1926.

In the Church on next Saturday afternoon, at 4 o'clock, Mr. Robinson will play an Organ Recital. Come!

Another Easter Day has passed. What a glorious day it was! How our hearts burned within us as we listened again to the Resurrection story! What beautiful music! How splendid the flowers! So many Communions made! The spirit of reverence that characterized all! Truly it is a privilege to be a worshipper in Grace Church at Easter time.

The secret of our happy Easter was the well-spent Lent on the part of so many. The daily offices found a higher average of attendance than usual; the Three Hour Service on Good Friday brought out a larger group than ever. Doctor Foley, in his meditations, gave us a "Message of Hope" that was as inspiring as it was unique. We are deeply grateful to him.

At this time, in your name, I desire to thank our choir for their singing, not only on Easter Day but also on Passion Sunday and on Palm Sunday in the special Oratorios. To Mr. Robinson, for his able leadership and wise choice of music; to the singers themselves for the manner in which they responded we owe much. Also we desire in your name to thank the Altar Guild for the care and taste that they displayed in caring for and beautifying the Chancel during the holy season. Nor do we forget the taste, skill and interest of our printers which they put into the special Easter number of the Parish News. And while we are at it, let us not forget our faithful Sexton, whose care had so much to do with our comfort. In your name to all of them I say, "We thank you."

As to actual statistics: On Easter Day there were present at 6 A. M., 40 persons; at 7.30 A. M., 148; at 10.30 A. M., 33; and at 11 A. M., 413—all of which constitutes a record. There were 315 communions made, seven more than last year, which was a banner year. The Mite Box offering of the Church School so far has amounted to $378, with more to come in, which again is by far our record offering and represents sacrifices and service the magnitude of which is not grasped by many outsiders. Our Easter offering in church amounted to $585.29, of which $205 was designated for Foreign Missions and $380.29 for the Home for Consumptives. In addition to this were the regular envelope offerings and $91.60 for the Jerusalem Mission. On Easter afternoon the Children's Church School Festival brought out 360 people. The best attended services during Lent were on Family Sunday, when we had out 361 people and on Palm Sunday when we had 391. The combined attendance at all services on Easter Day was 994. All along the line, in numbers, in interest and we hope in spirituality there seems to have been a splendid advance. For all this we thank God.

A musicale in the interest of the work of the Woman's Auxiliary will be given on Wednesday evening, April 28th, at 8.30 o'clock. Mrs. Frank J. Sheble has kindly lent her house for the occasion, and Mr. Frederic F. Leonard will supply the talent from his studio, so there is every promise of a delightful evening. Do not miss it!

Be sure to save the afternoon of Wednesday, May 5th, for the Woman's Auxiliary Birthday Party, to which all the women and confirmed girls in the parish will soon receive an invitation.

We, the undersigned, judges appointed to conduct the election of four Vestrymen of Grace Church, Mount Airy, to serve for a term of three years, hereby certify that we held said election on Easter Monday, April 5, 1926, from five to six o'clock P. M., in accordance with the by-laws, and that at said election the following gentlemen were duly elected: Thomas Allsop, Charles H. Landenberger, Walter W. Sibson, Holman White.

W. F. WAGNER, WILLIAM B. WALTON, Judges.

Today is St. Mark's Day. We cannot discover the exact date at which a religious festival was instituted for St. Mark: it is generally thought to have first occurred in the ninth century, for it has been observed uninterruptedly since then by the Greek, Latin, and other churches. The date, April 25th, was so set because it was on that date, according to tradition, that St. Mark was killed rather than give up his faith in Christ. He was martyred in Alexandria, Egypt. There are three other Marks mentioned in the Bible, while St. Mark changes his Hebrew name John to that by which he is now familiarly known in the Church. We find some information with regard to him in Acts 12:5–17, and we especially remember him for writing the second gospel, which he did between the years 56–63 A. D. The unbroken testimony of historians is that he wrote under the eye and with the help of St. Peter. He loved the truth as it was in Jesus and gladly penned it for the everlasting welfare of mankind. He is the patron Saint of Venice and is symbolized by the lion.

Next Wednesday evening, April 28th, at 8.30 o'clock, at the home of Mrs. Frank J. Sheble, 311 Roumfort Road, will be held the Musicale we have been looking forward to for so long. The musicians represent the studio of Frederic F. Leonard and that means that we shall have a delightful evening. The Woman's Auxiliary and Guild will be the hostesses. Tickets cost $1.00. Do come!

The sewing of the Woman's Auxiliary for the Supply Bureau having been accomplished, next Thursday we shall sew for the Needlework Guild.

Two more important dates to keep with the Woman's Auxiliary: May 5th, Birthday party in the Parish House; May 11th, the stated Spring Meeting.

This week from the House of Prayer, Branchtown, we receive Mrs. Gladys W. Austin as a Communicant member of Grace Church.

On next Thursday morning, at St. James' Church, Walnut and Twenty-second Streets, at 10.30 A. M., there will be held the United Thank Offering Presentation

Service. Bishop Garland will be the Celebrant and the Rev. B. N. Bird, of St. Asaph's, Bala, will be the preacher. We do hope that every woman and confirmed girl in this Parish will have a share in this presentation.

A correction: The proceeds from the garden sale and supper at "Wyck" on May 27th, under the auspices of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Convocation of Germantown, will be given to aid St. Gabriel's Mission on the Boulevard. Have you spoken to Mrs. Burrell yet to tell how you will aid?

Let me remind you that on May 5th, we are to be hosts at a recital on Organ and Piano, to be given in Grace Church, under the auspices of the American Guild of Organists. The hour is 8 P. M.

Our Boy Scout Troop, Troop 67, will be twelve years old this month and is going strong. Just now it needs three or four Assistant Scoutmasters. Any candiate who can give one or two Saturday afternoons a month should speak to the Rector or Scoutmaster Rodd this week.

The Young People's Fellowships of Washington, D. C., Maryland, Delaware and Pennsylvania are having a great Conference in Philadelphia this week-end. Some of the visitors are being entertained as guests by our members. This morning our own Fellowship had a Corporate Communion at the 7.30 service. Tonight, at our meeting, we shall discuss the conference.

Parish Prayer Calendar

April 25, St. Mark's Day (3d Sunday after Easter). Collect. Meditate on the Epistle for St. Mark's Day, page 199. Pray that you may be so grounded in the truth that you may not be carried away by vain doctrines. Pray for more interest in Study Classes in this Parish, in the Bible, and in the doctrine of the Church.

April 26 (Monday).—Use the Collect and Gospel for St. Mark's Day. Meditate on the branch nourished by the vine and so bearing fruit. Ask yourself whether you bear the Christ-like fruit of self-control, patience, goodness, love, joy, humility and peace.

April 27 (Tuesday).—Use again the Collect and Epistle for St. Mark's Day, meditating especially on verse 13 of 4 Ephesians: "Till we ALL come to the UNITY of the Faith," etc. Pray for the sense of world-brotherhood—"all." For the Unity of the Church, page 38, Prayer Book.

Examine yourself and see whether you are "growing up" in your religion; whether you have put away childish ideas of God, childish aims, prejudices. Are your prayers less selfish, cold, willful? Are you nearer the stature of the fullness of Christ?

April 28 (Wednesday).—Collect and Epistle for 3d Sunday after Easter. Pray against sins of the flesh, in yourself, in others. For purity of thought and word. That all may refuse to listen to impure stories and may instantly turn to God in prayer. Use often the Collect for Purity found at the beginning of the Communion Service. Pray also for purity of motive—singleness of purpose, in all you do and say. That you may not judge others.

April 29 (Thursday).—Collect and Gospel for 3d Sunday after Easter. Meditate on the Gospel and the promise of the Holy Spirit: not to compensate for the absence of Jesus but to accomplish His continuing Presence in His Living Body, the Church. Thank God for this Glorious Mystery, saying Psalm 103 and Veni Domine. Pray for the sick, especially Mrs. Lowber. Give thanks for the beginning of the recovery of little Nancy Nowell, Billy Lundelius and Virginia Clark.

April 30 (Friday).—Collect, 3d after Easter and also St. Mark's Day. Pray for the conversion of those in this Parish who have wandered away in error and for their return to the Church and the Sacraments of His love and His authorization. Pray for an open mind, humility of spirit and of intellect for them and for us all. For our children in school and college. At the Noon Hour praise the Risen Christ, saying the Creed.

May 1 (Saturday).—Use tomorrow's Collect, Epistle and Gospel and prepare with self-examination for your Communion. Offer God all you have thought, said, suffered and done in the past week, to be cleansed, purified and united with that Perfect Offering, the Life of His Son. Hymns 333 and 339. Thank God for some special blessing.

Some time, when you are free, go up to the second floor of the Parish House and look at the stained glass window that we have recently installed there. The window originally was set up in an advantageous position in Miss Mills' School at Cresheim. When later it appeared that the building would not again house a school, then it was decided to move the window to a place where it would continue to interest and inspire children. Through the kindness of Miss Mills and of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sheble the window was given to us and installed in its present position, where the older members of the Church School can enjoy it from week to week.

The design is an unusual one, portraying an angel of the highest order—a Seraph—and is a pictorial delineation or interpretation of Isaiah 6:2. Miss Mills used to teach the children the joy of service from this text and that is why she chose this subject for the window. Bishop Phillips Brooks has a great sermon from the same text and on the same theme. It will pay you to read it.

In the presence of the Church School on St. Mark's Day the Rector formally accepted the window in the name of Grace Church and described it to the assembled school. You are invited to go up and study it at your leisure.

The window is to the greater glory of God and in memory of Ann Elizabeth Sheble, born December 13, 1902, and reborn into the unseen world on March 4, 1920.

There will be an important meeting of the teachers of our Church School tomorrow, Monday, evening at 7.45. Do come!

Please take this leaflet home for careful reading and reference

The annual Presentation Service of the Lenten Missionary offering by the Church Schools of the diocese will be held next Sunday afternoon in Holy Trinity Church at 4 o'clock.

The Young People's Fellowship is going to give a supper next Sunday evening in the Parish House to older members of the Parish with the hope of bringing about a closer bond of fellowship among the young people of the Church and of increasing the membership of the fellowship itself. We have a large group now, but it is realized that many young people are still outside our band and we hope to bring them in to strengthen our group and to share with them the pleasure we get from our association together. The arrangements are in charge of William Wagner, Jr., and the speakers and program in charge of John MacInnes.

The Birthday Party of the Woman's Auxiliary and Guild on next Tuesday afternoon at 3 P. M. in the Parish House is to be a real party. Don't forget to come!

On May 5th, the evening of the same day on which we have the Birthday Party, you are to be hosts to the American Guild of Organists at an Organ and Piano Recital in Grace Church. Apart from the beautiful music, surely as hosts you will want to be present to welcome your guests. You will not fail us, I am sure. Be present!!

Today, the Sunday before Ascension, is called "Rogation Sunday," and Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday of this week are Rogation Days. Rogation Days originated in this way: In the year 452 the district around Vienne in France was laid desolate by earthquakes and fires and the prospect of a good harvest was very doubtful. The Bishop of Vienne, Mamertus by name, appointed the three days before Ascension Day that year as a solemn fast, when all Christian people were to go in procession, singing litanies, to a church outside the walls, where God was to be asked to pardon the sins of His people and grant them a good return for the seed just sown. That, as far as the Western Church was concerned, was the definite time from which we date the kind of prayer we call "litany," short supplications with responses, one of the most highly prized and effective parts of our service. This particular form of devotion found such favor with the people that in the fifth century St. Charles of Arles writes that the Rogation Days were "regularly observed by the Church throughout the world."

The Rogation Days, then, are the Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday before Ascension and, as far as our Communion is concerned, their object is to ask God to bless the labors of the husbandman, and to grant such seasonable weather that the crops may grow and we may gather in the fruits of the earth. The litany ought to be said on all these days, in memory of the origin of these rogations or petitions, for the word comes from the Latin, rogare, to petition.

Therefore, pray on the Rogation Days this week that the harvest may be good, and that the ground may bring forth abundantly. Do not be kept from such prayers by the feeling that all nature is governed by laws and that ground will only produce and fruit ripen according to the rain and sun, the richness of the soil, and the labor bestowed upon it. We all know that and we would not plant a seed unless we were sure that great laws were in back of us which would ensure its ripening with proper care. But we know that our feeble wills can cooperate with laws that men have not yet discovered. We can make a ball fly up, when the law of gravity is that it shall remain down. So God, who is infinitely greater than us, can do many things which men are not able to do. He may help the harvest in a thousand ways of which we are ignorant, and law exist all the same. We are right in praying for any good thing. Fitting prayers are on page 41 of the Prayer Book.

All Grace Church women who are interested in the work of the Auxiliary and Guild are expected to attend the Stated Meeting of Spring on Tuesday of this week, May 11th. Business will be begun at 12 o'clock noon; will be interrupted at 1 o'clock for luncheon, and will be resumed after luncheon is over. This will be one of the most important meetings of the year. All are asked to attend.

The Fellowship Supper of the Young People has been postponed until next Sunday evening at half after six o'clock. It is hoped to have as speakers Mr. Dallas of Jenkintown, President of the Young People's Fellowships of the Province of Washington; Mr. Reed of W. Phila.; and the Rev. Mr. Groton of St. Thomas' Church, Whitemarsh.

Dimmick Baldy, born and raised in Grace Church, graduated from Wesleyan College and the General Theological Seminary, is to be ordained Deacon on Trinity Sunday morning at the Church of the Incarnation, Broad and Jefferson Sts., Phila. The members of our congregation are invited to be present, especially the young people. Mr. Baldy is to begin his ministry as Curate at St. Michael's Church on High St. after July first. Pray that others may have a vocation for the ministry and obey God's call.

When your Rector came to take charge of this Parish he was gratified to discover that very few people—sometimes none—left the building until the Holy Communion service was ended and the last hymn had been sung. The same good manners had obtained in his late charge, but it had been achieved as the result of much exhortation and pointing out of what are good and bad manners in public worship. You can realize, then, how disappointed he has felt lately in discovering that quite a few of his people are becoming lax in this matter. Dear people, this ought not so to be. You need not be reminded in detail that the Holy Communion is the great and central service of the Church, and that in reverence to our dear Lord, and to avoid disturbing the others present who are at worship, nothing but dire necessity should lead you to leave before the Service is over. I am sure your innate good breeding and sense of the fitness of things will cause you to cease this careless practice now that it is pointed out to you, before it becomes a bad habit. Please!

The beautiful flowers on the Altar today were provided by the children in Mrs. R. N. Hall's class of the Church School.

On the Thursday after next, that is, on Thursday, May 27th, there will be held at "Wyck," Germantown Avenue and Walnut Lane, the Garden Party, Country Fair, and Supper we have been telling you about in The Parish News. Supper will be served from 6 to 7.30, but, if you can, come much earlier in the afternoon. The financial proceeds will be given to St. Gabriel's Mission on the Roosevelt Boulevard, but more than that there will be an intangible asset in the new sense of extra-parochial interest that will grow out of this Convocational effort if we all get in back of it and lend our support. Mrs. Horace Burrell is our parish representative, and some of you have been sending in delightful "White Elephants" (high-grade rummage, such as books, candlesticks, flower-vases, etc.) which have gladdened her heart. She needs more Elephants. Also she asks for donations of cakes, candies, etc., to help other tables. Mrs. James C. Whedon has been busy selling tickets, and she has more for those who are still unsupplied. Won't you think this over carefully and co-operate? I know that you will.

Your Rector is glad to inform you that the Lenten Mite Box Offering of your Church School for the Missionary Work of the Church finally amounted to $415.65. This is by far the largest amount our school has ever given—being about $75 more than was given last year, which in turn was a banner year. You ought to be as glad as your Rector is. Next year?—just wait!

The Church School will close this session on June 20th with an interesting Commencement Service; on the day before, we will take a Church School picnic to Valley Forge.

On Tuesday Evening, May 25th, at 8 o'clock, there will be a Social Gathering for Men in the Parish House under the auspices of the Men's Service League. Dr. Charles E. Beury, President of Temple University, will give a short talk. This will be strictly informal and every man in the Parish is invited to come and bring his friends.

Parish Prayer Calendar

May 16 (Sunday after Ascension).—Collect. Epistle. Gospel. Pray to God, the Holy Ghost, to lead you into all Truth. For the young people in this Parish, especially those away at college, steadfastness in the Faith.

May 17 (Monday).—Collect. Meditate on the Epistle. Pray that whatever you do may be for God's Glory and not your own. Pray for a holy death. Thank God for the Sacraments.

May 18 (Tuesday).—Collect. Meditate on the Gospel. Thank God for the Sevenfold Gifts of the Holy Spirit, received in Confirmation. Read Acts 8:14–18 and St. Timothy 1:6 and 7. Are you using and increasing these gifts? Pray for Dimmick Baldy.

May 19 (Wednesday).—Collect. Read St. Mark 10:13–17 for your meditation. Pray for all little children, especially sick and suffering children. For your family physician, for all nurses. For all babies born today.

May 20 (Thursday).—Read Revelation, Chapters 21 and 22. Pray for the sick of the Parish; the aged; the dying; those in sorrow or any trouble—that they may have the gifts of Hope and Trust and inward Peace. Pray for yourself—for your Rector and his family.

May 21 (Friday).—Use the Collect. Gospel and Epistle for Ascension Day. Say the Gloria in Excelsis in praise of the Ascended Christ. At the Noon Hour say the Blessed Saviour Prayer and the Prayer for Missions.

May 22 (Saturday).—Read tomorrow's Collect, Epistle, and Gospel and prepare for your Communion, examining your conscience for sins against the Holy Ghost, Self-sufficiency, pride, living without sensing the need and help of the Holy Spirit. Tomorrow is Whitsunday—the Feast of Pentecost—a very special Feast Day of the Church. Do not fail to make a good Communion for a great outpouring of the Holy Spirit in this Parish and on all you love.

The flowers on the Altar today were provided by the pupils and teachers of the Intermediate Department of our Church School.

Today is Whitsunday, one of the three great days of the Church year. In our Prayer Book, Whitsunday is written as one word,—"Whitsunday,"—but tomorrow is characterized as Monday in Whitsun week, two words. This rather discourages any attempt at arriving at an accurate account of the derivation of the word, "Whitsunday." Some contend that the word ought to be "Whitsunday," and that Whitsun is got in this way: Pentecost: in German, Pfingsten; old German, Whingsten; old English, Whitsun. Some believe the derivation to be from White Sunday, so called from the robes of the candidates for Baptism, Whitsunday having been of old a great day for baptizing; others believe that the name is derived from "Wit-Sunday," as marking the day on which the "wit" or wisdom of the Spirit was given to man.

No matter how we interpret the words and their derivation, the day commemorates the coming of Divine wisdom into the hearts and the lives of the Apostles of Christ, which took place when they were gathered together on the Jewish Feast of Pentecost. A strong wind shook the room; tongues like flames of fire hovered over each head, and all present were filled with holy inspiration and began to speak with other tongues as the Holy Spirit guided them. Whitsunday marked a change in these men; from this time on they were ready and able to go forth in the name of their Master, carrying the good news everywhere and sealing their beliefs with miracles and martyr deaths. On that great day there was born the Christian Church.

The Social Service Committee of the Woman's Auxiliary and Guild does a quiet and very effective work in administering love, sympathy, and relief throughout Grace Church parish. They also arrange meetings on interesting subjects, such as were the "Talk on Cancer," by Dr. Pfahler, and "The Unfortunate Girl," by Miss Mogrige of the Church Mission of Help. They send out Christmas and Thanksgiving baskets and flowers to the lonely and needy. Of necessity, most of their work is done quietly and without public accounting; when financial aid is given it is done in a manner that avoids publicity. The unfortunate who are helped are aided for their own sakes and are saved the humiliation of having their plight broadcast. That is one reason the splendid service ...is not better known. To administer so much relief, the committee has to have financial backing. The Auxiliary provides some of this money but the major part of it comes from the voluntary contributions of interested people of Grace Church. Contributions are needed at all times and money may be sent to the committee on any day of the year. But, particularly, the committee has a system whereby those who are interested are asked to pledge themselves to give a stated sum on call in May, October and February. The May call is now being sent out and if any reader desires to have a part in this good work, please get in touch with Mrs. Marguerite E. Sheble, Chairman, Roumfort Road, Mt. Airy. Your Rector recommends this splendid work to your prayers and financial generosity.

Lest you forget, let us remind you once more that the Garden Party, Country Fair, and Supper we have been telling you about in the last few numbers of this leaflet will be held on next Thursday, at Germantown Avenue and Walnut Lane. Your part? Send your "White Elephants," cakes, candies, etc., to Mrs. Burrell, care of our Parish House; get your tickets from Mrs. Whedon ($1.00, which includes admission and supper), and go early!

Mrs. Dixon's telephone number is C. H. 2342. Whenever you have any worthwhile rummage for the October Rummage Sale call her up and your contribution will be called for, or, better still, bring your rummage yourself to the Parish House, labeling it plainly, "Rummage Sale."

The Dance and Strawberry Festival of the Young People's Fellowship will be held on June 11th. More notice in detail will be given concerning this in a later issue of this paper.

Dr. Charles E. Beury is an outstanding Churchman of the Diocese of Pennsylvania. He has recently been made President of Temple University. We are indeed fortunate in having secured him for our speaker at the Smoker and Social Evening for Men, to be held in the Parish House next Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock. Bring some congenial friend with you—no cards of invitation nor tickets are needed; you will be warmly welcomed.

May 26 (Wednesday, Ember Day).—Collect on page 40 of the Prayer Book. Pray for all those to be given the Grace of Holy Orders next Sunday, especially Dimmick Baldy, of this parish. Pray for your Rector and Bishop. For Dr. Cline. Read the Ordinal, pages 510 to 513 of the Prayer Book.

May 27 (Thursday).—Collect for Whitsunday. Meditate again on the Gospel. Pray for inward peace for all in sorrow and anxiety; and for yourself. For all women in childbirth and all sick children. Pray often to God, the Holy Ghost, using the "Veni Creator," Hymn 455.

May 28 (Friday, Ember Day).—Collect, page 40. Pray for a great gift of the Holy Spirit to all priests, especially those to be ordained at Trinity-tide; for your Rector; for all missionary priests and bishops. For the spirit of unselfish love. Psalm 84. At the Noon Hour meditate on Christ, the Great High Priest, on His Altar-Throne—give tender thanks to God that He could so love as to give more than Himself—His dearly loved Son. Offer your will and heart to him. Read Hebrews 4:14, 15, 16.

May 29 (Saturday, Ember Day).—Pray especially for Dimmick Baldy, to receive Holy Orders tomorrow. Make your Communion for him tomorrow. Pray that many more young men of this parish may offer their lives to God in the service of His Church. That many young girls may become missionaries. Read tomorrow's Collect, Epistle and Gospel in preparation for your Trinity Communion.

The name Christian has come to stand for any one who behaves himself respectably. In our careless every-day way of saying things we group together all types of people and if they keep out of the hands of the police, prove themselves to be good fathers or mothers, and mind their own business, we thoughtlessly say of them that they are "Christians." The adjective "Christian" for many has come to mean, not a belief but a follower of respectable behavior. Jews, Unitarians, Agnostics, Christian Scientists, even Buddhists and Taoists, peoples of all shades of belief and disbelief, are grouped together and, when their behavior is up to the commonly accepted standard of good, they are called "Christians," even though many of them would indignantly repudiate the title, were it given to them in their hearing. It does seem unfair to a Jew, don't you think, to say of him that he is a "Christian," just because he lives up to the easy code of behavior which the world approves today?—it implies that Judaism cannot of itself produce beautiful lives—an implication which is absolutely false.

It is the acceptance of a belief in the doctrine of the Trinity which differentiates Christians from all other peoples. Belief in Jesus Christ as God, and the Holy Spirit as God, and the Father as God, is at the bottom of what we believe to be Christianity, i. e., taking Jesus at His word.

And it is that belief in the triune God that we particularly recall to mind today—the Feast of the Blessed Trinity. Today, especially, we worship the Three in One, and the One in Three.

The doctrine came as the result of years of patient study of what Jesus taught us concerning God. The noblest minds in the early Church gave to it the wealth of their intellect, great Councils of the Church pronounced upon it. The resources of language were ransacked to put it into words which could not be mistaken. And by 326 A. D. a creed was formulated containing the doctrine which has been the standard ever since.

Nevertheless, all that the religious geniuses and Church Councils did was to state in a few words what Jesus had indicated in many. They took the teachings of our Lord, studied what the Apostles and Evangelists had written, and checked up their findings by comparing with them what the early Christians had come to believe that Jesus said and meant. The result was a simple statement of Christian belief which we call the doctrine of the Trinity.

They did not explain the doctrine for the simple reason that none could accomplish such a task. Man cannot explain God. No finite mind could comprehend or explain the Infinite, for God is ineffable. You and I being men made in the image of God can understand to a limited extent some of God's attributes, i. e., His power, His glory, His fatherly care, and His sympathy, but because we are finite we can now know very little of the awful being of God, what He is, what is His nature, and what is His essence.

All that you and I can do is to stake our faith on what our Master taught us concerning God, accept His statements and explanations, muse on what the Church, guided by the Holy Spirit of God, has come to believe, and, as far as reason can follow, think them through and incorporate them into our lives.

The crux of the matter lies in perceiving that the doctrine is of God and comes to us with all the force of a revelation from God. All that man did was to put it into rememberable form. One of the joys of being born into the greater life will be to have our understandings opened and our finite minds begin to become infinite and think in terms of the infinite.

Meanwhile, let us follow Holy Church and when we speak of groups let us think and speak of them as Christians and non-Christians, not because they behave in an accepted fashion or not, but because they believe as the Holy Spirit has directed or not.

The Priest taking the 11 o'clock service today is the Reverend Bernard Geiser of the Church of the Good Samaritan, Gunnison, Colorado. Your Rector is at the Church of the Incarnation, Philadelphia, presenting Mr. Henry Dimmick Baldy for ordination to the Diaconate.

Lately, we have had several funeral services in Grace Church. This is proper and right. The church building is the proper place for funeral services. Of course, your Rector will officiate in private homes if people prefer that. He would be the last one in the world to insist on anything that would make grief in bereavement harder to bear. But he takes this opportunity to commend the Church as the most fitting place for communicants to have the Burial Office said over them. If you are called upon to decide this question for yourself, please keep this little homily in mind.

June 5 (Saturday).—Tomorrow's Collect. Gospel and Epistle. Pray for your diocese and Bishop, your parish and Rector. For the organist and choir. In preparation for your communion, examine your conscience by Our Lord's four missionary commands: Look (St. John 4:35). Pray (St. Matt. 9:38). Give (St. Matt. 10:8). Go (St. Matt. 28:19).

"Juggling with the Bible"

"You can prove anything you like from the Bible, if you are only smart enough to juggle with words. There never was a queer sect, or heresy, or fad which could not pick you out a fine lot of texts to substantiate its doctrines. Tobacco was not discovered until centuries after Christ; and yet there is a crank constantly publishing tracts against it, full of texts to prove the wickedness of smoking and how sure of eternal punishment it is.

Please take this leaflet home for careful reading and reference

I once went with a clerical friend to a Quaker funeral. There was an address and the speaker wanted to air the peculiar Quaker views against the sacraments, so he said, 'St. Paul hated Baptism; did he not say, "I thank God I baptized none of you"?' This was a little too much and my friend roared out so loudly that he could be heard all over the cemetery, the rest of the verse, 'except Crispus and Gaius, and I baptized also the household of Stephanus.' This threw a coldness over the ceremony, but that way of quoting scripture still goes on. I heard in my own chapel a priest who believes that there are just seven sacraments, get them all out of the Lord's Prayer, though the most of us think it rather a stretch of the imagination to make, 'Give us this day our daily bread' refer to one of the two our Church teaches as ordinarily necessary to the being in a state of salvation. The seven waterpots at the marriage of Cana have also been made to mean the seven sacraments; and the two swords which the Apostles had among them at the Last Supper were made to do duty for centuries as proving that both the spiritual and temporal power belonged to the Pope as head of the Church. A priest, not a hundred miles away, was asked once by a woman why it was necessary that all the consecrated wine should be consumed at the altar; and he told her that the scripture said, 'Drink ye all of this.'

"Now, this way of treating God's word has done immense harm. It is just making the Bible like those boxes of letters used for a well-known game. You pick out the letters you want and spell words with them. No doctrine ought even to be put to proof on simple texts sifted out here and there and strung together without any thought of context. You will often hear a man called a wonderful Bible preacher, when all that he does is to make you up a mosaic of texts, many of which have not the slightest reference to the doctrine before him. Because a verse has the word 'faith' in it, is no proof that it teaches the doctrine of justification by faith, or illustrates that in any way. I have heard sermons which did not have one word of scripture in them and yet which brought out the power and the spirit of God's Word better than if they had been paved with texts."

(To be concluded in next week's PARISH NEWS)

The Church School will have an outing next Saturday at Valley Forge. We are depending on friends of the school for transportation, and need more automobiles with drivers. Telephone Mr. Austin at Gtn. 8069 if you will provide an automobile.

Some of our young ladies have recently banded themselves together in a probationary chapter of the "Daughters of the King." This order has a long, praiseworthy history, basing its justification for existence on a twofold vow of prayer and service. The local chapter is meeting weekly and will study Shaad's book, "Evangelism in the Church." The next meeting will be held next Wednesday evening at 7.30.

The Proper Lessons for this morning are—(1) Ezra 3 and (2) St. Luke 7:36; for this evening—(1) II Chron. 36:4 and (2) Romans 15:13. The Proper Psalms for this morning are Psalms 12 and 13; for this evening, Psalms 10 and 11.

Copies of the "Benedictus Es Dominus" (Blessed art Thou, O Lord) have been put in every pew. We are using this chant in place of the Te Deum; it comes, therefore, directly after the first lesson for the morning. The tune is that of Hayes. Please sing it with the choir.

We ask for a good attendance at Church School Commencement next Sunday afternoon. Come and you will be repaid for coming.

"Juggling with the Bible" (part two)

"When you want to clinch a doctrine with a text you must take one about the meaning of which there cannot be any logical controversy. For example: 'In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God.' Now nothing but the most prejudiced and distorted reasoning can make that mean anything else than a clear statement of the divinity of Christ; but it is not so with that text from Genesis so often used in proof of the Trinity, 'Let us make man in our image.' That will not hold water for a moment. You can not prove that there is no change in the condition of a soul after death from the text, 'as the tree falleth so shall it lie'; for when you look into the context you see that it has no reference whatever to the subject. Then you must be certain that the original has been rightly translated. Not watching this has been a fruitless source of pointless quotations. The Revised Version knocked the bottom out of many chosen vessels of texts which preacher after preacher had used as incontestable proofs of divers doctrines. Remember, the devil quotes Scripture, and our Lord in His replies put His divine condemnation on that style of exegesis. The devil's children have quoted many a time since.

"As a well-known writer has said, 'Tyranny has engraved texts upon her sword, oppression has carved texts upon her fetters, cruelty has tied texts around her fagots, ignorance has set knowledge at defiance with text woven on her flag, gin-drinking has been defended out of Timothy, and slavery has made a stronghold out of Philemon.' It would be impossible to tell how many pious souls have been kept from Holy Communion by that obsolete and misguided translation, 'he that eateth and drinketh unworthily, eateth and drinketh damnation to himself.' The word 'damnation' has totally changed its meaning, like many other English words. It meant originally, 'condemnation,' 'blame,' but it now means future punishment. The same remarks will apply to the word 'hell,' which in three cases out of four in the Bible means the grave, not the place of punishment. Any tinker thinks that he can quote the Bible glibly, but these few remarks will show with what care, what reverence, what study, text-quotations ought to be approached."—DEAN LOCKE.

Parish Prayer Calendar

June 13 (Second Trinity).—Collect. Epistle. Gospel. Make your Communion in Praise and Adoration of the Holy Trinity. Ask for holy Fear (awe, reverence). When and wherever you hear the Holy Name used in blasphemy or irreverence, always say quietly to yourself: "Blessed be His Holy Name," and the Gloria Patri.

June 14 (Monday).—Collect. Meditate on the Epistle. Read also last week's Epistle. Pray that we may not love in word (cant phrases, sentiment) but in will and deed.

June 15 (Tuesday).—Collect. Gospel for meditation. Pray for the rich (in possessions, talents, time or any other gift from God), that they may consider themselves stewards of God's gifts. What have I to give an accounting of? Say "All things come of Thee, O Lord, and of Thine Own am I Giving Thee."

June 16 (Wednesday).—Collect. Meditate on the Epistle, dwelling on each thought. Before meditation and Bible reading always pray to God, the Holy Ghost, to lead you into all truth. "Come, Holy Ghost," etc.

Pray for more love of the Bible (Collect for 2d Advent); for persistent and faithful reading of it. For more use of the books of devotion and instruction in the Woman's Auxiliary library, especially during the summer. Romans 15:4.

June 17 (Thursday).—Holy Communion 9.30. Collect. Read Ephesians 4:11–17. Pray for the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, especially the Junior Branch and the Summer Camps. For the Young People's Fellowship. For the 50 or more Summer Schools and Conferences of the Church; that more people in this parish may attend or send others.

June 18 (Friday).—Epistle for meditation. Collect for 18th Trinity. Pray for the Prayer life of this Parish: that there may be an earnest effort to live by a regular Rule of Life, especially during the summer. That public worship be not neglected by those away from home. That all who motor on Sunday will plan to reach one of our own Churches by service time, or will make their Communions before starting. That God be not forgotten. Romans 10:23–32.

June 19 (Saturday).—Read tomorrow's Collect, Epistle and Gospel. Prepare for your Communion, examining your conscience by the Ten Commandments. Resolve to conquer your besetting sin—to see yourself as God sees you. Psalms 15 and 51.

August 6th, Transfiguration
August 24th, St. Bartholomew
September 21st, St. Matthew

This is the last issue of the Parish News until September. Our organizations have closed and notices will be few. We hope that you have enjoyed this news sheet. It costs much time and considerable money, but it does seem to fill a need in our corporate life. If you have any suggestions as to how to improve the Parish News, please give them to us freely, before we resume publication in the autumn.

The Church School Commencement will be held this afternoon. The leaders have prepared an interesting program which you will enjoy.

Let us not forget to go to Church during summer-time. God is as praiseworthy and as good to us during the warm months as during the remainder of the year. We must not forget Him. You will find the schedule of services printed above. The Rector will be on his vacation from July 24th until September 7th. If you need him, he will cheerfully return to minister to you. His vacation address may be ascertained from the Rector's Warden, Mr. Fortescue.

If you have overlooked the appeal sent out by the Men's Service League for money to finance the summer outing we tender our choir boys, attend to the matter at once. Last year we sent eight boys, this year we would like to send twenty. That means that we shall need more help than was received last year. It is a good cause and worth your attention.

We are printing the following names in case you need to get in touch with any organization during the summer:

VESTRY: Mr. Horace Fortescue, Rector's Warden, Crittenden St. and Gowen Ave.
Mr. J. W. Bayard, Accounting Warden, 105 E. Johnson St.

Parish Prayer Calendar

Please read, keep and use these suggestions for a Rule of Life during the summer:

Remember that Prayer is the center of all Christian life; and the Holy Communion is the center of all Prayer, as it is of all Power to become like your Saviour.

This is a minimum Rule, merely a skeleton to be built upon. Your prayers and Communions, fastings and gifts (of time and money) should increase yearly. Growth is the only proof of life. There is no standing still.

Almsgiving: Give regularly and generously for the Church and its Missions. Christians are on their honor (the Jews were required to give 1/10), and our gifts are offerings of love and a measure of our love. Pay your dues in advance before leaving on your vacation.

Fasting: Fridays and such other days as you see ordered in the front of the Prayer Book. Make Communions early and fasting. This does not apply to the aged and sick.

Communions: Regularly. Each year more frequently, till weekly or bi-weekly is the rule. Always prepare with self-examination and confession. Always say a daily thanksgiving with Acts of Love, etc., till the next preparation. "Feed on Him in thy heart." Let attendance at late Communion be an Act of Worship and Intercession.

Prayer: Every Morning. Thanksgiving for night's care; praise, adoration. Offer work of day and ask help. Our Father. Gloria Patri.

Noon: Wherever you are, between 11 and 1, think of Our Lord on the Cross and ask Him to save the world. Always pray for Missions. Our Father. If at home, take this time for Bible meditation and principal prayers.

Night: Praise, thanks, self-examination of day's acts and confession. Our Father. Petitions, intercessions for others. Acts of faith, hope, love. As you fall asleep: "Into Thy hands, O Lord, I commend my spirit."

Daily: Bible reading with meditation, at least 10 minutes. Use the week's Collect, Epistle, Gospel, a Psalm or the Life of Christ or a Parable. Do not leave this till tired at night. Set apart a time—perhaps in train or trolley. Better in your own room.

Never read or pray without putting yourself in God's Presence and being quiet. Then ask God, the Holy Ghost, to teach you. Daily prayers for Parish, Rector, the whole Church, family and friends. Be unselfish—pray widely.

Weekly (Say on Sunday): Read a whole Book of the Bible through at a sitting: St. Mark, Ephesians, Revelation, Genesis, Hebrews, etc.

Do not try to read the whole Bible from cover to cover, though the New Testament may be so read.

The Church is a wise Mother, providing daily reading (see front of P. B.) and a weekly Collect, Gospel and Epistle. All are tied together with a common thought. Find it. If you can do no more, at least meditate on the week's Gospel and Epistle and read the following week's before the next Sunday.

Watch your besetting sin—not in your own strength of will, but in the help God gives through the Sacraments. Learn to know Jesus.

"More careful not to serve Thee much,
But please Thee perfectly."

Last Sunday morning the Rector preached about Judgment Day, taking his text from the Te Deum, "We believe that Thou shalt come to be our judge." After reviewing two variant historic attitudes toward the subject, i. e., the hell-fire teachings of Jonathan Edwards in 1781, as contrasted with the nonchalant attitude of Omar Khayyam, who represents much of today's ideas on the matter—God's "a good fellow; 'twill all be well," he reminded his hearers that not only does the Master's teachings convince us of the reality of Judgment Day, but also our own rough moral sense demands that there be a day when accounts shall be balanced and that the finis of Herod and Jezebel be diametrically different from the last end of John the Baptizer and Mary the Virgin.

Continuing, he pointed out that full judgment is not relegated to a far-off day in the distant future, but that it is forever being exercised. However solemn it is to remember that there will be a dramatic and cataclysmic judgment before the bar of Almighty God in the Great Assize, it is even more solemn to think that every day is a day of judgment. By our attitude toward God; by our resistance of or conformity to His will, we are now judged. When we thus realize the ceaseless process of God's judgments our startled eyes quickly behold them all about us. For God has so ordered that every transgression of His law carries its own punishment in its bosom. Moment by moment we are recording within ourselves the results of all that has gone before; moment by moment our books are being balanced.

Does that mean that there will be no final reckoning? By no means. There is much more for God to take into account than what we have achieved. What we are is not only the result of our own efforts, but also of heredity and environment. Only one who is God could judge equitably between Pharisee and Publican, for only one who is God can see into the human heart and understand what is there.

"We believe that Thou shalt come to be our judge." How comforting that is! The same Person who on the cross, amid jeers and taunts and blows and excruciating agony, prayed, "Father, forgive them for they know not what they do," He it is who will come to be our judge. In the gospel of St. Matthew, in the twenty-fifth chapter, and from verses 34 to 41, we learn from His own mouth that He will search out everything that can be credited in our favor. God grant that we, too, may hear Him say on that dreadful day, when the secrets of all hearts shall be revealed: "Come ye blessed of my father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world."

We promised to give more detailed information of the result of the Every Member Canvass in this issue of the PARISH NEWS. We are sorry not to be able to make good that promise at this time. No one inexperienced in the matter can have any idea of the mass of detail the carrying on of such a canvass involves! Our Accounting Warden is trying to work his way out of the details into a digest of the returns. We will gladly and patiently wait for his findings. That they are good we have no doubt. But the returns are not all in yet; we will speak of them in a later issue.

Which reminds us: last week we spoke in this paper of our gratitude to the canvassers—how much more should we express our thanks to our Accounting Warden! All through the year, week by week, he posts his books and keeps us informed of our financial obligations. It is a trying and not always pleasant task. In addition to this regular work for the Parish, for some months he has been preparing the plan and material for this canvass. Now he is busy again, summarizing and conserving the financial results of the canvass and preparing for next year's bookkeeping. If you want to thank him with all your heart, won't you please, when you are informed by him that you are in arrears, give him the benefit of the doubt and believe that he is right until you find that he really is? In 99 cases out of 100 he really is! And in addition to that we, here in our own and in your name, say to him, "Thank you very, very much. We appreciate all that you are doing."

On the night after Christmas, December 26, the Young People's Fellowship will present a play at the Woman's Club of Germantown. A dance will follow the play. Tickets may be secured from any member of the Fellowship; they are eager to supply you with them. Play and Dance for $1.00 per ticket.

The Social Service Department is asking here for contributions for the Christmas baskets that we send out from the Church. As Christmas is on Tuesday, we are planning to pack and send the baskets on the Saturday before, December 22. Contributions of goods may be sent to Mrs. F. J. Sheble, 311 Roumfort Road, before that date. Money may be sent at any time. The response to the Thanksgiving plea was quite generous and we hope that the response to this plea will be even more so—we need more at this time.

The Rector has for some time hoped that we might have a female choir to sing in Church on special occasions. He has asked Mr. Robinson, our Choirmaster, to think of the matter. Mr. Robinson is going at it seriously and now asks that all who would like to help in this way get in touch with him as soon as possible. He intends to have a real choir from this group and to get to work right away to develop it. Give him your name if you feel that you can sing.

No one has yet offered to give the Parish that Christmas present of an electric clock that we spoke about last week. Christmas is only two weeks away.

The Woman's Auxiliary and Guild wishes to thank the women of the Church and their friends for their splendid co-operation in making the Leper Card Party a success. True, our goal of $1,000 was not reached but we did bring the Leper fund up to $562.96, which enables us to endow Miss Riddell's Hospital with the $500 asked for, and we are still hoping to at some time do the same for Miss Cornwall-Leigh.

Some one once said that "the Episcopal Church is a great giant asleep; look out if he wakes up!" For some time now our Bishops have been worried over our spiritual dormancy. This has led them to inaugurate a movement to reawaken the whole Church. Their plans have been developing for five years. Next Thursday they will begin to put them into practice. In every diocese throughout the land there will be held some time soon "The Bishops' Crusade." First, there will be gathered together the clergy and laity from a large area to attend conferences and listen to inspirational preaching. Later, these areas will be divided into smaller centers and the effort will be intensified. Later still, in Lent, it is hoped to have special evangelistic services in every parish throughout the land in order that the movement may touch every parishioner and lead to a deepening of the spiritual life of the Church all down the line.

In our own Diocese, all of Germantown, Mt. Airy, and Chestnut Hill will worship together in St. Luke's Church, Germantown, during the last two weeks in January, at special services. A little later, Mt. Airy and Chestnut Hill will center their crusade at St. Paul's Church, Chestnut Hill. Later still, we shall have an intensive evangelistic crusade in Grace Church.

Your Rector has been drafted to work as a Crusader for eighteen days, beginning next Sunday. He will preach and teach in Albany, Troy, Lake Placid, Saratoga Springs, and Potsdam, N. Y. The work is a highly responsible adventure for God which he would not dare undertake had he not been pressed into service. Neither the crusade nor his preaching will fail if you individually will daily make intercession for them in your prayers. We can count on you for it, can we not?

The Young People's Fellowship is giving a dance and play, "A Night Off," in the Woman's Club, Germantown, on January 7th. It is a good play, full of fun; we believe that it will be well acted. Later, dancing will be accompanied by a first-class, seven-piece orchestra. The charge for a ticket of admission is one dollar. The Fellowship intends to use what money it makes for philanthropic purposes, its first expenditure being to redeem its $50 pledge to the Diocesan Campaign. Our young people want very much not only to have you buy tickets, but especially to use them and have a good time with them. Any of the Fellowship will be glad to bring tickets to you. Do attend!

Because last Sunday was so stormy there were comparatively few people in Church at the various services. We are, therefore, reprinting an article published in last week's PARISH NEWS, in order that all may take it to heart and act upon it:

Today is the first Sunday in 1927, and we need to raise $2000 this week if we are to close the fiscal year free of debt.

This is bad news, but it sounds worse than it really is. It is not a novel situation. As a matter of fact, we have been in debt on the last Sunday in December every year for many years. Then, too, in other years much of the debt was incurred in ordinary running expenses; this year, on the contrary, much of our deficit is due to such extraordinary causes as paying $500 for curbing on Ardleigh Avenue and Wadsworth Street; $800 for an addition to our heating plant; and other amounts that we could not anticipate when we made up our 1926 budget.

In other years, at this time of year when the deficit was pressing, it was customary to appeal to a small group of generous, sacrificing members of the Parish, who in consequence of the appeal would raise an additional amount of money among themselves to keep the Parish out of debt. Your Rector thinks this is an unfair method of meeting the situation. It is unfair to ask people who have already given their generous share to give so much more; it is also unfair to the rest of us to prevent us from assuming our share of the pressing deficit.

Therefore, the loose offering on the alms-basins today will be used solely for the purpose of closing the year free of debt.

If every one who cares for Grace Church will take this to heart and make a slight sacrifice for this cause, we shall be able to wipe out this debt and enter the new year with a clean slate. Put your sacrifice on the basin at any of today's or next Sunday's services, or if you prefer, mail your check to Mr. James Wilson Bayard, 105 E. Johnson Street. We can do it; let us do it.

My Dear People:

For the next sixteen days I shall be away from you, having been loaned by Grace Church to the Diocese of Albany to act as one of the leaders in the Bishops' Crusade. Of course, in my absence services in Grace Church will go on as usual. I am glad in this connection to inform you that we have been very fortunate to secure such able men to act as leaders of our services. Today, and again on January 23d, the Reverend Doctor Foley, who led our devotions last Good Friday, will be your minister; next Sunday the same position will be occupied by the Venerable Archdeacon, W. W. Steel, of Cuba. On Thursdays, the Reverend Wood Stewart, of the Church of St. Martin-in-the Fields, will be the celebrant at the 9.30 Holy Communion service. In case of serious illness or of death, or of the need of priestly counsel, please notify the Rev. Mr. Stewart, at 8020 St. Martins Lane, Chestnut Hill, who has consented to serve you in the pastoral capacity during my absence. There will be no issue of this paper in my absence.

Meanwhile, please pray for me that utterance may be given to me that I may speak as I ought to speak; that, forgetful of self, your Rector may rise to the great opportunity that has been opened up unto him. God bless you, every one. Mizpah!

Epiphany-tide, 1927

Your Friend and Rector,

Charles Edward Eder.

The Bishops' Crusade will begin for us on January 16th at the Church of St. Luke the Evangelist, 5411 Germantown Avenue. The missioners will be the Rev. Dr. George Davidson, of Los Angeles, Cal., and the Rev. Dr. Hiram E. Bennett, of Williamsport, Pa. This mission is for all our Convocation and there will be preaching every evening. Your Rector would like to be here to go with you. Do go, anyway; the whole Church is throbbing with awakening life—let Grace Church lay hold on this spiritual awakening.

An informal dinner and social evening will be held on Wednesday, January 12th, at the Manheim Cricket Club, under the auspices of the Men's Service League. Dinner will be served at 6.30 o'clock; bowling and other forms of entertainment will follow. These gatherings are very enjoyable, and because of their informal character, provide unusual opportunities for the men of our parish and their friends to become better acquainted. All are cordially invited. Send your acceptance to Mr. J. Howard Fell, Secretary, 7018 Boyer Street. The cost, $3.00, covers the dinner and use of the bowling alleys, card tables, etc.

The Annual Meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary and Guild will be held in the Parish House next Tuesday, January 11, at 10.45 A. M. All are urged to be present. We especially invite newcomers in the parish, for it will be a splendid time to get acquainted with our work and with us. Another group especially urged to come is the Young Woman's Committee, who so ably entertained us one evening last month. Luncheon will be served at 12.30, preceded by noonday intercessions in the Church and followed by the election of officers.

Parish Prayer Calendar

January 9 (Sunday).—I. Epiphany. Collect, Epistle, Gospel. Epiphany-tide is a very special time of prayer for Missions. Use the week's Collect and the Collect for Missions daily and pray for a different missionary field each day.

January 10 (Monday).—Collect. Our Father. Epistle for meditation. Consider the Christian Faith as meant for the bodies as well as the souls of men. Pray for all efforts to save men's bodies from disease, suffering, inefficiency, so they may be presented to God to do His service. Pray for the sick, especially in this parish.

January 11 (Tuesday).—Collect. Gospel. Meditate on the Gospel, especially the words: "I must be about My Father's business." What was and is that business?" Are you about it? Jesus said, "As the Father hath sent me, even so send I you."

January 12 (Wednesday).—Collect. Learn it by heart. Pray for the Diocese. Your Bishop. For the Preaching Mission to be held for this part of the Diocese (including us) at St. Luke's, Germantown, beginning January 16. Give up everything else and plan to attend.

January 13 (Thursday).—Collect. Epistle for meditation. Pray for Japan. For its native Bishops and Priests. Its educators. Meditate on the power of Christ to "transform and renew the mind." Conversion is just changing your mind—facing toward God. Pray for a great Conversion through all the Church.

January 14 (Friday).—Collect and "Blessed Saviour" Prayer (at noon). Meditate upon the blessings that Christianity has brought, especially to women and children. Pray for India, Turkey; for all Moslems. All oppressed women and sad children. All who are in fear. For Armenia.

January 15 (Saturday).—Collect, Gospel and Epistle for tomorrow (2d Epiphany) in preparation for your Communion. "Whatsoever He saith unto you, do it." Make the intention of your Communion a blessing on the Bishops' Crusade and offer God your own heart and will and this whole week, to learn to know and love Him better and understand what His will for you is. Pray for those preaching the Mission held at St. Luke's the Evangelist, Germantown.

Last Sunday morning the Rector preached on the text, "When Jesus was born—behold there came wise men," from St. Matthew 2:1. After explaining the incident and telling of remarkable astronomical verifications of parts of the story, he emphasized the fact that the greatest treasure in life is a sense of the companionship of God; walking with God and being in intimate personal contact with Him day by day is more to be desired than anything else. The how of this companionship is therefore of utmost importance. The great delusion is that men often believe that if we were in some other occupation or could go on a journey they might find Him, whereas the Christmas and Epiphany story remind us that God reveals Himself to men usually in their own occupations, when they are pursuing them conscientiously and truly seeking Him. He came to the Jews by prophecies; to the shepherds by angels, and by the astrologer wise men by a star. The scientist if he is a deep thinker finds Him in Science; the surgeon, in anatomy; the biologist, in his microscope. "When the disciple is ready the Master appears." In other words, to find God you don't have to go somewhere; you have to be something. "Blessed are the pure in heart, for they shall see God." The converse alas is also true—"Unhappy are the impure in heart, for they shall not see God." Good living, honest seeking for truth, are necessary antecedents.

On Monday Evening, January 23d, the Men's Service League will have a meeting at which one of our own members, Mr. Robt. Farnham, Jr., will give a talk (illustrated with Lantern Slides) about the plans of the Pennsylvania R. R. and the city in construction of its new Terminal Facilities at West Philadelphia. The Pennsylvania R. R. quartet will give several selections during the evening, after which refreshments will be served. At the last social evening there were 96 present. Come yourself and bring as many friends as you may wish to.

This week we had transferred to us Miss Elizabeth Burnett of the Leamy, from St. Matthias's Church, Phila.; Mary Elizabeth (Mrs. Ashton L.) Worrall of 7308 Bryan St. from the Church of the Covenant, Phila.; Mr. Merritt Rhoad of 7123 Bryan St. from the Church of St. Martin-in-the-Fields; and Mrs. Frederick Marks of 6733 Crittenden St. from the Church of St. Martin-in-the-Fields.

The Young People's Fellowship of our Diocese are giving a play in the Little Theatre on January 25, 26, 27, 28. Several of Grace Church's young men are taking leading parts; also one is Business Manager; another is in charge of properties. The play is being coached by a professional and the title is "The Fool"—a semi-religious play. Tickets are $1.50, and the profits will be given to the Episcopal Hospital. Wm. Wagner, Jr., will be glad to have someone sell you tickets if you let him know that you want them.

Our new Accounting Warden is Mr. Pratt Thompson, and he may be addressed at 1313 Franklin Trust Bldg., Chestnut at 15th Sts., Phila.

Some good friend of our Parish who prefers to remain anonymous has paid for a closed-body car and has presented it to Grace Church for the use of its Rector. It is a Hupmobile, and very good looking. The Rector is enjoying it very much and takes this opportunity of thanking in your name the unknown donor.

Miss Virginia Campbell Nimlet was elected Educational Secretary and Mrs. Karl J. Lundelius was elected United Thank Offering Treasurer at the Annual Meeting on Tuesday. We regret the giving up of these positions by Mrs. Matlack and Mrs. North both of whom served faithfully and well but we are glad that our comparatively new members are taking hold and we know them and the Parish well enough to say that in both cases our women made a wise choice.

There are a number of needed improvements in our Church Building which would make excellent memorials. Mr. Horace Fortescue, Chairman of the Committee on Memorials, will be glad to consult with you if you are interested. A self-effacing but excellent way of aiding the Parish is to leave money in your will to be added to the Endowment Fund. No one but a Rector knows how much beautiful objects in a church help in the worship of God. And none but a Rector knows how much more efficient his parish would be if it had more money to spend.

PARISH PRAYER CALENDAR

January 15.—Pray for more faith—especially for the young. Pray for the Parish; the clergy, vestry, the newly elected Accounting Warden. The Church School.

On Wednesday Evening, February 16th, at 8.15 o'clock, there will be an Organ Recital in Grace Church played by our own Organist, Mr. Newell Robinson, F. A. G. O.

Someone at a church gathering recently made the safe remark that if one would gauge the depth of spirituality of a congregation, he could readily do so by finding out how many or how few come regularly to the early Communion Services on Sundays. This generalization, like most generalizations, is open to criticism. It takes no account of the many people who would like to come, but who find it physically impossible to do so. But, on the other hand, when only a few people come out in the quiet of the morning on the day that through the centuries has come to be looked upon as the Lord's own day—when only a few come out from Sunday to Sunday to receive the Sacrament of life—then the pastor of that congregation has a right to worry. Grace Church as a congregation is a widely scattered group; one could think up many excuses for the comparatively small attendance at the weekly 7.30 Sunday morning Holy Communion Services. But, for the most part, such excuses would be excuses only and not reasons. The real cause is the fact that many people have never contracted the custom of coming to the Holy Communion at least once every week. They have never given the subject serious thought.

Of course, your Rector would not want you to receive carelessly. Infrequent communions are much to be preferred to unprepared communions. Making one's communion frequently does demand a high standard of living. Nevertheless, the high demands made upon us by frequently receiving the Sacrament of the Altar should not be a bar to frequent reception. We are committed by our membership in Christ's Church to high standards of living. It is good to be mindful of the high demands our Master makes upon us. But though we cannot always receive the Holy Communion, because our consciences trouble us, nevertheless we can be present, take part in the worship, and prepare ourselves to be more worthy of receiving the next time the Communion is celebrated.

Soon Lent will be here, and with it the beautiful early mornings of spring. As spring comes on, won't you make the easy sacrifice of arising early in the quiet Sabbath calm and coming to the table of our Lord? Many have confided to me that they lack spiritual strength to combat temptation. Many have told me in private that they want to draw closer to the Living God. Many have asked how they may grow in grace.

Please take this leaflet home for careful reading and reference

To those I would say: There is such a thing as malnutrition of soul. Just as the physical body requires regular nourishment, even so the spiritual body requires regular food suited to it. Millions have witnessed to the fact that in the Sacrament of the Holy Communion they have gained strength for their daily needs. Won't you take this brief editorial as a personal message from your Rector, and begin to come every Sunday at 7.30 in the morning? Come!

The Rector was indeed glad to return after working sixteen days among other Rectors' people. The Crusade in Albany was a wonderful experience. Your Rector thanks God for it devoutly. People are hungry and thirsty for the Gospel of our Lord. They are coming in increasing numbers for instruction in the technique of worship. Few know how to pray; fewer have any plan for private Bible study; almost none know how to carry on Family devotions. It is good to be able to give much when people are so desirous of help. God blessed our work and we felt your prayers aiding us. For all your kindness we thank you.

Now about the Crusade in our own Parish: we are planning to have an intensive religious stirring up early in Lent. Our plans are still unformulated; we are now looking about to secure the right man to lead us. Meanwhile, all must pray hard that the services we are planning will be a success. This is the first essential of any successful parish effort. From now on, in your morning, noon, and evening prayers—pray for God's blessing on the Crusade in Grace Church. As soon as our plans are outlined, we shall inform you of them.

The Rector and Mrs. Eder take this method of thanking the women of Grace Church for their kindness and generosity on the occasion of their tenth wedding anniversary. Usually such functions are inclined to be boring, but your joy and happiness and merry hearts turned it from a formal affair into a delightful party. We are cherishing your poems, your cards, and your gift of gold—but more than that we cherish your golden friendship. Thank you very much!

Pray for the Parish—Woman's Auxiliary, Young Peoples' Fellowship, Vestry, Church School, Brotherhood of St. Andrew. For all little children. Give thanks for your Reason. For one other blessing.

February 11 (Friday).—At the Holy Hour (Noon) say the Creed as an Act of Faith; Psalm as an Act of Hope and make an Act of Love from your own heart. The Blessed Saviour Prayer also. Read all of Hymn 163, all five parts.

February 12 (Saturday).—Read over tomorrow's Collect, Epistle and Gospel (Septuagesima Sunday) and begin to look forward to Lent as the Church bids you. Make this a Lent of real penitence, and so of real amendment and growth. Do not leave this until Holy Week. A good Lent begins now. Examine you conscience in the strong light of Christ's perfect example.

I wonder how many know how we determine the date of Easter? It is not difficult to grasp: Easter Day always falls on the Sunday after the first full moon after March 21. In other words, the spring full moon (March 21 is always the first day of spring) turns the Sunday following it, into the Queen Feast of the year. Ash Wednesday, the first day of Lent, is determined by counting back forty-six days from Easter Day, forty days for Lent and six days for the Sundays in Lent. This year Ash Wednesday will occur on March 2d and Easter Day on April 17th. These dates are later than usual, for the spring full moon does not occur until April 16th. A late Easter is particularly appropriate because it coincides with the time of the coming of flowers. The time to prepare for a joyous Easter, 1927, is to plan out a holy Lent now! Have a program! Give up some things and take on others. Do all for the Glory of God. Prepare now.

On next Wednesday evening, February 16th, at 8 o'clock, our Organist, Mr. Newell Robinson, F.A.G.O., will play an Organ Recital in the Church.

If there is any one in the Parish who subscribes to the Outlook Magazine and who would be willing to forward it when read to one who would appreciate it much, please get in touch with Miss M. Bayard, of the Church Periodical Club. She will give you the forwarding address.

The Social Service Department of Grace Church announces the showing of a series of selected motion pictures in the Colonial Theatre, Germantown, every Saturday morning at 10 o'clock. These pictures are especially adapted for juniors and are carefully reviewed by capable women before they are shown. The series is under the direction of the United Women's Clubs of Philadelphia, and is designed to raise the standard of motion pictures for juniors with the hope that thus, ultimately, the adult demand will be for better pictures. The admission is ten cents.

Please note that the Young People's Fellowship will meet tonight at 7 o'clock instead of at 8—the usual hour.

The Church School is having a handsome banner made; already gifts of money covering two-thirds of the cost of the banner have been received. This is an appeal to the congregation for additional gifts of fifty cents or more to pay the remainder. You may give to Mrs. Pratt Thompson or Mrs. Wm. Burke.

A Washington's Birthday Dinner, under the auspices of the Men's Service League, will be given in the Parish House on Tuesday, February 22, at 6.30 P. M. The speaker will be The Reverend George C. Foley, D.D., who recently preached in Grace Church. Dr. Foley is always interesting and will be well worth hearing. All parishioners and friends are cordially invited to come. Dinner, $2.00. Send acceptances to Mr. J. Howard Fell, 1315 Cherry Street.

On Wednesday, February 23, the Birthday Party for the Auxiliary Birthday Fund will be held in the Parish House. This will be combined with a Sample Tea at which will be displayed and sold articles of any kind brought by women who are willing to take orders for their wares during Lent. The money thus accumulated by them—after expenses are deducted—will be given to the mission work of the Auxiliary.

Pray that the whole Church may awake and not "stand idle all the day." Pray for all missionaries, especially in China.

February 17 (Thursday).—Psalm 4. Pray for the slothful; for those who make no effort to find God and persevere—for a great spiritual awakening in this Parish. For the lapsed; the cynical; the indifferent. Jesu! mercy!

February 18 (Friday).—Meditate again on the Epistle—on "Keeping under the body." Pray for the gluttinous, the impure, the lazy. Pray for the conversion of America. Thank God for your privileges in the Catholic Church—its teaching, Sacraments, discipline, beauty of worship, its dignity.

The Clergyman officiating at the 11 o'clock service this morning will be the Reverend Lewellyn N. Caley, D.D., Rector of St. Martin's Church, Oak Lane, where your own Rector is conducting a three-day Mission.

If you have not already done so, you should get up your Lenten program this week. The tenth day from today will be Ash Wednesday and we want to be on our mark before the Lenten race starts. Our Church does expect us to fast and to give up certain pastimes which are not wrong in themselves. Some people deny this. They say that our Church has never spoken in the matter. To them I would point out that on page XXIV of the Prayer Book we have a "Table of Fasts" on which "the Church requires such a measure of abstinence as is more especially suited to extraordinary acts and exercises of devotion." The first list of days in this group expressly specifies the forty days of Lent. Nothing could be clearer. The very fact that Mother Church does not go into detail as to what we must give up and what we must take on, makes it all the more strict. She puts us on our own honor to keep Lent worthily and when anyone puts us on our honor, we ought to be careful to make our plan more exacting and more ambitious than if we were ordered in elaborate detail what we must do. There will be many extra services, conferences and lectures which you will have the privilege of attending. There will be many schemes and programs offered for your help, but remember Lent's purpose is to draw you closer to God. Whenever you give up anything, take up something else which will aid your spiritual life. If you give up anything, don't advertise it, let it be known only to God. Beware of spiritual pride. If you save money by giving something up, then use that money you save for some good purpose. And amid all the listening to other people's experiences with God, don't forget to seek Him, yourself. Spend time in the silence and wait for Him to speak to you. He will. He always does.

Lenten Opportunities

Instead of a six session Mission Study Class, we are to have an innovation—a Missionary Institute on the first two Tuesdays in Lent; followed by a Bible Class on the Life of Christ, the four following Tuesdays. Every woman in the Parish is urged to come.

The Bible Class begins Tuesday, the 22nd, at 3 P. M. Bring Bibles.

The Young People's Fellowship tonight is going to have a discussion on the Four Gospels. The members have been reading them afresh this week and tonight they are going to compare them and tell why they prefer one above another. Next week we expect to meet with another group.

On Wednesday of this week we begin to keep Lent. We shall do this as individuals and as a congregation—a unit of the Church.

I trust that every earnest Communicant of Grace Church has by this time prepared a definite plan for his own individual observance of the holy season—what added time he will give to Prayer, to Bible Reading, to meditation, to Holy Communion, to Devotional Reading, to easing the burdens of others, to mission study, etc. If you have not yet decided what you will take on and what you will give up, do so at once.

As a congregation we shall continue with slight variations the scheme of former years. This is our plan in general: Evening Prayer will be said daily at 5 P. M. On Fridays the Rector will make a short address. On Thursdays we shall have the usual week-day celebration of the Holy Communion at 9.30 A. M. At 12 o'clock noon on Thursdays we shall have brief intercessions for missions. On Tuesdays, at announced hours, Mission Study; later in Lent a brief course on the earthly life of Christ. On Sunday evenings at 8 o'clock we shall have Evening Prayer with music by our choir and sermon by the Rector. On Wednesday evenings I hope to have many of you go with me to St. Paul's Church, Chestnut Hill, to hear Dr. Foley speak on Personal Religion. During Holy Week we shall follow a more intensive schedule.

These services need no explanation, except perhaps the one scheduled for Wednesday evenings at 8 o'clock in St. Paul's Church, on Chestnut Avenue. The Rector of St. Paul's has invited us to worship with his people on Wednesday evenings, and he has secured as leader Dr. Foley, who needs no introduction to this congregation. These services will be helpful and full of thought-provoking material. I do hope that many will go with me to sit at the feet of this godly man. His topics are as follows:

Ash Wednesday, "Personal Religion."
March 9, "Conversion."
March 16, "Following Christ."
March 23, "The Life of Prayer."
March 30, "The Bible."
April 2, "Means of Grace."

Please take this leaflet home for careful reading and reference

Do not forget the brief daily noonday services in the center of the city under the auspices of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, where helpful preachers come from afar to inspire thousands. A schedule of preachers may be had from your Rector.

If you have not already planned what special books on religious themes you are going to read during Lent, get in touch with Miss Margaretta W. Bayard now; she will explain what books we are recommending and will tell you where to obtain them.

We have not had a clear Sunday for some time. For many weeks Sundays have been stormy. Last Sunday was particularly bad. Considering the weather—and human nature—the attendance at services has been relatively good. Last Sunday morning was so dangerous for traveling that Dr. Caley, of St. Martin's Church, Oak Lane, was unable to come to us, as had been planned and announced. Today, if the weather permits, he will be in charge of and preach at the 11 o'clock service.

The Young People's Fellowship will meet this evening at 6.45 P. M., to go on a visit to another group of young people near by.

On Tuesday evening, March 15th, Frances Murphy, Jr., Organist of the Church of St. Jude and the Nativity, will play an Organ Recital in Grace Church.

Remember the Missionary Institute on March 8th and 15th, from 11 to 4, in the Parish House. Also the Bible Class, beginning on March 22, 3 P. M.

Parish Prayer Calendar

February 27 (Quinquagesima).—Collect, Epistle and Hymn 120.

Make your Communion for a real penitential Lent in this Parish and through all the Church. Pray for the sick of the Parish, especially for a little boy.

February 28 (Monday).—Collect, Epistle and Hymn 121, for meditation upon love (charity).

Examine your conscience carefully in preparation for your Ash Wednesday Communion of Repentance. How and where have you failed in love to God and to your fellow-man? Be definite.

March 1 (Shrove Tuesday).—Take time today to prepare for tomorrow. Write down a minimum Lenten rule of prayer, Bible reading, Communions, other services, work in the Parish, Bible and mission study. Write down your good resolutions; your besetting sins. Put all your trust in your Lord.

Examine your conscience again and confess your sins. Go to your Rector if your conscience is troubled.

March 2 (Ash Wednesday).—Collect, Epistle, Gospel, Hymn 123. Keep this day as a solemn fast. Repent. Confess. Receive your Lord in the Blessed Sacrament of His Body and Blood. Read Hymn 339.

If you are ill or unable to do so, make an act of Spiritual Communion. Shut yourself up for an hour's prayer and meditation. Read the Penitential Office. Be very sincere.

March 3 (Thursday).—Collect, Hymn 122. Pray for all Christians—a Holy Lent. For all young people, all children, better teaching. For teaching at home. Read the story of Calvary in St. John, Chapter 19.

March 4 (Friday).—Collect, Litany. At the Holy Hour meditate on the love of Christ for you; on the blows and insults He endured for you. Pray for all who attack Him and His Bride, the Church. Read Hebrews 7:24 and 25.

Pray for the Bishops' Crusade. For missionaries in China. Read Isaiah 64:8 and 9 and 66:13.

March 5 (Saturday).—Collect and tomorrow's Collect, Epistle, and Gospel. Prepare for your Communion and try to make it early and fasting. Meditate on Our Lord's forty days' fast for us while He fought temptation.

Pray for the departed, especially those dear to you.

Wednesday, Friday, and Saturday of this week are Ember Days, on which your prayers are asked for those to be ordained to the Holy Ministry. The Church prayers are on page 40 of the Prayer Book.

The meeting hour of the Young People's Fellowship has been changed from 8 to 7 P. M. for the Sundays in Lent, because there will be special services in Church at our regular meeting hour.

During Lent, on Thursdays, we are holding all-day meetings of the Woman's Auxiliary and Guild in the Green Room, at which meetings we expect to finish much sewing. At noon we have our missionary intercessions and a simple luncheon, resuming work for two or three hours in the afternoon.

Tuesday of this week is the day, and 11 A. M. is the hour, at which we begin our Missionary Institute in the Parish House. The subject is: "Rural America." On March 22d, at 3 P. M., the Bible Class begins. Come!

On Tuesday evening, March 15th, at 8 P. M., the organist of the Church of St. Jude and the Nativity will play a recital in Grace Church.

Please take this leaflet home for careful reading and reference

On Sunday Evening, March 27th, the centennial of the death of Beethoven, the music sung will be exclusively Beethoven compositions.

And now Lent has come! Already four of its precious days have passed into history. Only thirty-six days remain. Most of us have entered the period with enthusiasm and carefully studied program. There is a danger that we must guard against—the danger of overemphasizing the mechanics of Lent and underemphasizing the object. We may think too much and talk too much about what we are fasting from and about what we are adding; not realizing that what we are, first of all, aiming at is a closer walk with God. Fasting from certain foods, amusements, and worldly occupations; adding certain practices and virtues, is a proper part of one's program for Lent. But let us not forget the main object in paying attention to detail. A celebrated painter sketched the thorns in Christ's crown with such effect as to obscure the appeal of the face of the Crucified. It is possible to spend so much time on detail as to fail to achieve the real result. In other words, let us make all our efforts focus on one object—the greater glory of God. Do not talk overmuch of your Lenten discipline; do not allow pride in your spiritual aspirations to make you Pharisaical: rotate your mechanical helps during the season from time to time in order to keep them from becoming ends in themselves. So shall this Lent be fruitful and acceptable to the Master.

Parish Prayer Calendar

March 6 (First Sunday in Lent).—Collect, Epistle, Gospel. Meditate on the Epistle. Pray for a holy Lent in this Parish. Pray for all to be ordained this week (Ember Week), especially for the Rev. Dimmick Baldy, to be advanced to the Priesthood.

March 7 (Monday).—Collect and Ash Wednesday Collect. Gospel for meditation. Consider the three temptations of our Lord—(1) of the flesh; (2) to spiritual pride; (3) to worldly power and wealth. Examine your own conscience on these three lines.

Pray for tomorrow's Mission Study Class—resolve to attend.

March 8 (Tuesday).—Use the Collect for meditation on Fasting, also Psalm 143 and St. Luke 21:33–37.

Pray for all missionaries, especially those in rural work. Consider our Lord as a man of the countryside. Hymn 356. Pray for those we miss from among us—especially Mrs. Lowber and Mrs. North.

March 9 (Wednesday).—Ember Day. Use the Ember Day prayers and pray especially for the gift of the Holy Ghost for the Rev. Dimmick Baldy. Hymn 450. Pray for your Rector; for Dr. Cline; for your Bishop and for your Presiding Bishop. Read the Collect again. Pray for the Parish. For gifts of Life to God in the ministry of the Church. Speak to your own son or to some boy you know.

March 10 (Thursday).—Collect, Gospel. Consider your own temptations under the three heads given on Monday. Say "Our Father." Make an Act of Repentance and of Love.

Pray for the Woman's Auxiliary, its Lenten work, especially its study of the rural work of the Church and its Bible Class. Join both. Pray for the young people of the Parish; that Lenten discipline may train them to say "no" to serious temptations; for real faith in our Lord and personal love toward Him.

March 11 (Friday).—Ember Day. Again use the Ember Collects and pray for all Ordinands. Read over the Office for the Ordering of Priests in the back of the Prayer Book, and consider what special gifts of the Holy Ghost are given. Compare with St. John 20:21, 22 and 23. Consider that this power has been handed down from our Lord from man to man in the line of Apostolic Succession until today. "I will be with you unto the end of the world." At noon say the "Blessed Saviour" prayer and meditate on our Lord as Priest. Hebrews 4:14 to end.

March 12 (Saturday).—Ember Day. Read over to-morrow's Collect, Epistle and Gospel, and prepare for your Communion with earnest self-examination and confession. Read the Exhortation at the end of Holy Communion and ponder on its meaning and your duty.

Pray for the faithful departed; for the sick, the troubled, the sorrowing. "By Thy tender mercy, deliver them, Jesu."

Next Sunday will be "Family Sunday." Do you recall what an inspiring service we had last year? It was most helpful to have so many present, such hearty singing, and such devout responses. We look forward to this day from year to year.

Do you recall how "Family Sunday" began? This is how it originated: In the Church of England the fourth Sunday in Lent was called "Mothering Sunday," for on that day all apprentices returned to their homes and attended their own churches. Persons living away and those traveling made efforts to return to their own parish church for that day. Then the custom spread to this country; the Brotherhood of St. Andrew got behind it; Dr. Cline introduced it into Grace Church and our people welcomed it. Every year for some years we have observed it and next Sunday we shall keep it again. Let every family in the Parish come to the 11 o'clock service and join in with all their hearts.

Please note: Bible Class on the Life of Christ, Tuesdays at 3 P. M. in the Parish House. Bring Bibles, note books, and pencils.

Please take this leaflet home for careful reading and reference

The noonday (12.30 to 12.55 noon) preachers this week in central city services are as follows: Garrick Theatre, Rev. Joseph Fort Newton; Christ Church, Dr. Ogilby of Trinity College, Hartford; Saturday, Rev. Geo. W. Barnes, St. Stephen's Church; Rev. Henry Coffin and Rev. Alexander MacColl.

At the regular meeting of Grace Church Vestry on March 10th Mr. Fortescue referred to the fact that January 8, 1927, marked the twenty-fifth anniversary of the election of Mr. S. Mendelson Meehan to membership on the Vestry of Grace Church. He then offered the following resolution, which was unanimously adopted:

"Resolved, That the felicitations of the Vestry be extended to Mr. S. Mendelson Meehan upon the completion by him of twenty-five years' active service as a member of this body.

"Mr. Meehan's unfailing devotion to the interests of the Church and the Church School is fully recognized and appreciated, and we congratulate him upon faithfully rendering exceptional service to Grace Church during the past quarter century."

Parish Prayer Calendar

March 20 (Third Sunday in Lent).—Collect, Gospel. Give thanks for the opportunities and privileges of Lent.

Begin a week of prayer (really nine days, counting both ends) for the conversion of sinners, using the Ash Wednesday Prayer. This is called a Novena, the first one having been made by the Apostles between the Ascension and Pentecost. See Acts 1: 8, 9, 12, 13, 14.

March 21 (Monday).—Collect, Epistle. This is the second week in succession in which the Epistle is on purity. Pray for purity of the body, of the thoughts and of the purposes of our lives. Pray for definite teaching by parents. Pray for the abolition of divorce. For Christian homes; love of children; willingness to sacrifice to raise families. Psalms 127 and 128.

March 22 (Tuesday).—Collect, Gospel. Consider the effect on the world of a dis-united Church. Read St. John 17, our Lord's last prayer before His Passion; then read the Gospel. Pray for the visible unity of His Church, using the Collect for St. Simon and St. Jude. Hymn 337.

March 23 (Wednesday).—Collect, Gospel. Meditate on the spirit of unity. Give thanks for the unity in this Parish and pray for its continuance. Pray for Peace on Earth. Thank God for the growth of the spirit of world brotherhood, reading Eph. 2:13, 14, 19, 20, and Colossians 3:11. Pray for peace in Christian homes and hearts. For forbearance.

March 24 (Thursday).—Collect, Epistle. Say the Gloria in Excelsis as an Act of Praise and a prayer for Peace on Earth. Pray for all the Parish organizations, especially the W. A., the Lenten Bible Class, the Church School, the Young People's Fellowship. For your Rector—his preaching, study, ministry of the Sacraments, inner life. His family. For the sick, the aged, the lonely, the discouraged, the sinful, the indifferent, the absent.

March 25 (Friday).—Fast. Annunciation of the Blessed Virgin Mary. Collect, Epistle, Gospel for this day. Make your Communion as an Act of Abandonment to the will and love of God (as the Virgin Mary did).

If you cannot possibly go to Church, then make an Act of Spiritual Communion at home. Spend time kneeling in silence, just listening to God and loving Him. Never speak first when you enter the Presence of the King—kneel, try to realize Him, still all thoughts and wait for Him!

At the Holy Hour—O, Saviour of the World; Blessed Saviour Who; Blessed, Praised, Adored, etc.

March 26 (Saturday).—Read tomorrow's Collect, Gospel, Epistle, and prepare for your Communion with strict self-examination on the things meditated upon this week. Note your sins of omission. Pray for the departed, especially those once active in this Parish. For your own beloved dead. Read I Corinthians 15:12 to end. Meditate on your last hour.

Much of the music to be played and sung at this evening's service will be from Beethoven. The reason for this lies in the fact that today is the one hundredth anniversary of Ludwig van Beethoven, born in 1770 and died in 1827.

It is eminently right that the religious world should pay him tribute, for he was not only a great composer, but also a great prophet, trying to reveal, through his compositions, the soul's need of God and the fact that only by getting into touch with God can one obtain strength to overcome the difficulties of life. In many of his works does Beethoven assume this rôle of prophet. It is impossible to understand him if one does not take into account this prophetic character which reveals itself through the medium of his art.

It is interesting to discover that Beethoven became more and more alive to his mission through the passing years. He was convinced that he had not come to entertain mankind with beautiful melody, but that his music was to awaken the Divine perception in human nature. He would be nothing but a servant of God, as becomes a high priest of art, and this idea filled him with that resistless power and strength which we observe in his works.

We in Grace Church are glad to pay this tribute to a composer whose works are so fundamentally spiritual in their conception and message.

Spring housecleaning is fast approaching. Please accumulate for the Woman's Auxiliary Rummage Sale, to be held early in May, all clothing, china, pictures, books, and bric-a-brac that you intend to discard and either bring it to the Parish House or phone Mrs. Dixon, C. H. 2342, asking her to send for it.

Please take this leaflet home for careful reading and reference

The Woman's Auxiliary and Guild is having all-day meetings during Lent. Work begins at the close of the 9.30 Communion Service and continues until noon, when our Rector leads our intercessions. Luncheon is served at 12.30 and then the work continues. On Thursday of this week (March 31), Mrs. William Haines will speak to us at the close of the luncheon on "The Bishops' Crusade." We hope for an extra-large attendance.—JANE W. BRAND, President.

The daily noon-day Lenten preachers at Central City Services will be as follows: Garrick Theatre, Bishop Fiske; Christ Church, Dr. E. M. Jefferys and President Goodwin; St. Stephen's Church, Dr. Patton, of the National Council.

On Tuesday evening, April 5th, in the church, our choir will sing the Cantata, "The Darkest Hour," by Harold Moore.

Tuesdays, at 3 P. M., the Lenten Bible Class on the "Life of our Lord" meets in the Green Room. All are invited to come. Bring pencils and note-books.

The Bible lessons for today are: Morning—1. Ezekiel 33:1–20. 2. St. Luke 17: 11. Evening—1. Gen. 45:3–46:7. 2. Hebrews 12.

Parish Prayer Calendar

March 27 (Refreshment Sunday).—IV. Lent. Collect. Gospel. Called Refreshment Sunday because of the Miracle of the Feeding of the 5,000. Meditate upon this as a type of the Holy Communion, our spiritual food. Pray for all families of the Parish; for united loving families. For family worship. That children may be taught by the parents in word and deed to love Christ and His Church. Pray for the abolition of divorce. Give thanks for God's great family—the Church.

March 28 (Monday).—Collect. Epistle. We have reached Mid-Lent. So far in Collect, Epistle and Gospel, the Church has had us consider the havoc of sin; from now on we are to consider its repair. Meditate on the Epistle—the glorious freedom of the Sons of God. Pray for freedom for yourself and all men from sin.

March 29 (Tuesday).—Collect. Gospel. Consider again the Feeding of the 5,000. The Lord our Righteousness, able to feed alike the bodies and souls of all who follow Him. Note that He used the Twelve as ministers of His grace and bounty. Pray for the Lenten Bible Class and its leader. For more love and study of God's Holy Word.

March 30 (Wednesday).—Collect. Gospel again for meditation on the Holy Eucharist as the Body and Blood of Christ, our spiritual food, reading St. John 6:26, 27; 48 to 59; also 60 and 66. Give thanks for your Communions. Say the "O Lamb of God" and "Glory be to the Father." Pray for more early and fasting Communions in this Parish. Hymn 339.

March 31 (Thursday). Collect and part of the Litany. Pray for the Parish; your Rector; for his family; for Dr. Cline: his parish and family. For the General Theological Seminary. For all who teach in our seminaries, colleges, schools and missions. For all social service workers. For the poor, the aged, the lonely, the depressed, the worried.

April 1 (Friday).—Collect for the week and for Ash Wednesday.

At noon meditate on Christ the Prophet, reading St. Luke 4:16 to 23 and verse 32 and St. John 7:46.

Do many acts of Repentance, Amendment, Love and Trust. Pray for the young whose faith is shaken, illumination of mind and heart and a determination to seek the Truth. Hebrews 2:1.

April 2 (Saturday).—Read the Collect, Epistle, and Gospel for tomorrow—"Passion" Sunday—and prepare most earnestly and lovingly for your Communion. Make your special prayer that this Parish may enter into the Passion of our Lord as never before and follow Him all along the Way of Sorrows. Pray "To know Him more clearly, to love Him more dearly, to follow Him more nearly." Philippians 3:10, 11 for meditation.

Palm Sunday. The world is trying more and more to change it from a holy day into a holiday. Forgetful of the tears of the Saviour, of His lamentation over Jerusalem, and of the heaviness of His spirit as He rode into the Holy City, it thinks only of the shouts of acclamation, of the songs of joy and of the holiday spirit that permeated Jerusalem that spring day 1900 years ago. But we know better. For us it is a solemn day, a day of fearful looking into our hearts to discover we are as fickle in following Him as were the Passover crowds; it is a day when we ask ourselves whether we are saying with our lives "Hosanna" or "Crucify Him." The shadow of Holy Week, and especially of Good Friday, hangs over us. We cannot be joyous, "Jesus our Lord is crucified." May this week find us in the company of those who remain near to His wounded side!

The letters placed in the pews and the envelopes with them are to remind you of the special offering being taken today for installing electric lights and a fire escape in the Parish House. All money enclosed in the envelopes will be used for this purpose. We need $2,950, and trust to your generosity.

Please take this leaflet home for careful reading and reference

The "Three Hours of Devotion" on Good Friday will be conducted by the Rev. R. Bakewell-Green, Rector of St. Stephen's Church, Norwood. This is a most helpful service. Come for part or for all the time.

There will be no session of the Church School on the morning of Easter Day; instead there will be the Church School Festival at four in the afternoon. Adults are invited to join with us.

On Easter Day the offering will be for the general needs of the Church in Pennsylvania, in the United States, and abroad. All money received will be credited on our quota.

All who desire to share in furnishing the Altar with flowers for Easter Day may do so by sending a contribution of money by Wednesday of this week.

No meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary and Guild this week.

Rummage Sale on Thursday, May 19. Articles of clothing, china, pictures, bric-a-brac, may be sent direct to the Parish House, or by telephoning Mrs. Dixon, C. H. 2342, they will be sent for.

Parish Prayer Calendar

HOLY WEEK

April 10 (Palm Sunday).—Collect. Epistle. Gospel. Make your Communion in Adoration of Christ, your King. The Church bids you come to your Communion every day until Good Friday. Pray that many may follow our dear Lord along the Way of Sorrows.

April 11 (Monday).—Read and meditate on the Collect, Epistle, and Gospel each day of this week. Consider the humility of Christ and His holiness. Pray for humility—the foundation stone of Christian character. Examine yourself. Confess.

April 12 (Tuesday).—Collect. Read today's Epistle and Gospel. Consider our Lord as the only perfect human being in all His life on earth as well as in His death—a pure sacrifice. Adore. Repent. Pray for His love and righteousness and peace to reign on earth. For all children. Hymn 150.

April 13 (Wednesday).—Collect. Epistle. Gospel. Meditate upon our Lord in prayer—all His life spending much time in communion with His Father and our Father. Read the story of Gethsemane. Hymn 151. Lord, teach us to pray!

April 14 (Maundy Thursday).—Fast. Collect. Epistle. Gospel. "Maundy" is a corruption of the word mandate (an order or command). On this day our Lord commanded us to "do this in remembrance of Me." Read Hymns 335 and 339. Let us pray that the Blessed Sacrament may become the central act of worship in this Parish and throughout all the Church.

April 15 (Good Friday).—SOLEMN FAST. Collect. Epistle. Gospel and Hymn 155. Consider that it was God Himself—Love Incarnate—who endured all the shame and sorrow and agony. Pray for all the world to know this God and His love. For a recreated world on the principle, of love instead of greed and hate.

April 16 (Easter Even).—Collect. Epistle. Gospel. Fast until noon. Consider how our Lord preached to the "souls in prison"—"He descended into Hell." Pray for the dead, especially your beloved ones, that He may have mercy on their souls and that they may rest in peace and grow in light and beauty.

Prepare earnestly for your Easter Communion, so that you may have hope and joy.

On Easter Day at the Church School Service we dedicated a lovely Church School banner. Having looked forward to the event for over a year, for at a meeting of the Faculty of the School at that time the matter had come up, been discussed, and decided upon, Mrs. Pratt Thompson was delegated to oversee the project. Appeals were printed in the Parish News, personal solicitations were made, finally the money was in hand and the order was placed with Miss Bender, who designed and executed it. It is rich and plain, having gold lettering on a crimson background, and we are well pleased with it. The banner was first carried in procession on Easter afternoon. We desire here to thank everyone who had anything to do with it.

The Young People's Fellowship tonight will have a particularly interesting program, featuring some appropriate motion pictures shown by Mr. Robt. MacDonald and Mr. J. Howard Fell. We are sure you would enjoy them with us. Why not come? The hour is 8 P. M., and all are welcome.

The members of the Woman's Auxiliary and Guild are asked to send what they have earned by their Lenten work to Mrs. George, on or before Thursday, May 5.

Please take this leaflet home for careful reading and reference

Another urgent appeal for Rummage! We have obtained the use of the Trower property for our sale on Thursday, May 19. Please send articles to the Parish House or phone Mrs. Dixon—C. H. 2342, who will send someone for it.

The Spring Stated Meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary and Guild will be held on Tuesday, May 10. The program is as follows:

Noonday Intercessions at	12.00
Luncheon at	12.30
Address by Rev. Geo. Baldwin at	1.00
Business Meeting at	2.00

A large attendance is urged as much important business is to come before the meeting.

Parish Prayer Calendar

May 1 (Second Sunday after Easter).—St. Philip and St. James'—Collect, Epistle, Gospel. Pray for the Jews—scattered abroad—that they may turn to their Savior and Messiah; for this Parish—steadfastness in the Faith. Pray for our parishioners who sailed yesterday.

May 2 (Monday).—Use the Collect, Epistle and Gospel of the 2nd Sunday after Easter for your meditation, finding the common thought in all three—the patience, suffering and shepherding of Our Lord and our daily walk after His example.

Pray for patience, endurance, and faithfulness for all Shepherds of Christ's flock—especially for your own Bishop and Rector. Psalm 23.

May 3 (Tuesday).—Use today the Collect, Epistle and Gospel for St. Philip and St. James Day, considering Jesus as the Way, the Truth and the Life. Pray for Wisdom for all in authority, civil, ecclesiastical, in the home, and in the school. For single-mindedness. Pray for our Church School teachers and pupils. For all College students.

May 4 (Wednesday).—Use the week's Collect and Epistle and Rev. 14:12. Meditate on patience as "courage long drawn out." Consider Our Lord's patience, God's patience. Examine your conscience in regard to this virtue.

Pray for all sheep going astray. For the young and thoughtless. For the careless and indifferent. For more love of God's Holy Word and the Sacraments, especially the Holy Communion. Pray for the sick, the aged, the absent.

May 5 (Thursday).—The week's Collect and Gospel. Meditate on the Gospel—on the "other sheep" that Christ spoke of that He "must have" and pray for faith in His purpose to bring all the world to Him. Pray for those who disregard His very words by not believing in Foreign Missions. Pray for all Missionaries, especially those in China, Japan, India, and Siberia. Hymn 483.

May 6 (Friday).—At noon, consider our Lord as Incarnate Love, "bearing our sins in His own Body on the tree." Use the Epistle once more for meditation. Do we "bear in our bodies the marks of the Lord Jesus?" Do we pamper or deny the flesh? Are we willing to fast, to rise early to meet Him in His trysting place—the Altar?

Pray for self-sacrifice, for power to conquer sloth, gluttony, mental and spiritual laziness.

May 7 (Saturday).—Read tomorrow's (III Easter) Collect, Gospel, Epistle and prepare for your Communion. Pray for the departed. For your own Beloved Dead. For all in sorrow. Hymns 173 and 176.

Contracts for the fire escape and electric lights for the Parish House have been made and workmen are already busy on the projects. We hope to be able to use the new lights by May 17th at the Parish Supper and to have fire escape erected and usable a little later. And the money to pay for it is in hand! Thank you very much.

A Gala Evening, Tuesday, May 17, 1927! The electric lights in the Parish House will be completely installed and turned on for the first time. This much-needed improvement is fully paid for, thanks to our members and friends. Promptly at 6.30 o'clock we will enjoy a bountiful supper, entirely home cooked, and unique in that it will be prepared by the members of the Men's Service League.

Following this, "The Fascinating Fanny Brown" will be present in a play given under the auspices of the Young People's Fellowship, and we know, from their past productions, that it will be well worth while. Every one is cordially invited. The entire cost for the evening will be $1.00 per person.

The most important event this week will be the Spring Stated Meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary and Guild on Tuesday, beginning with Intercessions at 12 o'clock noon in Church. Luncheon will be served at 12.30; luncheon in turn will be followed by an address by the Rev. George Baldwin, of Dupree, South Dakota, who is already well known among our people; and at 2 P. M. will be held the spring business meeting. Every woman of the Parish is invited to be present.

Please take this leaflet home for careful reading and reference

The Rummage Sale is only one week ahead—on May 15th. Mrs. Dixon's 'phone number is C. H. 2342. She will be glad to have you call and tell her what you have for the Sale, and she will tell you where to deliver your rummage.

Every once in a while Grace Church acts as host to the American Guild of Organists. We are to have the privilege again on May 24th, at 8 o'clock in the evening. The Choir will sing special music, guest organists will play, and our neighbor, the Rev. Nathanael B. Groton, of St. Thomas Church, Whitemarsh, will preach a short sermon. Come and be refreshed!

The Diocese of Pennsylvania has recently purchased many acres in Roxborough at the point where the future Chestnut Hill-Bryn Mawr road will intersect Ridge Avenue. It is purposed, in due time, to make this the site of a Diocesan Cathedral. On Saturday afternoon, May 21st, at 3.30, Bishop Garland will hold the first religious service ever held on the new site, and will explain what kind of cathedral this Diocese believes in and purposes to erect. Every one who reads this is invited to be present and help make the occasion a memorable one.

Parish Prayer Calendar

The Rector is absent today, having gone to Des Moines, Iowa, as a delegate from the Social Service Department of the Diocese of Penna. to the National Conference on Social Service being held there from the 11th to the 15th. The officiant at our altar today is Archdeacon Steel of Cuba.

On Thursday, the Rummage Sale at the Trower property, Germantown Avenue above Chelten Avenue! Please have all Rummage at the Parish House not later than Tuesday, the 17th, or deliver it at the Trower property on the 18th. Remember, many helpers are needed at the Sale, which will be from 10 A. M. to 10 P. M. on Thursday, the 19th.

Tuesday, May 17th, is the promised date of the first illumination of the Parish House by electricity. We are going to celebrate the event with an unusual supper, prepared by the members of the Men's Service League.

Following the supper we are to see and hear "The Fascinating Fanny Brown," a play produced by our Young People's Fellowship, and they are well worth hearing.

All are cordially invited. The entire cost for the evening is $1.00 per person.

Let us come with our friends and make this a notable occasion.

The celebration at the new Cathedral site mentioned last week has been expanded into what is to be known as "Diocesan Day." The program begins at 1 o'clock with a view of Christmas boxes for Liberia; at 2 o'clock with stories by the Rev. S. L. Haines, formerly a missionary in Liberia, followed by a short tableau; at 3 o'clock ice cream will be served; and at 3.30 Bishop Garland will conduct the first service at the Cathedral site. Arrangements planned for five thousand. Unlimited parking facilities. The site is on Ridge Avenue, at Manatawna Avenue; arrows directing motorists will be conspicuously displayed. There is a large building for use in case of rain. The Bishop would like to meet his people on that day.

Will those who have conveyances plan to go, and will they invite others to fill their cars? Let us stand behind our Bishop and show our interest in this great project he has undertaken.

Please take this leaflet home for careful reading and reference

The flowers on the altar on May 1st were memorials given by Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Pease; on May 8th the flowers were also in memoriam and were given by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph King.

On Tuesday of this week (May 17th) will be held a regular meeting of the Woman's Aid to the Convocation of Germantown at St. Bartholomew's Church, Wissinoming. Holy Communion at 11 A. M., Sermon by Dr. L. N. Caley; Luncheon at 12.30 and business meeting at 2.30. Luncheon, 50 cents.

There are four great days in the Christian Year—Christmas, Easter, Ascension, and Whitsunday—and Ascension Day (which occurs on Thursday of this week) is one of the very few days in our Prayer Book which has an octave, that is, a week of special services marked by a preface in the Communion office. It is a day when every churchman ought to make a point of going to church to celebrate the proudest event in the history of man: the day when human nature reached its greatest glory, being taken by our Lord into the other world, and in His person placed on the throne of Heaven. Your Rector has arranged two celebrations of the Holy Communion—one at 7 A. M. and another at 9.30 A. M.—in order that all may be able to attend. Those of you who have not been in the habit of coming out to any week-day service, and who long for greater spiritual joy and insight, will find in this service an opportunity and an answer to your prayers.

Today, tomorrow, Tuesday and Wednesday of this week are Rogation days, i. e., days on which you are asked by the Church to pray to our Heavenly Father for His blessings on the labors of the husbandman. There are two suggested prayers on page 41 of the Prayer Book.

Please take this leaflet home for careful reading and reference

An important event to keep in mind for this week: Tuesday, in Grace Church, a beautiful service under the auspices of the American Guild of Organists, consisting of a brief church service, a sermon on the subject of music in its relation to religion, and a recital by Mr. Robinson. Your Rector hopes that many of you will come!

The flowers on the altar today are given in memory of Mrs. Wm. F. Fell.

There were about 150 present last Tuesday evening at the Parish Supper and Play to celebrate the new electric lighting of the Parish House. The evening was a great success, and thanks are due to those who worked so hard on the supper and entertainment and to the large number whose offerings made possible this great improvement.

Parish Prayer Calendar

May 22 (Fifth Sunday after Easter. Rogation Sunday).—Collect, epistle, Gospel. Give thanks for your material blessings. Pray for a blessing on all crops sown: on all farmers; on rural communities and churches, and on the work of the Rev. George Baldwin. Pray for the Cathedral Foundation of this Diocese; for our Bishop.

May 23 (Monday, Rogation Day).—Collect, Epistle. Meditate on the Epistle, being "doers" of Christ's commands. Pray for a wider observance of Ascension Day in our communion and especially in this Parish. Pray that the importance and wonder of this Holy Day may be taught our people and that it may come to be next in importance to Easter, Christmas, and Pentecost.

May 24 (Tuesday, Rogation Day).—Collect, Gospel for meditation. Consider God's goodness and faithfulness in each year's harvests. Pray for all laborers in the earth's fields; for laborers in the Church, especially in the mission fields; for China; for the hungry and poor; for those who know not our Lord.

May 25 (Wednesday, Rogation Day).—Collect, Gospel again. The three Rogation Days are a preparation for Ascension Day. The name comes from the Latin "rogo," to pray or ask; we are to ask God's blessing on the seed sown this spring. Use the prayers in the Prayer Book, page 41, and say the Litany. Prepare with carefulness for your Communion tomorrow. Make your intention sincere thanksgiving for the Power of the Resurrection, what Christ could not be holding Death and that He took "Manhood" into the Godhead. Read the fifteenth Chapter of I. Corinthians.

May 26 (Thursday, Ascension Day).—Collect, Epistle, Gospel. Make your Communion with great joy and hope, especially the hope of meeting your beloved dead again. Pray for strength to endure to the end. For all who mourn—that they may have this hope. Do many acts of praise and thanksgiving, saying Psalms 104 and 91. Also give thanks in your own words. Pray for the sick and the dying.

May 27 (Friday).—Collect, Epistle, Gospel. Noon, adore our Lord in Glory and ask His blessings on all you love, living and departed. Pray for the Parish, your Rector, Church School, its teachers and officers. For all little children Pray for more love of Holy Scripture and of the Holy Eucharist. For more meditation that "our minds may with Him continually dwell"—for a sense of the constant Presence of God. Colossians 3:1, 2 and 3.

May 28 (Saturday).—Read over the Collect, Epistle, and Gospel for tomorrow and prepare for your Communion. Pray for the departed. I. Thess. 4:13, 14.

Next Sunday will be Whitsunday, one of the really great holy days of the Christian year. The day commemorates the descent of the Holy Spirit and the birthday of the Christian Church. It is a day on which every earnest communicant of the Church ought to make his communion. Instead of drawing up here a sequence of reasons why you should come to the table of your Lord next Sunday to partake of the Feast, I am sparing you that and simply saying, "Come!"

During the week we had transferred to us from St. Matthew's Church, Francisville, Philadelphia, Mrs. Rebah S. Randall and Miss Marion E. Heller, both communicants in good standing of the above-named Parish, and now transferred to our Parish and pastoral care.

There will not be a meeting of the Young People's Fellowship this evening.

We have in our Parish a group of women, members of the Woman's Auxiliary and Guild, who are called the Social Service Committee of Grace Church. We also have a Social Service Department of the Men's Service League, but they chiefly function in backing up the work done by the women. These women are carrying on a quiet but very effective work in the Parish, visiting the shut-ins and temporarily sick, providing relief and comfort for the unfortunate, giving much-needed gifts here and there, taking patients to hospitals, advising, mothering, and even entertaining those who would otherwise be lonesome. Of necessity, their work receives very little publicity: they do not want to advertise the names of those whom they are aiding. Only the Rector knows how very effective their work is and how far reaching are their kindly ministrations.

Not every one has the tact, time, or patience to engage directly in such Christian service, but all can take part indirectly by giving them money to distribute as the need arises. Some people send in contributions in full; others pledge to give a stated amount each May, October, and February. If you would like to be numbered among the contributors, send your offering to Mrs. Frank J. Sheble, 311 Roumfort Road, indicating whether it is an installment with more to come in October and February, or a paid-in-full contribution. This sounds as if large amounts were being asked. Not so! Small amounts of a dollar or multiples of a dollar will be very acceptable.

The Woman's Auxiliary and Guild desires to thank all those who so kindly responded to the many requests made for articles for the Rummage Sale, and to report that the receipts from the sale were $225.

Parish Prayer Calendar

May 29 (Sunday after Ascension, or Expectation Sunday, so called because the new Christian Church was looking expectantly for the promised gift of the Holy Spirit).—Read the Collect, Epistle, and Gospel and meditate on the glorious gift our Lord won by His life, death, and resurrection. Pray for Christian unity.

May 30 (Monday).—Collect, Epistle for Meditation. Pray for Christian love and charity. Pray that we may use for God whatever gifts He has given us, whether of money, influence, time, mind, or anything else. Pray for all priests—for your own priest. Give thanks for his devotion and love. Hymn 451.

May 31 (Tuesday).—Collect, Gospel for Meditation on the gift of the Holy Comforter. Pray to grow in spiritual gifts. For all in trouble, sorrow, need, or sickness. Praise God for this great Gift, saying the Te Deum.

June 1 (Wednesday).—Collect and Psalm 93. Pray for reverence for God's Holy Word and for the name of Jesus. Pray for the profane and thoughtless. For the youth of today. For gifts of life to Christ. That every mother and father may talk over this with their boys and girls when planning their education and vocation.

June 2 (Thursday).—Collect, Epistle, Gospel. Find the common thought in all three. Pray for an outpouring of the Spirit on all missionaries, especially in China and Liberia. Pray for the sick. For all new babies.

June 3 (Friday).—Collect, Epistle, Gospel, and Hymn 455. At the Holy Hour say the prayers of Adoration you have been taught and make special acts of love to God, the Holy Ghost. Consider with how great a price Christ bought for us this greatest of gifts. Are we living in and by It? Pray for all who know not Christ.

June 4 (Saturday).—Tomorrow being the Great Feast of Pentecost,—Whitsunday,—prepare with much care for your communion, making your Intention a wonderful outpouring of the Holy Ghost on all the Christian Church. Read over the Collect, Epistle, and Gospel. Examine your conscience and confess your sins. Pray for the departed.

Trinity Sunday, the day on which we as a Church think on the nature and being of God! And how hard it is to understand! No one can explain the doctrine exactly, for the simple reason that no one can explain God—He is so wonderful and so much greater than our capacity can comprehend! But we can get glimmers of truth. Just as a horse can undoubtedly understand certain traits about humanity, e. g., that man is master, that he is gentle or cruel, that he must look to him for shelter, food, etc.; but can little understand that wonderful combination—the body, the soul, the spirit of man; so we, being men made in the image of God, can understand some of His attributes—His power, His glory, His fatherly care, His sympathy—yet, on the other hand, little can we comprehend in this world of the whole awful being of God—what He is, what His nature or His essence. All that you and I can do is to accept the facts about God put forth by our Lord Jesus and later put into convenient form by God's Church in what we call the Creeds, and feel that as we grow in grace and into God's likeness we shall comprehend more and more the inner truths of which the bare statements that we make in the creed are but the shell.

We are glad to announce that on tomorrow, St. Barnabas' Day, Mr. John W. Irwin, of our congregation, is to be ordained to the Diaconate. That will make two of our men presented for Holy Orders in two years. Would that we might continue to furnish to the Church year by year such good leaders! The service will be held in St. Stephen's Church, Tenth Street, between Market and Chestnut, Philadelphia, at 10.30 A. M. Is it too much to ask that those of you who can possibly make it will attend the service and send up your prayers to Almighty God for His blessing on the ministry of our brother? If you cannot attend the service, do pray for him, anyway. See page 40 of the Prayer Book.

The Church School will hold its annual Commencement this afternoon at 3.30. We know that the program will be interesting. Won't some of you who have not yet been with us on such an occasion come out this afternoon? You will be glad if you do—and so shall we. Because of a conflict of time, there will not be held the usual Evensong Service at 4.30. Nor will there be any more meetings of the Young People's Fellowship until fall. The group closed its season last Sunday evening with a full attendance, and one of the most enjoyable programs the Fellowship has ever had. Already we are at work on plans for the autumn.

We record that on May 25 we buried, with Christian rites, Mrs. Jennie Walter; on May 28, Mr. Frank Stumm; and on June 4, Miss Lucy Trivett.

Parish Prayer Calendar

June 12 (Trinity Sunday).—Collect. Epistle. Gospel. Make your Communion as an Act of Adoration of God, the Holy Trinity. Pray for all churches dedicated to the Trinity and for your Parish, Rector, and Church School. Attend the Church School Festival and Pageant at 3.30.

June 13 (Monday).—Collect. Epistle for meditation. Consider the mystery of the Trinity, as in Hymn 205. Pray for a sure faith in the Trinity; for a more intelligent faith for yourself and all people. Pray for the sick, especially of this Parish, and for the lonely. Pray for those, being ordained to Holy Orders today, especially for Mr. John W. Irwin.

June 14 (Tuesday).—Collect. Gospel for your meditation on the new birth (degeneration) in baptism (water and the Spirit). Pray for America, its conversion to Christ; its highest good, the service of the world. For our President, our Army and Navy, our Flag. For our foreign population, Christian and American ideals. For rural America. Pray for our parishioners on the ocean.

June 15 (Wednesday).—Collect. Epistle as a meditation on the worship in Heaven and on the Holy Communion as the reflection of that worship on earth. Say Holy, Holy, Holy, many times today as an Act of Adoration of the Trinity. Hymn 207. Pray for China—steadfast faith for its native priests and all other Christians.

June 16 (Thursday).—Collect. Gospel. Make your Communion that many may be born again of the Spirit. Meditate on being born of "water and the Spirit" in baptism and made to enter the Kingdom. Pray that all may use that gift of the Spirit and grow daily more and more into the pattern and image of Our Lord. Pray for all little babies, especially those newly baptized. Pray for the unbaptized; for converts to the Faith. For LIBERIA and the work of the Holy Cross Fathers there.

June 17 (Friday).—Collect. Epistle for meditation on the last sentence. Pray that we may give "pleasure" to God, the Holy Trinity. Hymn 208. At the noon hour say the Blessed Saviour Prayer and make acts of adoration and love in your own words.

June 18 (Saturday).—Collect. Gospel for meditation on the last sentence. Pray for the gift of eternal life for all you love. Pray for those who have none to pray for them. Pray Our Father.

Remember the souls of the faithful departed. Read over tomorrow's Collect, Gospel, Epistle and prepare by self-examination for your Communion.

RECTORS' NOTES

With this issue we cease printing the Parish News until September. One by one our organizations have ended the season's work and family by family many of our people are going away for the summer. It has been a profitable and happy year; many who were very ill have recovered, comparatively few have died. Attendance at Church Services has been better than before and I have been particularly pleased with the growing observance of the weekly 7.30 A. M. Sunday Holy Communion Service.

At this time I desire to appeal to you for contributions to the Choir Outing Fund. The choir has worked hard this year and has helped much in creating a deep devotional tone for our services. It has been our custom for some years to give them a week's holiday at a summer camp as an appreciation of their hard work. The year before last we sent eight boys; last year we sent more than twenty; this year we expect to send more than twenty-five—perhaps as many as thirty. It will cost at least $350 to do this, and the expense is met by voluntary offerings from the congregation. If you are touched by this appeal, send your contribution to Mr. William Walton, 118 E. Durham St.

The Men's Service League is planning for a busy year next year. Their first meeting will be at a week-end spent together at one of the summer camps, either in Bucks or Delaware County. The program will be devotional in nature. The idea is to arrive at the Camp on Sept. 10, get settled, have a swim, dinner, and service preparatory to the early Holy Communion service the next morning. On Sunday it is planned to have a day of devotions, with helpful, practical leadership, and to return late in the afternoon, refreshed spiritually and rededicated to God at the beginning of the year's activities. It is hoped that many men of the parish will join in this retreat. The idea came from a layman and was enthusiastically endorsed by a number of others who were present. The time to plan to go along is now. Remember, Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 10 and 11.

The Woman's Auxiliary and Guild are going to have a big day on November 8 at Cedarbrook. This is a most ambitious undertaking, and undoubtedly will go over well. It is planned to have a Quiet Day for all the women of the parish early in the fall.

The really big event of the new year will be the Mission to be held in Grace Church just before Lent. We have not yet secured our Missioner and I bid you pray for a right choice and for God's blessing on the mission. Begin to prepare for it now in your prayers.

The confirmation class will assemble early in October. If you have acquaintances who are thinking of joining the class, tell me soon. Every member should be a missionary in securing candidates.

Finally, wherever you are this summer do not fail to attend Church at least once every Sunday. Our own program of services is printed on page 1. The Rector will be away during August and part of September. Services will go on as usual.

During the hot months let us plan for next year's Church School, for the Guilds and other organizations; above all let us remain steadfast in prayer. To those of you going away, "Mizpah"—God be with you until we meet again.

Your friend and Rector,

Charles Edward Eder

There will be two Open Air Services soon on the new Cathedral grounds, Manatawna and Ridge Avenues, Upper Roxborough; the first will be on Sunday afternoon, June 26, at 3.30, at which Bishop Garland will officiate and make an address; the second will be on Sunday, July 3, at 3.30, at which Archdeacon Bullitt will officiate and make the address. The Bishop is very desirous that as many as can be present will be present at one or both of these services.

We record here the wedding in Grace Church on Wednesday evening, June 8, of Edward Gressel and Nellie Lamb.

We also record reading the Burial Office for Mrs. Alice D. Ellis on June 13th. Interment was made at Mt. Moriah Cemetery.

Parish Prayer Calendar

June 19 (First Sunday after Trinity).—Collect. Epistle. Gospel. Praise and thank God for the spiritual blessings given to His Church through the Sacraments.

June 20 (Monday).—Collect. Epistle for meditation. Think on love as the fulfilling of all laws of God and man. Pray for more love from yourself and others; pray for those who are unloved and for the selfish and unloving.

June 21 (Tuesday).—Collect. Gospel for meditation as to the end and object of our lives. Look at your life as a whole. What is its aim?

June 22 (Wednesday).—Collect. Epistle again for further meditation on "whoever shall confess that Jesus is the Son of God, God dwelleth in him and he in God." Pray for a deeper faith. Pray for someone you know whose faith is not strong.

June 23 (Thursday).—Collect. Gospel. Pray for the sick, the deaf, the blind, the insane. Pray for all in sorrow. For missions.

June 24 (Friday).—Nativity of St. John Baptist. Use the Collect, Gospel and Epistle of today. For your meditation, "preparing the way of the Lord on earth today"; your part and duty in it.

June 25 (Saturday).—Read over tomorrow's (II Trinity) Collect, Epistle and Gospel for the connecting thought. Prepare with self examination for your Communion. Give thanks for your many Communions. Hymn 339.

PARISH NOTES

Next Sunday will be Anniversary Sunday, the day on which we commemorate the consecration of Grace Church. We expect to have Dr. Cline preach for us in the morning and Bishop Garland preach and confirm in the evening. Plan now to attend three services next Sunday—7.30 A. M., 11 A. M., and 8 P. M. The afternoon service will be omitted.

The big event during the week will be the Indian Summer Fete at Cedarbrook Country Club on Tuesday. By this time every one in the congregation has been informed of the details of the fete. Our women have worked hard; their plans have been carefully laid: all should lead to a grand success. Let every one in the congregation attend and make this the best day yet. Any woman of the Parish will be glad to sell you your ticket. Busses will run on the hour and half-hour along Mt. Airy Avenue, starting at Germantown and Mt. Airy Avenues, and stopping to collect passengers when hailed. Plan now to spend the day with us!

During the summer the Rector baptized Adele Littlewood Ritchie, James Henry Algeo, James Francis Powell, and Mr. and Mrs. John Pyott. He officiated at the weddings of Glen H. Hipple and Ruth E. Dixey; George R. Johnson and Sarah S. Meehan;

Alfred F. Degelberg and Mary V. Koenig; Wm. K. Marshall and Frances C. Lowry. He read the burial office for Alice D. Ellis, John S. Radcliffe, Edward V. Lansdale, William MacNamara, and Arthur D. Denham. We received from St. Matthew's Church, Boissevain, Manitoba, Mrs. May Bayfield.

On Monday evening, November 14, the Men's Service League will have their first meeting of the year. It is to be an evening of sociability and good-fellowship, members of the club providing the entertainment. The Official Pictures of the World War, just released by the United States War Department, will be shown, together with Lindbergh's flight to Paris. You are invited to come and bring your friends—we want to know them. Mr. Ashton L. Worrall is now President of the League.

On October 23 the Vestry officially confirmed the appointment of the Rev. John R. Irwin as Curate of Grace Church. Mr. Irwin has for some years been a member of the congregation and a member of the Publicity Department of the National Council of our church. Several years ago he decided to study for Holy Orders and was ordained Deacon by Bishop Garland on the day after Trinity Sunday this year, being presented by your Rector. He still retains his position on the National Council and will be with us only on Sundays. We welcome him gladly and hope you will include him in your prayers.

There will be a report in a later issue of the Parish News with regard to the Choir Outing at Camp Wilson. The camp was a success and you gave sufficient money to pay the bills. Thank you!

During the summer the Men's Service League had a stage erected in the Parish House at their expense. It is a worthy and useful addition to our equipment. Some time when you have time step upstairs and see it.

The Rector has appreciated the unusually good attendance of those already confirmed at this year's confirmation talks. It is gratifying to have people come back year after year to refresh their memories. On the other hand, he wonders why so many people who confess their ignorance of church beliefs and customs make no effort to remedy their defects by taking advantage of these annual classes. These classes will go on for some time after Confirmation. You are welcome to come!

Do come out to church next Sunday night to welcome your Bishop and show your allegiance.

At the regular meeting of our Vestry on October 12 Mr. Albert C. Brand was unanimously elected to fill the unexpired term of Edward V. Lansdale, deceased.

On Wednesday, November 9, at 2.30, a joint meeting of the Germantown Chapter, N. S. D. A. R., and the Woman's Club of Germantown, will be held at the club house of the latter organization, Germantown Avenue and Washington Lane. Mr. Charles Francis Jenkins, noted historian, will deliver his address, "The Signers of the Declaration of Independence." Every loyal American should hear this virile and illuminating lecture. The members of Grace Church and the Woman's Auxiliary are earnestly urged to be present. No cards of admission are necessary. The meeting is an open one.

Next Sunday will be Advent Sunday—the first Sunday in the Church Year. It has become a custom on that Sunday for the men of our Church throughout the land to make their Communions. At Grace Church we are concentrating on the 7.30 A. M. Service. Let every man of this Parish attend. Further notice will be sent by mail.

This year a number of interesting events clustered about Anniversary Sunday—the Indian Summer Fete, the fine service Sunday Morning, Confirmation and another good crowd on Sunday evening, and "the best men's meeting yet" on Monday. The Fete proved that wintry weather cannot spoil warm-hearted energy and co-operation. The Rector feels that no matter how much money was made, the good fellowship and happy camaraderie evidenced on Tuesday justified all the planning and hard work put into the day. Incidentally, a large sum of money was made. The Monday evening "get together" of the men was equally successful. They came in numbers; the pictures were gripping; we did it without outside talent—do you wonder that we feel a bit elated? Confirmation was, as usual, solemn and inspiring—as one looked at the candidates at the altar-rail dedicating themselves afresh, he felt that God is indeed blessing Grace Parish, and that if these people really keep on as they have begun, we need not worry about the future of our Church or of our Country. We approach Thanksgiving Day with much to thank God for. There were twenty-one in the class; their names follow: Kemper Burton, Osborne Davies, Carton Dittmann, Robert Fryer, William Leonard Hirst, Thomas Rodd, Martin P. Snyder, Robert Stem, Victor B. Rupp, Frank S. Muzzey, Edith M. Burton, Virginia Chambers, Nancy S. Coleman, A. Constance Covell, Marie P. Dittmann, Virginia Fuller, Christine Marple Hamilton, Mary Virginia Muzzey, Grace Dowling Thomson, Dorothy Virginia Blaylock, Elizabeth Frances Higgins.

Thanksgiving Day occurs next Thursday. Services are at 9.30 and 10 A. M. Thanksgiving Day offerings are sent to the Episcopal Hospital, to be used for maintenance. As usual, we appeal to your generosity not only because the amount we give is credited on our apportionment, but more especially because our hospital really needs more money to meet every-day running expenses. As usual, our Social Service Committee will provide food for deserving families. If you care to help please send fruit or foodstuff by Tuesday night to the home of Mrs. Frank Sheble, 311 Roumfort Road; money may be sent to the same address. The Church School is sending flowers and fruit to the House of Rest and the Home for Consumptives.

Bishop Garland will lay the corner-stone of the new Diocesan Mission at Rawnhurst on November 26 at 3 o'clock. Rawnhurst lies midway between Bustleton and Frankford. It is possible to open up this new work because you and others gave generously last year in the Diocesan campaign.

No one has yet volunteered to give a Victrola to our rural-center at Zieglerville. For details see last week's PARISH NEWS.

Of recent years the Clergy have been remiss in not speaking of Church finances from pulpit and Church paper. It is easy to find explanations for this: your Rector blames his dereliction on his own imperfect grasp of the duty of giving. Perhaps his fault arose from the same reason that others blame. He has attended summer services at churches by the sea and in other vacation lands where a large equipment is necessary to take care of the summer congregation but where the winter congregation is both small and financially poor. As a result, the summer congregations have been looked to, to make up the deficits accruing during the many winter months. This is a custom that obtains in all Communions. The officiating clergyman has to make perfervid appeals Sunday after Sunday, varying in length from ten to twenty minutes, because he serves a different group each week and because the people that he appeals to belong to churches at home which they support generously and they do not feel their obligation to the summer churches. These long appeals break in on one's devotions and seem out of place; your Rector has even heard ten minute appeals made at the early Communion service. The effect was not edifying. One should not blame the speaker: one should blame the system which makes such appeals necessary.

There are other reasons which have kept us from speaking of giving-of-money which have had a like disastrous effect. We of the clergy have been wrong; we now see it and freely admit it.

For, giving of money is a part of true worship. Worship of God entails the recognition of duties not only to Him but also to one's neighbor. One of these duties is maintaining existing work and contributing to the work of passing on the Good News. Since God lends us all that we have materially for the duration of our life in this world; surely we should pay Him at least the usual percentage of interest on that loan. Besides, money is a part of ourselves. Pay for an hour's work is a material acknowledgment that we have given up an hour of our short lives here. Money is in reality but condensed time. When we give back to God as much money as we make in an hour, we are giving God an hour of our time. Your Rector always dwells on this in his last instruction to the confirmation classes because he feels that this is something that every Christian ought to know and realize and practice if he is to serve God truly.

The negligence of the Clergy has resulted in stingy giving on the part of many: not that they mean it to be so but because their leaders have been silent during the years when the dollar has deteriorated to the point where it will not buy much more than half of what it used to buy before the silent years, i. e., before the war. Many do not realize that if they are still giving what they used to give in the old days, they are in reality only offering to God half of what they used to offer to Him. They will pay from a dollar up to attend an evening's entertainment which used to cost fifty cents for the whole family; they will pay twice as much for clothes as they used to pay; for food; for transportation, and for other things but they do not realize that their Vestry have to pay twice as much for upkeep as they had to pay in the past. Men have surrounded themselves with Victrolas, Radios, Automobiles, Clubs and other worth-while new luxuries; God has enriched their lives abundantly, but they have not made any material sign of appreciation to God. Of course, salaried people have not had their incomes increased in proper proportion and there is something to be said for them if they have not doubled nor more than doubled the amount of their giving. But most of us (even salaried people) have not given the matter due consideration. That is one of the reasons that your Vestry ask Grace Church people to pledge anew from year to year, i. e., in order that they may give thoughtfully and as God has prospered them.

In the pledge that many of you will make this week, please give the whole matter prayerful consideration; don't shift the burden upon the ever generous few who can always be relied upon to do more than their commensurate share; forget them and frankly ask yourself—"how much should I give back to God?" The result will be spiritually worth while.

Wednesday, Friday and Saturday of this week comprise the Advent Ember Days, on which you are asked to pray for those about to be admitted to Holy Orders; see prayers on page 40 of the Prayer Book.

The easiest thing in the world to give is—money! It is so easy that, when we desire to do some act of kindness or be of service, our first tendency is to do it with money. Not that the giving of money is to be despised. It has a definite place in Christian living. We have tried to point this out in recent editorials in this paper—although the criticism has been aptly made that in those articles the word "pay" should have been used more often than "give," inasmuch as "give" has a connotation of being a matter of generosity rather than moral obligation.

The giving of money usually is not comparable to the giving of self. A man may spend much money on a church and not really be religious—even as a man may spend vast sums on the poor and not really be charitable. But when a man gives himself in consecrated service, God nor man could ask for more.

Please take this leaflet home for careful reading and reference

These thoughts come into our minds not only because we are now conducting our annual financial canvass and because we have many in our Parish who cannot pledge much money but who do give much in personal service, but also because we are approaching Christmas time, when the whole subject of "what to give" is so prominent. Have you ever considered how much more acceptable will be your gift if you put something of yourself into it? How much more a personal letter of sincere greeting would mean than a Christmas card prepared by an utter stranger? How much more a little personal attention would please your friend than the attitude "there, now I've got that present off my mind"?

Think of the many friends who cannot spend money on us but who do bless us with their kindness and their presence every day of the year.

Think of our Master—who wants as our Christmas gift, not so much our money as our time and friendship and love! In the hurry of these busy days, let us not forget such Christmas presents for Him whose birthday it is! And let us realize, too, that He cares more for us than for anything else we possess!

The Woman's Auxiliary and Guild thank the members of the Parish and their friends for their co-operation in the Indian Summer Fête—not only the women who worked so splendidly to make the Fête what it was, but all those who by their presence insured its success. We are very grateful to be able to report a net profit of $1,300.

This week we received the transfers to Grace Church of Mrs. Marion G. Fuller; Miss Virginia C. Nimlet; Mr. Melville W. Fuller, and Mr. Horace N. Fuller.

On December 4 we baptized Dorothy Ruth Stum.

An urgent request for warm second-hand clothing has come to us from the Helen Dunlap School and St. Stephen's Mission, Winslow, Arkansas. Please bring anything you may have—whether for infants, girls, boys, men or women—to the Parish House whenever convenient. The barrels will be packed some time in January.

You will find above the schedule of services to be held in Grace Church on Christmas Day. Notice that we have many services at different hours. No one need stay away because he cannot find a convenient time at which to attend. That is the explanation for the distribution of services.

Have you ever considered the derivation of the word "Christmas"? It plainly is a compound, made up of "Christ" and "Mas," indicating clearly that in the minds of those old-time Christians who coined the word it was taken for granted that on Christ's birthday good Christians would naturally draw near to Him in the sacrament of the altar. Draw your own moral from this, contrasting the high spiritual level on which the feast began, with the modern desecration of the day on the part of many into a poor, cheap imitation of the feast of Saturn that in pre-Christian times was held at Rome in mid-December. Let it not be so among the members of this Parish. We have not lived up to the day for many years; statistics indicate that our people have not come to Church on Christmas Day in as great numbers as they come on an ordinary Sunday. This year should be an exception, not only because many have grown in grace, but also because we have the advantage of having the day fall on Sunday. Let every faithful communicant come to Church and draw near to God next Sunday.

The offering on Christmas Day will as usual be devoted toward paying the premium of the Clergy Pension Fund. If you make your offering generous, it will relieve the Parish of that much money which otherwise is charged against current expenses.

Please take this leaflet home for careful reading and reference

In response to our appeal in the Parish News for a Victrola for the work of our little mission near Zieglerville, we received two responses. From Deaconess Lillian Kaighn we have a note of thanks. Among other things, she says: "The Victrola is here and is just what we needed to make our Christmas Festival a success. Indeed, it will be an almost daily help in the work here." Thank you.

This week we have had transferred to us, from the Church of St. Luke and the Epiphany, two communicants, Mr. and Mrs. Linwood Watson Hirsch. In your name we welcome them to our family.

One of the members of our Young People's Fellowship, William F. Wagner, Jr., has recently been elected Treasurer of the Fellowships of the whole Diocese. We congratulate him and ourselves on the high honor that has been thus conferred.

The head of our Social Service work has sent the editor an appeal for contributions for Christmas baskets. She says that some people seem to think that we no longer send them out. This is not so. We do send out large baskets of food to worthy families and hampers of fruit to older people. We also add toys for the children. This year these gifts will be packed and sent out on Friday morning, December 23d. Money or materials for these needs may be sent directly to the home of Mrs. Frank Sheble, 311 Roumfort Road.

The Carol Service on Christmas Eve is one of the most beautiful and helpful services of the year; it strikes the Christmas note at a time when we need and are ready for it. It is not for children only but for all. The crowded church at this service is an evidence of its popularity. We set the time at 3.30 because darkness comes on so early in December and because we want the children to be home before darkness sets in.

Parish Prayer Calendar

Sunday.—Pray for the conversion of all unbelievers in Jesus as God: Jews, Unitarians, agnostics, atheists, the heathen. Give thanks for His Coming.

Monday.—Pray for the clergy, especially of this Parish—for all spiritual directors. Begin to prepare for your Christmas Communion.

Tuesday.—Pray for the poor; for those mourning; for the lonely; for those working overtime that we may have a good Christmas.

Wednesday.—St. Thomas, Apostle. Make your Communion for all who doubt. Pray for faith and for a wider spread of the Catholic Faith in the Incarnation, Atonement and Resurrection.

Thursday.—Pray for a Holy Christmas in all the world; that its secular observance may not overshadow its Christian meaning; that all Christians may make a good Christmas Communion.

Friday.—Pray for all ordained at this season; for all who serve our country in Army, Navy, Air; for a Christian government and peace on earth—in China, India, Japan, and Africa.

Saturday.—Pray for a special outpouring of Love to the World; for shepherds, innkeepers, all little children; for all who have not yet made room for Jesus in their hearts; go to the Carol Service and adore the Babe of Bethlehem—Say the Gloria in Excelsis.

Your clergy wish you all—a holy Christmas!

The Introit anthem today is from Handel's Messiah. The words are as follows: "And the glory of the Lord shall be revealed and all flesh shall see it together, for the mouth of the Lord hath spoken it." The words of the Offertory anthem are the words of Hymn 71.

There will be no Church School session today nor afternoon service. The Woman's Auxiliary and Guild will omit their meeting this Thursday morning.

We welcome this week to our Parish family Mrs. Paul M. Hesser, Jr., transferred to us from St. Peter's Church, Germantown.

At the Vestry Meeting held last week the Committee in charge of the Every Member Canvass reported that the early responses to the letters recently sent out were very encouraging, both in the way of new subscriptions and increased pledges from old subscribers. There are still many persons who have not responded; if you are one of them you can help the canvassers to a considerable extent by sending in your pledge promptly.

The Committee to find a location for our mission is actively at work and it is hoped an announcement can soon be made. The mission will be located in the lower end of our Parish.

All men who read this will please consider Monday Evening, January 23d, reserved for the Men's Service League. An excellent program has been arranged; details will be published later.

The Rector is desirous that all who cannot come to church this Holy Season shall also receive the Holy Communion. Please telephone him for a private celebration.

The Epistle for today is not as printed in the Prayer Book, but is from Phil. II, 19, having been changed at the late General Convention.

The Woman's Auxiliary and Guild are going to have a most interesting meeting this week on Thursday, beginning with the Holy Communion at 9.30 A. M., the sewing of garments and the folding of surgical dressings from 10 until 12.30; at 12.30 there will be luncheon served; and directly after luncheon Mrs. Robert Frazier, whose husband is a clergyman of our Communion and who is in charge of the work among Indians at Rosebud, S. Dakota, will talk to us informally, telling us about their experiences and their joy in this field of the missionary work of the Church. This all-day meeting affords an excellent opportunity for the women of the Church to begin the New Year with a good habit of attending weekly meetings of the Auxiliary and Guild. All women are urged to come.

The next meeting of the Men's Service League will be held on Monday, January 23rd, in the Parish House. The Executive Committee has tried this year to have all the meetings carried out by the men themselves and so far this scheme has proven the best yet. In line with this policy, one of our own men, Mr. Robert Farnham, Jr., who is an Engineer and in charge of the construction of the new Main Station that the Pennsylvania Railroad is building at West Philadelphia, will talk to us on January 23rd about the erection of the new terminal, and will illustrate his talk with lantern slides. We are all interested in this great engineering project and we will have a splendid opportunity of finding out much about it in this talk. It is hoped to have a noted quartet sing a few numbers for us, and the refreshment committee will as usual provide good things to eat. Jot the date down now on your engagement calendar—January 23rd, and let nothing prevent your coming on that evening. All men are invited.

On Christmas Day we baptized Sarah Ellington McKinney, Alan Brady, and Carter Fisher. It was a beautiful service; the Choir boys were present because one of their own number was being received into the Church. The Rector gave a talk on the Sacrament of Baptism, explaining some of its meaning, and also impressing upon the godparents their solemn responsibility.

Second notice: An urgent request for warm second-hand clothing has come to us from the Helen Dunlap School and St. Stephen's Mission, Winslow, Arkansas. Please bring anything you may have—whether for infants, girls, boys, men or women—to the Parish House whenever you find it convenient. The barrels will be packed this month.

The Christmas music was so beautiful last Sunday, we are going to repeat it this afternoon. Come this afternoon, relax, let its message sink into your hearts.

James Wilson Bayard, for twenty-five years a member of this Vestry and since 1911 Accounting Warden of Grace Church, was suddenly called to his final reward on December 30, 1927. The Rector and Vestry, for themselves and on behalf of the congregation, wish to record here their sense of loss in his death and appreciation of his faithful service.

Mr. Bayard was elected to the Vestry April 22, 1903, and Accounting Warden April 24, 1911. In this office he succeeded his father, Mr. Charles McKean Bayard, who had acted as Accounting Warden continuously since February, 1865. The father and son together thus completed sixty-two years of exceptional service as the financial officers of the parish.

The length of service, however, is not the most outstanding feature of Mr. Bayard's connection with Grace Church. His interest in and fidelity to the Church was fundamental. It was an integral part of his life. In the deliberations of the Vestry and in all the activities of the parish he took a lively and intelligent interest. He served many years as a member of the choir, his legal knowledge and sound judgment were constantly availed of, and the Minutes of the Vestry for the last twenty-five years are a remarkable record of his faithfulness and efficiency.

Please take this leaflet home for careful reading and reference

Unsparing of himself, most liberal in giving of his ability, his time and his means, most faithful in his life of Christian devotion, he rendered signal service to the parish, the diocese and the church at large. To his family and to all associated with him, whose loss we share, we extend our sincere sympathy. May light perpetual shine upon him!

On motion, duly seconded, the above Minute was unanimously adopted, and it was further Resolved that the Minute be published in the Diocesan Church News and in The Living Church, and that a copy, signed by the Rector and members of the Vestry, be sent to Mr. Bayard's family.

At the meeting of the Vestry held on January 4th, Mr. Pratt Thompson was elected Accounting Warden and Mr. Albert C. Brand was elected Secretary.

The general Church, the Diocese, and especially our own parish have suffered a shocking blow in the sudden death of Mr. James Wilson Bayard. As Treasurer, as Chorister, as one particularly interested in the enrichment of our Church building, and as Communicant—he was so faithful, so regular in attendance, and so in the midst of things that none of us can yet realize that in this life we shall see his face no more. The Burial Service was worthy. Those who took active part were Bishop Garland (who had risen from a sick bed to attend), Dr. Cline, Fr. Caine and the Rector. In spite of the bitter coldness of the day, Grace Church was filled with fellow communicants, neighbors and business associates who had come to indicate their respect and to commend his soul to God's gracious keeping. His body was laid away on the hillside by St. Thomas's Church, Whitemarsh. May he enter into those unspeakable joys which God has prepared for those who unfeignedly love Him!

On the day after tomorrow—on Tuesday of this week—there will be held the Annual Meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary and Guild. This is the day on which we hear reports from the various Committees as to what they have accomplished during the year. Every woman who reads this is urged to be present, whether she is a member or not. The program is as follows: Prayers at 12 o'clock noon; Lunch at 12.30; Business Meeting at 1.30. Come!

This week we had transferred to us from Trinity Church, Chambersburg, Pa., Mrs. Gertrude May Allen, of 7119 Germantown Ave. Hers was the last transfer to us of the year. During 1927 our Parish grew rapidly in communicant-members. In spite of deaths, removals, etc., we added more than 40 net to our certified membership—an increase of 8%. The whole Church averages an annual growth of about 2%; our own growth is therefore gratifying.

This week Mrs. Charles H. Landenberger was transferred to us from the Memorial Church of the Good Shepherd, Phila., and Miss Mary A. Thornton from Old St. Andrew's, Phila. Last Sunday afternoon Lydia Condé Todd, daughter of Robert H. and Marian Todd was baptized.

Our Curate, the Rev. Mr. Irwin, leaves tomorrow for the Hawaiian Islands where he is to supervise the filming of the story of our missionary work being done there. He will be away from us for almost two months; we shall miss him and we wish him God-speed.

On Monday Evening, January 23d, the Men's Service League will have a meeting at which one of our own members, Mr. Robt. Farnham, Jr., will give a talk (illustrated with Lantern Slides) about the plans of the Pennsylvania R. R. and the city in construction of its new Terminal Facilities at West Philadelphia. The Pennsylvania R. R. quartet will give several selections during the evening, after which refreshments will be served. At the last social evening there were 96 present. Come yourself and bring as many friends as you may wish to.

Linton and Katherine Alburger, of Moreland Ave., Chestnut Hill; Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Wood and Mrs. A. W. LaRoche being Sponsors.

There will be two Retreats held in the near future for the people of this Diocese: For men, the week-end of Septuagesima (Feb. 3-6), conducted by the Rev. Thomas Conover, of Bernardsville, N. J., and for women, the week-end of Sexagesima (Feb. 10–13), conducted by Dr. Geo. L. Richardson, of Burlington, Vt. The Retreats will be held in "The Farmhouse" at Westtown, Chester Co., Pa. The total cost, including train, bus, lodging and meals, $10.00. The Rector of this Parish is one of the sponsors of this movement and he is very anxious that some of you will go. Speak to him about it today. Registrations must be made very soon.

An All-Day meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary and Guild will be held on Thursday of this week in the Green Room. Holy Communion at 9.30; sewing until 12; prayers at noon; luncheon at 12.30; a talk by Mr. Wallace Battle, with regard to the American Church Institute for Negroes at 1.30. All women are invited to be present.

GRACE CHURCH SCHOOL

Its aims are growing higher and wider, its teachers are giving more time and effort, its boys and girls are showing by their good attendance their love for it; and by their original class prayers, gifts, and service their spiritual growth and progress. The loyal parents are doing their part by making it possible for their child to be present every Sunday and on time. Over it all is the careful guidance of its rector, superintendent, faithful secretaries, treasurers and Department Heads.

Would you like to hear its enrollment? More than 200 boys, girls, young men and women; 29 teachers.

Its Service Program is conducted by the teachers, boys and girls, carefully planned, with their slogan always in mind: Pray—Work—Give. A few figures taken from its financial report will enable you to be a judge of part of its work for a year.—C. J. T.

Grace Church has again gone over the top! During the year just closed we gave $9100 to the general work of the Church and $181.45 to "specials," not counting on the quota. We are justly proud of this record. It is the best we have yet done.

Last Sunday morning the Rector preached on the theme, "Complete Self-surrender to God." Citing the First Lesson of the morning (2 Kings 19) as a sample of the Jew's idea that so long as one co-operates wholly with God all goes well, and using the Rescue Mission's insistence upon giving up one's own will and accepting Jesus as one's Master, as an illustration of the manner in which this principle still works out, he declared that much of the difficulty with Christians today is due to the fact that they are unwilling to go the whole way with the Christ. "Behold I stand at the door and knock," one of the happy sayings of the Bible, indicates, does it not, that the Lord will not force Himself into our lives. These lives are made up of various compartments and if we are to be truly Christian we must open up every one of them wholly to the Master, for He insists upon being welcomed into every room. Some admit Him to the vestibule but will not invite Him farther; they accept Him as a Guide, but reserve the right to ramble off at will. Others give up the guest-chamber to Him and hope that He will stay there and not urge to be permitted to enter into their amusement rooms, or their business offices, or to their recreational chambers. But all the while He insistently persists in asking to be taken into all of our lives. He desires to be with us everywhere. We may block His advance by sheer resistance or by not expecting the blessings that He has with Him to bestow, but all the time He goes on knocking at unopened areas in our lives. The Rector then pointed out that many other Communions have revivals and other devices intended to make for frequent heartsearchings among their members, and that we, too, have retreats, crusades, missions—but that at no time do we demand full self-surrender. Yet, there is need among us for something to get us periodically to begin afresh and take our religion in earnest; we need converting and we need it from time to time. He then pointed out that there are three weeks intervening between that day and Lent; during those three weeks he begged his people to examine themselves, prepare the way for the Lord, and at Ash Wednesday to begin afresh, opening up every compartment of Life to the presence of God. He recommended on this subject a book by the Rev. S. M. Shoemaker, entitled, "Children of the Second Birth." "To be filled with the Spirit," said he, "one must be emptied of all else."

Tonight the Young People's Fellowship is going to have a meeting with the Fellowship of Holy Trinity Church at the Philadelphia General Hospital, 34th and Pine Sts., where they are to be shown the work of that great civic institution and have a short devotional meeting. They will meet in front of our Parish House at 5.30 to go in automobiles. Next Sunday evening, Dr. Holman White is going to address them, at their usual meeting hour, 8 P. M. Several weeks ago they had a Corporate Communion at the 7.30 A. M. service at which 25 were present.

On Shrove Tuesday, February 21st, the Men's Service League is going to have a big meeting for both men and women. Keep this night open. Fuller announcements will be made later.

The Diocesan Retreat for Women will be held next week end, February 10 to 13. Dr. G. L. Richardson of Burlington, Vt., will be the conductor. To go, one must register at once. Speak to the Rector.

There will be an All-Day Missionary Meeting at St. James' Church, 22nd and Walnut Streets, on next Tuesday, February 14, beginning with the Holy Communion at 10.30. This is under the auspices of the Pennsylvania Branch of the Woman's Auxiliary. Diocesan Committee, address by Bishop Garland at 11.30; Foreign Committee, address by the President of Boone University, China; Box Luncheon at 12.30 noon; Colored Committee at 2 P. M.; Domestic Committee, address by Bishop Thomas at 2.30; Indians' Hope Association, address by Bishop Burleson at 3 P. M. Wouldn't it be splendid if at least 20 of Grace Church women would be present all day? Why not?

Mr. Joseph W. Randall was this week transferred to us from St. Matthew's Church, Francisville, Phila. He has been hard at work for us for some time.

Many of you recall the Men's Service League Supper of last spring: what a good time we had and what good food! In fact, it was such a success we are to repeat it on Shrove Tuesday, February 21. Supper, and play afterward given by the Young People's Fellowship, and dance after that. All for one dollar.

The Rev. Mr. Groton will have an informal conference with the Church School teachers on February 20, at 7.40 in the Parish House. This is the first staff meeting of the year and all are expected to be present.

Annual Report of the Women's Auxiliary and Guild for the Year 1927

The Auxiliary started the year by co-operating with the Church in the Bishop's Crusade, and attending the special services at St. Luke's, Germantown.

A Sample Tea was held in February, and many things both good to eat and good to look at were shown. Over $100 was realized through these sales. The annual Birthday Party was held as usual, and it was a most enjoyable and profitable affair.

During Lent the Mission Study Classes were held by the Educational Secretary, Mrs. Matlack, a somewhat different plan from other years being adopted. There was a two day institute on the Rural Field and a most interesting weekly Bible Class on the "Life of Our Lord."

Through the kindness of Mr. Leonard and some members of his Schuman Club, a musicale was held at Mrs. Sheble's home. It was truly a delightful treat. Another most enjoyable event was a supper held in the Parish House, followed by two short plays given and arranged by the young women.

May 19 was the date for the Rummage Sale. The sale was open morning, afternoon, and evening, which meant a great deal of work for those in charge.

The first Thursday in every month there was an all-day sewing meeting, with luncheon and an interesting missionary speaker. The House Committee did wonders producing delicious lunches at an extremely low price.

On October 25 a Devotional Day for the Convocation of Germantown was held at Grace Church. Bishop Matthews of New Jersey was the speaker.

Last but not least was the Indian Summer Fete held at the Cedarbrook Country Club. Despite a snowy day, there was a large attendance and splendid success for the bazaar, fashion show, dinner, musicale, and dance. It was a splendid climax to a busy and eventful year.

Some people do not like the idea of Lent. They resent it. It seems to them like an artificial device, a relic of the times when men thought it pleasing to God to wear irritating haircloth next to their skin because it was not deemed godly to be comfortable and natural. They feel that we have long since outgrown the need of Lent, if there ever was such a need. To such we can say, "But have you ever really, honestly tried it? It sounds as if you were arguing from theory rather than from fact. You wouldn't feel that way if you really once entered into the spirit of the season. By its fruits, rather than by its roots, it is to be judged, although its roots are sound to the tip."

For, after all, all that Lent really demands of us is to try more earnestly for six weeks to live close to the Master. Self-denial, self-appraisal, going to church more often, praying better, thinking on religious matters, and whatever else the Church asks during this coming season, are surely not ends in themselves, but merely means to an end—drawing closer to God. Most of us have said to ourselves from time to time, "Some day I'll really begin to be religious; some day I'll start in with all my might." To which the Church replies: "Do it now, when so many others are doing it; take advantage of the opportunity that is now open to you; putting it off means that you will never get at it."

And what a fine opportunity opens to us next Wednesday! From the crowded noon-day services in central-city theatres and churches, to the quiet afternoon services in Grace Church, opportunity beckons on every side. Make this Lent the best kept yet.

You will find the schedule of services for Grace Church above. It is almost the same as in former years. Instead of services on Sunday afternoons, we are to have services in the evening; on Thursday afternoons we are to have group discussions in the Parish House; every week-day except Monday we shall have Evening Prayer in church at 5 o'clock. The Church is open every day throughout the year for private prayer and meditation. Avail yourself of it. Let your keeping of Lent be quiet and unostentatious. Take for your motto, "Be still and know that I am God!" So shall your Easter be blessed.

During Lent every Thursday will be given up to all-day meetings of the Woman's Auxiliary and Guild. Holy Communion will be celebrated at 9.30; sewing and folding of surgical bandages will be the program until noon; at 12 o'clock noon there will be intercessions; at 12.30 weekly lunch will be served at a nominal cost; and after lunch, work will be resumed in the Green Room.

The group discussing the "Church and Me" will meet on Thursdays during Lent, beginning February 23d at 4.30 in the Parish House, Mrs. William Haines being leader. This is under the direction of our Educational Secretary, and from present indications there will be many attending. Make it one more by coming yourself. February 23d is this coming Thursday.

The Young People's Fellowship will meet in front of the Church tonight at 7.15 to motor to St. Thomas' Church, Whitemarsh, where we are to attend a service conducted by the young people of that parish.

On Tuesday of this week the Men's Service League is going to have that Dinner, Play and Dance that we have been telling you about. The tickets are one dollar, and include everything. The menu is tempting; the Young People are giving the play; and an orchestra will play for us. Can you think of a better way to celebrate Shrove Tuesday? You can buy your tickets from any of the men or from the Young People.

PARISH PRAYER CALENDAR

Sunday.—Pray for all Bishops, especially those of the mission field. Give thanks for your blessings. Make a list of ten and say Psalm 150.

Monday.—Pray for the sanctification of the clergy and the increase of the ministry. Pray for all theological schools and seminaries. Pray for your own clergy and parish.

Shrove Tuesday.—Prepare with self-examination for a good Lent. Make an act of sorrow for your sins, with another act of self-surrender to God. Write out a Lenten rule.

Ash Wednesday.—FAST. Make your Communion as an act of penitence for yourself and all sinners. Resolve to study your Bible more faithfully this Lent. Pray for the sick and lonely.

Thursday.—Pray on behalf of the impure. For obedience to the church law of marriage. Pray that the ravages of divorce may be removed from our national life; pray for Christian standards in home life and teaching; for young people.

Friday.—St. Matthias' Day. Make your communion for all parishes named for this Apostle. Pray for our Presiding Bishop and Council. For all Lenten sermons and services; for those who neglect the "glad feast of Lent."

Saturday.—Pray for all mothers, all little children. For the childless; for neglected children; for the slothful, the lapsed and indifferent; the sick.

The Rector last Sunday preached on Psalm 46: 10: "Be still and know that I am God!" "There is," said he, "a world of difference between 'knowing—God,' and 'knowing—about Him.' The one is first-hand knowledge, gained from experience; the other is second-hand information, taken on somebody else's say so." After illustrating this point, he went on to affirm that much that currently passes for religion is merely religious information, knowing about God. This information is helpful, but it can never be an adequate substitute for intimate fellowship with the Master. Knowing Him on whom you believe is the goal of religion. "But," asked he, "how can one attain that intimate fellowship with God? By self-denial? honest self-appraisal? prayer? sacrament? church-going? giving of money?" "There are people," said he, "who leave none of these things undone, and yet have not found God Himself. The keynote of much that is lacking is receptivity. We scurry about, doing this thing and that, and we neglect to wait upon God. There is a vital connection between being silent and hearing some one. We cannot give our attention to everything at the same time; the range of our attention is limited in its scope. Meditation is one of the lost arts of religion. Remembering; giving rein to the imagination; listening; making a resolution; waiting upon God—these open the way to the last and highest gift of religion—knowing God." He closed the sermon by pleading that during the coming Forty Days we spend much time in the silence, warning us that if we have been unaccustomed to it, it may be hard at first—even as running scales on the piano and swallowing water are part of the price that one who would play the piano or learn to swim must pay to gain other goals. But he also pointed out that such exercises would strengthen our spiritual muscles, and within a short time we would be getting faint suggestions from the beyond, until gradually our whole nature would be caught up. Like the Samaritans in St. John 4:42, we would be able to say, "Now we believe, not because of thy saying: for we have heard him ourselves, and know."

Wednesday, Friday, and Saturday of this week are Ember Days, on which your prayers are asked for those to be ordained to Holy Orders. The Church Prayers are on page 40 of the Prayer Book.

During Lent the Young People's Fellowship meets at 7 p. m. instead of at 8.

Thursdays we hold all-day meetings of the Woman's Auxiliary and Guild in the Green Room. A simple luncheon is provided.

For the benefit of mothers who couldn't come otherwise, we are providing a woman to take care of children in the Choir Room during the Thursday afternoon class in Personal Religion.

The Altar Servers are making a Corporate Communion at 7.30 today. Breakfast is being provided afterward, in order that they may be here for Church School.

The Accounting Warden knows you want to simplify his labors as much as you can, and suggests you can materially lighten the detail of his work if, after being away for a Sunday or more, instead of putting in the envelop for each Sunday you have missed, you use the envelop for the day you are there, putting the entire amount for the several Sundays in it, destroying the ones for the Sundays missed. On the average, if every one did this, he thinks it would save from 25 to 35 per cent of his time in crediting payments. He also calls attention to the fact that a few contributors regularly reverse the amounts in the two sides of the envelops. Regardless of how the money is placed in the envelops, we divide it as called for by the pledge, and if for any reason you want to change the proportions, notify the Warden so he can change the pledge.

The Accounting Warden will be glad to send pledge cards and envelops to any new subscriber if you will let him have your name and address.

The dinner and play on Tuesday last was a great success, there being 231 present. To the women of the Auxiliary, who furnished the food and did a large share of the work, to the men of the Service League, who contributed their time and energy, and to the Young People's Fellowship and their humorous play, our thanks go out. The evening was a financial and social success.

Wednesday.—Pray for all Church School children and teachers; for all social service workers; for the social service work of this Parish; for the Woman's Auxiliary and for the Men's Service League; for all new-born babies and for all mothers.

Last Sunday morning's sermon was based on II. Samuel 12:7; "Thou art the man," and the theme was, "A sense of one's sinfulness." The Rector said that it is hard for us to account for David's sinfulness, even though we make ample allowances for the era in which he lived.

We can account for David's fall from grace only when we look into our own hearts and find out how easily we, with all our superior advantages, yield to temptation. It is equally difficult for us to contemplate David's quiet conscience as he sits on the Judgment Seat listening to Nathan's thinly veiled parable. Again we can discover the secret by looking down deep into our own hearts and reflecting how easily we excuse ourselves when we have broken God's commandments. Lent is a challenge to view ourselves honestly—as in God's sight. Such a revelation may not be pleasant, but it is necessary if we would grow spiritually. God's great saints have ever been most conscious of their own sinfulness. When one is unconscious of his own derelictions, he is spiritually dead. The proper motif of Lent is, "God be merciful to me, a sinner."

A preaching mission is being conducted in the Church of St. Martin's in the Field, by the Rev. McVeigh Harrison, O.H.C. It began yesterday and ends on the 14th inst. The daily schedule includes a Young People's Mission at 4.30 P. M.; Intercessions and Questions at 7.30 P. M.; and Mission Preaching at 8 P. M. The Rector of St. Martin's has extended a cordial invitation to the members of our congregation to attend.

This week Mrs. D. B. Wilson, of 131 W. Mt. Airy Ave., was canonically transferred to us from St. Agnes' Chapel, New York City.

The Parish is in urgent need of a piano and a wardrobe. We need the piano at once. The choir having recently moved downstairs, lockers, music cabinets, piano, and all, the room that was used by them is now used almost exclusively by the Kindergarten. This is fine for the new rug, because choir boys—indeed, all boys—are rather hard on rugs. But it leaves Mrs. Hall's class without a piano, and one cannot imagine a beginners' department without a piano for singing, marching, etc. It should not be difficult to secure a used piano in good condition from one of the many families in this Parish. In these days of Radio and Orthophonic, pianos are liable to be in the way and unused. We are confident that some good member of the Parish will come forward and offer us such an instrument, but the important thing is to do it at once. We need it now! Call up the Rector and offer it, or call Mrs. Hall, C. H. 0999.

The wardrobe is asked by the Choir-Mother, Mrs. Holman White. She needs it for choir purposes. If you have one that you think might do, please get in touch with her. Her telephone number is C. H. 0707.

The Germantown Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution is asking all who are interested in "The Patriotic Force of the Motion Picture" to meet with them on Tuesday of this week at 10 A. M. in the Colonial Theatre, Germantown. Speakers: Mrs. Newton D. Chapman, National Chairman of Better Films, D. A. R.; Mrs. Charles F. Owens, State Chairman of Better Films, D. A. R.; and Mr. Frank W. Buhler, Managing Director of the Stanley Company. The historical film, "America," will be shown. There will be no admission charge.

The Young People's Fellowship is going to meet with the Young People of Trinity Church at Ambler tonight. Automobiles leave Grace Church at 7 P. M.

The Men's Service League's next event will be a grand, old-time Minstrel Show to be given on Friday Evening, April 13th.

As yet no one has offered us that used piano that we appealed for in last week's issue of this paper. We need that piano, and we need it right away. The Beginners' Department of the Church School is lost without it. When it arrives, they will use it to accompany their marching, to rehearse their Easter carols, and to help them sing their devotional songs. Meanwhile they are severely handicapped. As we informed you last week, the choir has moved into new quarters in the basement, and have taken their piano with them; the piano that they moved down was used jointly by them and by Mrs. Hall's Class. That leaves the little children without a piano. We cannot have that. We need a piano, and we need it right away. Haven't you a good one that you do not use any more since you installed your radio, or for some other reason? Please find out, and if you have, telephone the Rector or Mrs. Hall at C. H. 0999. We will take care of the moving and of the retuning. We Need It and We Need It Right Away!

The Accounting Warden says that his little article in the Parish News of two weeks ago bore good fruit. You will recall that in that article he requested that when you have been absent for a Sunday or more, when you return, instead of putting in an envelop for each Sunday that you have missed, you use the envelop for the day you are present, putting the entire amount for the several Sundays into it, and destroying the envelops for the Sundays you were absent. He also asked that you place your money in the envelops in accordance with the proportion you indicated in your pledge. He wishes to thank you for complying with his request, and he now urges you to seal the flaps of the envelops securely in order to lighten his burden still further.

One of the community enterprises in Mt. Airy is the Mt. Airy School Association. It is one of the very few places where one can meet his neighbors socially, and where community interest is developed. For that reason your Rector is serving on the Executive Board of that Association. He feels that more people of this district should interest themselves in this group, and the next opportunity to do so is to attend the meeting at the new Houston School on Allen's Lane, W., on Friday evening, March 16, at 8 o'clock. Better make up your mind now to attend. The speaker will be former Mayor Moore, and his subject will be "The Community."

Swim at the Alden Park Manor Pool, on Friday, March 16, from 9.30 to 12 P. M., under the auspices of Miss Heller's Church School Class. Admission is 75 cents and the profits will be devoted to the Lenten Offering of the class. Tickets may be obtained from Miss Heller or from any member of the class.

At the meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary and Guild on Thursday of this week, Mrs. Langdon Burk, of Ft. Yukon, Alaska, will speak to us. We had planned not to have any speakers at the Lenten all-day meetings, but Mrs. Burke is so well worth while hearing that in this case we are making an exception. The meeting starts at 9.30 with Holy Communion; sewing until noon; intercessions at noon; lunch at 12.30; Mrs. Burke speaks directly after lunch; study class at 3; and the afternoon service at 5.

Next Sunday will be Family Sunday—the day on which we annually fill our Church with our friends and neighbors, and come as families to worship God together. This service is always interesting and helpful. We are not making an appeal for attendance at the service, but merely giving notice of the event, knowing that the people of Grace Church always come on Family Sunday because they enjoy it so much. Next Sunday—11 A. M. Bring the children.

Tonight we shall have worship with us, at the 8 o'clock service, the Germantown Chapter, Order of De Molay. These young men will be here over 150 strong. Our Young People's Fellowship will do the ushering. Come to Church and worship with them.

The Rector voices the thoughts of many when he says that he is very glad to have the Rev. Mr. Irwin safe home and taking part in the services. We missed him very much, not only because he lightens our labors and ministers acceptably, but also because of his own fine personality.

The Rector asks your prayers from now until May, that the Diocese may choose wisely a Bishop-Coadjutor. A Coadjutor automatically succeeds to the Bishopric when the Diocesan dies, and the likelihood is that in May we shall be choosing the future Bishop of the Diocese of Pennsylvania. May God help us to choose well!

Vestry meeting this coming Friday, 8 P. M., in the Green Room.

A meeting of the Woman's Aid of the Convocation of Germantown will be held on Tuesday of this week at St. Luke's Church, Germantown. Holy Communion at 10.45, followed by Meditations, led by Canon Schleuter, of New York City. Intercessions at 12.30 noon; lunch at 1 P. M., and Business meeting at 2.30 P. M. If you will come to the luncheon, notify Mrs. A. M. Hoyt, Wingohocking Heights. Cost, fifty cents.

We have the piano that we have been asking for in the last two issues of the PARISH NEWS. Indeed, we had four offered to us, and finally accepted a Steinway Grand, offered by Mr. and Mrs. Walter Sibson. It is now installed in the Green Room, where it looks well and will be used often. Thank you all for your interest!

Two beautiful pictures have been hung in the Parish House: one, "Christ at Emmaus," is a thankoffering for a recovery from serious illness and is on the North wall of the Green Room; the other, "A little Child shall lead them," from Isaiah 11:6, is on the South wall of the Brown Room. They add much to the atmosphere of the two rooms.

Next Sunday evening Brother Hance, of the Order of St. Barnabas, Pittsburgh, will speak to the Young People's Fellowship at 7 P. M., and will address the evening congregation at 8 P. M. This Order is doing a remarkable work. It is a group of laymen banded together to care for incurably sick friendless people. They live by faith. When they need anything, they assemble and tell God about it in prayer. From a modest beginning in a rented store in the slum section of Pittsburgh, they have grown to possess a magnificent Hospice and Home at Gibsonia, and another near Lake Erie. When I visited them they were caring for more than a hundred friendless incurables. Brother Hance, who started the Order, will tell us of the work, and explain how caring for the sick, friendless children of God is a worthwhile lifework for young men who do not feel called to Holy Orders.

PARISH PRAYER CALENDAR

Sunday.—Make an Act of Thanksgiving today for God's love, revealed in His Passion. Pray for the clergy, especially for those in the mission field.

Last Sunday morning's sermon was based on St. Matt. 27: 4, and on St. Matt. 27 : 24: "See ye to it." The preacher reminded the congregation of the tendency prevalent everywhere, at all times, to shift the burden of responsibility for one's wrongdoings upon some one else. Beginning back in Eden, with Adam blaming Eve and Eve blaming the serpent; finding an outlet in Leviticus 16 in the institution of the idea of a scapegoat; continuing with the whole elaborate system of animal sacrifice; emerging in the priests' reply to Judas, "See thou to it," and in Pilate's compromise with the mob, "See thou to that," we have the ever-present tendency throughout all history for men to slide from under the burden of responsibility for something that they feel is wrong and shifting the blame upon some one else. Many evils in the world are thus possible because men are willing to use, exploit, calculate, and profit by wickedness which they would shrink from doing themselves. It is assumed that we can make use of other people's faults and wickednesses without taking any responsibility for them—"What is that to us? see thou to it." The priests would not have accepted bribes; Judas would not have killed Jesus; Pilate would not have crucified the man before him—but between them and their self-excusings they crucified the Lord!

The remedy against such corporate wickedness with imaginary limited liability is to see to it that one's conscience is constantly corrected by a standard from without—the mind of Christ. "I know nothing by myself; yet am I not hereby justified: but he that judgeth me is the Lord." If we subject ourselves constantly to such guidance we shall not call bitter sweet, nor darkness light. Nor will we carry on the fatal tendency to shift the burden of one's wrongdoing to some one else. Instead of saying, "See thou to it," we shall firmly affirm, "I can not have anything to do with the matter; it is wrong."

Now we are to have Noonday Preaching Services in Germantown! Beginning tomorrow and continuing every day until Good Friday, from 12.25 to 12.50 noondays, the Rev. Dr. Yerkes will preach in St. Luke's Church, Germantown.

Tonight is the night Brother Hance is to speak to us concerning the Order of St. Barnabas. We give here an extract from an informal report he made last year:

Please take this leaflet home for careful reading and reference

OUR WINTER'S WORK

I have spoken once or twice of the winter's work, but this has been certainly one strenuous winter. We started off badly. Brother Robert, one of our Brothers, took typhoid fever at North East and for seventeen weeks one of our nurses had to be there, which tied things up terribly here and gave the head nurse a tremendous extra care and heavy work. This naturally, until after Christmas, had us in a bad way. Then we have had not less than ninety-six to ninety-eight patients right along, more in bed helpless than ever before, more in roller-chairs. I do not know whether our friends take in what a roller-chair patient means. In most cases a man in a roller-chair has to be dressed and undressed every day, he has to be assisted in many ways, sometimes fed every meal he eats. They have to be bathed in a tub, washed, dried, and taken out again; this you can see makes a very great deal of lifting and handling, sometimes it takes two men to get a man in and out of his chair for bathing. This doesn't count shaving which is endless. Then surgical dressings—we have had this year one case that took two hours to two hours and a half each day to dress, and it now takes two to do his dressings. It never takes less than $5.00 and as high as $7.00 a day for surgical dressings for this one patient, so you can imagine the dreadful condition this poor man is in. But what a godsend it is to this young man—he is only twenty-eight years old—that he should have found this place, where such efforts and continuous laborings are given to him to keep him clean. We would ask you to say a prayer for his patience in his long suffering and that God may take him home very presently, because he says he feels he is ready to go. All of this came because of sin, it didn't come from going to church, it didn't come from knowing Christ and being risen with Him. It came because he was dead in trespass and sin, but is now risen to newness of life, and though wounded beyond the healing of his mortal body, he can go home to God and be given presently a new body, a body not made with hands, eternal in the heavens. It is a blessed thing to know that we cannot interfere with this little word Eternal; we can think of it as we wish, but we cannot change it, it belongs to God, it is God's gift and God's power. When he gets this new body, he will never be able to put it into the condition that he has put his mortal body. Will you be ready when He calls you? This is something for us to think over this Easter Season. So, we all have heavy responsibilities.

All these have no money, no property, they do not even own the bed they lie in, so it is a blessed thing that you and I try to make it for them in their sickness. While we bind their wounds, God does the healing, yea, he cures all their diseases, spiritually and physically. If we didn't know these things, we could not live here I am sure, and I hope you are happy to know we have been able to use what you have given to us, to such good advantage throughout the winter months.

In many churches of our communion it is necessary to have a drive for to bring a lot of money on the Easter alms-basins to pay off parish debts accumulated during the year. Where this unfortunate need obtains, the authorities rightly capitalize the happy gratitude of Easter time, turning it into dollars and cents with which to pay their just bills. Fortunately for us, the people of Grace Church give generously and consistently throughout the whole year, so that there is no particular need to make a drive for a large Easter offering for ourselves. Our policy is to ask our people to give liberally on Easter Day for some specially designated object, such as St. Luke's Hospital, Tokio, or the Episcopal Hospital, Philadelphia. Unfortunately for us, this appeal in the past has not brought out nearly so much money as it should have brought. Our Easter offering has been comparatively small, although I am sure that we rejoice in the good news of Easter as much as do the people of our sister churches. This year we are again going to give our Easter offering to others—we will send it to the Episcopal Hospital, to be used together with our Thanksgiving Day offering for the splendid work that our Church is doing down there. This appeal should touch every one. Give an outlet to that Easter joy by making a generous offering on Easter Day, and the day will mean infinitely more to you than it would otherwise. Be thankful by being thinkful!

At the March meeting of the vestry of Grace Church, Mr. William F. Wagner, Sr., was elected to fill the unexpired term of Mr. J. W. Bayard.

Please take this leaflet home for careful reading and reference

There will be no session of the Church School on the morning of Easter Day; instead there will be the annual Church School Festival at four o'clock in the afternoon. Come out, worship with us; hear how generously our young people have given this year in their Easter offering for others.

Tonight the choir will sing Gounod's "Redemption."

All who desire to share in furnishing the Altar with flowers for Easter Day may do so by sending in their money by Wednesday of this week.

There will be no meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary and Guild this week.

Suppose that one of the worshippers of Grace Church were to ask you, "What is the proper manner in which to spend Holy Week?" what would you tell him? You ought to have an answer at your tongue's end, for you should long since have made up your mind how you were going to spend it. This would be the Rector's answer to such a question: "Holy Week is the most solemn week of the whole year. It should, therefore, be spent carefully and wisely. Plan to give up all worldly amusements this week; spend more time in thinking on holy things; attend church services more frequently; read some good book that bears on the events leading up to the Cross. Be particularly careful as to your observance of Good Friday. (The Mayor of Philadelphia has called on all Christians residing in the city to abstain from any unnecessary business on Good Friday, from the hours of twelve to three.) Attend the Three Hour Service on that day, either in your own church, where your Rector will lead the meditations, or at some other church, if more convenient for you. On Good Friday evening come out to the service in preparation for the Easter Communion. Let the word "quiet" be the keynote of this week—quiet speech, quiet action, quiet waiting on God. So doing, so living, you will come fittingly to a joyful Easter.

The Woman's Auxiliary and Guild will hold a Rummage Sale at the Trower Building, Germantown Avenue, on Thursday, May 17. All contributions of clothing, hats, shoes, toys, china, and household articles will be greatly appreciated. Please send such articles to the Parish House, or phone Mrs. Dixon, C. H. 2342, to send for them.

On Friday April 13th, at 8.15 P. M. there will be a Minstrel Show given by the Men's Service League in the Parish House. The cast will be composed entirely of members of Grace Church Parish, who have been training for weeks. There will be an orchestra present and the entertainment will be followed by a dance.

The viewpoint of this paper is ordinarily kept toward the future; rarely indeed do we report events that are passed. Easter is an exception. And this Easter demands being commented upon. It is hard not to speak of it in superlatives. The day was a fitting setting for the joy that was and is ours. There were more people in the church Easter Day than on any other Easter; there were more people in church at one service than there ever have been before since statistics have been kept (526 at the 11 o'clock service alone); there were more Communions made during the day than on any previous Easter (three hundred and eighty-five), which, after all, is the true index of the success of the day; the Church School came in good numbers, sang well, and presented over $390 for Missions; the Easter offering for the Episcopal Hospital will amount to more than $500. The Choir did their part and we are as pleased as can be over it all. One looks to the future with joyous anticipation!

The closing session of all Mission Study Classes of the Diocese will be held tomorrow evening (April 16th) at 8 o'clock, in Holy Trinity Parish House, 20th and Walnut Sts. At this interesting meeting the offerings of all the Diocesan Mission Study Classes will be presented. Our own offering so far exceeds sixty dollars, and, as this year for the first time it counts on our Parish Apportionment, we are happy over the amount. Tomorrow night's meeting will be well worth while. Try to attend.

On Easter Even, a time hallowed by long association with baptisms, we baptized Robert Benjamin Meehan, born July 21, 1926; parents, Thomas and Marian Meehan; godparents, Lillian McCarty, J. F. Meehan, and John H. Schwehm; and William Chandler Colmery, Jr., born October 5, 1927; parents, William Chandler and Elizabeth H. Colmery; godparents, Mr. and Mrs. George Burton and G. W. Raynor.

The Stated Meeting of the Vestry scheduled for last Wednesday was adjourned to next Friday, April 20th, 8 o'clock.

On Easter Even we dedicated and asked God's Blessing on a beautiful Burse, Chalice Veil, Eucharistic Stole and Preaching Stole purchased for the Parish by Mrs. Henry S. Lowber. The color is white, inasmuch as the set is intended for Festal Occasions, the lining being a beautiful, contrasting blue. The embroidery is adequate and worthy, but not too ornate, as is often the fault with such silks. We used the full set on Easter Day for the first time and their beauty helped much. Ask any member of the Altar Guild or the Rector to show them to you. They are worth seeing.

Lest you forget, let us remind you once again that in your spring house-cleaning you are asked to put aside your worthwhile rummage for the Rummage Sale to be held in the Trower Bldg., Germantown, on Thursday, May 17th. 'Phone Mrs. Dixon, C. H. 2342 if your rummage is too heavy to carry to the Parish House.

The Young People's Fellowship will have for its speaker tonight a member of the International Students' Association. The meeting is at 8 o'clock; come, get acquainted! enjoy your Sunday evenings with us.

The Judge of the Easter election reports that at the election held on Easter Monday Messrs. Brand, Fell, Greaves, and Wagner were elected for three years as Vestrymen of Grace Church.

PARISH PRAYER CALENDAR

Sunday.—Pray for the conversion of sinners and unbelievers. For the strengthening of the faith in those who are troubled by doubts. For love of Jesus in all hearts, regardless of intellectual problems.

Monday.—Pray for boldness in teaching the whole, undiluted faith. For the clergy, all teachers, all who find opposition or indifference at home. For the young, especially those at college.

Tuesday.—Pray for an increase of the ministry: that more of our young men may give themselves to the work. For China, Japan, Mexico.

Wednesday.—Give thanks for some one material blessing and for some one spiritual blessing. Think often of your Easter Communion and "feed on Him in your heart by faith, with thanksgiving."

Thursday.—Pray for those lately baptized and those soon to be baptized. For belief in the Incarnation and in the Real Presence of Our Lord in His Church and in the Blessed Sacrament of the Altar. Pray for those whose faith in these things is not sure and clear.

Friday.—Pray for love of the Cross; for a realization that the Cross is the mark of a Christian. Pray against physical and spiritual sloth. Against pride, envy, and covetousness.

Saturday.—Pray for more sense of the Presence of God. Practise it faithfully until it is an abiding thing, "closer than breathing and nearer than hands and feet." Persevere—it is not easy. This is a mark of the Cross—to do what is hard.

I suppose that in these days of drives for large sums of money it is not at all to be wondered at that the women of Grace Church persist in misunderstanding the United Thank Offering. For they do misunderstand it, in spite of the years of faithful work done in this Parish in trying to make them understand. As I visit your homes I discover that many of you look on the U. T. O. as nothing more than one more drive for missions. To believe that is to get the whole idea back of the movement as badly twisted as it could possibly be. Perhaps you think that you are not among those who misunderstand. If so, try this experiment on yourself: when the notice comes that the time for the semi-annual ingathering has arrived, do you sit down and write out a check to get the matter cleared from your mind? Do you suddenly make up your mind that this time you can afford to give just so much? If so, you have failed in the test; you are one of the women that I am after in this editorial, for you misconceive the whole aim and purpose back of the U. T. O.

Let us get the idea clear. The real idea back of the movement is very simple. It is contained in the word, Thankoffering. Every woman in the movement is given a little blue box. Into that box she is supposed to drop a sum of money every time that something happens that makes her feel thankful. The amount she puts in is a penny, a nickel, or a dime. Sometimes, of course, when some great blessing comes to her, she will put in a larger sum of money. The usual way is for her to deposit a small bit of money every time that she finds something which makes her happy. So, penny by penny, nickel by nickel, dime by dime, the box grows heavier. Twice a year it is emptied of its contents and is sent to the treasurer. The treasurer puts the accumulated thank-offerings of the women of the Parish in bank to draw interest. Every three years the total amount is drawn from the bank and is presented at the altar of one of our churches for God's blessing. This occurs at General Convention, and will take place next October. The amount is then allocated for taking care of women missionary workers at home and abroad. Thus, millions of dollars are raised by the women of the church to care for women workers in the mission fields, whether they be evangelists, doctors, nurses, or Bible workers.

But what I want you to get here is the fact that the emphasis is not on where the money goes, but on how it comes. We do not emphasize the amount raised. What we do care for is the fact that it is raised little by little—from your thankofferings! It is the method of raising it that counts. Therefore, please don't look on it as a drive for money. Please don't look on it as something distasteful, to be gone through twice a year and then forgotten. Please don't use your box once a year, but daily. Please don't expect your treasurer to call on you personally every time that the ingathering time rolls around—she is one, you are many. When you receive notice that the time is due for sending it in, send it in, without waiting for a reminder. Thus you will be blessed; the movement will be blessed; and the whole world will be blessed. And you will at last have understood the spirit that animates the United Thank Offering.

The flowers on the altar today were given by Mrs. Harold L. Watts' Bible Class.

There has recently been placed in the care of your Rector a beautiful Private Communion Set, consisting of chalice, paten, cruets, and leather carrying-case. This set was the property of the late Reverend Horace F. Fuller, formerly rector of Trinity Church, Oxford, Pa. It is larger than most sets, and will be used where whole families receive the Holy Communion in their home. The donor is Mrs. Horace F. Fuller, of our congregation.

The Altar Guild has asked me "to express their thanks to the members of the Parish who, by their contributions toward the Easter decorations, made it possible to beautify the altar for the Easter Feast."

Although the Rummage Sale is still almost a full month ahead, it is not too soon to send in your donations. Mrs. H. F. Dixon, C. H. No. 2342, is in charge. Your gifts will accomplish three worthwhile results, i. e., rid your home of things that you no longer need; sell to the deserving poor worthwhile things which will make their money go further, and add money to the treasury of the Woman's Auxiliary and Guild. The date of the sale is May 17; the place is the Trower Building, Germantown.

The Young People's Fellowship tonight will visit the Fellowship at St. Asaph's Church, Bala. We always learn much and enjoy ourselves when we go visiting other Fellowships, and we look forward to tonight's meeting with anticipation of pleasure. Automobiles will leave from in front of the Parish House at 6.15 o'clock.

DO NOT FORGET! NEXT SUNDAY WE GO ON DAYLIGHT SAVING TIME! This means that the Early Service, Church School, and all Sunday services will start one hour earlier than usual.

This coming week will be one of the most important periods in the history of this Diocese. Annual Convention will be held in Holy Trinity Church on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday. The coming Convention bristles with important problems. Among the most important is the election of four clergymen and four laymen to represent this Diocese at General Convention in October. When you realize that General Convention, among other things, is revising the Book of Common Prayer, you can readily understand that it is most important that we elect worthy men to act for this Diocese. Then, too, the whole subject of the Church's program will be definitely settled at General Convention. For the last few years the forward work of the Church has been sadly handicapped by the diminished income provided by the various dioceses. This year our own Diocese has promised $50,000—less than it gave last year. This diminished income for Missions brings forward the whole problem as to what shall be the Church's program in the future. Something drastic will have to be done: either the Church must awake to her opportunity and means must be found for financing the extension work of the Church, or else we must abandon much already undertaken.

Again, Diocesan Convention will take action with regard to Bishop Garland's request for a coadjutor. There are three kinds of bishops: Diocesan—one who is in charge of a diocese; coadjutor, one who is in charge of certain assigned work until his Diocesan retires or dies, and then by right becomes head of the diocese (in other words, he is heir to the Diocesan's office); and suffragan, one who is an assistant bishop and has no right of succession. Bishop Garland has asked for a coadjutor. Undoubtedly the Convention will agree to give him one, but the difficulty will arise when we proceed to elect. To be elected, a candidate must receive a majority of the clergymen's votes and a majority of the parish votes. This requires a unanimity of opinion that at the present time does not seem to exist. Many candidates have been mentioned but none of them seems to have drawn to himself an impressive enough following to make one feel that he can be elected. It is freely predicted that Convention will be unable to elect because no man will receive the requisite number of votes. If such a condition arises, the election will be deferred or the Bishop may withdraw his request.

At any rate, every communicant of the Diocese should be on his knees frequently this week praying God to guide our deliberations. I know that I can count on you, my people, to do so. If you desire to attend Convention, you will be welcome. The balcony at Holy Trinity Church is open for you to sit in and observe. Forget not your prayers.

At the meeting of the Vestry held on April 20th, Mr. Horace Fortescue was appointed Rector's Warden; Mr. Pratt Thompson was elected Accounting Warden; Mr. Albert C. Brand was elected Secretary, and Mr. John Greaves was elected Registrar. The following named gentlemen were elected to represent Grace Church at the Diocesan Convention, and therefore will have one vote to cast for Coadjutor Bishop of the Diocese: Messrs. Fell, Fortescue, and Landenberger. The following Committees were appointed: Finance: Messrs. Fortescue, Thompson, Greaves, Brand, Ball. Memorials: Messrs. Fortescue, Thompson, Ball. Buildings and Grounds: Messrs. Fell, Ball, Allsop. Choir: Messrs. Meehan, Landenberger, Brand. Church School: Messrs. White, Sibson, Wagner.

An Exhibition of the sewing and knitting of the women of the Diocese will be held at the SUPPLY DEPARTMENT, 202 S. 19th St., Phila., on Wednesday, May 2, from ten until five o'clock. Tea and coffee will be served all day.

The Celebration of Holy Communion on Tuesday and Thursday will be at 7.30 A. M. instead of 9.30, in order to make it possible for the Rector to be present at Diocesan Convention.

This week we had transferred to Grace Church from the Cathedral Church of St. Luke, Portland, Maine, Mrs. Mabel Florence Mains, of 404 E. Mt. Airy Ave.

The sermon last Sunday morning was based on St. John 21:7, with emphasis on the word "therefore." The preacher pointed out that to him it had come as a surprise that St. John, the mystic, rather than one of the other disciples, was the first one to recognize Jesus in the physical marvel of the miraculous draught of fishes. One would have guessed that St. Peter would have been the first to connect the wonderful draught with the presence of the Master. But the record is there, and it says, "therefore" (when St. John beheld the physical wonder). He saw in it the hand of Jesus. And the preacher pointed this out as a truth that most of us do not discern—the truth that "the man who is most sensitive to inner revelations from God is also most sensitive to outer." In other words, great Mystics are usually great Sacramentarians. He put this statement to the test of history, of modern science, and of every-day experience and in each case it proved true. "A materialist," then, is one who sees in matter only matter, while a mystic is one who sees through matter to its spiritual implications. The mystic is not only able to discern God everywhere, but also to find Him somewhere. He finds in the theme of the Incarnation ("the word was made flesh") the theme of life, that Almighty God reveals Himself to us not only in spiritual intimations, but also through the world of physical matter. All life is one great sacrament, and the more spiritual one becomes, the more he sees in men and nature, not physical phenomena only, but spiritual revelation also. Because this truth is so universally true one can now readily understand why St. John, when he was amazed at the physical phenomenon of a great catch of fish, immediately traced it to its origin and said to Peter, "it is the Lord."

Last Sunday we baptized Robert Rodney Rhoad, Jr., born in Philadelphia on January 15, 1928, his parents being Robert Rodney Rhoad and Alice M. Rhoad, and his godparents being Mr. Moncref O. Jefferson and Mrs. Florence A. Jefferson.

The Thanksgiving Service for the presentation of the Lenten Missionary Offering of the Diocese will be held on next Sunday, May 13, 1928, at 3.30 P. M., in St. Simeon's Church, Ninth Street and Lehigh Avenue, Philadelphia. The speakers will be the Rt. Rev. T. J. Garland and the Rev. Franklin J. Clark, Secretary of the National Council. We would like to have a large delegation from Grace Church School go to this inspiring service. Remember! Next Sunday at 3.30 P. M.

One of the nuisances of spring house-cleaning is the problem as to what to do with the things that are in good condition, but which one no longer cares to use. To sell them to the old clothes man offends our sense of justice; somehow things that one has worn acquire a value far above the price set upon them by the itinerant buyer of cast-off clothing. We resent the fact that we are offered such ridiculously little money for what we know to have considerable value. The coming RUMMAGE SALE of the Woman's Auxiliary will help you solve your problem. If you bring your rummage to the Parish House or have one of Mrs. Dixon's aids (telephone C. H. 2342) call for it—it is true that you will receive no money for your discarded garments, but it is also true that you will have the satisfaction of knowing that needy persons have purchased them and thereby have been enabled to make their little income stretch further; and also that the Parish Auxiliary is that much better off financially for the gift that you have made. Oh, yes, the sale will be held in the Trower Building, Germantown Avenue near Chelten, on May 17th, next week—Thursday! Better do something about it Now!

The Woman's Auxiliary and Guild will hold its last meeting of the season on Tuesday of this week. It will be an all-day meeting, combining business with pleasure. It is earnestly desired that all members will come for the entire time. The program is as follows:

Spring Stated Meeting.....11.00 A. M.
Luncheon..... 1.00 P. M.
Birthday Party..... 2.00 P. M.

The entertainment at the party will consist of a short play, vocal and instrumental numbers, and readings, ending with refreshments. Come one and all, and bring the little silk bags which were mailed to you. If impossible to be present, please send the bag to Mrs. Wm. H. George, Treasurer, New and Prospect Avenues, Chestnut Hill.

The sermon last Sunday morning centered about the idea of intolerance, the preacher reminding us that while intolerance has become an idea in bad repute, it is the duty of Christians to be intolerant of many present day conditions opposing the cause of Christ. Although in many passages the New Testament admonishes us to stand fast in the faith, there is a constant temptation to follow the easy way—to pride ourselves on broadmindedness and to avoid assuming and holding a definite position that will show the world where a Christian stands, and for what he stands.

The preacher asserted that it is a Christian's business to be concerned actively about attacks on the faith; new and plausible religions; irreligious and anti-religious literature; things that would undermine the Kingdom of God. He argued that the issues presented to us today are not always easy to understand. Yet there is a right and a wrong, and if good Christian people will examine the problems presented to them, by the standard of Christ's Gospel, they will come to definite conclusions, definitely stand for the right and against the wrong at all costs, and will do much to hasten Christ's Kingdom and overthrow the constant and insidious attacks against it.

Once again your attention is called to the Rummage Sale to be held in the Trower Building, Germantown Avenue near Chelten, on Thursday of this week, beginning at 10.30 o'clock. Mrs. Dixon's aids will help you deliver your rummage to the Parish House if you call up C. H. 2342. If you are good at selling, offer your services to Mrs. Dixon, for she needs you. Thursday, this week, 10.30 A. M.

Tonight the Young People's Fellowship is going to entertain the Fellowships from Holy Trinity and Holy Trinity Memorial Parishes, Philadelphia. The meeting will begin with the usual hymn singing, followed by Devotional Service, and later a discussion on the subject: "Is one religion just as good as another?" There will be refreshments served at the end of the meeting, and we hope that our young people, whether they have attended before or not, will come out in numbers to welcome our guests.

On Tuesday of this week there will be held the regular meeting of the Woman's Aid to the Convocation of Germantown, at St. Barnabas Church, West Rittenhouse Street. There will be a celebration of the Holy Communion at 11 A. M. with sermon by Dr. S. P. Keeling, of St. Peter's Church. Luncheon at 12.30, followed by business meeting at 2 P. M. All members of this congregation are invited to attend. Luncheon costs 50 cents.

Keep May 22d open! On that night the Mt. Airy Home and School Association will be our guests in the Parish House, and the MacDowell Musical Club, which our Choir Master is directing, will be the feature of the evening. More about this in next week's PARISH NEWS!

The flowers on the altar today were given by Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Pease, in memory of their children.

The flowers on the altar today were given by Mrs. R. N. Hall's class of our Church School.

Next Sunday will be Whitsunday, one of the three great Feasts of the Christian Year. It is asked that every Communicant attend Holy Communion either at 7.30 or at 11 o'clock.

Some time ago your Rector made a plea in these columns for the people of the Parish to interest themselves in the Mt. Airy School Association not only because of its merits but especially because it is almost the only organization in this section of Philadelphia that fosters community spirit. There was a slight response to that plea. Now there comes a call to respond more enthusiastically, for another and more cogent reason. On May 22d, that is on Tuesday Evening of this week, the Mt. Airy School Association are to be our guests in our Parish House. Not only that, but The MacDowell Junior Musical Club, of which our own Mr. Nowell Robinson is Director, assisted by the Choir of our Church, will present the operetta "Hansel and Gretel." So it is your privilege and duty as a congregation to show your appreciation of your choir and choirmaster by coming. You will be the hosts of the evening; you will be fostering much needed community spirit and incidentally you will have a good time. Oh, yes, the hour is set at 8 o'clock.

Annually the young people of this Parish give an outstanding play and dance at this time of year. Usually they hire the Woman's Club and spend most of what they take in on putting on the show in style. This year, because the Men's Service League have been so good to them and have built a stage and furnished it with lights (in spite of the handicap of using a stage much smaller than the one they have been hiring and giving the play in an auditorium that will not attract so many of the younger people whom they are accustomed to entertain in the more centrally located Woman's Club), they are giving their play in our own Parish House. Their unselfishness and fine spirit in doing this cannot be commended too highly.

The business of distributing tickets is one that is distasteful to almost everyone. So often people purchase tickets just to get rid of the sales person. Or they take them not because they want them but because they haven't the courage to say "no."

Our young people are now confronted with the problem of how to get the tickets into your hands. Everyone who has attended any of their "big" plays has marvelled at the talent that our young people exhibit, and at the good plays that they produce. One is amply repaid for the small cost of the tickets by the good time that is had in return.

So the young people of the Parish are asking you to speak to them, instead of waiting for them to approach you, with regard to tickets. The play will be given next Friday, May 25th, at 8.15 P. M. There will be a good orchestra and a dance after the play. Subscriptions are 75 cents.

Won't you back them up in their enthusiasm not only by buying several tickets and urging your friends to do so, but also by coming? There could be no better work than standing by the young people of the Parish. We are anxious for them to have so many good times together and under the auspices of the Parish that when they grow older they will look on their Church as one that stands for good clean enjoyment. They are a fine lot and deserve your support, and the best part of it is that if you come only out of a sense of duty, you will be rewarded by having a good time. Norton Walton, 118 E. Durham Street, is in charge of the tickets. The play is a comedy, "What Happened to Jones." This coming Friday at 8.15 P. M.

The Rector received a letter from Bishop Garland under date of May 11, reading as follows: "Dear Mr. Eder: Diocesan Day last year was such a success, due to the enthusiastic co-operation of the whole Diocese, that I am sure the second Diocesan Day set for June 8th will be even more noteworthy. It is recognized as an opportunity for the whole Diocese to assemble on the site of the proposed Cathedral and to mingle informally with one another and to meet the Bishop on Bishop's Day. Many Church Schools will hold their picnic on the spacious grounds. I hope that you will be able to arrange such a picnic for your school on that date. Folk-Dances will be given by some of the children dressed in National Costume, from our own Polish, Roumanian, and Italian Missions. I commend Diocesan Day on June 8th, and ask you to rally your parochial forces that they may be well represented on this occasion.

"Very faithfully yours,

"Thomas J. Garland, Bishop of Pennsylvania.

"P. S.—There will be a short Service with address by the Bishop at 3 P. M."

Wednesday, Friday, and Saturday of this week are the Ember days of the spring season. Ember days are days on which the faithful are expected to pray for God's blessing on the men soon to be admitted to holy orders. Special prayers are found on page 40 of the Prayer Book. In our own Diocese, the Trinity ordinations will be held on June 4th, the Monday following Trinity Sunday, in the Church of the Advocate, Eighteenth and Diamond Streets, at 10.30 A. M. The ordinations have been arranged for a week-day, because Bishop Garland feels that more people will be able to attend on a week-day than would be able to attend on a Sunday. All members of this congregation are invited to be present.

It has been a wet and long-drawn-out spring, but it now seems as if summer were upon us. Many people are planning vacations; some have already gone. Soon congregations will dwindle and our members will be scattered to the four corners of the earth for the summer months. We hope that none will take a vacation from attending church somewhere. Canon 48 of the Church reads: "All persons within this Church shall celebrate and keep the Lord's Day, commonly called Sunday, by regular participation in the public worship of the Church, by hearing the Word of God read and taught, and by other acts of devotion and works of charity, using all godly and sober conversation."

And in this connection both the Treasurer of the Parish and the Treasurer of the "Woman's Auxiliary and Guild" have asked me to remind you that it would help them much if you would pay up your pledges for the summer season before you go away. Church expenses take no vacation. Some people fill their envelopes before they go away without being reminded; others neglect this matter, hoping to catch up when they return. Salaries, repairs, upkeep, forwarding of missionary funds—these go on regularly in season and out of season. When many of the congregation get behind in their pledges, the treasury is depleted and the Treasurer has to go to the bank and borrow. Our financial officers carry a very heavy burden; would it not be a kindly Christian act to help them by paying before you go away?

The flowers on the altar today were given by the Church School classes of the Primary Department, of which Mrs. A. F. Horton is head.

The Rummage Sale which was held several weeks ago has so far netted more than $189.

On the Sunday after Ascension Day we baptized William Leonard Davis, the witnesses being Mrs. Mabelle L. Davis and Miss E. F. Matlack. During the week preceding the Rector officiated at the burial of Mr. Bangs of our own Parish, and assisted at the services held for Lieutenant R. Buse, of Ridley Park, who was killed in the performance of his duty in the Naval Aviation Service.

Whitsun-Tuesday.—Pray for a constant sense of the presence of God, the Holy Ghost. Say the Veni Creator often. Learn it. Pray for all newly baptized, that they may use the gift of the Holy Ghost given them.

Wednesday.—Pray for your Parish; your Rector; for his family. Pray for your Curate and his family. For all priests.

The Young People's Fellowship will hold its last meeting of the current season next Sunday evening. It is hoped to have the President of the Diocesan Fellowship speak. The Fellowship will make a Corporate Communion next Sunday morning at 7.30. Breakfast will follow in the Parish House.

The flowers on the altar today were given by Mrs. Hesser C. Clapham, in loving memory of her mother, Mrs. Ruth Hartman.

At the meeting of the Executive Committee of the Men's Service League on May 25th, Mr. William F. Wagner was elected President, Mr. A. L. Worrall, Vice-President, Mr. J. H. Fell, Secretary, and Mr. A. C. Brand, Treasurer.

Mrs. James C. Whedon is selling tickets for us for the Garden Party and Country Fair to he held at "Wyck" on June 12th. This year Grace Church is helping provide the supper, which will be served from 5 to 7.30 P. M. The affair is given by the Convocation of Germantown annually for the benefit of one of its missions; this year the proceeds go to St. Gabriel's.

Next Saturday is the day on which the Bishop requests all communicants to meet at the Cathedral Site at Ridge and Manatawna Avenues, Roxborough. Polish, Rumanian, and Italian children in costume will provide folk dances at 2 P. M. Open-air religious service will begin at 3 P. M., the Bishop presiding. The site is at the 8900 block on Ridge Avenue. Signs will be posted showing the way. Free parking space for 1,000 cars.

The Social Service Department is in need of funds. They have almost depleted their treasury. It is customary for the department to send out appeals in May, October, and February to a number of interested people who have aided in the past. Surely there are others in the Parish who would like to give who have not been asked! The money is used for work among the unfortunate of the neighborhood and of the Parish. Send your contribution to Mrs. F. J. Sheble, 311 Roumfort Road.

Last Sunday, in Grace Church, was baptized Nancy Bell Fogel, her parents being William P. and Aida C. Fogel; godparents, Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Bacon and Miss Mildred Fogel, the Rev. P. Sidney Irwin officiating.

We expect again this year to send the choir boys to Camp Wilson for a week. The Men's Service League is now soliciting by mail the $350 necessary to send 30 boys. If you have been overlooked and desire to share in this worthy cause, send your check, large or small, to Mr. William F. Walton, 118 Durham Street.

We would like to have the whole congregation come out next Sunday to Church School Commencement at 3 P. M. If the weather permits, it will be held on the lawn in the rear of the Church. Show your interest by your presence.

Parish Prayer Calendar

Tuesday.—Pray for Christian homes. That faith may be taught very young at the mother's knee. For family prayers and grace at meals. For Christian observance of Sunday. For this Parish.

Wednesday.—Pray for all priests. For your own clergy—health, peace, joy, steadfastness, the Holy Spirit in abundance. Pray for yourself—purification of hearts from material things that you may adore God.

Thursday.—Pray for love of Christ in the Blessed Sacrament of the Altar. For a deeper realization of His Presence there and for more frequent and better prepared communions. For a thirst for the coming of Jesus to us in His Body and Blood. For more fasting communions.

Friday.—Pray for a deeper love to Jesus in the newly baptized and confirmed. For steadfastness. For a blessing on all homes and marriages, especially those newly married or to be married. For the abolition of divorce. For the children of divorced parents.

Saturday.—Praise God for His many blessings. Count them. Pray for all missionaries. For the sick, the aged, the troubled. Prepare for your Communion. Examine your conscience.

Confirmation—this Thursday—8 P. M. I wonder how many of you realize that the Bishop comes to Grace Church every year not only to confirm, but also to make an official visitation to his Clergy and his people! He does; his visit has that twofold purpose. Such being the case, his people in turn have a twofold obligation to attend the Service: i. e., to receive the newly confirmed and to receive their bishop. We are counting on you to be in Church on Thursday evening of this week at 8 P. M. Remember!

All women of our congregation have had tickets mailed them to a Card Party at the Woman's Club, Germantown, on Tuesday, November 27, at 2 30 P. M. If by any chance you have been missed, accept our apology; it was indeed an oversight. We need your earnest support. You heard Bishop Nichols, of Kyoto, Japan, last Sunday tell of the great work done by Miss Riddell at the Leper Hospital, Kumamoto, Japan. Miss Riddell spoke to the Woman's Auxiliary one day last spring, and her message was so appealing that the coming card party is the result. Miss Riddell is 74 years old and fears that when she passes her work may stop. It is our plan to endow the Hospital with $500 to insure it daily bread for one day every year, in perpetuity. And if we can double that sum we will do the same for another Leper Hospital under the care of Miss Cornwall-Leigh. Let your support of this project be your thankoffering that you are not a leper, for among the patients at Miss Riddell's Hospital there is indeed an American boy from the state of Vermont, whose story is most appealing. Do come, and please sell as many tickets as you possibly can.

The Woman's Auxiliary and Guild is meeting as usual every Thursday morning to sew for the Supply Bureau. We miss many of our old workers, and as yet have had no new ones to welcome. Please come and support the work. We have made an excellent record in the years past—let us not fall down this year. Instead, let us make an especial effort to encourage our new chairman of this work, Mrs. Robert Farnham, by a splendid attendance.

Tomorrow, at 8 P. M., the Men's Service League will hold its first social evening of the year. Interesting motion-pictures, good fellowship, satisfying refreshments, will be the order of the night. Bring your friend with you and see that he's introduced to others. Above all, COME YOURSELF!

It is not too early to think of the Thanksgiving Day Offering for our Episcopal Hospital. Remember, it has never received one penny of state or Welfare Federation aid. It depends on endowments and on our Thanksgiving Day offering for maintaining its work. We must not fail it. Let Grace Church do its part. Grace Church's part is made up of your gift and mine. Let us give an outlet to our Thanksgiving Day gladness by helping our hospital help Christ's needy children.

The leaflets distributed throughout the pews today speak for themselves. Florida and Porto Rico need our help. Loose offerings and designated offerings in today's collection at 11 o'clock will be sent for this worthy cause.

At the time that we are preparing this article for press it is impossible to foretell the financial results of the Every Member Canvass now being made. We shall speak of that in next week's Parish News. But it is not too early to predict success, nor is it too early to testify to your Rector's appreciation of the fine way in which the Parish went to work on the project. Perhaps you do not realize it, but it is a fact that even a Rector occasionally becomes discouraged. It was so recently in this Parish. There was no real cause for the depression—it may have been physical weariness; it may have been nothing more than the effect of his own enthusiasm and impatience to see things moving forward by leaps and bounds. One needs constantly to be reminded that spiritual crops do not grow with precipitate speed. At any rate, such was the condition. Then came Advent—the beginning of a new Church Year. The Rector sent out a pastoral letter requesting a large attendance at the Altar on Advent Sunday. And how the parish responded! One hundred and fifteen at 7.30 A. M., and more than two hundred and thirty-three at 11 A. M. The world again began to be rosy. Then, having sent out a call for canvassers, he waited with interest to discover what would be the result. Again he was amazed and heartened by a whole-hearted response, not only from the "old reliables," but also from newly adopted sons and daughters of the church family. With very few exceptions those who were chosen to make the canvass accepted without demur. And so, night by night, by ones and by twos, they are making the rounds of our Parish, giving up other engagements and the relazations of home, to do this trying work. Truly our hearts go out with them. Do you wonder that we are proud of the people of this congregation? With such cooperation a Rector can give himself unsparingly. Thank God for it all!

We have at hand an announcement of an evening of which the theme is "Christmas in Many Lands," at the Houston School, on Friday, December 14th. The entertainment is given under the auspices of the "Mt. Airy Home and School Association," and Mrs. Todd Eberle will tell in her delightful way the story of Christmas in many foreign lands, while pupils of the school will illustrate the story by song and tableau. If you have children attending the school, or even if you are but a public-spirited citizen of this community, I bid you attend. You will be amply repaid. Friday evening, December 14, Houston School.

Speaking of Christmas, reminds us that this year we are going to have our main celebration at midnight, Christmas Eve. Beginning at 11.30 we shall have a celebration of the Holy Communion, with short address and music. It is a most appropriate way to begin the keeping of Jesus' birthday, and will lend tone and color to our whole holiday season. There will be a second service on Christmas Day at 9.30 for those who cannot attend the midnight service. This will be a plain celebration of the Holy Communion. If any have needs that this program does not meet, please get in touch with the Rector.

Again, speaking of Christmas, if anyone desires to make an acceptable Christmas present to the Church, we would suggest an electric clock to fasten into the wall in the cloister, where it might help us to keep all of our watches correct and consequently start services exactly on time. Such a clock may be purchased for twenty-five dollars.

There may have been some one who was not called upon in the Canvass. If so, forgive us; tell us, and we will see that you are visited.

Your Clergy wish you all a Holy Christmas

About the Christmas services: Tomorrow at 3.30 we will hold the regular afternoon-before-Christmas Carol Service for the children of the Parish and others who care to come. This service is one of the best attended of the year, and this year again the Church School children are going to bring their filled stockings and lay them before the Manger. They will later be sent to our Polish mission in Philadelphia.

At 11.30 the Midnight Service—our main Christmas Service this year—will begin. It will consist of Holy Communion and address. Thirty minutes before this service begins there will be a beautiful musical service by way of preparation. Because we have the Rev. Mr. Irwin to help administer the Holy Communion, the service will probably be over in time for you to be home by one o'clock.

Please take this leaflet home for careful reading and reference

On the morning of Christmas Day there will be two celebrations of the Holy Communion for those who are unable to come out at midnight. One will take place at 7.30 and the other at 9.30. Both will be plain celebrations. During the week numerous holy days will give added opportunities for keeping the Christmas season. In addition, if any one in the Parish is unable to come to services in Church, the Rector will be glad to take the Holy Communion to them, if they will write or telephone their desire.

It is hoped that this new arrangement of services will make this Christmas notable in our Parish. During the past our people have not come out in numbers on Christmas Day; we have been worried about it, and have arranged this new schedule to remedy the neglect. Because the midnight service was so successful several years ago and because it is so beautiful and helpful, we are restoring it this year.

The offering on Christmas Day will be used toward paying the Pension Fund premiums of your Rector. This is a fixed charge against the Parish (as it is throughout the Church), and if the offering is generous it will help much, for otherwise the full amount would be deducted from current income.

Again, may your Christmas be holy!

It is fine to have our college boys and girls home with us during the holiday season. We miss them much while they are away. Doubtless many of them will be at the Play and Dance our Young People's Fellowship is going to give on Wednesday evening of this week at the Woman's Club, Germantown Avenue and Washington Lane—a good place to renew acquaintances. We hope you will be there. The price for all—music, play, and dance—is only one dollar. See any of the Fellowship for tickets.

We have the promise of that Electric Clock we asked for in last week's paper and will tell you more about it in a later issue of this paper.

There has been a good response to our request for singers for a young-lady choir. If you have not enrolled with Mr. Robinson, tend to it right away. Rehearsals begin soon!

Five beautiful memorial windows have recently been installed on the Epistle side of the nave; four more will soon be set in on the gospel side. When all are completed, we will dedicate them and tell you about them in the PARISH NEWS.

Mr. John A. Eiseman, of 53 W. Gowen Avenue, has been made Warden of the Altar-Servers' Guild. A large group of boys are being instructed by Norton Walton and are coming along well. Mr. Eiseman is also to prepare Lay Readers for us.

The delegates from Grace Church who cast votes for Bishop-Coadjutor as your representatives last Tuesday were Messrs. Fell, Fortescue, and Landenberger.

CALENDAR FOR JANUARY

January 1.—Tuesday: Circumcision
January 6.—Sunday: Epiphany
January 13.—First Sunday after Epiphany
January 20.—Second Sunday after Epiphany
January 25.—Friday: Conversion of St. Paul
January 27.—Septuagesima

From now on, the first issue every month of the Parish News will be a "Woman's Auxiliary and Guild" number, edited by the women, and carrying news of their organization to every family in the Parish. This is the first issue under the new arrangement; we hope that you will read it carefully and file it away for reference.

Nine new memorial windows have been placed in the nave of the church and will be dedicated next Sunday morning at the 11 o'clock service.

To the women of Grace Church Parish: Now that the New Year is upon us, let us resolve to give ourselves more freely to the work of our woman's organization of the Church. You may not realize just how much depends on our women. Come to our Annual Meeting on January 8, and you will hear the reports of our work done last year. Consulting a report of a previous year, I can tell you in round numbers that we spent over $1,000 for Parish purposes and over $3,000 for Missions, and being officially the Woman's Auxiliary and Guild of Grace Church, those are the two branches of our work.

How do we get the money to make this possible? By regular contributions placed in our monthly envelopes, by suppers, bazaars, rummage sales, our annual birthday party and by interest on a few memorial funds. Most of these means require a great deal of work, and it is earnest workers that we need. It would be such a help if those of you who are not already active in one particular branch of our work, would volunteer your services. But do come, one and all, to our Thursday morning meetings, where you can sew or fold surgical dressings and mingle, and learn of all that there is to do.

The first Thursday of each month we have luncheon together, and then we listen to some inspiring missionary address. Three times a year we have our business meetings—the second Tuesday in January, May, and October. Come and be one of us—we need you—every one!

JANE W. BRAND, President.

The Annual Meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary and Guild of Grace Church will be held Tuesday, January 8. Luncheon will be served at 12.30, and followed by the business meeting at 1.30. Election of officers. If possible, phone Mrs. Dauphinee—C. H. 3953—your reservations for luncheon. Come and bring a friend!

Envelopes for regular monthly contributions to the work of the Woman's Auxiliary and Guild are being mailed this week. If you have been missed through some oversight and wish the envelopes, please get in touch with Miss Edith A. Fell, Assistant Treasurer, 126 East Sedgwick Street, and she will send them to you. With an approximate budget of $4,000, you see how necessary it is to have regular contributions.

At the November Missionary meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary and Guild, Mrs. Wyllie, wife of the Archdeacon in charge of the Church in the Dominican Republic, told us of the Church's work on the island in the past ten years.

This Republic, five times as large as Porto Rico, is a land of vast possibilities for the Church, as the population has the background of the Anglican Church, and yet, Mr. and Mrs. Wyllie, one priest and two lay readers are all the staff Bishop Carson has to advance the spread of the Gospel.

The capital, Santo Domingo City, has no church—the nearest is St. Luke's, ten miles away in the San Feidro Plantation, which, by the way, was made possible by the gift shop which Mrs. Wyllie conducts at the capital.

Last July an Englishman came to Santo Domingo to attend the funeral of a distinguished person, and was horrified to find the service had to be held in a Chapel which was really a warehouse—so small that most of the congregation was obliged to stand in the street.

The Bishop and Archdeacon left with the funeral cortège, but Mr. —— found Mrs. Wyllie, and telling her of his reaction to the condition of the Church, made an offer of a piece of ground which he owned, provided that a $25,000 church be built upon it before July, 1929. Mrs. Wyllie thought just a minute, then said: "Mr. ——, I accept the offer in the name of the Bishop. Will you shake hands to seal the offer?" You can imagine the chagrin of both Bishop Carson and Archdeacon Wyllie when confronted by this upon their return, but nothing daunted, Mrs. Wyllie said it could be done, and she would go to General Convention to plead the cause.

A new obstacle! Where would the necessary money for traveling expenses come from? Again tiny little Mrs. Wyllie rose to the occasion and turned caterer for social functions during the intervening months, and earned the money for the purpose.

When she pleaded the cause at a meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary in Washington at General Convention, do you wonder that it was voted that the first $25,000 of the Corporate Gift should be given to build the Church in Santo Domingo City, and do you wonder that, at the close of Mrs. Wyllie's talk to the women of Grace Church, they voted to save their pennies during Epiphany for the same purpose?

Those who heard Mrs. Wyllie speak will never forget her story and have probably been saving their pennies ever since, and now this is being passed on to those who were not fortunate enough to be present, that they may join in helping to build a beautiful church in the capital city of the Dominican Republic, which will be a witness to our faith.

The offering of pennies will be made at the end of the Epiphany, notice of which will be given in the PARISH NEWS.

Some one says—"'Corporate Gift'—What is it?" Come to the Woman's Auxiliary luncheon on Tuesday, January 8, at 12.30, and you will have the opportunity of having your question answered.

Tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock the Men's Service League will hold a Social Evening in the Parish House. Mr. Clarence W. [So many have inquired concerning the results of our Every Member Canvass that the Rector asked for a detailed report from the Accounting Warden. Here it is. —C. E. E.]

A report from a Church Treasurer is usually mournful and pessimistic, but this time it is different. Your Accounting Warden congratulates the Parish on the financial results of 1928 and also on the financial outlook for 1929.

Please take this leaflet home for careful reading and reference

At the beginning of 1928 we faced a deficit amounting to about $800. We had a loan from 1927 outstanding to the extent of $500. At the beginning of 1929 we have no deficits and no obligations left over from last year. During 1928 we spent your money as follows:

Ourselves		Outside
Automobile Purchase and Upkeep	$1,229.99	Church School Missions	$944.99
Church School	963.11	Christmas Fund (1927)	132.75
Gas and Electricity	290.40	Diocesan Mission	10.00
Repaid Loan of 1927	500.00	Episcopal Hospital	979.83
Repairs and Improvements	1,331.75	Missions to Deaf	92.29
Parish News	486.00	Polish Work	5.00
Coal	362.64	Jerusalem Mission	54.35
Taxes and Water Rent	451.45	Bishops' Fund	42.71
Furnace for Rectory	793.65	Nation-wide Campaign	6,653.17
Parish Benevolences	568.09	Diocesan Assessments	525.67
Insurance	624.15	Porto Rico and Florida Rehabilitation	212.20
Rector, Choir, Sexton	11,034.77		$9,652.96
Sundries	1,091.56
	$19,727.56

During the year we had extraordinary expenses in the way of purchase of new automobile for the Rector and also putting in a new rectory furnace. These were bought through the generous gifts of our people.

Now we know you are interested in the outcome of our campaign for 1929 funds. While the entire amount we hoped for has not been realized, with the pledges in hand and what we expect to receive from the Church School, special collections, and cash collections, plus the amount we expect the Woman's Auxiliary will contribute to Missions, our income will be about $28,600 against an estimated income of this time last year of about $26,000. We have 369 subscribers, which is a very large increase over any preceding years. Owing to death, removal, and dropping out of some of our subscribers of 1928, we faced at the beginning of this year a loss of about $2,500 in subscriptions. Many of our regular subscribers made material increases in their subscriptions and we have about 75 new subscribers. Falling short of the amount we hoped to raise will necessitate economies in all directions, but with the care being exercised by your Building and Grounds Committee and your Finance Committee whenever money has to be expended, we look forward with confidence to the future.

The Parish cannot be too grateful to the Church School for its generous help in the way of contributions toward missionary purposes and Parish support, and without their help and that of the Woman's Auxiliary it would not have been possible for us to have made such a satisfactory report for the year 1928, and we know we can count on both of these organizations for continued support.

Your Accounting Warden has heard some criticism of the method used in our recent campaign. Unfortunately, very few of these criticisms have been directed to him but have reached him second-hand. He realizes fully the drawbacks to the method followed, but the situation required heroic treatment and he feels results have justified the methods.

At the Houston School, tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock, Mr. T. M. Dillaway, Art Director of the Philadelphia Public Schools, will speak on training the child in an appreciation of art. You are invited to be present.

The flowers on the altar today are in memory of Mrs. John E. Greaves.

We have appointed Miss Margaretta W. Bayard to be President of our Altar Guild in place of Mrs. H. S. Lowber, recently deceased.

Last week we received as communicants in good standing, from Calvary Church, Germantown, Mr. and Mrs. Frank R. Rohrman, of 601 East Gorgas Lane, and Mr. and Mrs. John A. Eiseman, of 53 West Gowen Avenue, and from St. Andrew's Church, West Philadelphia, Mr. Clifford A. Watson, of 609 East Phil-Ellena St.

In regard to Hurricane Relief: A total of $99,000 had been received up to December 11 for the relief of the congregations suffering from the Porto Rico and Florida hurricane. The sum asked was $200,000; and doubtless will be approximated when all the returns are in. Grace Church, you will remember, gave $212.20.

Mrs. A. C. Brand, newly re-elected President of our Woman's Auxiliary and Guild, pens the following note for this issue of our weekly paper: "Are you saving your pennies to help build a church in Santo Domingo City? A few pennies now and then are never missed, but the pennies of many people will soon amount to many dollars and eventually build a great Church in which many people will worship our God, the source of all our blessings." [Note: The women of the Parish are making a collection of their pennies during Epiphany and the pre-Lenten season, to be presented at our Altar and to be forwarded for the first designated item of the Corporate Gift, which is a Church under Archdeacon Wyllie in the Dominican Republic.—C. E. E.]

Mrs. William H. George was re-elected Treasurer of the Woman's Auxiliary and Guild at the meeting of January 8th.

The flowers on the altar today were given by Mrs. H. H. Burrell, "In Memoriam."

On December 16 we baptized Robert Graham Shaw, born December 6, 1928, son of Harold and Elizabeth Shaw, sponsors being Ada Meehan Carter, Anna I. Haffner, and Charles T. Shaw, Jr.

On January 6, 1929, we baptized Susan Darlington Jones, daughter of Willard C. and Helen B. Jones, the sponsors being Helen Darlington Whyte, Gertrude Darlington, and William Cooper Burk.

We record here the Burial Office being said by your Rector as follows: On December 24, for George F. Joly; on December 29, for Sara W. F. Sheard; on December 31, for Elizabeth R. Meehan; on January 8, for Horace F. Rodd, and on January 11, for Hannah Dryden.

The new windows dedicated last Sunday morning were given by Mrs. Francis I. Gowen in memory of various deceased members of her family whose names have been recorded on the windows. The subjects were chosen some years ago by the Vestry of Grace Church, and are as follows: "St. Cecilia"; "Jesus who went about doing good"; "My house is the House of Prayer"; "Jesus before Pilate"; and "The first Miracle at Cana." The designs and glass were executed by the D'Ascenzo Studios of Philadelphia.

Did you notice that today is Septuagesima Sunday and does that bring to your mind the fact that from today it is approximately seventy days until Easter Day? That means that Lent is just ahead; it will be here in three weeks, Ash Wednesday coming this year on February 13th.

What are you going to do about it? Are you going to let it come and slip by unnoticed, or are you going to grasp and use it as a means of drawing near to God? Remember—a well-planned Lent goes far toward making a well-spent Lent. Easter Day will mean much or little to you in proportion to what you put into the holy season that precedes it, and much that you put into the holy season will depend on whether you plan for it or not. In the Church there will be innumerable opportunities for observing the season. We shall have daily services; Sunday evening services; mid-week conferences for men in the Parish House; a Woman's Mission Study Class; all-day meetings of the Woman's Auxiliary and Guild, with attractive speakers from the mission field; the regular mid-week Communion Service on Thursday mornings, and other opportunities. We are also providing and recommending certain suitable books for Lenten reading, and, in addition, we have plans which are not yet ready for publication.

But, after all, the basis of a good Lent is personal drawing near to God—by receptivity; putting yourself into such an attitude that He can draw near to you and make Himself known to you. Unless you make ready the way, even He cannot touch you.

I would like the Parish this year to concentrate on one good Lenten resolution. I would like all to resolve to come out every Sunday morning during Lent to the half-past seven Communion service. I promise you that the results will be worth while. In the stillness of the early morning you will find a reality which many sorely long for and need. It is true that such weekly participation requires a life lived on a high spiritual level, but what is to prevent your living such a life? Why not make this Lent the beginning of a new allegiance to God? There are still three weeks in which to think it over, but it would be better to resolve now to come. Why not begin to come next Sunday? Will you?

The Young People's Fellowship will meet early tonight in order to motor to St. Peter's Church for a joint meeting with their Fellowship. Automobiles will leave from in front of the Church at 6.30 promptly. Won't you come with us? You will be welcome.

The next meeting of the Men's Service League will be held on February 11th. It will be "Ladies' Night." There will be a showing of the motion picture, "Our Church in the Hawaiian Islands," the official pictures taken by our Curate last spring for the National Council of our Church and exhibited for the first time at General Convention in October. Those who have seen these pictures pronounce them excellent. Mr. Irwin himself will explain them to us. We expect to have a happy, well-worthwhile evening. Please check off February 11th now on your calendar; reserve it for the Men's Service League.

A group of our people are going on a cruise of the Mediterranean this summer, making the ship their headquarters, and stopping off at interesting places along the route, including the land of our Saviour's earthly life. Would you like to go along with us? The cruise will start on July 2d, end on August 28th, and will cost far less than one would expect. A few more are needed to round out the party. Because of the religious educational value of this cruise, because of the good fellowship, and because he hopes to go along, the Rector is inserting this article in the PARISH NEWS. If you are interested, speak to him about it.

The Woman's Auxiliary and Guild will hold its annual Spring Rummage Sale toward the end of April. Please bear this in mind and save for us all salable articles of clothing, books, bric-a-brac, China, pictures, etc.

At the Diocesan Convention that met on Tuesday and elected Dean Scarlett to the Bishop Coadjutorship of the Diocese on the first ballot, Mr. C. H. Landenberger cast our Parish vote.

Report of Work Room.—The Diocese Supply Department advises the Parish allotment of Grace Church is 125 garments: For men, 25 suits pajamas; for boys, 50 shirts; for girls, 25 dresses, 25 rompers.

Up to date we have finished 15 garments (in some cases buttons and button-holes still to be made). We have held nine meetings, one of which was given to Red Cross work. We have 16 more meetings with 110 garments to finish by May 1. The average attendance has been eight—some days only three—at the machines. The attendance and work on the surgical dressing side has been much more encouraging.—GERTRUDE H. FARNHAM.

Knitting for the Supply Bureau.—By eight knitters, six sweaters, ten pairs of socks, sixteen scarfs, one pair knee warmers. Expended in wool, $31.80. Valuation, $88.00.—MARY OSBORNE PEASE.

The Social Service Committee thanks all whose generous gifts and thoughtful cooperation have made its work possible. Besides establishing a friendly relation with all who need assistance, the Committee gives very substantial help to some families. In one case this year the City Mission was called upon for advice.

At Thanksgiving eight baskets were sent out, some to the aged and sick, at Christmas six baskets and other gifts. The work of this Committee being confidential, a more definite report is impossible.—MARGUERITE E. SHEBLE.

The Church Periodical Club reports for the year 1928 that there are 22 donors sending 44 magazines regularly, either weekly or monthly; 100 books have been sent to several clergy and missions, 50 Christmas and Easter cards sent to missions and "shut-ins," one box for Christmas sent to a kindergarten in the city containing 50 toys, 1,357 odd magazines and papers sent to Seaman's Institute, Episcopal Hospital, Philadelphia, General Hospital, Children's Hospital, St. Martha's House, St Agnes' House, St. John's Mission House. The Club has 12 regular money members.

Receipts		Expenses
Balance on hand January, 1928.....	$6.50	Postage and Freight.....	$12.62
Received.....	21.40	Dues to Diocesan treasurer..	5.00
		Balance January, 1929.....	10.28

It is hoped that many of the new members of the Parish will become interested in the Club and send their magazines to addresses provided by the Librarian, or contribute regularly toward the continuous expense of postage and freight.—M. W. BAYARD, Librarian.

The Leper Committee reports the sending of three boxes of woolen articles valued at $107.35 to miss Cornwall-Leigh, of St. Barnabas Mission to Lepers at Kusatsu, Japan. It also reports $570.39 in bank, the greater part of which was raised by a Card Party in November for the purpose of investing $500 to assure Miss Riddell the "daily bread" for December 13 of each year in perpetuity, for her hospital in Kumamoto, Japan. —CARRIE L. STEELMAN.

It is our custom just previous to Lent each year to have a Rededication Service and Corporate Communion for the women of our Auxiliary and Guild. This service will be heid Thursday, February 7, at 9.30 A.M. It is earnestly hoped that our women will make every effort to come to this service to give themselves again to the work of our Church and to receive the blessings which must come from such a Corporate Communion.

The women of this Parish are saving their pennies during Epiphany and Pre-Lent to help to raise the first $25,000 of the Corporate Gift which is to be used to build a Church in Santo Domingo City. The presentation of this offering of pennies will be made at the 9.30 service of Holy Communion on Thursday, February 7, the service at which we will also rededicate ourselves to God's work in our own Parish.

Thursday, February 7, is our regular Missionary day, with luncheon served at 12.30, and the Missionary talk following. The speaker will be Mrs. Henry Dillard.

Program for Thursday, February 7, 9.30 A.M.: Rededication Service, Corporate Communion, Presentation of "Pennies." 10.00 to 12.30: Machine and hand sewing, Folding of surgical dressings. 12.30 P.M.: Luncheon. 1.00 P.M.: Missionary talk by Mrs. Henry Dillard.

Please read carefully the report of the Chairman of our Supply Bureau work, and then resolve to do your part to make the next report a more cheerful one. We realize that the recent epidemic of influenza and grip has incapacitated many of our regular workers temporarily, but we hope they and many others will come forth to complete this work, which is not nearly as far advanced as at this date in previous years.—J. W. B.

The Property Committee of the Vestry has asked the Woman's Auxiliary and Guild to repair the pew cushions. Inasmuch as our regular Supply Bureau work is so far back it will be necessary to call for volunteers to do this mending on a day of the week other than our regular Thursday meetings. Will all who can spare the time volunteer for Tuesdays from 10 to noon? Phone Mrs. A. C. Brand, C. H. 1228, that you will come.

Mrs. William Haines will lead a Mission Study Class in our Parish House on Thursday afternoons in Lent at 3 P.M. Those who attended Mrs. Haines's classes last year will need no invitation. To those who did not we say, "Come and join us for you will gain much by personal contact with one so rich in spirituality." Thursday afternoons in Lent, from 3 to 5.

Our annual Spring Rummage Sale will be held some time late in April. Please begin to save for us all salable articles of clothing, books, bric-a-brac, china, pictures, etc.

During Lent (beginning with Thursday, February 14), we will work every Thursday until the Mission Study Class convenes at 3 P.M. Luncheon will be served. Come!

The Rev. John R. Crosby, of St. Elizabeth's Mission, Philadelphia, is very anxious to have a small library for the children and young people. He asks for good children's books, novels, and detective stories. Please send the books as soon as possible to the Parish House, care of Librarian of C. P. C.

The Treasurer's report shows exactly what has been done and what is needed to carry on the work of the Auxiliary and Guild for Missions and Parish. But it does not show the number of women who really support the work through their regular giving in the Auxiliary envelopes. There are at least 200 Auxiliary women in Grace Church, and yet only 75 give regularly to the financial support of the organization, consequently the deficit must be made up with bazaars, suppers, etc. Won't you think this over and take this matter seriously? If our budget should be divided evenly among the women, it would mean for each the giving of 23 cents a week. This seems but a small sacrifice when it stands for such a big thing. Then—why not GIVE? Bazaars and suppers mean hard work plus giving, and they take something away from the meaning of just GIVING!—M. M. G.

At the annual meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary and Guild of the Diocese of Pennsylvania, on January 24, Mrs. William H. George was installed as Second Vice-President. Mrs. George is also the Treasurer of the Diocesan Committee.

The following appreciations were sent to the respective families and recorded on the Minutes of the Woman's Auxiliary and Guild:

Charlotte Bleecker Lowber, a vigorous and forceful personality, and withal a nature true and tender, loving and loyal, unselfish and unceasing in kind deeds, beloved by all, from the tiny children of the church school to the successive rectors of the Parish, Mrs. Lowber has been an inspiration in the life of Grace Church. Actively identified with the Woman's Auxiliary and Guild and other Parish organizations, she gave most generously of service and substance. Counting everything as "a labor of love," she truly followed in the footsteps of her Master, spending a long life in "doing good."

While we, still on our journey, grieve for her, we love to think of her as "with Christ, which is far better," and we breathe a prayer which she gave to a friend: "Go forth, Christian Soul, in the name of God, and of all the Angels and Archangels! May thy habitation be in peace and thine abode in Holy Sion."

The Executive Committee, on behalf of the Woman's Auxiliary and Guild of Grace Church, Mt. Airy, hereby expresses its deep appreciation of the life, friendship, and work of Elizabeth Rhoads Meehan, and desires to put on record its sense of deep loss in her death.

Always sympathetic with every movement to extend the work of the Church, she was a devoted member of this Parish. Her quiet manner, her interest in the poor, her readiness to give a helping hand at all times to those in need of it, endeared her to all who knew her and will live on in the memories of all who were privileged to work with her.

And as we picture her coming face to face with her Lord, we seem to hear Him say again: "Inasmuch as you have done it to one of the least of these my brethren, you have done it unto me."

Did you ever preach a sermon? If not, here is your chance. Take the "Table of Fasts" on page xxiv of the Book of Common Prayer, where it speaks of the forty days of Lent as "days on which the Church requires such a measure of abstinence as is more especially suited to extraordinary acts and exercises of devotion," and analyze it, i. e., pick out such thoughts as requires, such measures of abstinence, extraordinary acts, exercises of devotion. You will find such questions as—(1) What right has the Church to require? (2) Relativity in individual lives as to spiritual exercises; (3) unusual Christian deeds—why unusual; and (4) spiritual exercising—its analogy to physical and mental exercising. On every one of these questions you ought to have definite, thought-out opinions. And then you ought to apply them! Remember: "No impression with an expression" (James). Put your sermon to work.

As usual, splendid opportunities for listening and worshipping open up on every hand. From the crowded noon-day services in central-city theater and churches,

Please take this leaflet home for careful reading and reference to the quiet afternoon services in Grace Church, opportunities open up on every side. Use these opportunities!

You will find the schedule of services week by week in this news sheet. Every weekday except Monday we shall have Evening Prayer at 5 o'clock. On Thursday afternoons there will be a study of Africa, in the Brown Room, at 3 o'clock. Let your Keeping of Lent be quiet and unostentatious. So shall you and the Parish be blessed.

On Sundays during Lent the afternoon services are omitted; instead, there is an evening service at 8 P. M., at which a sermon is preached. On the First Sunday in Lent, February 17, some young men of the Young People's Fellowship will read the service and our Mr. John Eiseman will preach the sermon.

The Young People's Fellowship will meet at 7 P. M. on the Sundays in Lent instead of at 8 P. M.

Women of Grace Church! You are earnestly asked to give up the next six Thursdays for missionary work. Every Thursday, beginning this coming Thursday and continuing until Easter, you are asked to make the following schedule your own: 9.30, Holy Communion; 10 A. M. to 12 o'clock noon, either sewing or folding surgical bandages; 12 o'clock noon, intercessions; 12.30, lunch at nominal cost; after lunch, listen to a human interest story from one of the mission fields; and at 3 P. M. attend a Mission Study Class led by Mrs. William Haines. You will find such a program well worth while.

Everybody in the Parish has received a notice of the Hawaiian Motion Pictures to be shown tomorrow (Monday) evening in the Parish House. There remains one thing to be done—Come!

Mrs. Hall's lesson to the "Beginners' Class" last Sunday morning was on the subject of Jesus Blessing Little Children. She led her class into church, and when they and the classes of the Intermediate Department were gathered around the font, the Rector baptized five-year-old Albert Daniel Barton, Jr., whose godparents are James Elliott, Irene Barton Elliott and C. Rodman Barton. The children were very quiet and attentive and seemed to understand the import and solemnity of the occasion.

On January 27 we received into our Parish family Mr. William F. Hahn, who was transferred to us from the Church of the Incarnation, Philadelphia, on January 23.

We have had a very enthusiastic response to our notice of several weeks ago announcing that a group of our parishioners are making up a party to take their vacations together this summer along the countries bordering the Mediterranean, including the Holy Land. We put that notice into the PARISH NEWS because we wanted more to go along. Many inquiries have come to us concerning the trip, and it now appears that we will have a jolly crowd. Already Mr. and Mrs. Robert MacDonald with their two children; Mr. John Greaves; Mr. and Mrs. Albert C. Brand and their three children, have signed up for the cruise. The Rector and his family are expecting to go, and we know of eight or ten others who have not quite definitely decided, but who will come to a decision soon. The boat only carries 325, and bookings will have to be made in the near future. Wouldn't it be enjoyable to take a party of forty congenial souls, not all of them necessarily of our Parish, but all of them the type of people who enjoy things? Spain, Algeria, Italy, Greece, Palestine, Egypt, Monaco, France, England—and comfortable quarters for two months! Mr. MacDonald or the Rector will be glad to talk to you about details.

Last Sunday's sermon was preached from St. Paul's admonition to Timothy: "Endure hardness" (II. Timothy 2:3). An outline is as follows: St. Paul had a right to advocate hardening because he practised what he preached. Read II. Cor. 11:19, for his own report, or Deisman's, "St. Paul the Traveler" for another's account of St. Paul's hardening. All the early Apostles gave like advice to their disciples—and practised their own preaching. Even so, our Lord, in to-day's Gospel (St. Luke 18:31) endured hardening and tells us severally to deny ourselves, and take up our cross daily. Of course, we should obey because He commanded it, but one of the fine incentives for obeying Jesus' commands is that even we from our limited viewpoints can see their value. It is so with prayer, self-sacrifice, and all His precepts. It is so here.

For discipline is necessary if any one is to become a living influence. The great architect has to yield to the laws of proportion, gravitation, and resistance or else his unbraced arches, top-heavy towers, and crooked walls will tumble down about his head. So in art, so in nature. Accept the laws of God and you become a child of freedom, majestic and independent as a king; despise those laws, and nature will scourge you with whips of scorpions and plague you with disease. Wherever you turn, whether to religion or philosophy or history, whether to nature without or to conscience within, whether to the health of soul or body, this lesson is written in letters of fire over all the universe: "Obey law or die." Discipline: selfdiscipline; actively enduring hardness—is the rule of life.

But does God desire hardening for its own sake? Perhaps not. When one recalls the joyful adventurous life of the early Christians and of the early Franciscans, one comes to believe that the hardest way is not always per se the Christian way. On the other hand, there is little danger in this day and generation of making our religion one whit harder than it should be. This is not an age that endures hardness. Yet Jesus distinctly laid it down as a sine qua non that if any one would come after Him, he must deny himself and take up his cross day by day.

Therefore, as we enter Lent, we must deny ourselves if we are to be loyal. The thing to give up is whatever stands between us individually and God. Is it worldliness (being enmeshed in the things of this life)? Is it an inordinate desire for personal popularity? Is it fame? Or just laziness? Whatever it is—that God requires you to remedy right away. Your cross will not be thrust upon you: you must go forth and accept it as your joyful discipline. So shall your Lent be blessed.

The Young People's Fellowship will take charge of tonight's service, which will be held at 8 P. M. instead of at 4 P. M. The young men will read the service and Mr. John Eiseman will preach the sermon.

The Woman's Auxiliary and Guild are having all-day meetings every Thursday during Lent. Holy Communion, 9.30 A. M.; sewing and folding bandages until noon; lunch at 12.30; mission study at 3 P. M.

More than $65 has come in so far from the Epiphany saving of pennies by the women of our Auxiliary and Guild. The men also had a bit to do with it, for one man remarked to me that every time he bought a newspaper it cost him five cents: two for the paper and three for his wife's collection of pennies. This money will be sent to Mrs. Wylie in the Dominican Republic, to help in building a church. It is in reality a tribute to her courage and faith in the face of great odds.

If you get a chance, drop in this week at one of the noon-day services at the Garrick Theatre. Canon Shatford, of Montreal, will be the speaker; he is considered by your Rector as the most helpful preacher he has ever listened to. The services begin at 12.30 and close at 12.55. There are services at St. Stephen's Church, Tenth Street above Chestnut, at the same hour. Dr. Melish, of Brooklyn, will preach there and he is also good.

Don't neglect the daily services at 5 P. M. in Grace Church.

This week we added to our congregation Mrs. Aulenbach and her daughter, Miss Ida, of 22 East Hortter Street. They were transferred to us from St. Nathanael's Philadelphia.

The Young People's Fellowship will meet tonight at 6.15 in front of the Church to go to Christ Church, Germantown, for a meeting with their Fellowship.

May we remind you that Evening Prayer is said at 8 P. M. on Sundays during Lent instead of at 4 P. M., and that at the evening service a short devotional address is made? Because the church service is at 8 o'clock, the Young People's Fellowship meets at 7 o'clock. Last Sunday evening the service under the auspices of the Fellowship was so reverently and devoutly rendered that we may repeat it during this Lenten season.

In December in the columns of this paper we asked for the gift of an electric clock. On reading that notice, Mr. Hall, Secretary of the Church School, got together some of the officers and teachers of the school and together they contributed enough money to purchase the clock as a Christmas present to the Church. Last week it was hung in the Robing Room and is working splendidly. We are now running all services on accurate time, and you can always count on it from now on that on the exact second that services are scheduled to be held they will be held. We have always tried to do so, but now we know that our clock is correct. To those who contributed toward the cost of the clock, and especially to Mr. Hall, who took the initiative in securing it, we are very grateful.

The Rector has on hand a number of well-worth-while religious books which he would be glad to lend to any one who cares to undertake some helpful Lenten reading. Speak to him if you are interested.

The noon-day speaker at the Garrick Theatre this week is Bishop Strider, of West Virginia. The speaker at St. Stephen's Church is the Reverend Wilbur Caswell, of Christ Church, Yonkers, N. Y. The special preacher at the 8 P. M. service on Thursday evening at St. Luke and the Epiphany (330 S. 13th St.) will be the Reverend Robert Johnston, of Washington, D. C.

The Reverend Mr. Irwin is absent today on Church business in the West. He will return for services next Sunday.

Do You Know

That Grace Church sends a bus every Sunday morning to collect children for Church School, making 38 stops?

That many splendid teachers take time through the week to prepare and study so they can teach your boy and girl on Sunday?

That in all departments there is a loyal, Christian spirit among officers, teachers, and scholars?

That the missionary efforts, through prayer, work and gifts, show progress which we hope will increase and grow better each year?

C. J. S.

FAMILY SUNDAY

9.30 A. M.—Church School
11.00 A. M.—Morning Prayer and Sermon

7.30 P. M.—(Parish House) Motion Picture Story of "Missionary Work in the South"

We hope that every one who reads this issue will come to Church at 11 A. M. next Sunday with his family and will also urge his neighbors to come. It will be our annual Family Sunday.

To the Women of Grace Church:

The attendance in the work-room is now most gratifying, and much is being accomplished. There were even about twenty who ventured out in the recent heavy snowstorm, proving what Grace Church women can and will do. Mrs. Farnham is now confident that if the present enthusiasm continues, the work she has planned will all be accomplished. We have been very happy to welcome new workers and still hope we may have many more to answer this great call to the work of the women of the Church.

J. W. B.

The treasurer has been gratified to have several new members ask for envelops for regular contributions to our work. This shows progress toward the ideal of our being able to carry on our work by voluntary contributions, rather than by earning money by having suppers and bazaars. If you want to do your share, ask that envelops be sent to you.

There will be no missionary speaker on the first Thursday in March. The program of our all-day Lenten meetings is as follows: 9.30 Holy Communion; 10 to 3: Sewing and folding of surgical dressings, with a stop for intercessions at noon and another for Luncheon at 12.30. Mission Study Class: 3 to 4.45. Service in Church at 5.

It is earnestly desired that more of the women of the Church avail themselves of the wonderful opportunity of attending the Mission Study Class conducted by Mrs. William Haines in the Brown Room, at 3 o'clock every Thursday afternoon during Lent. The subject is Africa, and the time is well spent.

Please take this leaflet home for careful reading and reference

A letter from the Diocesan Chairman of the Corporate Gift requests the women of all churches to set apart the week of March 10 for special self-sacrifice for the purpose of raising the $25,000 pledged to Mrs. Wyllie for the church at Santo Domingo City. We of Grace Church are asked to give $100 by Easter. It is such a pleasure to be able to write back that we have already raised that sum by our offering of pennies saved during Epiphany and Pre-Lent. If you have not yet turned in your pennies, please do so and make us able to send even more than we have been asked for.

The Annual Birthday Party will be held on Tuesday, April 9, at 3 o'clock. Personal invitations will be mailed, but we ask you to mark the date on your calendar now.

We are planning to hold our Spring Rummage Sale on Thursday, April 25, somewhere in the vicinity of Germantown and Chelten Avenues. Please collect for us from yourselves and from your friends articles of clothing, shoes, hats, toys, books, pictures, household articles, etc. If you have no means of bringing them to the Parish House, please phone Mrs. H. F. Dixon, C. H. 2342, and she will send for them.

The Women's Aid to the Convocation of Germantown will hold its Spring Service and Meeting, conducted by the Rev. Nathaniel B. Groton, Rector of St. Thomas' Church, Whitemarsh, at Christ Church, Germantown, on Thursday, March 14. 10.30: Holy Communion and Address; 12.15: Intercessions; 1 P.M.: Lunch; 2 P.M.: Meeting.

Please notify Mrs. T. P. Robinson, 148 East Washington Lane, Germantown, by March 11, if you intend to be at the luncheon, which will cost fifty cents.

On Sunday, February 24th, we baptized John Glass Kaufman, son of John L. and Gertrude G. T. Kaufman, godchild of William L. Nichols and Mrs. Charles C. Taylor. The newly baptized was born December 6, 1928.

On February 24th we received Miss Dorothy Ringer into communicant membership, she having been transferred to us from St. Paul's Church, Seattle, Washington, on February 12th.

On Sunday, March 10, in the Parish House, at 7.30 P. M., we are going to have a talk on "Missionary Work in the South." There will be motion pictures and explanations by Mrs. Dillard. These pictures were made under our Mr. Irwin's direction. Do come!

The Woman's Auxiliary and Guild adopted the following resolutions at its meeting on February 28, and ordered that a copy should be sent to the family of Mrs. Crouter.

RESOLVED, that the women of the Auxiliary and Guild of Grace Church, Mount Airy, hereby express their deep appreciation of the life friendship and work of their beloved member, June Yale Crouter.
